FIRES.

D. M. Davidson & Co., bakers and confectioners, Port Arthur, Ont., have sustained loss by fire.

DEATHS.

John Miller, grocer and dealer in hides and wool, Belleville, Ont. is dead.

A man who had been arrested for murder, bribed an Irishman on the jury for $100 to hang out for a verdict for manslaughter. The jury was out a long time and finally returned with a verdict for manslaughter. The man went to the Irishman and thanked him and asked if he had a hard time. "Yes," said the Irishman, "a deuce of a time. The balance all wanted to acquit you."

NIXEY'S REFINED BLACK LEAD

BY APPOINTMENT TO H. M. the KING OF THE BRITISH EMPIRE

OUR TRADE A MARK — AUER LIGHT MANTLES LONGEST LIFE & BRIGHTEST — OUR TRADE A MARK

A COMPARISON

TRASH

A cheap mantle gives a fair-light for a few nights, then grows dim and shrinks up to a "wasp-waist" like this:

The "Wasp-Waist" Cheap chemical.

This is caused by the cheap chemicals which the manufacturer used.

QUALITY

A good mantle, which cannot shrink, made of the purest chemicals, is the only kind we put our trade mark A on. It guarantees you the best that is made and will satisfy your customers.

The Auer Light Mantle — Pure chemicals.

Lowest prices on mantles, shades, chimneys, globes and sundries.

POPPED HIS WAY TO WEALTH.

FEW men would think it possible to shake a fortune out of a corn popper, yet that is what Mr. Dudley S. Humphrey, of Cleveland, with the assistance of his wife, his sister, and his two brothers, has done. What is more remarkable, the feat has been accomplished within ten years. Less than a decade ago the Humphreys were worse than poor, for they were loaded with debts. To-day, if not worth a million dollars, they are in a fair way to possess that sum soon.

Twenty years ago the father of the Humphreys died on his 1,000 acre farm, near Wakeman, Huron county, Ohio. He had been one of the wealthiest men in that part of the State, but at the time of his death his farm was encumbered with debts amounding to $50,000. The boys, Dudley S., David and Harlow, and their sister, Miss M. M. Humphrey, undertook to manage the farm and free it from debt.

For 14 years they struggled, and in that time they had earned and paid out $60,000 on the principal and interest of the debt and in improvements. Then they had to quit. The Sheriff disposed of the farm. The brothers and their sister were left with nothing but a debt of $25,000, which remained unpaid. They borrowed $100 and went to Cleveland. There they were at their wits' end how to make a living.

Previous to that time Dudley Humphrey had been a correspondent of an agricultural newspaper and in the summer of 1890 he was sent as one of a delegation to represent the various industries of the United States at the Paris Exposition. Therefore he was a man of observation and intelligence, but he had no money.

"POPPED" HIS WAY TO WEALTH,

In the summer of 1892 he was glad to take a place working about the stables of the Cleveland driving park. Later he became interested in the success of the few vendors of popcorn who sold the toothsome edible from pushcarts in the downtown streets. He saw that most of this corn was popped in the old-fashioned poppers that are swung back and forth over a fire.

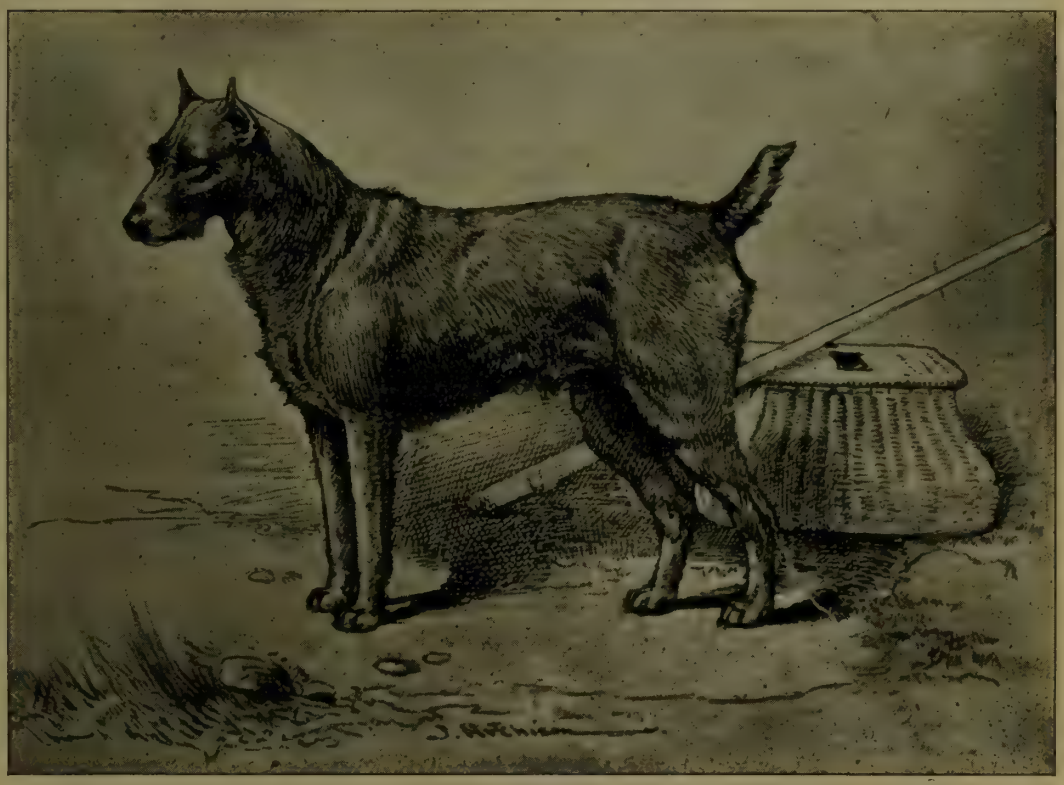
Humphrey thought it could be done better than that. Therefore, he invented a popper of his own. It was a sheet iron device, in which the corn was "cooked" and seasoned rather than popped in the old way. A revolving piece of iron inside the covered iron vessel kept the corn moving, and thus allowed it to open in imitation of snowflakes. Humphrey saw that the other corn vendors were at least making a living. He thought he would try it himself. He purchased a pushcart and began business.

Meeting a man who had known him for some time, he said: "I suppose you will think I am getting down pretty low."

"Why?" asked the friend.

"Well," was the reply, "I have got to make a living, and I am going to try to do it selling popcorn. I am going to sell it from a pushcart, too."

"Well," said the friend, "there is nothing dishonorable about that, Dudley, and I hope you will succeed."

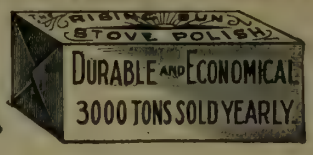


That pushcart, which was purchased in June, 1893, was the foundation of the Humphrey Popcorn Co. of to-day. The popped corn had a delicious odor, and when it was seasoned with creamery butter and well salted it made a delicious nibble. Nobody could well pass the Humphrey cart without buying some, and it was cheap, too; two bags for a nickel. The theatre crowds at night were the best patrons, and Humphrey did a rushing business.

OUTGREW PUSHCART ESTABLISHMENT.

Soon the pushcart gave place to a horse and wagon and the business continued to grow. Then Humphrey rented a "little hole in the wall" next to a fish market on the public square, in the centre of the city, in the same building which he now occupies from top to bottom and which stands on a narrow strip of land that is worth nearly $100,000.

Hot peanuts were added to the popcorn, and then Humphrey thought there was money in pulled taffy. He bought a small quantity of sugar and candy was added to the other stock in trade. A bag of taffy sold for a dime, and a package of corn was given with each purchase of a dime's worth of taffy. The business of the popcorn stand grew amazingly, and before long it amounted to $50,000 a year. Then other stands were established and the money continued to roll in.



At first the creditors of the Humphreys—the persons who held judgments for $25,000 —were inclined to interfere with their prosperity, and it required careful management and a few visits to court to prevent the closing of the various stands. Finally, however, all the creditors were satisfied, and there were no more obstacles in the way. Then the Humphrey Popcorn Co. was organized.

In 1899 the company opened a popcorn stand at Euclid Beach Park, a suburban resort, and, while there was only a small profit during the season, the Humphreys gained from their experience at the park an idea as to the way the place should be managed. They discussed plans for leasing the park, doing away with the liquor selling, gambling, admission at the gate and all other objectionable features and running it as a popular resort on a higher plane.

PARK RUN ON POPCORN BASIS.

Their business associates and friends tried to dissuade them, but all to no purpose. Early last season they signed a lease and took charge of the resort. Their success was phenomenal from the start. The previous attendance, with beer and disorderly crowds, had been less than 200,000 for the season. The first summer the Humphreys catered to 1,500,000 visitors. Their motto at the start was and is now: "One fare, free gate, no beer. No freaks, 'fakes' or 'fresh' people are either hired or permitted on the grounds."

Forty-five thousand dollars was the net profits of the first season's management of the park. Before the end of the season the Humphreys had purchased the grounds, comprising 73 acres, with many buildings, and this spring it was again opened, with several of the attractions from the Midway at the Buffalo Exposition added to the former features.

Though they had business enough to keep them fully occupied, the Humphreys bought this spring another resort known as Forest City Park, consisting of 23 acres, and undertook the task of reforming it into a pleasure ground similar to Euclid Beach Park. Their efforts are meeting with great success.

Although this company is now doing a business of $500,000 a year, the capital stock is only $5,000. Each of the brothers —Dudley S., David and Harlow—Miss M. M. Humphrey and Mrs. D. S. Humphrey own $1,000 worth of the stock. Each gives all his time to the affairs of the company, and it is stipulated that neither shall invest a dollar in an outside enterprise that takes his time or attention from the business of the Humphrey Popcorn Co. Dudley is the manager, his sister is the president and his wife is the treasurer.

During the winter they live in a brick house on Euclid avenue, which is distinguished by the Humphrey colors—yellow and red—with which all their buildings are decorated. In the summer they live at the parks.

"GET ACQUAINTED WITH YOUR JOB."

"The one thing I would like to say about my success," said Dudley Humphrey, "and this may be helpful to others, is that the first thing a man should do is to get acquainted with his job. He should first make up his mind what he wants to do, and then find out how to do it. To that I attribute my success.

"My brothers and I understand the details of every branch of our business. We know how to do everything to be done as well as the people we employ can possibly know it. Another thing is to find out what the people want, and then give it to them. I don't mean that the people should be asked what they want, because the successful caterer knows better than the people do themselves what they want.

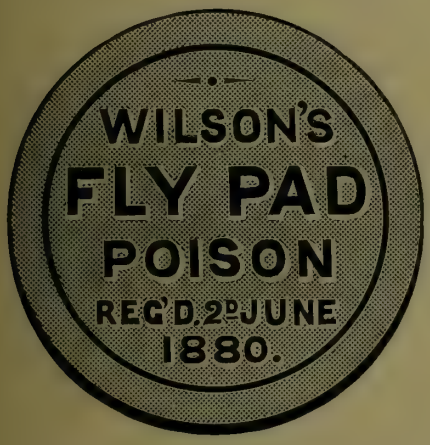
"When I was on the farm, before I came to Cleveland, I knew how to do things. So did my brothers. If we had not been handicapped on the farm by a big debt we would have made a success of farming. That is proved by the fact that we made $60,000 there in 14 years, but it was all eaten up by debts and interest.

"I never would permit myself to get discouraged. Even when I did not know where the next meal was coming from and when I was burdened with debt I would never admit that I was poor. I always believed in myself—had confidence in my ability to get along. Once, when things were at low ebb with us I went to ask a man for work in response to an advertisement in a paper. After talking with me he said, with a twinkle in his eye, that I was too good a man for him. I did not know how he meant that, but I decided right there never to work for another man. I am glad I made the decision.

BEGAN ON BORROWED $15.

"I have a lot to thank my wife for. When I bought the pushcart with which to begin business she borrowed the money for me—$15. That was fortunate, too, for when the creditors began to push us, as we were beginning to see our way out, my wife was able to go before a referee and say that the business was hers, that she had furnished the money. That settled us until we got on our feet, but we satisfied all the creditors several years ago, and that is all past.

"It is satisfying to make money, but there is something else. There is satisfaction in being able to do good as you go along. That was one of the reasons why we bought Euclid Beach Park and Forest City Park. Both those places were of immoral influence upon the community, and we have purified them.



"We did not need these parks. Our business was big enough as it was. We could have duplicated in other cities our success in the popcorn and candy business, but we decided to give the people of Cleveland a moral resort, and we have succeeded, while at the same time it has been immensely profitable to us."

HAMILTON'S RETAIL STORES.

ON Saturday night, August 30, one of the members of the staff of THE CANADIAN GROCER chanced to be in Hamilton, and, in his wanderings about, it gradually dawned on him that Hamilton was a decidedly busy place. Such an animated scene did the business streets disclose that he at length became impressed with the fact that Hamilton is one of the busiest cities in Ontario on a Saturday evening.

Everybody seemed to be taking a walk down town, and, as the stores were all open and the delivery wagons rushing about, the main street of Hamilton bore quite a resemblance to Broadway on a busy day.

The large grocery store of Hazell & Sons was visited and, although it was Saturday and all the clerks were very busy waiting on the numerous customers, everything was in perfect order, and there was none of that excitemeut and confusion which characterize most grocery stores on the busiest of all days in the week. "A place for everything and everything in its place" seemed to be the firm's motto. Hazell & Sons cater to the best class of trade in Hamilton, and everything they handle is of first-class quality. In connection with their grocery business they run liquor and butcher shops, all under the one roof but with separate entrances. These stores, like the grocery one, are perfect models of what business places should be.

Andrew G. Bain's store on King street was also visited. Like Hazell's, the store is elegantly fitted up, and a first-class trade is carried on. The store is brilliantly lighted and presents a bright appearance, while the windows are exceptionally well-dressed. One window was filled with all kinds of fruits, arranged in such a manner as to tempt all passers-by to stop and take some home with them. The other window contained a pickle display, whose make-up showed the hand of a first-class window-dresser. The bottled pickles were all attractively and tastefully arranged, and the floor of the window was covered with fine strips of white paper. Both windows were well lighted with incandescent lamps and attracted the eyes of the large crowds that promenaded the street. The pickle window was exceptionally timely, as this is good picnic weather, and there is always a great demand for pickles at picnics.

The majority of Hamilton's stores had nicely-dressed windows, and many good ideas could be gathered by a stroll down the busiest streets of the city on a Saturday night.

TRADE CHAT.

John Scott, grocer, Dundas street, Woodstock, has just returned from the scenes of his boyhood, Scotland.

Reports from the Annapolis Valley apple crop are very discouraging. Years ago the trees brought forth fruit of their kind abundantly. The farmers are now beginning to ask, "Does scientific fruit raising really pay?"

The following were the officers who had in charge the St. Thomas Retail Merchants' Association's excursion on Wednesday, August 27, to Port Stanley: George R. McColl, M. Anderson, W. Worth, J. Moody, W. C. Forbes, J. A. Forsythe and T. H. Cray.

The employes of The Canadian Pork Packing Co., of London, held their annual picnic at Port Stanley on Saturday, August 23. The committee having the affair in charge was composed of F. Thomley, chairman; G. Nuttcombe, treasurer; A. Oettinger, secretary; besides A. Gunn, H. Burge, T. Olsen, T. Tinsley and T. Merton.

Co-operative Packing Plants in Canada.

CO-OPERATITE PACKING PLANTS IN CANADA.

THE manager of the Farmers' Co-operative Pork Packing Company, of Brantford, writes to The Ottawa Valley Journal, as follows:

"I don't think that Canada is at present ripe for factories run under the co-operative principle. In Denmark they have 25 factories run under this system. They commenced 11 years ago with one, but the Danes are not nearly so skeptical as the Canadians are.

"The trouble with the co-operative factories in Canada is, that if the opposition buyer comes forward and offers from 5c. to 10c. per 100 pounds in excess of what their own factory can offer, the stockholders of the factory will give them the hogs, and leave their own factory without. In nine cases out of ten we find the farmers are prepared to sell their factory for 5 cents, and really a factory under such conditions is not a co operative one. It is only a joint stock company with a multiplicity of farmers as stockholders.

"In Denmark it is entirely different—each stockholder is bound to supply a certain proportion of his hog produce to the factory, with the result that they have made co-operation a great success in that country. They ship more bacon to London than does the whole of Canada. At present there are not sufficient hogs raised in Canada to supply the present packing companies, a great proportion of which are only run on half supplies.

"Around Ottawa, for example, they frequently have to come down to the southern part of Ontario to get their supplies. In brief, our chief difficulty lies in the fact that the farmers cannot be induced to deliver hogs to the factory at a paying price all the time. The competition created by other factories and the extra price offered as an inducement sometimes take the great proportion of the hogs away from us.

"Were the hogs more plentiful this would not happen to the same extent, but as far as the word co-operative is concerned, I think you can eliminate it from the vocabulary of the Canadian farmer. They may some day come to understand the meaning of the word, but at present we are sorry to say, they do not seem to."

STATE AS A SLAUGHTERER.

The State of Minnesota is going to try being its own butcher for a while, at least, in so far as it relates to the supplies of the Fergus Falls Hospital. The new departure is due to some disagreement over bids. The State now slaughters for the feeding of the inmates at St. Peter and Rochester. In regard to this, W. E. Lee, of the State Board of Control, says:

"We shall, as far as possible, raise all the animals that will be required for meat on the institution farms. We have the farms and an abundance of labor, and we ought to be able to raise meat at a profit, if it can be done in the State. Of course, it will require some experimenting, but next year the farms will be managed more than ever before with a view to raising everything that will be required for the institutions.

"Some animals are now killed at St. Cloud, and the plan is satisfactory there. If we cannot raise enough animals at the institutions at present to supply all the meat needed, we have a good territory to draw from, and should be able to buy as advantageously as the meat dealers, and then slaughter at our own slaughter houses.

"We do not want to go too fast."—National Provisioner.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The offerings of dressed hogs have increased during the week and prices have consequently taken a drop of 25c. per 100 lb. Veal also has declined 1c. per lb. and the demand for it is moderate. Live hogs are weak and the cattle market is dull and featureless. We quote as follows: Dressed hogs, $9.00 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $6.50 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8.50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.50 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 8 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 7 to 8c. Select live hogs are worth $7.25 and fat and lights, $7 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

A good all around demand continues for smoked and cured meats, and the prices are maintained. Trade in lard keeps up steadily. We quote as follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10¼c; plate beef, $15 per 100 lb.

MONTREAL.

Trade has been fairly good during the week and the demand for all hog products is steady. In last week's report, 9¾c. was inadvertently placed instead of 9⅝c., the new tierce basis of Fairbank's "Boar's Head" brand of refined lard compound. Pure lard has again weakened, and it is quoted now about ⅛c. lower. Armour's and Jones' pork have both declined 50c. Wholesale grocers are now quoting 50-60's at $25.50 per bbl., in small lots, and Jones' at $24.75 per bbl. With these exceptions prices of provisions have been steady and are unchanged all around. In dressed hogs, some weakness has been shown. Fresh killed abattoir stock is now quoted at $9.25 to $9.50 per 100 lb. Our quotations are: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail. Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ⅝c.; 5-lb. tins, ¾c.; 3-lb. tins, ⅞c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11⅛c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $25.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14.50 to $15.00 per bbl.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

Business is improving, as the lumbermen are begining to think about supplies, some crews being already in the woods. Domestic mess pork is high, as is also Canadian plate beef. The price of smoked meats continues high. The makers of sausages have begun operations for the season. Fresh meats are steady. We quote: American mess pork, $22.50 to $23.50; domestic mess pork, $22.75 to $23; plate beef, Canadian, $15.50 to $16.50; clear pork, American, $22.50 to $24.50; plate beef, American, $17 to $18; lamb, 7 to 8c.; fresh beef, 8 to 10c.; round hogs, 7¼ to 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 11¾c.; pure lard, pails, 12c.; compound

This market is firm and active although American markets are shading lower during the last days of the week. The local demand, however, is so large in comparison to the supply of hogs for packing that higher, rather than lower, prices are looked for here. DRESSED MEATS—The market for beef is slightly lower being now 6½ to 7c. per lb.; veal is 8 to 9c.; mutton, limited in supply at 8c., and lambs, 12½c.

NECESSARY TO ADVERTISE.

Nearly everyone who aims to do business on a large scale, or for that matter on anything like a remunerative scale, recognizes the necessity of advertising, but how and where and when to do it are the important questions to be determined, says The National Advertiser. Random advertising will not accomplish much. It is the well-considered, carefully-planned and determined effort that produces results. A product that is likely to strike the fancy of the public, if properly placed before the people, is certain to prove a winner, if it is put before them in the proper light. An article, however meritorious it may be, cannot succeed on its merits alone. It may be appreciated in the locality in which it is known, or among the friends who have tested its virtues and who know them from practical experience; but there it rests. With the aid of advertising, intelligently planned and energetically carried into execution, the merit of the article is known to hundreds and thousands instead of to the few who knew about it when it was depending upon the publicity its few friends were giving it in its early days. One newspaper—even one of moderate circulation—is of value to the advertiser, and repays many fold the investment in the advertising columns, provided the advertisement is prepared and given to the public properly. It is the manner of relating that does the trick. So, too, in the way of advertising—the way of writing and arranging it in print tells every time. The advertisement need not be a large one, but it must be well written and equally well displayed.

TO MAKE CLERKS THINK.

IN spite of all the advice, all the instructions, all the preaching, "firing" and rehiring, a clerk without imagination is but a machine, says Inland Grocer.

Until that period of life comes that makes this clerk think—think of business as a business; until he realizes that he is doing for himself, when properly serving others, he remains mediocre at best.

When he begins to plan a business of his own he is breaking the shell that has confined his ideas.

BEGINNING TO PLAN.

He puts himself in the role of employer, and he sees the whys and wherefores that have been drummed into his ears, but which he understood not.

As he buys his stock, in his mind, he realizes that it is very important, not only to get prices, but desirable goods.

As he marks his goods, in his mind, he sees that this is a matter requiring skill and judgment.

When he gets to the point of selling his goods—showing, advertising, talking, etc.—he doubles and trebles in value to his employer.

He has a value because he is successful in building plans.

Some experienced man could advise him so that his failures would be fewer at the start but he would be short the real essential to success after this support is withdrawn.

Having thought out the plan of action for himself he knows what to remedy; he sees the weak points and finally learns to plan accurately and successfully.

WHEN PROMOTION COMES.

Sooner or later his ability is recognized and promotion comes. Here his imaginary experience comes to his assistance, and although he may find himself in a totally new role, he feels at home because he has travelled this road many a time in his mind. He sees things ahead that puzzle him, but when he gets to them they are familiar. He easily disposes of questions that would stagger ordinary clerks.

He is a thinker, a planner, a schemer, or even a dreamer if you like.

After mastering the business in which he is engaged he dreams of other things, things that expressed would cause his friends to laugh at him as a crank, but he plans just the same.

Sooner or later he takes his place among men as a "doer" because of his mastery of detail, and ability to think out the small problems that stick so many men.

VALUE OF HOME TRAINING.

If a boy has had the home training that stimulates thinking the question is practically solved. If, as in the large majority of cases, he has been allowed to drift along without the association and encouragement necessary to form the thinking habit he has doubtlessly formed habits that will hamper his application to business. He is always looking for a chance to get into some other position at a few dollars better salary.

He has no love for his employment; he has no idea of making this occupation his life work.

Suppose he obtains employment in a general store. He goes home and reports to his parents that he "got a job" at Blank's.

The parents will be interested only enough to ask how much salary he is to get. Possibly they will say that they are mighty glad that he is out of the way, or possibly say nothing.

PARENTAL ENCOURAGEMENT.

If the father and mother would ask him what he had done on his return from the first day's work, had him describe his trials and troubles, advised here and sympathized there; painted a word picture showing him a merchant some day, and showed him that this was his beginning, he would have returned to his work next day with renewed interest. Let the parents make this questioning, advice, sympathy and encouragement daily and soon this young mind will awake to the fact that it is not a question of wages, but a question of love for the work.

In a month's time he has thought out the details of his work, and once familiar with these details he does his work well.

Then he takes up the work ahead and thinks it out. If the clerk ahead needs help he is ready, or if a vacancy occurs he steps right in.

THE EMPLOYER'S DUTY.

In the absence of the home environments that will bring out these qualities the employer should assume the responsibility. That this boy has been deprived of the home training is not the boy's fault, and as it is absolutely necessary to get him interested to make him valuable as an employe, this interest should be aroused by assigning him work of a simple nature, explaining to him that he may be a merchant some day and to know all about the business, he must study to see how well he can do this work. Show him that his work is profitable or unprofitable depending on how well he does the work. If an errand boy, show him that the customer served promptly is the customer who comes back, and that he is now one of the firm in a sense, and must do everything to help the store along.

"Mrs. Smith wants this package by 10 o'clock. She is a good customer and we must not disappoint her. You must help us please her by delivering this promptly."

This explains and shows him his importance, and nine out of ten boys will exert themselves under such circumstances.

KEEPING UP THE INTEREST.

Presuming that he executes the errand promptly and returns to the store, a query as to what Mrs. Smith said, and an expression showing appreciation of his promptness will make him eager to do the next thing with all his might.

As with this boy so with the whole force. An expression of appreciation is a tonic that sharpens more wits and excites more interested effort, than the wage question. If more merchants would take time to observe and encourage this interest by kind words and due appreciation many clerks would grow into the business because of their love for it, who now only watch the clock and pay-envelope.

DON'T FLATTER.

Don't make the mistake of "jollying" them.

Some merchants by flattery seek to get more results but lose sight of the fact that this clerk is a reasoning being and will soon see through the mask.

To impress a clerk with the importance of politeness, show him the results of politeness. If he is tired and leans on the counter show him kindly just why it is objectionable.

Don't say, "That counter is nailed down, you needn't hold it down." Cutting remarks of this kind only serve to make the clerk more careful to see that the boss isn't around, but do not make him realize that the offence is objectionable.

The thinking employer makes thinking clerks. Thinking clerks make a store first in the thoughts of the people.

A PECULIAR BANANA BUSINESS.

Inspector McCallum, of London, Ont., is face to face with a very interesting situation, one in which some well-known merchants are deeply interested. He was authorized to consult the city solicitor upon a matter the like of which has never before come within the experience of the city hall authorities, says The London Advertiser.

Some time ago a man came to London, the agent of a combination of American capitalists, reputed worth $20,000,000, who own immense banana tracts in the West-Indian Islands and elsewhere. He went to some leading wholesale fruit dealers there and tried to do business with them. His price for bananas was from 8 to 10c. higher than that of the firms with which they had been dealing. When they refused to buy he is reported to have said it was all right, he'd make them buy or put them out of the banana business. One merchant thereupon requested him to go to that part of the universe where the price of coal causeth no worry.

He left London and returned subsequently with a carload of bananas, which he sold to a rival local concern not at an advance upon regular prices, but, it is said, for 8 to 10c. less per bunch than they were quoted at the Atlantic seaboard — that is, less the freight from the coast to London. This firm is now in a position to undersell the firms that would not buy from the syndicate. The latter referred the case to Inspector McCallum, whom Acting Mayor Winnett authorized to consult with the city solicitor as to the newcomer's liability under the transient traders' by-law, under which a dealer is subject to a license fee of $250.

A well-known dealer says that the banana business in London amounts to $75,000 a year.

TEA CONSUMPTION.

SOME astonishment may be felt by many when the statement is made that Australia leads the countries of the world in the per capita consumption of tea, and leads them by no small margin. During the period of five years from 1885 to 1889, the consumption of tea in Australia was no less than 7.66 lb. for each inhabitant per annum, and in the year 1900 it had reached 7.80 lb. When this is compared with France, where the figure for the first period is .03 lb., and for the second period .06 lb., it is seen what a comparatively huge consumption of this beverage there is in the Commonwealth of the Pacific.

New Zealand and Tasmania are close seconds to Australia. The former colony has indeed shown a decrease from 7.19 to 6.78 lb. per person, but this latter figure is still ahead of Tasmania's 6.62 lb. for 1900, though Tasmania's consumption has increased from 6.37 lb.

Great Britain, Newfoundland and Canada form a second group, all three with decidedly increased consumptions. In Great Britain the increase has been over a pound, from 4.91 to 6.10 lb., in the two periods in question. Canada's increase is from 3.90 lb. to 4 64 lb., which is a decided rise in consumption in 10 years.

Following Canada, the United States of America stands with a consumption of 1.09 lb. in 1900, and 1.34 lb. in the earlier period. This decrease may most probably be attributed to the war tax, which is still in effect, and will be imposed until the beginning of next year. At that time tea merchants anticipate an increased consumption.

Cape Colony, exclusive of tea grown in Natal and imported there, now consumes 1.41 lb. in comparison with 0.85 lb. in 1885-1889. Natal, on the other hand, shows a decided falling off from 1.13 lb. to .44 lb. After these countries come the other nations, all with very small consumptions of tea.

Exports of Indian and Ceylon tea from Great Britain are at present on the increase; 2,861,484 lb. were exported during July, as against 2,052,791 lb. in the preceding July. Holland and Russia, which are the principal tea-drinking countries of Europe, are increasing their consumption, and with the large increases in Britain and the colonies, there is a hope that better things may be in store for the tea trade.

BRITISH TRADE LOSSES.

SOME time ago the British Board of Trade authorized Sir Alfred Bateman to draw up a memorandum on trade for the past 30 years, in which not only would the conditions and needs of British trade be treated of, but a comparison with the trade of other countries be made. The result of Sir Alfred's researches has just been published in a blue book, and it depicts no very glowing picture of British commerce. Per head of population Great Britain's trade has shown a steady diminution during the 30 years, whereas her more serious competitors have all shown increases. This does not mean that the bulk of British trade has diminished, for exports alone have been augmented by 6.4 per cent., and imports still more largely, but, taken in comparison with the increased population, these amounts are not appreciable.

If beside this 6.4 per cent. increase is placed the German increase in exports of 23.1 per cent. and the still greater United States increase of 42.8 per cent., it will be evident to the merest child that Great Britain is being surely and certainly overhauled in the race for commercial supremacy. Both Germany and the United States are now devoting those energies to the promotion of foreign trade which Britain began to use years ago, and through sheer force of numbers they will inevitably equal and then surpass her. A greater degree of efficiency and improved methods of commercial and technical education may for a time give British commerce a forward impetus sufficient to counteract this result, but in the long run numbers will tell.

Fortunately Great Britain has been sinking capital in her greatest commercial venture of all—the Empire—and to-day this investment is beginning to pay dividends. The colonies, which for many years received population and capital without much return, are now to be reckoned with in many instances as commercial nations. Counting in the colonies with Great Britain there need be no fear that either population or territory will be surpassed, or, for that matter, commerce either.

At present, outside of European countries and British North America, Great Britain carries on the greater proportion of the world's trade. According to Sir Alfred Bateman, this supremacy is being threatened at several points, principally in South America and the Orient, where the United States is making rapid headway, but he believes that with the paying of more attention to the needful education of artisans and business men in England, Britain will be enabled to recover much lost ground.

SUPPLIES OF CONFECTIONERY.

The advent of September ought to much increase the demand for candies and confectionery. The grocer ought now to lay in his stock of these goods.

In making his selection it would be wise to choose some of the latest novelties in the confectionery line and not to lay in too large a stock at a time, for the fresher the sweets are the better they are liked by the consumer. The retailer of candies should endeavor to gain a reputation for handling the best and freshest classes of these goods in his locality.

A NEW SUGAR REFINING COMPANY.

ALTHOUGH many merchants are wondering whether there is room enough for it, a new sugar refining company is shortly to be started with refineries at Montreal and Vancouver. This is the result of due deliberation on the part of Mr. Claus A. Spreckles, son of the great American sugar king, Claus Spreckles, and Messrs. R. D. McGibbon, K.C., Hon. T. Chase Casgrain, Wm. Cook, of New York, and E. Fabre Surveyor. The company has applied for letters patent, under the name of The Federal Sugar Refining Co. of Canada. It will be capitalized at $6,000,000, the stock being subscribed both in the United States and Canada—the greater part in the Republic.

Merchants are not so sanguine about the success of the new concern as are the promoters. One merchant is reported as saying, "What on earth is Spreckles after? Does he know that competition is so keen here already that some of our Canadian refiners are talking of going out of the business unless profits improve?" In addition to this it is reminded that four concerns will shortly be opened in Ontario for making beet sugar.

But Mr. Spreckles apparently has no fear. Hear him: "The particular reason why we are convinced that a sugar company such as we will establish will do a big business throughout Canada is that a few years ago I succeeded in finding a new process of sugar refining, which has been used in the operations of the works of The Federal Sugar Refining Co., at Yonkers, N.Y., and which I think I can safely say has been successful." By this process Mr. Spreckles states that $5 a ton can be saved in refining sugar over the old process. He gives this as the reason that they have been able to do a big business in competition with the Trusts in the United States, and looks for a big trade in Canada.

It is not stated whether any other Canadian refineries will join with the new one, but it is hinted that negotiations are in progress towards that end. The first plant will be erected in Montreal, and, if things are found to be successful, another will be built at Vancouver.

In their application for incorporation the following objects are given for the formation of the company:

(a) To purchase, manufacture, refine and sell sugar, molasses and other materials, and all and any articles consisting or partly consisting of sugar or molasses or other materials, and all or any products thereof; also to construct, acquire, lease and operate sugar factories; also to cultivate sugar cane and sugar beets, to acquire, own, lease, occupy, cultivate, use, or develop lands in Canada and elsewhere, for the cultivation of sugar cane or sugar beets; (b) To carry on any and all of the processes, lines of business and manufactories involved in the production of refined sugar, from the cane or beet, including among other things the purchase and cultivation of sugar lands, the production and treatment of sugar liquors and the refining of the productions thereof; (c) To engage in the manufacturing, construction, transportation, mercantile or merchandizing business in so far as the same may be necessary in connection with the business of sugar refining, and to that end to acquire, hold, own and dispose of any and all property, assets, stocks, bonds and right of any and every kind; (d) To apply for, obtain, register, purchase, lease or otherwise to acquire, and to hold, use, own, operate and introduce, and to sell, assign or otherwise dispose of any trade marks, trade names, patents, inventions, improvements and processes used in connection with or secured under letters patent of the Dominion of Canada, or elsewhere, or otherwise; and to use, exercise, develop, grant licenses in respect of, or otherwise turn to account any such trade marks, trade names, patents, inventions, licenses, processes and the like, or any such property or rights; (e) To manufacture, puchase, lease or otherwise acquire machinery, electrical devices, and any and all apparatus necessary or useful in the production, manufacture or refining of sugar and molasses, or other products, and also to sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the same; (f) To aid in any manner any corporation whose stock, bonds or other obligations are held, or are in any manner guaranteed by the company, and to do any other acts or things for the preservation, protection, improvement or enhancement of the value of any such stock, bonds or other obligations, or to do any acts or things designed for any such purpose; (g) Also to purchase, lease, exchange, hire or otherwise acquire any and all rights, privileges, permits or franchises suitable or convenient for any of the purposes of its business; to erect and construct, make, improve, aid or subscribe towards the construction, making improvement of mills, factories, storehouses, buildings, roads, docks, piers, wharfs, houses for employes and others, and works of all kinds; and in conjunction with and in furtherance of the general business and purposes of the corporation, as above described, to construct, lease, own, charter, operate or sell transportation line or lines, either directly or through the ownership of stock of a corporation formed, or to be formed for the purpose; (h) To do all and everything necessary, suitable, convenient or proper for the accomplishment of any of the purposes, or the attainment, or any one or more of the objects herein enumerated, or incidental to the powers herein named, or which shall at any time appear conducive or expedient for the protection or benefit of the corporation, either as holders or interested in any property or otherwise; the operations of the company to be carried on throughout the Dominion of Canada and elsewhere, by the name of "The Federal Sugar Refining Co. of Canada, Limited," with a total capital stock of $6,000,000, divided into 60,000 shares of $100.

No time will be lost in completing arrangements for the establishment of the works, as the directors of the company already feel assured from their study of the situation that there is a good opening for them.

A POOR LEMON TRADE.

THIS season has been a poor one for the lemon trade, and fruit men will likely lose heavily in consequence. The sales throughout the summer have averaged about half of what they were the same time last year, and, as the amount carried in stock in Toronto for the summer's trade was in the neighborhood of 25,000 cases, an idea may be gained of what the loss is to the holders. Besides this, prices ruled throughout the season about half what they were last year, and dealers have been glad to get rid of whatever stock they can at almost any price rather than avoid a positive loss on their holdings. Fresh shipments of the last cutting of old crop lemons are commencing to arrive, and the surplus stock carried over from the spring will soon be unfit for sale.

This falling-off in the lemon trade is attributed mainly to the cold and damp weather prevalent all summer. Comparatively few cool drinks were required this year, and as it is to that purpose that lemons are chiefly put in the hot weather, their sales were much less than in previous summers. Besides this, the fact must not be overlooked that lemonade as a beverage seems to be falling behind in this latter age and is being supplanted much by soft drinks like soda water, ginger ale and such like preparations. It requires more labor to make lemonade than to uncork a soda-water bottle and so the latter is coming more into favor with the housewife.

But at present a good trade is beginning to be done in lemons, owing to the pickling season being now on hand. Much lemon juice is used in the manufacture of sauces and pickles and the demand for lemons for that purpose is of considerable importance. So the fruiterers are looking forward to a good trade in this fruit from this out till the end of the year.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

JAMAICA ORANGES.

ACCORDING to private advices from Jamaica the 1902 orange crop gives promise of a good yield. The ideas of growers and packers, however, are said to be high, owing to the high prices being paid by Canadian importers. The fruit goes into that market free of duty, and cost to import is below that bid from this market. The bulk of the late arrivals here, it is stated, have gone through to Canada in bond.—New York Journal of Commerce.

ALASKA SALMON.

The Columbia River Packers' Association, it is announced, has withdrawn its prices on 1902 pack red Alaska salmon. This company, it will be remembered, fitted out an expedition early in the season to go to the Alaska salmon fisheries. It is stated on good authority that another small outside Alaska packer has advanced prices to $1 f.o.b. on red Alaska talls.

CANNED SALMON HIGHER IN NEW YORK.

Spot sockeye salmon talls were advanced to-day to $1.32½ to $1.35, with few lots reported available at the inside figures. Half pounds are more generally quoted at 92½c., but there is a bare possibility that 90c. will still buy. Flats appear to be neglected and steady at $1.35 to $1.37½, with some holders asking $1.40. No change is noted in futures. There is reported a fair business in Columbia River salmon, fall pack, ex steamer Washtersaw, arriving yesterday, with about 60,000 cases, at the prices noted. — New York Journal of Commerce, August 30.

FRENCH PRUNE CROP SHORTAGE.

A despatch from Portland, Ore., says: "Henry Cheyrara and A. T. Monteny, French prune men, have representatives here investigating the situation. They say that the French prune crop is only 25,000,000 lb., being one quarter the usual crop. France will need 25,000,000 lb. more for home consumption. She exported 40,000,000 lb. last year. The representatives will come to California this week and make choice of where to purchase prunes."

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.

Private mail advices from Fresno say of raisins: "Raisins will be later than usual this year owing to the cool weather. The raisins are never out of the way too soon to escape the fall rains, and it is not well to have them delayed a great deal. The picking usually begins in the latter part of August, and is in full swing early in September, but there have been years when a few carloads of early raisins were on the road to the eastern market by the 29th of August. It is expected there will be no picking before the first of September this year, and it may not begin until later. Aside from the delay, it is not thought that the cool weather is working any harm to the raisin crop. Some believe that it is preventing the grapes from sugaring and that the raisins will not be of usual quality in consequence, but the general opinion seems to be that the damage of that nature will be immaterial."

UNSOLD CANNED SOCKEYE.

New York Journal of Commerce says: "It is reported on the street that a syndicate of English salmon interests is negotiating for the purchase of the unsold balance of the 1902 sockeye salmon pack. It is believed that the intended purchase is for the purpose of making up the shortage of salmon for the English markets due to the partial failure of the Fraser River pack. So far as can be learned no actual sale has resulted, the syndicate stipulating for a complete sale of the entire balance of the pack or nothing."

NEW PERSIAN DATES.

The first direct steamer to New York to load 1902 crop Persian dates, it is stated, is the Tabaristan. She is expected to leave Bussorah on September 18 next, and is scheduled to arrive in New York about October 25 next. The coming crop is reported in advices to be of excellent quality, and a large number of orders have, it is stated, been booked at opening prices for shipment from the first direct steamer. Spot Khadrawee dates are reported to be practically exhausted and stocks of Sairs only trifling. Hallowee dates are firmly held.

PRUNES AND APRICOTS.

Private mail advices from the Coast report as follows on prunes and apricots: "The market is quiet. Dealers claim they have made provision for all early deliveries and are not in a hurry about stocking up heavily against future needs. Indications are that producers will have to carry a considerable portion of the season's output into the fall and winter months. Any heavy selling pressure at this date would certainly necessitate accepting lower prices than have been yet established. The movement at present is mainly in apricots, although supplies of apples are on the increase, and peaches and plums are beginning to arrive in noteworthy quantities."

"Papa," said the boy, "when you say in your advertisement that your goods are acknowledged by connoisseurs to be the best, what do you mean by connoisseurs?"

"A connoisseur, my boy," answered the great manufacturer, "is an eminent authority — an authority, in short, who admits that our goods are the best."

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, September 4, 1902.

GROCERIES.

MORE activity prevails this week in the wholesale grocery market than the week before. Merchants are returning from their holidays and are settling themselves down to business again. With the opening of the Industrial Exhibition and the usual early September orders, trade is expected to be quite brisk during the next week or ten days. Indeed, quite a large number of visitors are in town now and wholesalers claim they have all they can do to look after trade. The advance in salmon noted last week has been followed by the withdrawal of quotations on Fraser River fish and an appreciation of 10c. per case at the Coast on salmon from the Skeena River and Rivers Inlet. The coffee market continues quiet and unchanged, but the demand for sugars is increasing and is likely to be very heavy in a few days. The tea market continues very firm for Japans, and cable advices report blacks and green Ceylon teas stronger, the price of the latter being considerably stiffened. In currants, the market is easier and the sales are very heavy on new-crop fruit.

CANNED GOODS.

No quotations have yet been made on this season's tomatoes, but if the present fine weather continues they will likely turn out much better than was expected some time ago, and prices may not be so high after all. The same uncertainty continues to exist regarding peas and corn, but the general opinion on all sides is that no reduction in their prices will take place this season, but owing to the lateness of the crop it is very hard to tell what the result will be. Prices this week remain unchanged at $1.15 up for tomatoes, 80c. up for corn and 82½c. up for peas. The activity in the salmon market continues, following the advance of last week. Quotations from the Coast on Fraser River salmon have been with drawn and Northern fish have been put up 10c. per case. When the London, England, market opens salmon are expected to advance sharply. We quote: Northern salmon, $1.40 to $1.45 and Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½.

COFFEES

There has been little, if any, improvement this week in the demand for coffee, which is still principally confined to a little business in green Rios. On the outside markets prices are maintained, and cable advices report higher European markets. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

The condition of the local market for nuts is unchanged from last week, trade still being at a standstill. Prices on the outside markets on all lines of nuts are firmly held. Walnuts of all descriptions are firm and in view of high quotations on the primary markets prices everywhere are stronger in feeling.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A fairly steady jobbing demand is reported for rice, and tapioca is experiencing about the same sort of market locally. The New York rice markets are slow, but prices there are holding fairly steady. The Southern rice market holds fairly steady and the river crop is being marketed freely but supplies are being fairly well taken care of at the ruling prices. Tapioca is steady, but no offerings are being made from the East. Quotations are now as follows: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The tone of the local market for syrups and molasses is still inactive and the prices are unchanged. The outside markets are characterized by small offerings of the better grades of grocery molasses, which is due to very moderate available supplies. Blackstrap was offered fairly free, but the demand was limited in scale.

SPICES.

The local spice market is still inactive and the prices are unchanged. Pepper on the outside markets is becoming quite active, there being a brisk jobbing demand for all grades, and prices have been well maintained.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar on the local market is increasing, and trade in a few days will likely be heavy. A shortage of spot supplies is feared in some quarters. In the United States the tone of the raw sugar market is firm and the receipts for the week were heavy, being 50,099 tons, and the exports from Cuba were 37,300 tons, the heaviest yet, but arrivals, in a week or two, are expected to fall off, and with less pressure to sell, gradually but slowly improving prices are looked for. The total stock in the four ports is 142,614 tons, against 137,515 tons last week and 196,842 tons last year, and the total estimated afloats to the United States from Cuba and the West Indies, Java, Hawaii, Europe, etc., amount to 335,000 tons against the same quantity last year. Special reports coming in regarding the Brazilian crop say that it will be late this year. The weather has been favorable for the growing Cuban crop, and the new crop is expected to be equal to the last one. The refined sugar market has remained steady with a continued good demand from all parts of the country. Refiners are busy melting sugar endeavoring to catch up in their deliveries, they being at present from five to 14 days behind in their shipments. A larger demand from all parts of the States than usual is expected this month, and it is feared that refiners will be even slower in their deliveries than at present. There is a heavy crop of fruit throughout the country and small stocks of sugar in nearly all localities, so a large demand will be kept up, if only for canning purposes. If the demand continues to increase largely it would not be surprising if some advances in prices were made.

TEAS.

The local trade in Indian and Ceylon teas has been good. The market for Japans holds firm, and United States standard could not be laid down under 16½c. The total export will be about the same as last year, but the entire export to Canada will not exceed 2,500,000 lb. Advices from the primary markets state that finer grades of Japans are about exhausted and that some stocks of the inferior grades are still on the market, but the quality of the latter is not very good. Ceylon greens seem to be taking the place of Japans, and samples which are offering in matted packages, similar to the Japan packages, show a much better value than the Japan teas. Cables from Calcutta and Colombo show a further advance of ½c. per lb. on both blacks and greens. On the London, Eng., market the auction of Indian teas passed with some irregularity, especially among medium grades, which were frequently slightly cheaper. Common kinds were steady, while really attractive teas sold at full prices. Good competition ruled throughout the sale of Ceylons, and prices continued steady for all descriptions. A small quantity of Javas brought forward met with good competition and sold mostly at steady to slightly dearer prices.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The primary currant market has eased off a little with heavy sales. Shipments of the new crop of currants are now being made from Greece. We quote Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c. and Patras, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—There is still an absence of stock of Valencia raisins on the market, and prices are unchanged. We quote selects, 8½ to 9c.

DATES.—The market for dates continues very quiet and the prices are steady. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c.

PRUNES.—The demand for prunes amounts to little or nothing, the presence of green fruits on the market hurting the trade in these as well as in all other lines of dried fruits. Our quotations follow: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—The offerings of Californian figs are reported steady. Trade in all lines of evaporated fruit is experiencing the flatness usual at this time of the year. Quotations now are: 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The local green-fruit market on the whole is active. Tomatoes are coming in freely and the prices are correspondingly lower. The crop is turning out much better than was expected, owing to the fine weather prevalent during the last few weeks. Quite free offerings of plums are being made, but so far trade in them has hung back, as the preserving demand for them has not yet set in. There are quantities of peaches of the better grades now being offered and Canadian grapes, which are late this year, show an excellent quality. The crop is reported good. Apples are very plentiful and cheap. We quote: Tomatoes, per basket, 17½ to 25c.; plums, 20-30c.; peaches, 35c. to $1; grapes, 35 to 85c.; pears, 30 to 60c.; apples, 8 to 15c.; crabapples, 20c.; huckleberries, 90c. to $1.15; peppers, 20c.; lawtonberries, 5 to 6c.; muskmelons, 35 to 50c.; cucumbers, 15c.; corn, by the case, 7 to 8c. per doz.; Californian late Valencia oranges, $5.50 to $5.75; Messina lemons, $1.50 to $2 per box; bananas, $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch; red bananas, $1.25 to $1.50; Jersey sweet potatoes, $4 per bbl.

VEGETABLES.

Trade is improving in all lines of vegetables and the prices are steady. The Exhibition is an important factor in increasing business. Quite a quantity of pickling onions and cucumbers are now offering and large quantities of cabbage are being sold. Lettuce is not so much in demand as before, and rhubarb is about done. We quote: Green onions, 8 to 30c. per dozen; rhubarb, 20 to 30c. per dozen; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per dozen; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per dozen and $1 per barrel; carrots, 15c. to 20c. per dozen; beets, 15c. per basket; new potatoes, 50 to 60c. per bush; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 75c. to $1 per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 15 to 20c. per basket; asparagus beans, $1 per bushel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The receipts of eggs continue heavy and are, if anything, larger than they were last week. The quality is improving and the demand is steady for fresh gathered stock. Second grades are dull and easier. Strictly fresh are quoted at 15 to 16c.; ordinary, store collected, candled, 14½ to 15c. and seconds and checks, 10 to 11c.

BEANS.—There is little or no demand for these. The prices are firm at $1.40 to $1.50 for prime and $1.50 to $1.60 for handpicked.

HONEY.—Reports from different parts of the country are conflicting regarding the honey crop of this year. Some localities report a good yield and others state that it amounts to little or nothing. We quote prices paid for new crop on arrival: Honey, in 60-lb. tins, 7 to 8c.; in less quantities, 8 to 9c. Combs, $1.40 up.

POULTRY.—There is a good demand for all kinds of poultry this week, owing to the Exhibition. Very few turkeys are offering. We quote: Live chickens, 45 to 60c. per pair; dressed chickens, 50 to 65c.; turkeys, 11 to 13c.; ducks, 60 to 85c.

POTATOES.—The demand for these is steady and the prices are unchanged. We quote 35 to 40c. per bushel.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

The offerings continue large at outside stations and the market is becoming well stocked. The demand is only moderate and is principally for dairy of the best quality. Cable advices from England report the markets there to be draggy with stocks accumulating and buyers holding off. Some people are expecting a decline before any large movement takes place. We quote: Choice 1-lb. rolls, 15 to 16c.; dairy tubs, best quality, 14½ to 15c.; store packed, uniform color, 14c.; low grades, 11 to 12½c.

CHEESE.—The market is easier and cable advices report a decline of 1s. since last week. The local demand is slow and the make continues large. Sales at the factory vary from 9⅝ to 9 11-16c. per lb. Quotations here are 10 to 10½c. for finest and 9½ to 9¾c. for seconds.

FISH.

The demand for all kinds of fish is good. The shortness in the catch is being felt on the local market, and whitefish and trout are hard to get. Lake Erie herring are also hard to get. Our quotations are as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 9c.; and pike, 6c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb., with very few offering.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—The grain market continues steady for Northwestern and Northern wheat and the reports of the favorable progress that is being made in harvesting this year's large crop are causing prices to remain stationary. We quote: No. 1 Northern, 84c. per bushel; No. 2 Northern, 82c. per bushel. On the St. Lawrence market quite a large amount of damaged and inferior wheat is being offered, and prices are consequently weak. Liberal receipts of oats are reported. We quote: White Ontario wheat, 65 to 69c.; red wheat, 67 to 69c.; goose wheat, 65 to 66c.; oats, new, 32c.; ditto, old, 48c.; barley, 42c. and rye, 47c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—The condition of the market for flour is unchanged from last week, and our quotations are as follows: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.50 to $3.65; Hungarian patents, $4 to $4.10; Manitoba bakers', $3.70 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl. in Toronto.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—The large deliveries of new oats have had the effect of weakening the prices of oatmeal and rolled oats, which have declined 20 and 15c. per bbl. respectively. The market is becoming more active for oatmeal. Rolled wheat is also in good demand. We now quote: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—The market for hides is steady and fairly active, and prices are unchanged. Our quotations are: No. 1 green, 8c.; No. 2 green, 7c.; No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—There is a fair amount of business doing in skins. We now quote: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings and lambskins, 45c.

WOOL.—The wool market continues weak and quotations are unchanged at 13½c. for fleece wool and 7½c. per lb. for unwashed.

TALLOW.—The market is weak and prices are likely to be lower. We quote 6¾ to 7c.

SEEDS.

Some alsike and timothy are offering at outside points. We quote $5 to $7 per bushel for alsike and $1.75 to $2 for timothy.

MARKET NOTES

Dressed hogs have gone down in price 25c. per 100 lb. and veal, 1c. per lb.

The prices of oatmeal and rolled oats have declined 20 and 15c. per bushel respectively.

Quotations on Fraser River salmon have been withdrawn and Northern have been advanced 10c. per case.

"QUAKER" BRAND Canned Goods

ALL GOODS in the fruit and vegetable line packed under this label are grown among the Quaker Community of Bloomfield, Prince Edward County, Ontario, Canada.

This place is situated in the garden of the Bay of Quinte district—celebrated for growing the finest flavored fruits and vegetables in the world. Surrounded as it is, on one side by the waters of Lake Ontario, on another by West Lake, and on still another by the Bay of Quinte, the growing crops have at all hours the benefit of the cool breezes that continually sweep across one or other of these sheets of water. For this reason the crops in this locality—even in the dryest and hottest weather—have never been known to shrink or dry up, and always retain their pure, sweet, natural flavor. It is no exaggeration to say that there is not a spot on the Continent so splendidly adapted for the perfect growth of fruits and vegetables.

Recognizing that it was an ideal spot for a canning factory, two years ago the Bloomfield Packing Co. erected a plant and factory in this locality, at an expense of $40,000.00, solely for the purpose of canning fruit and vegetables. This is recognized as the most complete canning factory in Canada, and pronounced by visitors, conversant with the canning business in the United States, the equal of anything in that Country. One of the first things we did in starting was to register the word "QUAKER" as a trade mark, so that consumers could, under this label, find canned goods that would be known as the standard in quality from one end of the Dominion to the other. No expense has been spared in procuring the most experienced and practical men for the packing and management of the business, so as to insure perfection in the class of goods placed before the public.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal September 4, 1902.

GROCERIES.

JOBBERS all report business as most satisfactory during the past week. The excellent grain crops throughout the country are already commencing to stimulate the demand, and a good business is indicated for fall. Last week common clothespins advanced about 10 per cent. On the basis of this advance the price ought to be 60c. per box of five gross. Spring clothespins have also advanced, and are now sold at 90c. per box of two gross. Pure lard has again weakened, and a decline of about ½c. is reported. Armour's and Jones' pork are both 50c. lower, while Armour's canned meats have declined about 10 per cent. all round.

SAGUR.

The sugar market, locally, continues fairly active. The demand from country points as well as from local buyers is improving, and as the fruit-preserving season advances trade grows brisker. There has been no change in the price. The market is steady at $3.65 for granulated sugar and $3 to $3.55 for yellows. From New York, advices state that the firm tone of the previous week still characterizes the market for raw sugar, and refiners experienced some difficulty in obtaining what supplies they wanted.

TEAS.

On the local market the demand for teas is not heavy. Business with country points is rather quiet, many merchants having made purchases sufficient to do them for some time ahead. A report from the Japan market states that the second and third crop is ½c. lower. A local buyer declares that he has enough old tea on hand to do for some time yet, and he will not buy new crop till prices are still lower, which he expects will not be long. He states that on making inquiries among holders in Japan for teas he found quite a competition among them to dispose of their stocks, and since dealers here are not anxious to purchase at the present high prices, he feels confident that considerably lower figures will yet be quoted. Ceylon teas, both black and green, are firmer, and the former are 1c. higher on the primary market. Indian teas, low grades, are also stiffening. China green teas are still high in price and it is likely that high prices will prevail throughout the season, as these teas have started on a bare market all over the world, and the demand is very good. In China blacks there is no change. Congous are reported steady, but the probability is that lower prices will prevail later on.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

There has been no change whatever in the market for corn syrups. The demand is no more than fair. We quote: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails. Molasses, also, are unchanged. The market is quiet but steady at 23 to 24c. for Barbados. Antigua sells for 24c. and Porto Rico, 38c.

SPICES.

In all spices there is a fairly good movement, but the market shows no particular feature. Values are steady and the firm feeling in most lines is retained.

We quote as follows: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There is nothing new to report on this market. Business is of moderate proportions, and the market is steady and unchanged as to prices. We now quote as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3½c.

CANNED GOODS

Orders for new-crop canned fruits and vegetables are coming in freely, the recent advance in one or two lines having acted apparently as a hint to the trade that others might follow. Canned blueberries, of the new pack, which have been offered on the market for some time, are now quoted at 87½ to 90c. In canned meats, a decline of about 10 per cent. has taken place in Armour's brands, all lines being affected to about that extent. Spot stocks are becoming very meagre. We quote on new crop: Tomatoes, $1.05 to $1.10; corn, 80 to 85c.; peas, 80c. to $1.20; string beans, 80 to 85c.; strawberries, $1.15 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1. We quote spot goods: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn, 82½ to 85c.; tomatoes, $1.12½ to $1.17½; gallon apples, $2.50; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.10.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS. A reduction in the price of currants was followed by a considerably increased demand. Some rain is reported to have fallen in the producing district, which has resulted in strengthening the market somewhat. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5½ to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5½ to 5¾c.; 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—On account of the damage to the crops an advance has taken place on the primary market, finest off-stalk being now quoted at 27s. and selected at 30s. c. and f. Montreal shipment via Liverpool.

SULTANA RAISINS.—On the producing market prices have advanced on Sultana raisins. Locally, there has as yet been no change and 9½c. per lb. is the price quoted. Orders are being booked for new-crop raisins, for future delivery, at prices about the same as last year.

CANDIED PEELS.—Nothing of importance has occurred on this market. The demand is no more than fair. We quote: Citron peel, 15c.; orange, 11½c.; lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—These, on the local market, are very scarce. There may be a few holders, but all stocks are of the smallest. Prices are almost nominal. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—There has been no further advance in the price of dates. A fair demand exists for Hallowees at 5c. per lb.

FIGS.—We hear that some houses have already started to offer Comadre figs and tapnees at prices ruling somewhat higher than those of last year.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—A moderate but steady demand is experienced for these fruits. Prices have not changed. We quote: Pears, 10c.; peaches, 10½c. and apricots, 11½c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS. Nothing new has been reported from the Coast in regard to these. Seeded will likely open about 8c. on the primary market. Locally the price is 9¾ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—These continue in good steady demand. Prices are unchanged. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

Valencia shelled almonds are now quoted 1 to 1½c. higher and to judge by the new crop, prospects are that continued high prices will prevail. Other lines are steady, but the market for all sorts of nuts is very firm. We quote: Walnuts, 10 to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 26 to 27½c.; filberts, 9c. and pecans, 15 to 16c.

GREEN FRUITS.

The good demand for all sorts of fruits has not slackened in the least, and jobbers report a continued active market. Prices have not changed. We quote as follows: Jamaica oranges, in bbls., $7.50, in boxes, $4.25; Sorrento oranges, $3.75 to $4 per box; Messina lemons, $3.50 per box; pineapples, 13 to 20c.; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2 and eight-hands, $1 to $1.50; cucumbers, 11c. per doz.; Canadian cabbage, 75c. per bbl.; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per bbl.; watermelons, 25c.; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; blackberries, 5 to 7c. per box; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $2.50 to $2.75 per box; limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 30 to 35c. per basket; plums, 40c. per basket; blueberries, $1.50 per box; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1 to $1.50, in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, $1.10 per basket; Canadian basket tomatoes, 30 to 40c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, $1 per crate, $3 per case.

FISH.

There continues to be a fair movement in all lines of fresh fish. Whitefish and dore are both quoted ½c. lower this week. Holland herring are slightly higher. Dried codfish, which is now quoted per 100-lb. bundle, are also higher in price. Our quotations are now as follows: Haddies, 7 to 7½c.; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4 to 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; dore, 7½ to 8c.; pike, 6 to 6½c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 16c.; trout, large and medium, 8½ to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl. and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. to 85c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, 85 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The demand is still light, but prices have been maintained. We quote: Selected, 18 to 18½c.; candled stock, 15 to 16c.; straight receipts, 14½ to 15c.; No. 2, 13 to 14c. in round lots.

BEANS. Trade is quieter than a week ago and at present not much business is being done. The price is steady at $1.40 to $1.45 per bushel.

HONEY.—The market has not altered in the least. There is a good demand for white strained in 10-lb. tins at 8c. to 8½c. per lb. White clover comb remains at 10 to 11c. per lb., but holders are not anxious to sell at that price.

POTASH.—There has been a much better feeling on this market and a good business has been done in first and second pots at higher prices. We quote as follows: Firsts, $4.35 to $4.40; seconds, $3.55 to $3.60 and pearls, $6 to $6.25.

POTATOES.—The demand has improved considerably. The market is much firmer and higher. We now quote Early Rose at 75c. per bag for good to choice and ordinary at 60c.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—These are quiet at 70 to 80c. for syrup in large tins and 50 to 60c. in small tins. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The market has not improved and business continues quiet with no quotable changes to report. Higher prices are reported to have been paid in the country, but on the local market nothing new has transpired. We quote: Fancy Townships creamery, 18¾ to 19¼c.; finest Ontario creamery, 18 to 18¼c. and dairy, 15½ to 16c.

CHEESE.—The market conditions are practically unchanged, the demand being still very light. Stocks are commencing to accumulate now, but no quotable change has resulted as yet. Export business is also of small proportions, competition being exceedingly keen. We quote: Finest Ontario, white and colored, 9⅝ to 9¾c.; finest Townships, white and colored, 9½ to 9⅝c.; finest Quebec, white and colored, 9⅜ to 9½c.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—All grades of flour are quoted lower this week. Manitoba spring wheat patents show the least decline. The others are from 15 to 20c. lower. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.45 to $3.75; straight rollers, $3.45 to $3.55; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $3.95.

GRAIN.—Locally, the market has been quiet. No. 1 Northern Manitoba wheat is quoted at 73½c. afloat, Fort William;

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

BUSINESS with the wholesale trade has improved the past fortnight, especially during Exhibition week. Outside customers were in to see the Fair and incidentally to do some business. Reports from all wholesale houses are that they were more than pleased with the number of buyers, which goes to show that Ottawa is fast becoming recognized as a good trade centre.

Retailers benefitted greatly also, but seemingly not to the extent of other years, when the Exhibition was held during the latter part of September, as then the quantity of grapes, peaches and pears is so much larger, and it was the custom of strangers to take all they could carry with them, but this year the supply was not large at the time, therefore business in that line was small. However, everyone seemed to be pleased, as things looked lively owing to the great throng of people in the city.

Sugars are keeping the same price, no change having taken place for some time.

Canned salmon is reported about 20c. a case higher than a month ago, with a likelihood of a further raise. At any rate, it is not being offered for future as it was then.

Currants for future are higher, and those that did not buy are feeling a little sorry.

Tomatoes to arrive are not being quoted. It looks as if orders will be filled only in part.

The pickling season has opened up, and vinegar and spices are moving fast.

Valencia raisins are almost cleaned up. Fine off-stalk are worth 6¼c.

In green fruits at the Ottawa Fruit Exchange apples in baskets have been selling, according to quality, from 15 to 30c.; peaches, ordinary, from 25 to 40c. and good grades from 50 to 90c.; plums, 25 to 50c. Bananas have been going very low, eight-hands bringing around 50c. and No. 1 about 75 to $1.

A car of Californian fruit was disposed of to-day and brought good prices.

Chase & Sanborn, Montreal, have donated a large president's chair to the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association. The gift was much appreciated, and the members of the Association will always feel more friendly to their popular traveller, Fred. Hodge, who made the presentation on behalf of the firm.

INTERESTING SUIT OVER NEEDLES.

An interesting case has recently been decided in the Chancery Division of the High Court at Redditch, England, which is of particular interest to merchants who handle needles. It appears, according to the evidence, that a man named J. Y. Morrall had sold a certain firm the right to manufacture needles under his name. It was claimed by Abel Morrall, Limited, Redditch, who is represented in Canada by C. H. Westwood & Co., Limited, Toronto, that the needles made by the defendant firm were an infringement of the needles they manufactured, and they applied for an injunction to prevent the continuance of this practice. The judgment, which has just been given, was in their favor, and the firm which was alleged to be infringing on the right of Abel Morrall, Limited, is therefore restrained from continuing the practice. The judges held that the defendants were simply trying to deceive the public by putting a cheaper and inferior needle on the market than that made by Abel Morrall, Limited, a firm which has been in business for nearly 100 years. The litigation has been pending for some time, and it is alleged that the costs are something in the neighborhood of $10,000.

PACKING AND GRADING OF APPLES.

By William Dixon, Hamilton, Ont.

THE apple packers and dealers in the eastern part of this continent have never given the matter of grading the attention that its importance renders necessary. Not only does this apply to apples, but to other products, especially deciduous fruits.

In the Western States a very different condition of packing and grading exists, which has greatly enhanced the popularity and assisted in the disposal of their fruit. The question is, why should we not advance in our particular trade and meet the demands of the consumer by grading to suit all classes, thus enhancing the value and increasing the consumption of the king of all fruits.

The grading of apples in the east had been so deceptive and fraudulent in the past that a great many of the largest hotels and restaurants in the large consuming centres have, to a large extent, abandoned the use of the green stock, and have adopted the dried and canned article instead, claiming that they cannot depend on getting value for what they pay, but are deceived in their purchases.

I have often thought if we had to handle oranges in the same way that apples are handled, what would be the result. A very unsatisfactory and unprofitable trade; why, therefore, continue to pack apples in the old, slovenly, unsatisfactory and unprofitable manner that exists at present?

We are all aware of the difficulty of grading properly when harvesting the fruit in the orchards. In order to overcome this difficulty it would be absolutely necessary to concentrate supplies in fruit houses and storage places, where time and care could be taken to grade it to meet all demands of the different markets.

In my opinion, the larger varieties of apples, such as Baldwins and Spies, should be carefully graded into four classes, extra large, large, medium and small; and such varieties as Jonathan, Snows and Duchess into three grades; then I feel confident we could satisfy all classes of consumers.

In no instance should diseased fruit of any kind be packed in barrels or boxes, as there is in the fall sufficient demand for all such fruit in bulk by canners, dryers and the peddling trade to consume it, as the demand for canned and dried apples is increasing so enormously in all parts of the world that it is quite unnecessary to pack such fruit, which injures the demand for the sound green fruit.

I feel that if some system of grading were adopted by the members of the association and faithfully carried out, it would be the means of creating greater confidence and greatly enlarge our individual trade when our goods are brought in competition with those of inexperienced or unscrupulous dealers or occasional speculators. The reason I have recommended extra large, large, medium and small as the designations of the different grades is that such terms would give a better appearance to a brand on a barrel and be more easily communicated, especially by wire, in quoting than marks such as crosses.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. A. P. Haudke, representing the Rumford Chemical Works, Chicago, was in Toronto this week.

Mr. J. Hunter White, grocery broker and commission merchant, St. John, N.B., was in Toronto for a day or so last week en route to Winnipeg to attend the General Conference of the Methodist Church. He will return by way of Chicago.

ONTARIO BEET SUGAR.

H. Lanschy, engineer with The Sangerhauser Machine Co., of Germany, was in Berlin, August 21, visiting The Ontario Sugar Co.'s refinery. He has come from Germany on a mission of investigation and has already spent several weeks in Michigan. He thinks that within a few years Canada will be making the bulk of the sugar consumed in this country.

A GOOD APPLE CROP.

The apple crop promises to be abundant in the neighborhood of Walkerton this year, and with good shipping arrangements, a local paper says, a considerable export trade should be within reach of the producers. Something is being done in this direction from year to year, but the facilities are not yet abundant or the charges sufficiently reasonable to make the business profitable. This year a change is being made in packing, the barrel giving place to boxes holding about a bushels each. They occupy less space in the ship and are easier to handle, besides coming more within the requirements of small purchasers in the Old Country.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. are selling an exceptionally fine Trinidad sugar.

A PROFIT ON SUGAR.

THERE is no reason why a retailer should make a large profit on sugar; there is no reason why he should sell it at cost; there is no reason, however, why he should not make a reasonable profit, remarks Retailers' Journal.

Sugar is a necessity of life. Owing to the large amount sold a large profit per pound would be unjust and could not be maintained. A reasonable profit over the cost price should be received by every retailer who sells sugar. Too large a percentage of gain would offer a glittering opportunity to the price-cutters and would defeat its own object; but there should be a happy medium between too great a profit and no profit at all. To say it is easy to tell the way it ought to be, but hard to make it that way, does no good whatever. The successful ones are those who forgot to be cynical, who had such force and confidence that they have made their practice fit their theory. The grocers can do this just as soon as they will meet together in good faith and talk over their affairs.

All retail grocers will agree on a proposition to sell at a reasonable advance over the cost price if the matter is put to them in the right way. When a man buys sugar for five cents a pound and sells it for five he usually figures that he is selling it at cost, but this is not so, because it costs him a certain percentage of all his receipts to do business and pay the expenses of his store. Whatever this percentage is, he must add it to the cost of the sugar he sells. When he figures the matter this way he will find that he is losing money on his sugar. In other words, he is paying the people for the pleasure of serving them, which is not a logical attitude for a sensible man to assume.

It often requires patience and consistent effort to make what ought to be come out that way, but if one goes about it logically and is not discouraged by an occasional set back, one will succeed. This journal wishes to see the retailers successful, prosperous and happy, and the editor is giving his best thought to help bring about such conditions.

Our suggestion now as to how to overcome the evil of selling sugar at a loss is very much like Horace Greeley's advice, "The best way to do a thing is to do it." We doubt if selling sugar at a loss is a profitable way of advertising the store. It is better to keep so good a store that it will not be necessary to lose money on anything in order to bring people into it. If everything is clean, cases and counters well arranged, goods fresh and attractively displayed, the dealer does not need a leader sold at a loss to bring customers to him. We suggest that the grocers in every neighborhood where there has been price-cutting come together in a small local club and make an agreed schedule, then all turn in and help one another instead of knocking one another. Soon these local clubs will grow into an association that will cover the city and perhaps the State, and such an association will be real and representative, and therefore strong. We might argue this matter out to the extent of many columns, but no doubt the idea will suggest the argument without the disadvantage of tiring the reader.

SOME WHYS.

WHY some merchants will call the same announcement, appearing in their space in the newspaper, day after day, and week after week, advertising, remarks Advertising World.

Why some merchants will have a well-kept stock and store, advertise regularly, changing their ad. frequently, and then employ an impudent, know-it-all clerk, who drives away more trade in one week than the merchant's advertising brings him in two weeks.

Why still other merchants will consider the advisability of employing an ad-writer and fail to supply him with sufficient facts about the business to enable him to prepare decent ads., or insist that the ad. shall be written and printed according to their (the merchant's idea) and then "kick" because the ads. do not pull.

Why some more merchants will not take the time and trouble necessary to have their show windows cleaned once in a while, so as to permit passers-by to tell whether they are selling clothing or snow-shovels.

Why some merchants will expect the advertising which they do a few weeks before the holidays to keep their stores busy for the next ten months.

Why some advertisers will continue to use in their retail ads. meaningless words, like "Hello!" set up in big letters, with the notion that such an ad. need not say anything in particular so long as it attracts people's attention.

Why other advertisers imagine that they can foist any kind of old merchandise upon the public, if they simply add the magic sentence in their ads., "Not in the trust."

Why some advertising firms pay high prices in good pulling mediums, do not more persistently follow up the replies received, with the purpose of turning those replies into orders.

Why otherwise well-managed firms will do clever advertising, use good stationery and printed matter, and then employ some bungling stenographer to typewrite their letters, thus giving their correspondence the appearance of being prepared by a ten-year-old boy.

Why some publishers don't quit telling advertisers the population of the county and State wherein their publications are printed, when questioned about circulations, and come right down to the exact statement of bona fide circulation.

Why some other publishers persist in setting up the ads. in their papers in out-of-date, obsolete, before-the-war type, when the neat, up-to-the-minute kind can be found in every type foundry.

Why a great many other useless and harmful things, too numerous to mention, are indulged in by otherwise rational, prudent and economical business men, seven days in the week, and 52 weeks in the year, when, by the investment of a small amount they can, at least, read a few good trade journals, and reduce to a minimum the inconsistencies in their business.

PLEASE WOMEN BUYERS.

RETAILERS, of course, realize the fact that the majority of their customers are women, remarks Trade. It is likely that due pains is generally taken to please these buyers. With many and no doubt most of the dealers in the small towns the farmers' wives are an important factor. Their trade once secured means more to the merchant than that of her city sister.

The farmer's wife is, as a rule, the purchasing agent for the entire family. She selects the goods for the sons and daughters of the household and for the husband, too, as well as for her own personal necessities. She should be the subject of much thought and attention in any plans devised for securing trade. Her tastes should be consulted and gratified and great respect extended to her in all possible ways.

When the merchant prepares his advertising matter for the local paper he should be particular to make his proclamation attractive to his best customers. A good many merchants make use of typewriting machines in their offices. It would be a good idea to employ them extensively in giving information to the housekeepers in the immediate vicinity, making special mention of the newest goods and all the many utilities the merchant has for sale.

City merchants do this among their many lines and classes of customers, making the newspaper advertisements the medium of inviting buyers and also circular letters are extensively used. This policy is found successful in the larger places and it can be made so in the smaller ones.

Every merchant desires to sell all the goods he can, and if he will adopt this policy and industriously pursue it he will find his trade growing under its inspiration.

EASILY TURNED

This term applied to a person is not very complimentary. Applied to a weigh scale, however, it is the highest compliment possible. A scale that is not easily turned is useless.

THE WILSON COMPUTING BALL BEARING SCALE WILL TURN WITH THE WEIGHT OF A HAIR.

Can you not see the advantage of this in the constant weighing of goods? Give honest measure, but at the same time don't give away your profits.

Our BALL BEARING COMPUTING SCALE OFFER on easy terms of payment will interest you. Write for particulars.

FRUIT AT THE MANITOBA FAIR.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

THE week which closed on Saturday has been a record week in Winnipeg, marking the successful termination of the first Exhibition under the auspices of the Western Horticultural Society, and this Exhibition has been an unqualified success not only in attendance and entries but in the fact that it has awakened public interest to the possibility of fruit culture in Manitoba and of the splendid feasibility of getting the larger portion of our fruit supply from British Columbia rather than from the States to the south.

MANITOBA APPLES.

There was a long table covered with a splendid variety of apples of fine flavor and good appearance. Many of these came from the farm of A. P. Stevenson, Nelson, who has been largely instrumental in proving the possibility of apple culture in Manitoba. There were some 20 exhibitors in all, and the display of crabapples and plums was almost as good as the apples.

BRITISH COLUMBIAN FRUIT.

The British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association wisely judged this to be an excellent opportunity to get the fruit of their Province well before the citizens of Winnipeg, and they spared neither pains, time nor expense in doing so. The making of the exhibit was in charge of R. H. Palmer, fruit commissioner, and J. C. Metcalf, president of the British Columbia Fruit Growers' Association. Some idea of the completeness of the display may be gathered from the fact that they brought in six tons of fruit and paid expressage on every pound of it. The collection was made up of apples, crabapples, pears, plums, peaches, cherries and blackberries. The apples were a magnificent showing, the peaches were dreams of beauty and wells of luscious sweetness, while the long branches, full-fruited, that had been cut from the trees and brought through without even rubbing the bloom off gave the best idea of what a British Columbian orchard must be in cherry and plum time. Messrs. Metcalf and Palmer were indefatigable in answering questions and distributing literature and in showing visitors through the section, and they had their reward. It was decided, with a view to lessening the expense of the exhibit, to permit the fruit to be auctioned off on Saturday morning and it brought no end of fancy prices, more particularly the apples and pears.

Messrs. Palmer and Metcalf are being tendered a banquet by the Manitoba Fruit and Produce Exchange at the Commercial Club on Monday evening.

Your Western correspondent has to thank these gentlemen for most liberal opportunities of sampling the fruit.

GROCERS' WHOLESALE COMPANY, LIMITED.

IT is a little more than a year ago when this paper announced that a charter had been granted to a company in Hamilton, under the title of Grocers' Wholesale Company, Limited.

The organization and system of doing their business, being unique to many people in this country, has, we presume, been the reason of so much discussion by the trade generally. Before asking for their charter, a number of prominent and well-known retailers became stockholders, giving ample capital for the conducting of their business. Since, we are told, this number has gradually increased. Their method is not new by any means, for we know of organizations in Great Britain on somewhat similar lines that have grown to be enormous concerns.

Business is conducted by the issue of weekly circulars and dividends are to be returned to shareholders upon purchases as well as a dividend upon paid-up capital stock. The result of the 11 months' business was a 7 per cent. dividend cheque to their shareholders upon paid-up capital stock, which must be considered an excellent showing for their first statement, especially with a dropping sugar market to contend against during the past year, coupled with the drawbacks every new concern has with its commencement.

THE CONVENTION OF RETAIL MERCHANTS.

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada will hold a convention in Toronto on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 9 and 10. The opening meeting will be held in the Temple Building on Tuesday afternoon, when addresses of welcome will be given by Mayor Howland, K.C., assisted by some of the members of the reception commttee of city council, after which addresses will be given by the president of the Association and others on the past and future work of the Association.

The various sections of trade comprised in the Association will afterwards hold separate meetings in special halls engaged for the purpose.

KNOWLEDGE ESSENTIAL TO A GROCER.

IT is pretty generally conceded that the retail grocer is what is quizzically termed a "waiking encyclopædia," also a "hail fellow well met," entertaining, and an arbiter (or mutual friend) for a vast multitude of all sorts and conditions of men, women, children and infants.

Now a new personage bobs up serenely; he is that very fickle odds and ends, the fellow "who knows it all" in the newspapers, the "penny a liner," or, perhaps, the "mysterious quiller of the quill," who has two meals on Saturday and feeds on a health diet the rest of the week, says Retail Grocers' Advocate. He is endeavoring to make himself famous by coming out with the startling announcement that a grocer is not the master of his trade until he knows everything in the business "from A to Z."

In other words, he must be able to define at a moment's notice every ingredient that goes to make up the 5,001 articles on his shelves or elsewhere for sale.

He must be able to tell you just how sugar, soap, molasses, starch, flour, cheese, macaroni, mustard and an almost innumerable list of other artictes are manufactured and placed on the market; in fact, he must know pretty nearly everything.

We are willing to concede that he is every bit a "walking encyclopedia," that is, in the sense which the term is usually applied, but, as for his knowing everything, we must draw the line.

Still, how many times a day will the customer, his wife or small boy rush in and tell their grocer about troubles galore, or anticipated troubles, or something that might happen, and ask his advice—and ten to one this appeal comes just at a time when he is most busy.

But Mr. Grocer doesn't get busy and wave them off with a determined sweep of the hand—oh, no! He has got too much tact for that.

So he imparts the necessary intelligence and they go their way fully charged and primed, vowing in their own minds that their grocer is "the right stuff."

Well, to put it homely, he is all that, and more, for he usually is the "right thing"; any grocer is all this who can hold his nerve on such occasions; and, furthermore, it is the rule wherever the grocer is to be found in his "native element"—it is an acquired habit, which he feels must be exacted.

Therefore, all things considered, the grocer is a most remarkable man. There is no other business man just like him; he may be said to be a self-made man, and some like to call him a many-sided man, but that isn't hardly fair, for the grocer's habits finally beget sincerity of purpose, and he accepts the situation as he finds it—this shows his practicability of mind, and in that particular he stands head and shoulders above nearly all other tradesmen.

But take the grocer as he stands to-day, and he is plenty good enough for all good people.

GLACE BAY CLERKS ORGANIZE.

A meeting of the clerks of Glace Bay, C.B., was held recently for the purpose of organizing a branch of the International Retail Clerks' Protective Association.

A large number of clerks were present and also several merchants of the town, including Mayor D. M. Burchell and County Stipendiary Henry McDonald. Before calling on K. McKim, deputy organizer of the American Federation of Labor, to address the assemblage, expressions of opinion were asked from the merchants and others present on the matter of early closing. Among the speakers were Mayor Burchell, County Stipendiary Henry McDonald, and the following merchants: S. L. Landry, J. G. Morris, P. A. McDonald, F. Ferguson and S. Fried. All spoke in favor of early closing, and were disposed to give the clerks every advantage possible.

Mr. McKim discussed the matter in a pleasing manner, showed the benefits of the Association and the results accomplished by it. He also recommended the clerks to proceed cautiously and deliberately and to avoid anything like revolutionary methods. After this a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. McKim and the other speakers. Then those not eligible for membership withdrew and the clerks proceeded to perfect their organization.

DIVIDENDS TELL THE STORY.

The first dividend on E. W. Gillett Company Limited was paid to stockholders on August 30. The business of this company since its incorporation has shown a decided increase in volume, and the future prospects are reported bright, and this must be very gratifying to the stockholders.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

"Billingsley the grocer has taught his dog to sing."

"Does he sing well?"

"He sings as well as Billingsley could teach him."

"I never heard Billingsley. Is he a good singer?"

"Well, the dog has been shot at several times."

"Dear Doctor: Your hair restorer is a world-beater. After trying a bottle I placed it in the cupboard, and in the morning we were astounded to find a nice long hair in the butter. We have no children, and, as I am bald, and my wife is confident that the hair is no relative of hers, the fact is evident that the restorer did the work. Enclosed please find my photo."

OUR TRADE A MARK — AUER LIGHT MANTLES LONGEST LIFE & BRIGHTEST — OUR TRADE A MARK

The Value of Annealing.

Annealing is the most costly step of mantle making—consequently a cheap mantle cannot be properly annealed—That is the reason a cheap mantle caves in like this if you lay it on its side, after burning off the coating—Try one—They injure your trade.

Mantles branded A are thoroughly annealed over pressure gas—They fit the burner—They don't shrink—They stand up this way—They are reliable—They help your trade.

—We are the sole manufacturers of A mantles.
—Write us if you are interested.

MANAGING THE BUSINESS.

THE GOLDEN RULE IN BUSINESS.

PHILLIP PRESENT, Rochester, N.Y.

WE learn through history and experience that men through the instinct of self-preservation formed organizations. When two or more men found something in common, the same interests to protect, the same ideals to attain, they united, knowing well that in unity there is strength. We have also learned that through selfishness and the clashing of interests the strongest organization, whether civil, political, or religious, will be wrecked. So we have this lesson; if our organization is to be a power for good we must not base our existence entirely on selfishness, although the germ that produced it, like any other production of man, usually is selfishness. It must be built on the broad principle of a great moral and ethical platform, where all good men can support it. It is true that we are supposed to be watch-dogs of our household; we bark frightfully, snap or bite according to the nature of the beast if someone attempts to steal that which it is our duty to protect. We would not be worthy of our trust if we did not strive to do so. We want our customers to meet their obligations when due so that we can meet ours. We want to impress upon them, that it is neither honest nor honorable to order goods from us, and afterwards cancel the order or return the goods; that it is plain stealing to take a discount of 10 per cent. when 6 per cent. was specified; and that 60 days does not mean six months. Too long have we allowed the tail to wag the dog. We place too little value on our goods when we sell merchandise to parties in amounts equal to ten times as much as we would be willing to loan in cash, and allow trade abuses to continue through the fear of competition. We ourselves have two kinds of ethical rules, one for those who steal money, and another for those who steal merchandise. Public opinion, therefore, is not shocked or outraged by dishonest failures in mercantile life as it is by any other transgression of morals, and for that reason the law-making bodies of our States have statutes entirely in favor of the debtor class. It is a natural consequence that we usually get no more than we deserve, considering we are the first to suffer under the present state of affairs. It follows, that the duty devolves upon us to educate the public to a higher standard of ethics in business life. It is as rare now to see a smile on the face of a credit man as a 25 per cent. dividend in a bankruptcy case; and what can we expect? In every commercial death we occupy the mourner's bench on the first row; it is our funeral and no one else's. We used to have a laugh once in awhile when in a failure we would get ahead of the other fellow, but since the National Bankruptcy Law has come into existence we are deprived even of that. I have stated to you conditions which you all know by experience. You will ask, what is the remedy? First, let us eradicate selfishness and be what we wish the other fellow to be, honest and honorable. If the creditor class, manufacturers and jobbers, agree among themselves to abolish trade abuses and have an association for that purpose, they should live up to it, even at the cost of some sacrifice; the end will justify the means. Second, let us pledge ourselves to do all we can and drive the rascals out of business life by not supplying them with goods, even for cash; it will have a greater effect than a prosecution fund and be more justifiable. Third, having set a standard of integrity among ourselves we can have the courage of our convictions and educate others, as well as compel them, to be honest.

FAILURES AND THEIR CAUSES.

J. J. DOLPHIN, Buffalo, N.Y.

The subject is a very broad one, and in competent hands would afford a great fund of instruction for credit men. I confess inability to do the subject even moderate justice; however, I will present to you some statistics taken from Bradstreet's Record, which will give you a partial idea of the wide extent of the subject, and afford a beginning for further discussion.

Failures in the United States for the last four years are as follows, as to numbers in business and numbers failed:

| | Number in Business. | Number Failed. |
|---|---|---|
| 1898 | 1,093,373 | 11,615 |
| 1899 | 1,125,873 | 9,642 |
| 1900 | 1,161,639 | 9,912 |
| 1901 | 1,201,862 | 10,648 |
| Totals | 4,582,747 | 41,817 |
| | Liabilities. | Assets. |
| 1898 | $141,611,413 | $73,161,328 |
| 1899 | 119,775,255 | 60,140,250 |
| 1900 | 127,177,909 | 60 128,006 |
| 1901 | 130,109 678 | 61,098,831 |
| Totals | $518,674,255 | $254,528,415 |

Showing a net loss in the four years of $264,151,840.

There are eleven causes assigned for failures, and placed under the following headings:

Incompetence, inexperience, lack of capital, unwise credits, speculation outside of business, neglect of business, extravagance, fraudulent disposition, specific conditions, failure of others, undue competition.

Under these headings we have the following percentages, first, as to members, and second, as to liabilities:

| | 1900. Per cent. | 1901. Per cent. |
|---|---|---|
| Incompetence | 17 9/10, 16 6/10 | 19, 16 6/10 |
| Inexperience | 7 7/10, 3 2/10 | 7 8/10, 2 8/10 |
| Lack of Capital | 32, 23 8/10 | 30 3/10, 22 1/10 |
| Unwise Credits | 2 9,10, 2 2,10 | 3 6 10, 6 4/10 |
| Speculation | 2 2,10, 8 3/10 | 2 3/10, 6 4/10 |
| Neglect of Business | 3 4/10, 1 4/10 | 1, 1 6/10 |
| Extravagance | 9/10, 1 | 3, 1 |
| Fraudulent Disposit'n | 11 3/10, 8 | 4 4/10, 2 4/10 |
| Specific Conditions | 14 4/10, 31 2/10 | 16 4/10, 30 1/10 |
| Failure of Others | 2 3/10, 4 6/10 | 1 3/10, 3 4/10 |
| Undue Competition | 6, 2 3/10 | 10 2/10, 7 2/10 |

From these last figures it would appear that there are three conspicuous causes of failures, viz.: Incompetence, lack of capital, and specific conditions; the latter covering any happening out of the normal, such as strikes, great calamities, failure of crops, etc. Fraudulent disposition takes fourth place as to number and liabilities, and seventh place as to assets. There is a noticeable feature in this cause to which I would call your attention, viz., a marked decrease in the number and liabilities in 1901 as compared with former years. In 1898 the number per cent. was 10 2-10 per cent., the liabilities, 8 per cent.; in 1901 the number per cent. was 4 4-10, and liabilities, 2 4-10, while in 1899 and 1900, the number and per cent. of both liabilities and number was almost the same, 11 3-10 number, and 8 per cent. liabilities. There is opportunity for speculation in this as to what may have been the cause which produced the result. Specific conditions leads the list as to liabilities; lack of capital, second; incompetence, third; fraudulent disposition, fourth; failures of others, fifth; speculation outside, sixth; unwise credits, seventh; undue competition, eighth; inexperience, ninth; extravagance, tenth, and neglect, eleventh.

As to assets, the relative positions are changed, with the exception of specific conditions, lack of capital and incompetency, each of which holds relatively the same place with the liabilities. Failures of others comes fourth; unwise credits, fifth; speculation, sixth; fraudulent dispositions, seventh; undue competition, eighth; inexperience, ninth; neglect, tenth; extravagance, eleventh. Eight of the causes of failure are within the control of the trader, three are practically beyond his control, namely, specific conditions, undue competition and failure of others.

To go into the analysis of each of the causes and their effects would require much time and labor, together with the ability to draw a correct conclusion. I will, therefore, not attempt this, but leave it for others. There are, however, four prominent causes which present themselves most forcibly to our attention; one of these, specific conditions, is a difficult problem for the credit man, and almost, if not quite, beyond his control as well as that of the trader. The three others are conditions more nearly within the vision of the credit man, though one is also a difficult problem, and usually almost out of the vision, namely, fraudulent disposition.

It would be a bright man who could foresee that disposition in the majority of cases. The other two causes are more nearly within the control of the credit man, and may be foreseen by careful study of the trader's condition.

THE WOES OF A RETAIL MERCHANT.

In order to show up the fallacy of the credit system and the unreasonableness of most debtors, the following tale of woe is related by a Canadian business man:

A man dealt with a merchant for several years and paid his bills promptly for some time, but he unfortunately conceived the idea of building a house. Now, because he did not have the necessary cash, he left the merchant after he had run up an account of some $40 and spent his spare cash on the construction of his house. This same plan was likewise followed with the other ten merchants in the town and the man gets ahead, say, $250. This pays for his lot and in addition allows him $150 to apply on his loan.

After awhile Merchat A. begins to want his money, and of course he very impertinently writes to the man, saying, as the latter is now buying his goods elsewhere, he would like to have his account settled. This makes the debtor very indignant, and he says to himself, "Here, I have been dealing with Mr. A. for a good many months and I always paid him promptly and now, even if I am dealing elsewhere, it is mean and contemptible of him to demand his money. I'll just go down and give him $10 and a piece of my mind "into the bargain."

This he proceeds to do, and the merchant, who has been used for years to hold himself in, takes it all in good part, and hands out a receipt for $10. The balance is to be settled next pay-day.

Pay-day comes and goes, and many another pay-day comes and goes, but the account is not paid. Naturally, creditors make demands on the merchant, and he is forced to ask for the settlement of the account with interest, adding the threat that, if not paid, it will be placed in court for collection. This is more than Mr. Debtor can stand. He gets very angry and goes to his employer and tells him what a mean man this merchant is to ask him to pay interest. However, he gets a sufficient advance of wages to pay the merchant off. He walks into the store with an air of injured innocence and explains that he wants to pay up his balance. The merchant is so pleased to get his money that he accepts payment without interest, notwithstanding that he has been paying the bank interest on this amount and others as well for the past two years.

JAMAICA FRUIT RIVALRY.

At a meeting of the fruit growers of Jamaica, Kingston, on the 4th instant, it was decided to form a pool for the regulation of the quality, quantity and price of fruit sold to shippers for export. The step is the result of the formation of the recent Anglo-American combine, it being taken in order to protect the growers against the lowering of prices by the combine, which the growers agreed completely dominates the market.

RETURN OF MR. IRELAND.

Mr. F. C. Ireland, well known as the founder of The Ireland National Food Company, who has been engaged in the milling business in England for the past few years, has recently returned to Canada and will make his home permanently in Montreal. Mr. Ireland was among those who came to Toronto for the second week of the Fair.

ADVICE TO EMPLOYERS.

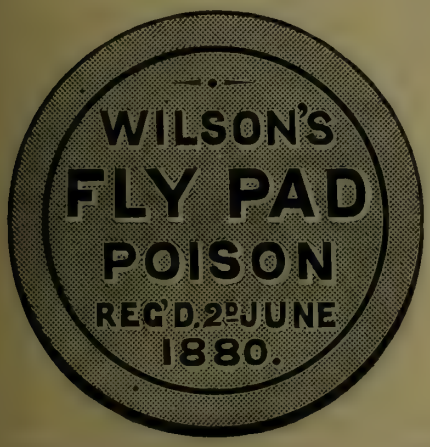
NEARLY all of the retail merchants began their business careers as clerks, and for this reason they should better appreciate how to assimilate the services of those employed by them in the business of selling goods, says Trade.

Occasionally a man who has risen from the position of clerk to proprietor is inclined to undervalue the usefulness of his employes, forgetting that to depend upon himself alone to do all the thinking is as great a mistake as if he were to undertake to perform all the details of the store.

With reasonable encouragement the clerks will supply the employer with many bright ideas that will give value to the business. It can readily be supposed that the clerks, if they may be made to understand that their suggestions are appreciated, will take more interest than if held off at arm's length.



The proprietor cannot see everything. As a rule he cannot do more than exercise a general supervision, but among his assistants will be found material for the originating of winning business schemes and he will be an unwise man who does not invite and welcome the co-operation of his assistants. Give the clerks a chance and their interest will be made apparent.

VISITORS TO A YEAST FACTORY.

Mr. S. J. Carter, of Carter, Galbraith & Co., wholesale grocers, Montreal, and Miss Carter visited Toronto last week on their way to Winnipeg and the West. During their stay they paid a visit to E. W. Gillett Company's offices and factory, and expressed themselves highly pleased and entertained by their trip through the works.

Other visitors who honored the company with a call were Mr. T. Mitchell and daughter, of St. John's Nfld. It was Mr. Mitchell's first visit to Toronto, and he did not fail to express himself as highly astonished at what he saw of the "Queen City" and its enterprising, bustling activity, its buildings, streets, and the general air of prosperity evidenced on all sides. Mr. Mitchell, who is engaged in the baking business in St. John's, was a delegate to the master bakers' convention held last week, and at the banquet at McConkey's Friday evening was a responder to the toast of "Our Native Land," and though somewhat pessimistic at present in his views of the union of the old colony with the Dominion, he hoped such a desirable end would be ultimately reached. Mr. and Miss Mitchell are continuing a tour of Western Canada this week.

TAYLOR, SCOTT & CO.

THE firm of Taylor, Scott & Co., manufacturers of brooms, brushes and woodenware, etc., Bay street, Toronto, are about to make extensive alterations in their already large premises, and have bought the property immediately to the north and east of their present building, a large portion of which was formerly occupied by Grand's Repository. In an interview with Mr. Geo. C. Taylor, who is head of the firm (Mr. Scott having died some 10 years ago), he said :

"We found it necessary to make an extension owing to the increasing volume of business. The building just to the south of where the office and warehouse is now, and used as part of the factory, is to be created into a handsome office and warehouse, and the other building, with the extensions which will be added, will be exclusively used for the factory. It will be six flats high, and the whole establishment when completed will cover nearly one acre of ground. The factory will be fitted up with all the latest known improved machinery for the manufacture of brooms and brushes, etc., and when complete will be the largest and most up-tc-date factory on the continent.

"I have recently returned," said Mr. Taylor, "from the large cities and centres of the United States, inquiring into and finding out all the latest improvements and ideas, all of which and many more will be included in the new factory. The alterations are expected to be finished this fall."

DEATH OF W. L. SHIELDS.

At Coboconk, Ont., the death occurred of W. L. Shields, general merchant and sawmill owner, in his 30th year. Mr. Shields was in business at Coboconk for about 10 years and was well known to the wholesale trade in Toronto. He was popular with his fellow citizens, a successful merchant and a reader of THE GROCER for a number of years. He is survived by a wife ; his father, J. C. Shields, and his brother, J. W. Shields, both general merchants at Victoria Road. THE GROCER sympathizes with the relatives and friends of deceased in their bereavement.

FOUR FIRMS AMALGAMATE.

Four of the leading firms of Kaslo, B.C., have consolidated. The new company is composed of H. Giegerich, Green Bros., H. Byers & Co., and A. B. Morris, and is incorporated under the name of The Byers-Giegerich-Green Co., Limited, with a capital of $100,000, making it one of the strongest corporations of its kind in the interior of British Columbia. It is understood that the business will be under the joint supervision of H. Giegerich and R. F. Green. A. B. Morris will be manager of the hardware department and Geo. Stott, of Green Bros., will be in charge of the other departments. The other branch stores of Messrs. Giegerich and Byers at Sandon, Ainsworth and Nelson are not included in the combine, but will be continued as heretofore. The idea is to make Kaslo more of a centre for wholesale business and the new firm will endeavor to supply the wants, and to create a strong commercial connection with retail stores in the surrounding neighborhood. With the capital at command, and with experienced men like the members of the new corporation, it is fully expected that not only will the firm themselves be financially benefited, but that Kaslo generally will find trade brisker.

Preventing Waste in Eggs—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

PREVENTING WASTE IN EGGS.

THE problem of how to prevent the great loss in eggs by waste that occurs during the summer months forms the subject of an article in a recent issue of The New York Produce Review. It has the following to say on the subject:

"One can hardly watch the egg market critically during the summer season—even when it is a reasonably cool one, like the present—without being impressed with the enormous loss to which the egg industry, as a whole, is subjected by waste. It seems as if the methods of egg collecting and marketing must be capable of much improvement when it is considered that of the hundreds of thousands of cases sent from country points into the large cities every week so large a proportion is of inferior quality and so many absolutely worthless as far as table uses are concerned. It is safe to say that during the three months from June 15 to September 15 the receipts of eggs in New York will average to lose four dozen to the case, and if we estimate the receipts during that period at 750,000 cases this means a loss of 2,860,000 dozen, equal to more than 95,000 cases upon which the cost of packages, transportation and other handling would amount to many thousands of dollars besides the enormous loss of value in the eggs themselves.

"Of course, the ordinary course of egg marketing from the farms to the big cities, which is sufficiently quick in the early spring and other cool seasons to preserve good quality, cannot be continued in the heat of summer without occasioning this deterioration and enormous loss. To overcome it would necessitate a considerable change in the methods of country egg movement during the summer and the provision of cool rooms and cool transportation at innumerable points where these are difficult to establish. The deterioration undoubtedly occurs chiefly before the eggs reach the larger collectors who have adequate facilities for the preservation of quality, and if there is ever to be an elimination of the major part of this waste, it would seem that the incentive to greater care and more expeditious marketing must come from those collectors who purchase the goods either from farmers direct or from country merchants who deal directly with the producers.

"Probably the most practical way to make a beginning towards lessening this waste and encouraging an improvement in quality would be for all egg collectors to make a proper discrimination in the price paid for eggs of different qualities and buy all goods subject to grading before the candle. This matter is certainly worthy of consideration and agreement by associations of egg collectors and shippers.

"As for the loss in packages, freight and handling occurring between egg collectors and the large distributing markets, this can be largely eliminated by candling the goods before packing, but in no other way. A good many of the large egg packers have already adopted this plan and succeeded in getting their goods forward free from the serious shrinkage that afflicts uncandled summer shipments; but there are still hundreds of small shippers who pack everything in the cases and who thus bear the loss of many thousand dollars yearly in freight, packages and handling of worthless eggs in addition to the loss of value occasioned by the mixture of good and bad eggs in the same packages."

SAUSAGE STUFFER AND LARD PRESS.

The Enterprise Manufacturing Co., of Philadelphia, Pa., having in mind at all times the improvement of the articles of their manufacture, assert that the "Enterprise" sausage stuffer and lard press as now furnished is undoubtedly the very best machine of the kind ever offered.

Each and every stuffer cylinder is bored true so that when stuffing, there being no space between the edge of the plunger plate and cylinder, the material must pass through the spout.

The lips on the tin cylinder make the handling and emptying of same very easy and prevents burning of the hands which is often the case with cylinders not so fitted.

The new patented spout furnished with each stuffer is vastly superior to the old style, in that the corrugations prevent air entering the casing while stuffing, thus obviating the necessity for puncturing the casing, which must be done when using the old style spout, and assuring the preservation of sausage. The "Enterprise" stuffer is the only one possessing these features.

TO INCREASE CAPACITY.

The Cudahy Packing Co. is to spend half a million dollars in enlarging its plant at Sioux City, Iowa. The beef and hog killing capacity will be increased greatly, so that 1,000 cattle and 10,000 hogs can be slaughtered daily. A corresponding increase in the cold storage capacity will be made.

MEAT INSPECTION EXPENSES IN GERMANY.

The following is from the U.S. consul at Berlin, Germany:

The Frankfort Zeitung, of August 5, contains an analysis of the methods prescribed for assessing official fees for the inspection of lard and meats under the new law of June 3, 1900, which, as has been heretofore explained, will enter into full effect from October 1, this year.

The article deals especially with the additional expenses that will be added to the cost of meats, both native and imported, under the new system, and the following deductions are substantially translated from it as of presumable interest in the United States. In respect to lard, The Zeitung says :

In a shipment of 1,000 tubs of lard, each containing 12.5 kilograms (27.55 lb.) net, 27 tubs will have to be opened, and from the whole number samples of 250 grams (about ½ lb.) will be taken. Six of these samples will then be submitted to examination to prove whether they are pure lard and contain no adulteration or antiseptic preservative. After this inspection each package in the entire shipment will be stamped with two seals. The cost of each analysis will be 10 marks ($2.38), and for sampling and stamping each package 1 pfennig (0.238 cent), which will amount in all to 75 marks ($17.85).

In respect to small pork shoulders, which weigh on an average 3 kilograms (6.6 lb )—that is, 100 pieces weighing 300 kilograms (661 lb.)—the 100 pieces would pay for inspection fees as follows :

| | Marks. | |
|---|---|---|
| (a) For the general inspection..... | 7.50 | = $1.78 |
| (b) Examination for prohibited preserving materials..... | 6.00 | = 1.43 |
| (c) Examination for trichinæ..... | 50.00 | = 11.90 |
| Total..... | 63 50 | = $15.11 |

Or 21 marks ($5) per 100 kilograms (220 lb.) To this must be added the duty, 17 marks ($4.04), so that a grade of meat, the price of which has been during the past five years about 55 marks ($13) per dozen pieces, will have to pay in duty and inspection fees 38 marks ($9.04).

The same is true of the full-grown bacon "bellies," which are imported in pieces of 4 to 5 kilograms (8.8 to 11 lb.) weight, and in the meaning of the meat-inspection law would be classed as pickled meat. As such it will be subject to the same charges as the above-cited shoulders, and will cost in fees for 100 pieces weighing net 450 kilograms (992 lb.):

| | Marks. | |
|---|---|---|
| (a) For general inspection..... | 11.25 | = $2.87 |
| (b) For chemical examination..... | 9.00 | = 2.14 |
| (c) For inspection for trichinæ..... | 50.00 | = 11.90 |
| Total..... | 70.25 | = 16.91 |

Or 15.50 marks ($3.68) per 100 kilograms (220 lb ). To this amount must be added the duty, 20 marks ($4.76)—in all 35.50 marks ($8 44) per 100 kilograms (220 lb.) for duty and importation charges.

The net effect of the new system, as illustrated by these examples, will be to restrict the supply of meat and more or less advance its price in the markets of Germany.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The prices of hogs, beef, lambs and veal are unchanged this week. A good demand is reported for beef and a moderate amount of pork is moving. We quote : Dressed hogs, $9.00 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $6.50 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $8 50 to $9.50 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.50 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 8 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 7 to 8c. Select live hogs are worth $7.25 and fat and lights, $7 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4 25 to $5.

A good active trade is doing in all lines of hog products and the stocks in the hands of the jobbers here are becoming low. Quite a demand is being experienced for lard. We quote as follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10¼c; plate beef, $15 per 100 lb.

MONTREAL.

The tone of the provision market continued firm throughout the week for most lines. Business in lard has been of a satisfactory nature, and in smoked meats the demand has been steady. A fairly active market is reported for fresh-killed abattoir dressed hogs, and the market is steady at somewhat higher quotations than last week, namely, $9 50 per 100 lb. We quote: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail. Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ⅝c.; 5-lb. tins, ¾c.; 3-lb. tins, ⅞c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20 lb. pails, and 11⅛c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $25.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14 50 to $15.00 per bbl.

WINNIPEG.

DRESSED MEATS — The supply of beef is none of the best, as a large percentage of the animals offered are not well fed, the fact being that the best grades are going through for export. We quote: Beef, 6½ to 7c.; veal, 8 to 9c.; mutton, 8c.; lamb, 12½c.

CURED MEATS—This market is a firm and active one. The following are the current prices: Hams, sugar cured, 14½ to 15c. per lb.; breakfast bacon, bellies, 15¼c.; backs, 14c.; spiced rolls, short, 11¾c.; long, 12½c.; dry salt long clear 12c.; dry salt backs, 12½c.; lard, tins, 11⅞c.; 50-lb. tubs, $6.05; 20-lb. pails, $2 50; 10-lb. tins, in cases, $7.60; 5-lb. tins, $7.70; 3-lb. tins, $7.75.

With the coming of cooler days there is an increased demand for sausage.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

American pork has turned higher, but beef is easier. Trade in this line will now improve, as the lumber operators will be in the market for supplies.

HALIFAX.

There is a large quantity of light beef coming into market at present, but as this weight is not profitable for cutting up by the retailers, the price is only 5 to 6c. Heavy beef is in good demand, and is quoted at $8.50 to $9 per cwt. The market is much better stocked now than earlier in the season, when butchers could hardly find enough to supply the regular local demand from day to day. Lamb is plentiful and of good size and quality.

A NEW ASSOCIATION FORMED.

THE first annual convention of the Licensed Victuallers' Association of the Province of Quebec was held in Montreal on September 3 and 4. One of the chief aims of this Association is to form a strong body of licensed victuallers, like that of Ontario.

The morning session of the first day was spent in greetings. Liquor dealers from all over the Province attended.

Laurence A. Wilson, president of the Montreal Association, who has been so prominent in forwarding the interests of the licensed victuallers in Quebec, was unanimously elected president of the Provincial Association, and was accorded a splendid ovation. The vice-president was P A. H. L'Oiseau, and L. A. Lapointe was appointed secretary.

Ald. Lamarche made a short address of welcome to the members, and President L. A. Wilson replied.

Mr. Wilson also welcomed the members from outside points to the city. He proceeded to show the advantages that would accrue from having an association including the whole Province, saying that although the Montreal Licensed Victuallers' Association was the most important body in the Province, yet they could only reckon with the six members of Parliament from that city, when any question concerning their business came up in the House. But with a federation of the trade throughout Quebec Province every one of the 73 members could be reckoned with. And what applied to the dealers of Montreal applied also to every dealer in the Province. With the motto, "An injury to one is the concern of all," the organization could present a front that would make them respected.

A resolution to the effect that "The different branches of the Wine and Liquor Dealers' Association desire to form themselves into a Provincial federation of wine and liquor dealers," was referred to a committee composed of L. J. Primeau, E. D. Barrette, J. Lalonde and the boards of directors of the licensed victuallers of Montreal, St. Henri and Lachine. This committee, on the following morning, reported, in substance, that such a federation should be formed by the various local associations, each of which would continue to control its own members. Any member in good standing of one of the local associations would be considered a member of the Provincial body. The central association should have no power to tax individual members, but should be supported by a tax on the local organization in proportion to membership.

The following resolutions were carried at Thursday's sittings :

That the Quebec License Law be amended so that on presentatiou of a petition asking for the granting of a license, signed by the majority of the electors of a municipality, the municipal council be bound to grant such license provided the applicant conforms to the conditions exacted by the License Law.

That the law limiting licenses according to the figure of the population in the cities of Montreal, Quebec, St. Henri, Ste. Cunegonde be applied to all rural municipalities.

That all licenses should be permanent unless revoked for cause by competent authority.

That this convention has no objection to the appointment of an inspector of licenses.

That this convention recommends to the Provincial Legislature and to Parliament to decree the most severe penalties possible, as well against the illicit manufacture as against the unlicensed sale of intoxicating liquors.

That, among other measures, this convention suggests the public destruction of all alembics or other seized apparatus which has been used for the illicit manufacture of intoxicating liquors.

That fines higher than those now existing be imposed on unlicensed dealers and that those repeating the offence be imprisoned for a long term.

That in order the more easily to reach the unlicensed dealers, articles 99 and 100 of the License Law be amended by striking out the last paragraph of each.

That this convention demand of Parliament, of the Legislature, and of the municipalities a protection proportionate to the high amount paid by the liquor dealers as well for the excise as for the granting of licenses.

That the Government prohibit the entrance into the country of alcohols distilled abroad within less than two years, and not kept during that time in wooden butts.

That in default of such prohibition the manufacturers of this country be allowed to place their alcohols on the market immediately after their distillation.

That the Legislature be asked to establish a new scale for the cost of licenses in the city of Montreal. That all fines collected from delinquents be turned into the Provincial treasury. That the Legislature limit the number of licenses for retail liquor shops.

Copies of these resolutions will be forwarded to the Federal and Provincial Governments.

A luncheon was given in the afternoon at the drill hall, L. A. Wilson presiding. A number of distinguished guests attended, including Hon. Mr. Tarte, Minister of Public Works ; Major Bittinger, United States consul ; Hon. L. P. Brodeur, Speaker of the House of Commons ; Mr. Maurice Perrault, ex-Ald. Brunet, Ald. Lavallee, Ald. Laporte, Ald. Martineau, who sat on the chairman's right, and Ald. Lamarche, representing the city ; Senator J. P. Casgrain, ex-Mayor Prefontaine, Hon. Lomer Gouin, Minister of Public Works for Quebec; F. D. Monk, M.P.; Hon. P. E. Leblanc, ex-Mayor R. Wilson Smith and Lieut.-Col. Gordon on the left.

Messrs. Tarte, Brodeur, Casgrain, Monk, Bittinger, Gouin, Prefontaine, Leblanc, Maxey and Dickey, all delivered short speeches and declared their sympathy with the objects of the Association.

In the afternoon the members attended the horse races, and the evening the members and their families spent in enjoyable car rides around the city.

The officers for the ensuing year are as follows: President, Laurence A. Wilson, Montreal; 1st vice-president, P. A. L'Oiseau, Chambly ; 2nd vice-president, Adelard Gauthier, Three Rivers ; secretary, L. A. Lapointe, Montreal; treasurer, T. A. Chagnon, Montreal ; directors, Louis J. Primeau, Beauharnois ; Domina Martin, Laprairie ; Remi Guinard, Sorel ; Charles Jesmin, Coteau Station ; Henri Veuilleux, Sherbrooke ; J. A. Carrignan, Grandmere ; John J. Boyce, Quebec ; J. T. Lavallee, Quebec ; T. Arpin, Marieville ; J. Tarte, Farnham ; H. Bourque, St. Hyacinthe; M. Carbonneau, M.P., L'Islet ; J. Patenaude, Valleyfield ; M. Poutre, St. Johns, Que.; H. Bonefant, Charlemagne ; M. Gagnon, Riviere du Loup en bas ; Ovide Perrault, St. Jerome ; P. Vincent, St. Henri ; M. Garceau, Magog ; P. Ropel, Joliet. A representative from Levis will be chosen later.

The next convention will be held at Three Rivers in September 1903.

MAJOR C. A. SMYLIE KILLED.

Major Charles A. Smylie, president of The National Liquorice Co., New York, was accidentally shot and almost instantly killed on September 4, by Judge C. B. Starrs, while deer hunting on Blue Mountain Lake, in the Adirondacks.

Deceased was well known to many in the grocery trade in Canada, he having made periodical visits to this country in the interests of his firm. Those who had the privilege of his acquaintance esteemed him highly, and the news of his lamentable death was received by them with profound sorrow.

At the time of his death Major Smylie was 44 years of age. He was in a canoe with his guide when shot, and the cause of the accident is said to have been his return to the lake after he had waved his lantern as a signal to Judge Starrs that he was through hunting.

The remains of the late Major Smylie were interred in New York on Monday, and among those present to pay their last token of respect were some of the Canadian friends of the deceased.

BACK FROM EUROPE.

MR. HENRI JONAS returned on Thursday, September 4, from his annual tour through Europe. This year Mr. Jonas' wife and daughter accompanied him and their trip occupied 10 weeks, visiting in Germany, Holland, Belgium, France and England.

Mr. Jonas was in England during the Coronation and was enthusiastic over the appearance of the troops. What impressed him most while watching the procession was the order maintained by the immense crowd that lined the route.

Mr. Jonas found business in France, in his line, very good, the great difficulty being that exporters of prunes, plums, apricots, etc., found it impossible to obtain sufficient supplies, such was the failure of the crops. The demand for home consumption was almost enough to absorb supplies, while for export there was less than had been the case for years. The smallness of the crops, Mr. Jonas said, was not put down to the somewhat cold weather. No good reason had been given for the failure of the crops. Cherries, however, were plentiful, and also vegetables of most kinds. The demand for peas was far greater than the supply. Buyers in many countries, if able to obtain supplies at all, will, in many cases, have to take very small fruit.

Mr. Jonas himself was very fortunate in securing what he did of the stocks that were held. A personal visit to the market usually results in obtaining some supplies, when continued correspondence by mail would altogether fail.

The sardine pack, he declares, will be smaller than ever this year. The run of fish has been getting smaller and smaller for the past few years from some cause or other. It would not do to say that the fish were becoming extinct, as, very often after many years of small runs, they would be in great numbers for a season or two. It was possible that next year there would be an abundance of sardines. But for the coming year they would surely be scarce and high in price.

Mr. Jonas expects good results from the visit of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to France. If the French-Canadian steamship line can be made an established fact, there is, he says, a good trade to be done. "French business men are anxious to trade with us, and this is the only great obstacle. We could export to France grain, flour, pulpwood, etc., if we had the necessary shipping facilities. At present what France buys from this side of the ocean comes from the United States. That is only because they have proper facilities for transportation between the two countries. The trade in boots and shoes, by the way, is one in which there are great possibilities with France. This is a growing trade between the United States and France, the latter importing an increasing quantity every year of boots and shoes. A French-Canadian line would, I believe, pay after a short time. While in France I heard some talk of it, always favorable to the project, but they were apparently waiting for Sir Wilfrid, to see what his views would be."

A. Poindron, who has recently been appointed to look after Canada's commercial affairs in France, is the right man in the right place, thinks Mr. Jonas. For some time he was the agent for a steamship line in this country, and in this way has had experience, which will benefit him in his new duties. "He is a man, too, who can impress his ideas on the Ministers of the Republic and the commercial men alike."

C.P.R. EXHIBIT.

It was an excellent idea of the Canadian Pacific Railway Co. to establish a building of their own at the Toronto Exhibition. Apart from the fact that the railway's exhibit is much more easily and comfortably inspected in a separate building than it would have been in the crowded main building, it obtains a certain distinction of its own by reason of its isolation.

This year the exhibit has been completely, or almost completely, devoted to illustrating the capabilities of the Canadian Northwest as a grain-producing country. The large, bright building of the company has been artistically decorated with the yellow grain. This has been arranged in a clever manner to cover the walls and to form arches across the ceiling, and it is done in such a way as not to appear the least monotonous. On the long western wall surrounding the C.P.R. coat of arms, grain from Sir William Van Horne's farm at Selkirk is disposed. This exhibit elicited much favorable comment. On tables along the western wing choice specimens of vegetables, pumpkins, beets, turnips and many other varieties were shown. There were also several of the company's handsomely-framed pictures on view, which added to the attractiveness of the interior. Altogether, the C.P.R. building was a decided relief from the confusion surging around other exhibits. The entire charge of the exhibit is in the hands of W. S. Dockrill, who has made an excellent disposal of the ample materials at hand.

ADVERTISING THE WEST.

The Winnipeg Free Press is evidently bound to make the wonders of the Western wheatfields known to the rest of the world. Its latest scheme has been to utilize the post office system to carry samples of Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat all over the country. The little bags containing the wheat are attached to large cards, on one side of which two pictures of the wheatfields are shown, giving a splendid idea, first of the vastness of the fields and secondly of the size of the growing grain. On the reverse side of the card, some facts about Winnipeg, the West and The Free Press itself are supplied.

RECIPROCITY WITH THE UNITED STATES

CANADIANS are aware that there is at present a growing feeling in the United States towards the securing of better trade relations with this country. That is to say, the people of the United States are beginning to feel that their policy of exclusion has about played its part and that, if they are to continue their industrial growth, they must have some consideration for other people.

The citizens of the United States cannot be blamed for any efforts they may make towards conciliating those against whom their tariff has hitherto opposed an unpleasant barrier. It is human nature that even a nation should act to its own advantage, and if, in so doing, it is acting to the advantage of other nations as well, then let the other nations welcome the change in policy, even if they cannot applaud the motive which prompted it.

Speaking at Lake Mohonk in June, Mr. William F. King, former president of the Merchants' Association of New York, came out boldly in support of all around reciprocity. His address has just been published verbatim in the bulletin of the Association, and, as it probably gives the opinion of the average advocate of reciprocity in the United States, a consideration of its main outline should afford some interesting material for thought.

For once we are not informed that the wonderful growth of the United States has been due to "Yankee" push and shrewdness. No—"this nation is the greatest and most prosperous of all of the nations of the world, because here, and here only, has the Golden Rule been the recognized foundation upon which the life of the nation has rested and from which the nation has sprung." It was the Golden Rule that was at the back of the Revolution, and it was the Golden Rule that has guided the destinies of the country ever since. To-day, according to Mr. King, the United States has reached such a height of progress that her manufactories are producing surpluses. For these surpluses, markets must be found elsewhere. That is to say, it is now time for the Golden Rule to be extended to other nations and the tariff wall removed.

As for Canada, that sister country of the Western Hemisphere is "knocking at the doors of Congress," and, presumably, imploring for reciprocity. At one time, it is true, Canada did, figuratively speaking, knock at the doors of Congress, but those days are now past. Canada is day by day becoming less concerned about the United States, and a rejection of reciprocity, that was once viewed as a certainty, may now be considered in the light of a blessing. Therefore, it is not improbable that the state of affairs supposed to be in existence by Mr. King may be reversed in the near future. With the immense resources lying ready for development in this country, Canada is in a position to impose conditions, not just to implore consideration.

Notwithstanding the fact that American motives and methods are ridiculed, yet any overtures for reciprocity that may come from the United States Government will be courteously received here. Canada has long desired to see a restoration of the principle of reciprocity, and it will be some satisfaction to feel that at length the United States is coming round to view the project favorably.

A COMMERCIAL EVOLUTION.

A MOVEMENT of an unique nature is at present on foot in Germany, the result of a conference of the leading citizens of Baden. It takes shape in the foundation of a national school to be opened during the coming fall, in which a practical type of German patriotism is to be taught.

If we are to believe the report of the United States consular agent, the promoters of this school have come to the conclusion that, if Germany is to take a place in the race for the world's commercial supremacy, she must make an effort to keep all expatriated natives in touch and in sympathy with the Motherland. Millions of Germans have crossed the seas, have settled in foreign countries and have eventually become citizens of those countries. As it is too late now for Germans to think of establishing a colonial empire of their own, they intend to do the next best thing and to establish relations with the people of German birth or German descent across the seas.

The promotion of this connection with the Old Country is to be made through the young Germans who are hereafter to pass through the national school. They are to go forth to all parts of the world, where Germans live or may yet live, and set to work to promote a German spirit and a German trade.

No one can deny but that this is a bold step. If, as it is predicted, the wars of the future are to be commercial wars, then mayhap this movement is one of the evolutions of the future method of warfare. But it is questionable if a foreign nation will submit to any such movement. Canada for the Canadians is a kind of motto which is not peculiar to this country alone, and other nations are just as jealous for their own national identity. So long, of course, as there is no interference with the industries of a country, any preference for German-made goods will not be objected to, but the minute rulers begin to find their German population favoring the goods of a foreign nation in preference to their own goods, then a sudden stop will be put to the matter.

The question of commercial supremacy is one of vital importance to an over-populated country like Germany, with but small hope now of securing colonies in which her surplus population can be provided for. The home population cannot live without a demand for their manufactured articles, and, if by reason of the successful countries this demand be diminished, the problem for statesmen to meet is next thing to insoluble.

THE INTERESTS OF THE RETAIL MERCHANT.

WHILE the attendance at the convention of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada in Toronto this week was not as large as it should be, it was sufficiently large to prove that the retail merchants of the country are becoming alive to the importance of the organization. But numbers at best are not always indicative of the utility of an organization of the kind. In commercial bodies as well as in all others it is usually upon the few workers that life and energy depend.

That the Retail Merchants' Association is developing strength and influence must be apparent to everyone who has perused the annual reports of the president and secretary.

This is an age of organization. And, while none need organization more than the retail merchants of the country, no class has been so slow to take advantage of it.

It is not in getting together and attempting to fix prices that lies the centre of usefulness in commercial organizations. That is the most difficult of all aims to accomplish ; and is the rock upon which more than one organization has been wrecked.

The first aim when forming associations among business men, be they manufacturers, wholesalers or retailers, should be the dissipation of jealousies and prejudices, which can only be accomplished by those engaged in particular branches of trade being brought into contact with each other. It is only when these prejudices and jealousies have been dissipated that unity of purpose can be obtained.

It is in the wake of unity that follow the reform of all such abuses as price cutting, long credits, iniquitous devices to catch trade, trading stamps and unfair and unjust business methods generally. Victory is not possible where disruption is prevalent.

The members of the Retail Merchants' Association have contented themselves in getting together and concentrating their forces against evils which elicited their common co-operation. In other words, they have trained their guns upon common foes. Discriminating laws, trading stamps, departmental stores, have all been foes of this type. Had they undertaken to grapple with certain other questions which might appear to more directly concern them, there would possibly have been disruption and not unity and its accompanying strength.

There are many evils against which organizations of business men can turn their hands without trying to meddle in each others method of doing business. There are not enough business men in town and city councils and in Provincial and Dominion Parliaments. And when questions of commercial importance are being discussed by parliamentary or municipal bodies it seems to seldom occur to the mind of anyone that there is a great retail commercial class whose wide interests are entitled to consideration.

It is evident the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is gradually bringing about a reform in this respect. Retail merchants are not being ignored as they once were by political or any other interests. And just as their organization becomes more perfected will their influence in matters relative to the commercial welfare of the country become more potent.

FOUR-SCORE.

MR. J. A. MATHEWSON, of the firm of J. A. Mathewson & Co., importers of teas, coffees, spices, etc., Montreal, celebrated his 80th birthday on Monday, September 1. The occasion was made one of great felicitation by many of his descendants, relatives and friends who were at Little Metis, Que., to tender him their hearty congratulations.

Mr. Mathewson's business is one of the foremost of its kind in Canada, having ramifications in Europe, China and Japan. He was the first to import Japan tea into Canada, an event that happened about 50 years ago.

In spite of the attention required in building up such a large business, Mr. Mathewson has found time to devote to other things, and he is known as one of the most earnest and conscientious church-workers in Montreal, few laymen of the Methodist Church having done more for that body than he.

His wife died a short time ago, but not before their golden wedding was celebrated on Tuesday, August 10, 1897. On this occasion, together with many friends, their five sons, with their wives and 14 grandchildren, participated in the interesting proceedings.

THE GENTLEMAN-MERCHANT.

MERCHANTS now-a-days are so liable to become engrossed in the mere mechanism of business that they become indifferent to the many smaller qualities besides business ability which go to make their business successful. Business ability is the main essential, but, if it is not supplemented by attention to the lesser details, it is not of much avail.

All the lesser attributes may be summed up in the word gentlemanliness. This word includes everything and excludes nothing. By a gentleman is not meant the individual who is dubbed a gentleman by society, and who in many cases is no more a gentleman than the seediest looking tramp on the road, but it is the man who sums up in his nature those qualities which make him respected and honored by all who meet him, that is the true gentleman.

With this basis of division, no retail merchant, however small his shop or however shabby his appearance, may be a gentleman-merchant. There are merchants who always show the utmost courtesy to customers but whose clerks lead dogs' lives. These cannot belong to the gentleman class, nor can their discourtesy to their employes remain long without its reward. Courtesy always pays well, and courtesy does good to good clerks and can do little harm to poor ones.

Then, many merchants have a way and a most discourteous way of receiving commercial travellers and other agents who are not customers. If it involves the payment of money or the spending of half a minute in conversation, they believe in making the unfortunate client feel as miserable as possible. They fail to realize that the agent's time is, mayhap, as valuable as their own, and they go on laughing and joking with cronies or working at their books till the unfortunate agent is so worked up that he swears to get even with the merchant some time.

Of course, many agents are undeserving of attention and the merchant may act thus in self-defence, but it is a pity that the worthy should suffer with the unworthy. Let the gentlemanly spirit predominate in every action and it will be found that undeserving agents can be turned down in a gentlemanly manner much more severely than in an ungentlemanly manner.

THE RETAIL MERCHANTS OF CANADA.

THIRD ANNUAL MEETING IN TORONTO.

THE Retail Merchants' Association of Canada held their third general convention in the fine Temple Building at Toronto, on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 9 and 10. The opening session took place on Tuesday afternoon. John Hargreaves, the president of the Association, was in the chair, and Secretary E. M. Trowern was on hand in charge of his department. The hall was tastefully decorated with flags and mottoes, such as "Organized to protect the commercial interests of all classes of the retail trade of Canada"; We want the golden rule on every counter."

President Hargreaves welcomed the visitors with a few words and introduced to the assemblage Mayor Howland, whom he said had always been a friend of the retail merchants.

The Mayor was pleased at having an opportunity of greeting those men who had come in from parts of the country far and near. He recognized that it was of great advantage to them to meet periodically in convention together, such as this, to discuss public affairs of importance to them. There was much to hope for from such meetings. One of the

was to prevent any tradesman from obtaining any advantage over the other. Their condition was subject to change, sometimes for the worse, often for the better. It would be much to the advantage of some corporations if the retailer were abolished. But the retail merchant was helpful to the general public in more ways than one. He was a constant source of credit to his friends, and while the credit system had its disadvantages it had also its advantages. In times of distress and trouble the retail merchant would supply all that was necessary for the sustenance of his friends. He was in his section of the country, supplying nourishment to its surrounding populace. The bank would not do as he did, neither would the departmental stores, for if they did they would have to change their system and this would place them on an equal footing with the retailer and they would not be to him such a serious competitor. The retail store was always a centre of enterprise and development, and so was entitled to a fair share of the public interest in struggling for its rights.

Alderman J. J. Ward, Chairman of the Reception Committee, was then introduced. Himself, a retail merchant, he was pleased to welcome the retailers of the Province of Ontario assembled in convention. They were the and effected the abolition of trading stamps. They had done excellent work in combatting fake schemes and false business methods. Forty per cent. of the taxes in Toronto were paid by the retail merchants, and so they were entitled to some influence in its affairs. The same held true about the retail merchants all over the Province.

DISAPPOINTED WITH ATTENDANCE

Rev. A. L. Geen, president of the Belleville section, was disappointed in one way with the attendance, the smallness of which he attributed to the selfishness of those who stayed at home. They, down in Belleville, had been struggling along for some time when they were visited by Secretary Trowern, who came at an opportune moment. They found the merchants of Belleville had no faith in such an organization and were lukewarm. They successfully fought the trading-stamp people, who were very bitter opponents. In other respects they had not succeeded as well as he thought they should. They would have a good meeting and things would go along swimmingly for a time. Then the interest of the members of the Association would weaken. When he went back he hoped to be able to arouse their interest again during the fall. The merchants of Belleville paid a large proportion of the taxes there, he concluded.

Mr. John Hargreaves, Toronto, Retired President.

Mr. Geen is a druggist as well as a clergyman.

APPRECIATION OF MAYOR HOWLAND.

J. G. St. Leger, in a few words, expressed his gratitude to the Mayor and Alderman Ward for their warm welcome to the delegates. The Mayor, he said, had shown himself to be a large man in every way. He had placed himself in the position of a country merchant and spoken from that standpoint. The city council, as the Mayor, was always willing to assist people who desired and needed assistance. He concluded by moving a vote of thanks, which was seconded by Samuel Corrigan, and carried with loud applause.

EXPERIENCES IN THE WEST.

B. G. Davis, president of the Windsor branch, took the floor and gave their experience in the west. They had formed a local association 12 years ago, which had lasted for a short time and then died a natural death. No attempts were made to revive the association till a short time ago, when they began organizing again. Secretary Trowern had then come along and rendered them valuable assistance, so that from then out things progressed satisfactorily and the membership had increased until it now embraced 45 merchants engaged in the retail trade. They were taking steps to bring into the organization merchants from the surrounding towns and villages and from now on looked for much prosperity to attend their labors. They had had a hard fight in getting The Trading Stamp Company put out of business. It had taken six months for them to effect this reform. At last they had gotten the members of the city council on their side and the anti-trading stamp measure was placed on the statute book of Windsor after they had aroused the interest of nearly all the merchants in their favor. They hoped to have successful meetings in the long evenings of the fall and were determined to keep up and expand the organization.

BELIEVED IN ORGANIZING.

Ex-Mayor Bond, of Toronto Junction, believed in organizing. He had found that it was co-operation which had made the British army so powerful and had seen that every other body were binding themselves together in corporations, keeping in mind this principle. The trade unions organized under a central executive, and he believed that it was advantageous for the retail merchants so to do. They thus could more effectively further their own projects. He had heard that all the wise men came from the East. That is why there are so many in the west. They, in Toronto Junction, had found that some merchants had kept open nearly all night and were at business again sometimes at daybreak. He had tried this method of doing business and found that he became thinner and thinner until he had to quit it entirely. The Junction Association was now trying to have enacted a law enforcing early closing. There were about 40 merchants in the town. The rest tapered down until you could not tell what line of business they were in. He was a grocer, and the best he could say was "Grow, Sir."

LETTERS OF REGRET.

Letters of regret were read from a number of wholesale merchants, who, on account of the Exhibition rush, were unable to be present.

PRESIDENT HARGREAVE'S ADDRESS.

President John Hargreaves addressed the meeting as follows :

Fellow merchants and Members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, allow me to draw your attention to the fact that the origin of our Association dates from 1897. Previous to that time the Retail Merchants' Association of Toronto had been energetically engaged in an endeavor to lay before the merchants of Toronto the advantages that can only result from a thorough combination of our scattered forces, and the necessity for an organized effort to protect the interests of honest and fair trading in the commercial community of Toronto.

We quickly decided that Toronto was not the commercial world, but that retail merchants outside of Toronto were similarly situated, and were just as influential and equally as needy, and that complete success must come only with the co-operation of merchants in all the towns and cities and villages in Canada. In 1899 canvassers started to work to establish the organization of an association of merchants for the Dominion, and, in November, 1899, the first convention of the Association assembled in this building. The work since then has progressed and improved, until to-day we have an Association that with wise and judicious control should wield greater influence than any other organization in Canada and secure a just and equitable recognition of the rights and interests of all those engaged in retail trading in the Dominion of Canada.

We admit that Toronto does not possess all the intelligence and power of retail merchants, but we also hold that for many reasons evident to you all Toronto is destined to be the core or centre from which must spring the channels or forces necessary to effectively and successfully secure a just recognition of our rights and objects.

This Association is largely indebted therefore for the success that has been achieved, to the Toronto branch, and the very efficient and energetic executive officials that have composed that branch. They have labored in season and out, have eschewed politics in any form from all meetings and discussions, and have piously refrained from any religious controversy ; but to my mind it occurs that the Association, if it has any orthodox religious creed, leans strongly to the Church of England, from the fact that in thinking on its past life we may truly say that we have left undone many things that we ought to have done, and because we have been very slow in passing the collection plate around.

The general working methods and plans by which we have endeavored to promote and advance the various interests of our members will be fully outlined in the report of our secretary, but I may be pardoned for stating this opinion, that our organization is unapproached by any similar commercial organization in America. We want a branch in every city, town and village in Canada. We wish every merchant to be a member of our Association, and to aid us in our efforts to elevate and educate higher commercial aims and objects. We require the brightest intellects, the most forceful energy, and the enormous influence, possessed only by the merchants of Canada, to unite in one solid body, to enable us to demonstrate our aims, and to enable us to demand from any power a just and fair recognition and our desire only for fair play and no favor. Fellow merchants, this means you must be ready and willing with your time and money. You must give freely of both. Can I convince you of this fact ? The time and money that you devote to this work is just that much capital in an investment that will surely realize you greater profits than you require on any merchandise you retail over your counters ; you therefore require to zealously watch and guard the investment ; it is thoroughly secure ; if you don't receive the returns this year, they must come, and the more loyal you are to the cause, the larger and quicker will be the returns that are required. Our duty should be for each to resolve to do all that we can and to leave as little as possible for the other fellow to do.

Our Association has done some vigorous work. We have had great expectations, and have put forth efforts in which we have not succeeded, but I may truly say that the results, when calmly considered, are very satisfactory, and should stimulate us to expend more energy and more influence at our work.

A very full outline of our plans and objects was laid down by the able chairman of our last convention. I may say that we have endeavored to assist in carrying out those plans, and to keep the same objects continually before us. We stated then that our plan was to unite all classes of merchants in our organization with one common object, the protection of the individual merchant against common enemies, such as capitalists, corporations, departmental stores, misrepresentation, adulteration, false weights, unfair taxation, false advertising, and any and all systems that are injurious to the retail merchant. Every one of such enemies can be reduced and placed upon their proper level only by a perfect organization, and by the same organization and co-operation only can we expect to accomplish reforms and improvements in fair and honest methods of retail trading.

We have petitioned the Legislature of Ontario on different occasions, and have requested amendments to the Assessment Act, an Act asking that corporations or incorporated companies be not allowed to perform acts and escape punishment for which an individual can be summarily punished under the Criminal Code.

To prohibit and make illegal the carrying on of departmental stores, to tax departmental stores on an increasing scale, to abolish trading stamps, coupons, and such. To place a law on the statutes making it a criminal offence to fraudulently advertise goods, to compel departmental stores to pay their fair share of the taxation.

We have not succeeded to the extent that we desire in all our attempts, but we have abolished the trading stamp iniquity, we have showed the Government that personal property of retail merchants is most unfairly taxed, we have had the Transient Trading Act and the Pedlars' License Act improved. I believe we have convinced the Government that departmental stores are a curse to the country.

Let me ask the hearty and energetic assistance of merchants outside the city where a departmental store is thriving, for "Canada has only one greatest store," let me request your assistance and co-operation in a struggle for self-preservation against these departmental stores for the following reasons :

Their methods have destroyed that confidence which should exist in a business community of the entire Province, and have educated the public to believe that all kinds of deception are necessary to successfully retail merchandise over a counter. They have reduced the value of labor, and have destroyed the purchasing powers of many classes, thereby affecting all other classes.

They have lowered the moral standard of commercial life ; they have concentrated the business into one small circle, and the power into the hands of very few. They are practically endeavoring to concentrate the business of the Province into one city or centre. Now, I ask the merchants of Toronto, Is it in the interests of the city of Toronto that there should be one huge prosperous financial concern in one small circle, and a large portion of the outside business surroundings at a standstill, or in almost a condition of decay ? I ask merchants from outside towns, Is it in the interests of the Province of Ontario that there should be one city in it in which there are a few huge prosperous corporations, thriving and fattening at the expense of all the outside towns and villages ?

Pardon me for devoting so much time and space to departmental stores, but they are the root and factor of the most of the injurious conditions that surround us to-day, and if they prosper in the city they will be imitated in the country. Then the disaster will spread like smallpox, and honest and fair trading merchants will be considerd unprogressive, behind the times, old fogy, etc. Our Association aims at building up, not destroying, at elevating, not degrading. We do not desire to have every business man considered a small retailer, nor do we wish to discourage manufacturers, but we do object to manufacturers and large corporations and companies receiving unfair advantage over other citizens, by their system of pulling down and killing out the small business so that they may grow larger and prosper. Our contention is that a thorough organization of prosperous retail merchants, doing business on fair legitimate methods, scattered throughout city, Province and Dominion, is a power that will tend to elevate the commercial and moral condition of the country, while, on the contrary, business methods as introduced and practised by departmental stores are comparatively, in direct ratio, disastrous and degrading to the country from all stand points. We want a free and independent people, free and independent farmers, free and independent merchants, free and independent mechanics; not a few great landowners, a few merchant princes, etc. We object to a return of the old-time customs, where one man has the money, the power, the control, and the people are his tenants and hirelings.

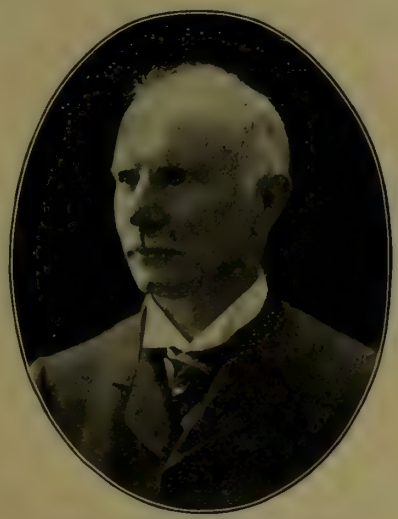
Allow me to draw attention to one special feature of work done by our Toronto Association, and for which the drug section deserve a large measure of credit. I refer to what we call the Price Restrictive Plan, and as the plan is of vital importance to all branches of trade, I earnestly trust that every section here represented will consider the details of that plan. The plan has been tested, it is workable, and its legality is thoroughly established in Great Britain and the United States as well as Canada. Great credit is due The Ozone Company of Toronto, and The Shredded Wheat Company who have adopted the plan and are putting forth every possible effort to prove that the plan is all that we claimed for it. Let me urge every retailer to assist to his utmost any article honestly put on the market under this plan.

There is a necessity at this juncture for defining or classifying the different lines of business so that we can legally define what is a wholesaler, who is a grocer, etc. This is a question that interests merchants to-day, and the time may come when success to our hopes and plans will depend on a proper legal classification of retail and wholesale merchandising. Our Association has outspread our calculations, and is now at a stage in which it is important to revise the by laws and constitution governing our work. I hope a competent committee will be appointed who will devote due consideration and endeavor to improve and perfect our organization.

A finance committee should be appointed, composed of members who can and will devise ways and means by which our Association may hereafter be in that happy financial condition that the question of money need never be a consideration that will deter us from undertaking any work deemed advisable and advantageous to our Association.



I would recommend that active committees be appointed on organization, its extension—legislative committee and committee on resolutions—and that the result of the deliberations of these various committees may so facilitate and perfect the carrying on of our good work that our successors may convene here next year with a record of greater achievements, greater and brighter prospects and a very large surplus, so that our most serious undertaking will be a consideration of properly and wisely investing the surplus funds of the Association.

I beg to thank the members of the Executive for the work done during the year, and in which they most faithfully and earnestly assisted. I must specially mention the consistent, persevering and energetic work done by our secretary, Mr. Trowern. We are largely indebted to him for the proud position we occupy to-day; indeed, were it not for him, I doubt if there would be a Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. I will not say that he is perfection, nor that our Association is perfection, but I believe that both he and the Association only require more encouragement and assistance to bring them to a state of perfection.

Gentlemen,—I thank you for the honor conferred on me nearly three years ago. If I have not been a very profitable officer, I trust I have always been faithful and earnest, and I hope my successor may be more worthy and competent, that he may be able to grace and honor the position as I have not been able to do, and if he is as sincere as I have endeavored to be our organization will prosper and the high position of excellency at which we aim will surely be attained.

SECRETARY TROWERN'S ADDRESS.

Secretary E. M. Trowern followed with his report. Mr. Trowern dealt chiefly with the doings of the Toronto branch of the Association. He was proud to say that they had at their back men who felt that the retail trade should be placed on a higher level. He traced the history of the Retail Merchants' Association of

Mr. W. B. Rogers, Toronto, Treasurer.

Canada from its commencement in 1897 until the present time. The first work to which the organization had set itself about to do was to see that the streets of Toronto were properly cleaned. Before that time these streets were in a filthy condition, but some of the merchants appeared before the city council and caused that body to take measures for the proper cleaning of the streets. They found that the departmental stores were not sufficiently taxed and that the smaller merchants bore an unequal and unfair share of the taxation of the city. They had set themselves about to remedy this state of affairs, and now the large corporations had to pay their share of the taxes as well. They had got the Provincial Government to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate into their charges as to the taxation of the same departmental stores. But the report of this commission had not been brought down yet. They had also caused to be passed the Exhibition by-law and had obtained representation on the Toronto Exhibition Board for two of their members. They had inspected the books of the Board and found that everything was conducted in a businesslike way. They had supported the appeals of the Yonge street merchants against their taxation and had opposed the election of the Board of Control from the whole city. Through their efforts, mainly, the present Mayor and several of the aldermen were elected. Ald. J. J. Ward had been by them placed on the Exhibition Board. They had appealed against the Merchants' Exchange, a campany which was working in Hamilton, and had the appeal carried to the courts. When the magistrate had decided adversely against them (in this matter), they had appealed against his judgment. They had considered the merits of the metric system and were urging its adoption. They had appealed against the Italians being allowed certain privileges around the Customs house, which other merchants were not accorded. They were at present making every effort to have the assessment commissioner's department thoroughly investigated. Instead of having "one commissioner, who did not understand his duties at all," they would try and get an assessment committee of their own that would be alive to the business of the city. They had formed the Retail Merchants' Association into 13 sections of the trade whereby they were enabled to better transact the particular business pertaining to each trade. During the summer they had had a number of excursions to points outside the city, picnics, and a moonlight excursion.

TOOK THEIR CUE FROM THE UNIONS.

W. B. Rogers, president of the Toronto branch, made a vigorous address. He was firmly convinced of the benefits of organization among the members of the trade. It was necessary to do this to protect their interests. For a long time the retail merchants had been separate units, with no cohesion amongst them. It was the retailers of Toronto who first formed the idea of forming the Association. They drew their model from the labor unions, who had quickly perceived the benefits of co-operation, under one central head, into a compact body. The cutting of prices by the merchants was one of the evils they had to contend against, and they were now feeling their way towards a condition of affairs that would better things in general. He praised the Price Restrictive Plan, which, he said, showed that something could be done to improve their positions as merchants. Their duty was to patronize Canadian manufacturers and build up the Dominion, making it a mighty nation.

The evening and morning of the next day was taken up with the meetings of various committees and several sections of the Association. The press was excluded from these gatherings.

The concluding session on Wednesday night of the retail merchants was held in the Temple Building, with President John Hargreaves in the chair.

DELEGATES' EXPENSES.

Mr. Hargreaves attached considerable importance to the fact that members were present from as far west as Fort William and Windsor. While the attendance was not large it was representative. The merchants should impress upon everyone with whom they come in contact that they form an Association. Provision should be made to provide the delegates with money to pay their expenses. A good many representatives were present from a distance at their own expense, which, in some cases, was considerable. He was of the opinion that some way might be thought out whereby the expenses could be supplied without much trouble. He was strongly in favor of the PRICE RESTRICTIVE PLAN.

The only man who could control the retail prices of the goods was the manufacturer. This had been demonstrated both in Great Britain and the United States, and after carefully consulting their solicitor, they found that it would be workable here and was legal in every way. Its conditions are that the manufacturers are to only sell to the retailer who agrees to dispose of his goods at a price to be fixed by the agreement. What they wanted was fair play and no favor. He was hot and was opposed to any system that was wrong. He advised outside merchants to keep their eyes on the e stores, which through their mail-order system were reaching out everywhere in the country and taking away trade that rightfully belonged to the small retailer. One departmental store alone paid $17,000 duty on one order they had received through the Customs house.

THE NEW OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected :

Central President—G. J. St. Leger, Toronto.

Central Vice-President—Rev. A. L. Geen, Belleville, Ont.

Central 2nd Vice-President—B. G. Davis, Windsor, Ont.

Central Treasurer—W. B. Rogers, Toronto.

Central Secretary—E. M. Trowern, Toronto. (Accl.)

Mr. Hargreaves had declined to stand for re-election as president. Business matters and his health required that he should retire from the position that he held. So the election was proceeded with and resulted as above.

THE HAMILTON ASSOCIATION

A. M. Ballantine, Hamilton, said that the Hamilton branch of the Association was prospering well. Some merchants, it was true, were holding back, watching for results before they would join the new organization, but things looked bright for a prosperous future for the Association there. He was pleased at the election of Mr. St. Leger to the presidency. He would make a good business president, and would take much interest in the Association. Mr. Ballantine, himself, is a grocer, and he found that section prosperous at his home, and they, in Hamilton, were determined to succeed.

RESOLUTIONS RECOMMENDED.

The Committee on Resolutions recommended that resolutions be adopted as follows :

1. That the metric system be adopted and first taught in the public schools so that it should afterwards be brought into general use.

2. That the present fee system in the inspection of weights and measures be abolished.

3. That the railways should reduce their rates to the members of the Association when travelling.

4. That the fees for the collection of debts in the Division Court be reduced.

5. That the Price Restrictive scheme elsewhere set forth be more widely adopted.

6. That the Government should initiate legislation to amend the Insolvency Act.

7. That the Association was in favor of a revision of the Toronto Peddling License By-Law.

8. That corporations should be made amenable to the law the same as individuals, and that all stamps and coupons should be redeemed at their face value.

9. That the false stamping of goods should be prevented.

10. That legislation should be brought about to bring the departmental stores to time.

11. That amendments should be made to the Assessment Act.

12. That Canadian merchants should be encouraged to buy and handle Canadian-made goods as far as possible.

13. That goods of Canadian manufacture should be prevented from being slaughtered on the bargain counter.

14. That the Transient Traders' Act be amended.

W. B. Rogers said that it was an act of patriotism, too, for Canadian merchants to handle only goods of Canadian make. It was in the interests of all the retail merchants to view this matter from a selfish standpoint as well, for it would greatly increase the home market if they should unite to handle only Canadian goods.

WISE WORDS FROM NEW PRESIDENT

J. G. St. Leger, the new president, thanked the Association for his election and said that he would do his best to look after their interests. But there was a danger of their being too selfish. The interests of their customers should be the interests of the retailer. By giving a man honest measure and value for his money merchants could make their businesses prosperous. The Association need not be too selfish. They could debate on Imperial defence and other matters as well as the Board of Trade. We ought to use home-made goods, but in his opinion the proper way to do this was not to put a high tariff on things. "If we put high ideals before our workmen we can secure a proper share of trade for our home-made goods." He cited a case where he bought a consignment of shoes from the United States, which he was able to sell more rapidly and yet make a larger profit on than a consignment of the same value of shoes made in the Dominion. He believed that arbitration should be made compulsory. There were a number of other things that should be remedied. "Every man is our brother and God is our father." This, he said, should ever be borne in mind by the members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada.

LEGISLATION NECESSARY FOR DEFENCE

Rev. A. L. Geen believed that it was necessary to have legislation to defend their interests. The druggists, doctors of medicine, lawyers, all had legislation. "What would we have done without legislation, for, by it we secured the abolition of trading stamps ?" They had a good organizer in Mr. Trowern, and they would go home with a determination to improve their own association. They would better be able to help one another after this convention.

MISSIONARY WORK

B. G. Davis said they would have to do some missionary work when they went home. From his short experience in Toronto, he thought there was lots of room for this same work there.

W. B. Rogers said they would be glad to receive as much help as would be forthcoming from outside.

APPRECIATION OF MR. TROWERN

E. M. Trowern, the central secretary, was thankful for their kindness in continuing him in the secretaryship. He would stay with them until he had accomplished what he started out to do. They had gained much from this convention by having many merchants present from outside the city, like Mr. Davis, from Windsor, and Mr. Geen, from Belleville, men from two points a long distance apart. He believed this was the beginning of the greatest mercantile organization in the Dominion. Their motto should be "This Association expects every man to do his duty."

The next convention of the Association will be held in Hamilton.

"How's this, my son ?" Here is a big bill for sporting goods. Don't you remember I expressly ordered you not to contract any more debts without my knowledge ?"

"Certainly, father, but I haven't contracted any debts. On the contrary, I've expanded them."

HINTS FOR PROGRESSIVE RETAILERS.

HOW SUCCESS CAME TO ONE MAN.

NOT very many years ago, according to an exchange, D. H. Church was an itinerant watchmaker—a very good workman to be sure, but just a plain artisan. Of a roving nature, he left the east, where he was born half a century ago, and sought fortune in the West.

His bent was for mechanics; he liked to tinker with machines. In St. Paul he met a watchmaker named Gridley, from who he learned his trade. While working at his bench one day Gridley stopped to examine a watch Church had been at work on.

"Is that the best you can do?" he asked.

"Mavbe I might do a little better," replied Church.

"Then, young man," said Gridley, "you just begin and do it all over again, and remember this: Never leave a piece of work until you have done the best you know how to do."

The great watchmaker says that he began to achieve success from that day. He has always done his best.

Leaving St. Paul he drifted about the West, working at his trade. He wanted to travel and found a place with a watch company as an "advance agent" for its make of watches.

He was to travel through the West ahead of the sales agent, proclaiming the praises of their wares. After four weeks on the road he went back to the Chicago office and turned in the watches he was carrying.

"Here's your truck," he said to the manager. "I am tired of trying to make other folks believe things about these watches that I don't believe myself."

"Could you make any better watches?" asked the manager, jokingly.

"If I couldn't I wouldn't call myself a watchmaker."

"I'll take you at your word. I'll set you to work in the shops to see what you can do."

That was 20 years ago. Mr. Church had not been long in the factory before it was found that he was a rare genius. He told his employers that their watches cost too much to make. They were spending too much for raw material and their wage account was extravagant.

"Give me a free hand in this factory," he said, "and I'll save you money."

So Mr. Church was made mechanical superintendent of the works and told to go ahead and do whatever he liked.

He saw that men were performing purely mechanical operations that might better be done by machines, which could work more rapidly and more accurately.

He set himself to the task of devising the wonderful automatons that have made him the first watchmaker in America, if not in the world. Mr. Church is constantly at work making more wonderful machines, and more than 150 watchmaking machines bear his name and the stamp of his genius.

So rapidly does he work that the machine shop where his tools are made is five years behind his designs.

USE AND ABUSE OF FLOORS.

Snap Shots has something to say on the use to which merchants put their floors. It starts off in this way:

Say, brother, what is the floor of a retail grocery for, any way? We are all supposed to know what an ordinary floor is for, but it would make some men guess to know why some floors, and dirty ones at that, are used as counters and tables by some retailers. Things to eat should not be handled and thrown around like a piece of iron or a bar of soap—a little care and attention in such matters would help your business. Why will you persist in making your customers walk all over everything in your store?

Why will you continue to use the floor as a counter or table? Why will you put down on the floor the order that you put up?

We have seen in hundreds of stores the vicious and dirty habit of clerks filling orders and throwing the packages right down on a dirty floor that has not been scrubbed for months—why will you allow packages of tea, crackers, coffee, spices—everything to be strewn all over the floor? Why let this thing go on? Why let your customers see such a slovenly way of doing business? Why use the floor at all?

Drygoodsmen and shoe dealers do not fill their orders on the floor. They have a counter for that purpose. Have you?

Did it ever strike you, what an impression this method of doing business must make upon your customers?

Do you think it adds to your prestige as a dealer in fine goods? Would you like to have things that you are going to eat thrown and dragged over a nasty, dirty floor. Not even in a box or delivery basket. What do you gain by such methods? What is the floor for? Certainly not for that.

TURNING OVER STOCK.

How often should a retail merchant turn over his stock? One of the best firms in Cleveland, Ohio, turns over the value of the stock twelve times every year, says American Grocer. Others do not turn their stock more than five or six times a year, and that in some localities may be good work. The trouble with many retailers is in carrying too heavy a line of slow-selling goods. If they would make frequent purchases, the stock would be kept in better condition, be under more thorough supervision, and turned quicker.

The art of display has much to do with increasing sales, and therefore, windows, counters, and shelving should all be so arranged as to make them silent but very effective salesmen. There cannot be too much store space, nor too great an effort to so arrange the stock as to invite visitors and make such an impression that they will go away and talk about the store. Goods in sight move faster than goods out of sight, even though they may be the best known proprietary articles. There are some retailers who make it imperative to rearrange show-windows every two or three days. If one is deficient in that knowledge which leads to happy combinations in color, to artistic forms, and effective grouping, they will find it pays to hire a professional window dresser.

But, says our friend in a small country town or restricted city district: "I cannot afford that expense, and lacking taste and style, I jam anything that comes handy into the window and take my chances." Possibly such a retailer could invite hints from some of his customers, whose artistic sense is manifest in dress or the furnishing of their homes. Once get them interested and the novelty of assisting in fixing a window display will become a matter of pride.

Always keep in mind that the rapid turning of stock means greater profit and that display is a very great factor in securing the desired result.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, September 11, 1902.

GROCERIES.

IN the wholesale trade groceries continue active this week. A good many buyers from the country have taken advantage of the low railway rates to come to the city on purchasing trips, and the sales of the wholesale grocery firms show quite an improvement. The buying is well distributed along the several lines of groceries and prices are stationary, the only change being in Fairbanks' lard, the prices of Boar's Head and cottolene easing off ½c. The salmon markets keep strong and the inquiry continues active at the prospect of further advances in prices. The sugar market is also active and unchanged. An improvement has taken place in the demand for syrups, and quite a few inquiries are reported from the lumber camps. The spice market is experiencing moderate activity, there being quite a trade in pickling spices, but the lateness of the crops this year has kept back trade to some extent. In teas, Ceylons continue strong and the demand for them is good. Very little Japans are offering at present. Shipments of the new crop of Valencia raisins are now two weeks on their way and should be on the market here in the course of a couple or three weeks' time.

CANNED GOODS.

During the week nothing new has come to light in the vegetable situation. The prices of peas and corn are very high, and the factories continue to claim that they are not in a position to completely fill their orders in these lines. There are no tomatoes offering, but the new crop seems to be yielding much better than was expected, and so supplies of the new article ought soon to be obtainable. The quotations this week are unchanged and are as follows Peas, 82½c. up; corn, 80c. up and tomatoes, $1.15 up. In salmon, nothing new has come from the Coast beyond confirmation of the shortage in the pack, which seems to be a fact. This has stimulated buying on the local market and the prices are firm at the advance of last week. Other lines of potted meats and fish are quiet. We quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES

There continues to be a moderate demand for green Rio coffees on the local market, and trade in other lines is quiet. The European markets are reported to be quite strong for this product and in New York a better tone dominated the market, resulting in more active speculative buying induced by the stronger outside markets and vague rumors to the effect that the additional cable advices reported unfavorable prospects for coffee. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7⅞c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

No improvement has occurred in trade in this line. New-crop nuts are due on the local market in about a month. On the outside markets several descriptions of nuts are showing stronger features. Tarragona almonds are firm in tone, owing to the lateness of the crop of this year, and the feeling in Brazilian nuts is strong. The prices of shelled almonds are firmly maintained.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

On the local market trade continues steady in rice and tapioca at unchanged prices. The tone of the outside rice markets are stronger, owing to reports from the South of a slight decrease in the movement of the river crop and a slight advance in prices last week. We quote: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

More activity is being shown on the local syrup market by reason of inquiries which are coming in from the lumbering districts for the lumber camps, as lumbering operations will commence in a few weeks. A steady trade is doing in molasses. The demand for black strap on the outside markets continues moderate and the prices hold steady. The market outside for syrups is active and strong.

SPICES

A fair amount of business is reported in spices, the chief call being for the pickling varieties, but the lateness of the crop this year has had the effect of retarding trade a little. Cable advices report the foreign markets firm for cloves.

SUGAR

The tone of the local sugar market is steady and the demand is moderately active. London cable advices report a firm and fairly steady market for beet sugar and the United States raw sugar market continues to hold firm, but the prices of beet sugar have a tendency to sag. Refiners were willing to make large purchases on the basis of 3 7-16c. for centrifugal, 96 deg. test, but were not willing to make additional purchases on the basis of 3¼c., it being understood that sugar for shipment from Cuba was on offer at that basis and not taken. Regarding the growing crop in the United States it is estimated that the yield will be under 236,000 tons, which is less than looked for last June. Some factories there have already begun operations, and others will soon follow, so that the crop will be coming to market in a large way by the middle of October, at which time the requirements for meltings by the refineries at the four ports will be smaller than at present.

The tone of the refined sugar market in the United States continues firm and business is active. A good run of orders is reported, but refiners and brokers state that the demand was not so heavy as it was some days ago, the extensive buying of last week evidently protecting many of the trade against their requirements for the balance of the month. The consumptive demand for all classes of sugars was heavy and refiners were hard at work melting the sugar, but they are becoming badly oversold and are at present from one to three weeks behind in their shipments.

TEAS.

There has been no change in teas locally during the week, the tone of the market holding steady. If anything, there has been a little improvement in the demand for Ceylon greens and blacks, which are strong and in good demand. Japans also are firm, but very little are offering. Reports by mail from Kobe, Japan, state that owing to a considerable falling off in the arrivals of teas at that point a steadier feeling was imparted to the market, giving the prices a rising tendency. The falling off in the arrivals was due to the goods hitherto being hurried to the market in consequence of the favorable prices ruling and a sudden increase in the demand for home consumption. Stocks of desirable descriptions of medium and lower grades were nearly all disposed of. The unfavorable weather and exceptional rainfalls of the summer experienced in Japan much interfered with the budding of the leaf of the third-crop teas, limiting the production. The stocks now consist generally of undesirable descriptions of low-grade teas, and it appears that the season is likely to close without any decline in the existing prices.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Advices from the markets of Greece report that the currant market has eased off a little. The demand, locally, is moderate. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c. and Patras, 6¼ to 7c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The local market is about cleaned out of these. Shipments of new crop, two weeks on the way, are expected to arrive in about three weeks. Selects are quoted at 8½ to 9c. per lb.

DATES.—Little demand is being experienced for dates and the market is unchanged. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The market for prunes is featureless, and our quotations are now as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Trade in these is experiencing the usual dullness prevalent at this time of the year. We quote: 11 to 14c. per lb. for peaches and 13 to 17c. for apricots. New Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes, and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

There is a good demand for all classes of green fruits, particularly for apples, peaches and pears, the receipts of which are freer. Plums, also, are active. Grapes of good quality are coming forward in slightly increasing quantities, but the crop this year is later than usual and the prices are well sustained. Larger offerings of tomatoes are coming forward and the prices, though still high, as compared with last year, are easier than they were. We quote: Apples, 75c. to $1.25 per bbl. and 10 to 15c. per basket; pears, 15 to 25c.; peaches, 20 to 60c.; grapes, 30c. for small and 40 to 50c. per large basket; plums, 25 to 40c.; muskmelons, 20 to 35c. per basket and 50 to 60c. per case; crab apples, 15 to 20c. per basket; watermelons, 20c. each; Californian late Valencia oranges, $5.50 to $5.75; Messina lemons, $1.50 to $2 per box; bananas, $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch; Jersey sweet potatoes, $4 per barrel.

VEGETABLES.

Trade is keeping up fairly well in vegetables at unchanged prices, and our quotations now are: Green onions, 8 to 30c. per dozen; rhubarb, 20 to 30c. per dozen; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per dozen; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per dozen and $1 per barrel; carrots, 15c. to 20c. per dozen; beets, 15c. per basket; new potatoes, 50 to 60c. per bush; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 75c. to $1 per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 15 to 20c. per basket; asparagus beans, $1 per bushel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—Large shipments of eggs continue to arrive on the local market, which is steady for strictly fresh stock. Second grades are easy. Strictly fresh are quoted at 15 to 16c.; ordinary, store collected, candled, 14½ to 15c. and seconds and checks, 10 to 11c.

BEANS.—The season is yet early and few are offering. The prices are firm at $1.50 to $1.60 for handpicked and $1.40 to $1.50 per bushel for prime.

HONEY.—A fair amount of honey is offering at outside points at the prices quoted below: Honey, in 60-lb. tins, 8 to 8½c.; in less quantities, 9 to 9½c.; combs, $1.40 up.

POULTRY.—The demand still continues good. We quote: Live chickens, 50 to 60c. per pair; ducks, 65 to 85c. per pair and turkeys, young, dry picked, 11 to 13c. per lb.

POTATOES.—There continues a good demand for these at 30 to 40c. per bush.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—There are more sellers of butter at outside points this week, but the demand has shown no improvement since last week. The make continues large and stocks of secondary and low grades keep accumulating. We quote as follows: Choice 1-lb. rolls, 15 to 16c.; dairy tubs, best quality, 15c.; store packed, uniform color, 13½ to 14c. and low grades, 12 to 12½c.

CHEESE.—The cheese market is in about the same condition as it was last week. The English markets have hardened a little, which has had the effect of slightly improving things over here. There is a large make this season, but the outlook is fair for a big export trade. We quote 10 to 10½ for finest and 9½ to 9¾c. for seconds.

FISH.

Trade in fish is active and the prices are firm and unchanged. Dealers are still suffering from a scarcity in stocks of trout and whitefish. We quote: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 8½ to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 8½ to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb., with very few offering.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—Prices in Manitoba and Northwestern wheat are a little easier this week. Harvesting in the West seems to be progressing satisfactorily and the only difficulty seems to be the lack of hands to look after the crop. The yield is heavy. We quote: Manitoba No. 1 hard wheat, 81½c.; Northern, 83½ and No. 2 Northern, 81½c. grinding in transit. On the St. Lawrence Market the arrivals are fair and owing to competition among two or three local mills, in some cases, 5c. more than the prices quoted below was paid for Ontario red and white wheat. We quote prices paid on the street: Red Ontario wheat, 67 to 69c.; white Ontario wheat, 66 to 68c.; goose wheat, 63 to 64c.; oats, new, 32c. and old, 48c.; barley, 42c. and rye, 47c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—Buying on the flour market is fairly free this week and the prices are steady. We quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.05 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.80 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—There continues a fair demand for rolled wheat and oatmeal and rolled oats, and the prices are steady. Our quotations are now as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—A steady business continues in hides. Quotations are as follows: No. 1 green, 8c.; No. 2 green, 7c.; No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—The volume of trade in skins keeps steady, and we quote as follows: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 45c.

WOOL.—The wool market is featureless. Fleece wool is quoted at 13½c. and unwashed at 7½c.

TALLOW.—The market is still weak. We quote 6½ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

A good deal of alsike is offering at outside points. There is also a little doing in timothy. For good samples of alsike, $5 to $7 per bushel will be paid and $1.75 to $2 for timothy.

---

MARKET NOTES

The prices of Fairbanks' Boar's Head and Cottolene lard compounds have eased off ½c. per lb.

"QUAKER" BRAND Canned Goods

ALL GOODS in the fruit and vegetable line packed under this label are grown among the Quaker Community of Bloomfield, Prince Edward County, Ontario, Canada.

This place is situated in the garden of the Bay of Quinte district—celebrated for growing the finest flavored fruits and vegetables in the world. Surrounded as it is, on one side by the waters of Lake Ontario, on another by West Lake, and on still another by the Bay of Quinte, the growing crops have at all hours the benefit of the cool breezes that continually sweep across one or other of these sheets of water. For this reason the crops in this locality—even in the dryest and hottest weather—have never been known to shrink or dry up, and always retain their pure, sweet, natural flavor. It is no exaggeration to say that there is not a spot on the Continent so splendidly adapted for the perfect growth of fruits and vegetables.

Recognizing that it was an ideal spot for a canning factory, two years ago the Bloomfield Packing Co. erected a plant and factory in this locality, at an expense of $40,000.00, solely for the purpose of canning fruit and vegetables. This is recognized as the most complete canning factory in Canada, and pronounced by visitors, conversant with the canning business in the United States, the equal of anything in that Country. One of the first things we did in starting was to register the word "QUAKER" as a trade mark, so that consumers could, under this label, find canned goods that would be known as the standard in quality from one end of the Dominion to the other. No expense has been spared in procuring the most experienced and practical men for the packing and management of the business, so as to insure perfection in the class of goods placed before the public.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, September 11, 1902.

GROCERIES.

As the season advances business in groceries becomes more active. This week an increased trade is reported; people are coming back from their holidays, and the fall season is commencing to make itself apparent. The market for nuts of almost all sorts continues to go higher, and a number of advances are quoted this week. New-crop pickles, of the lower grades, are now on the market and are selling at 95c. to $1.25, according to quality. This price is thought likely to be well maintained throughout the year, as the crop of cucumbers has been no more than fair.

Oatmeals have all gone down, the decline amounting to 50c. per barrel and 25c. per bag. Pot barley is also lower and is now quoted at $4.50 per barrel or $2.20 per bag. In American pork the prices prevailing at present are $24.75 for Jones' short cut clear; Armour's, 50-60's, short cut clear, $25.50; Armour's, 30-40's, short cut clear, $26.50.

SUGAR.

Orders for sugar are arriving freely now, this being always one of the busy seasons of the year. No change in price is reported although an advance was reported from New York on September 3, when the Arbuckles raised all grades of soft sugar 10 points. On the local market granulated sugar is quoted at $3.65 and yellows at $3.00 to $3.55. The opinion among jobbers is that no further advance will be found necessary on this market. It is expected that the demand throughout the present month will be greater than usual, and refiners believe that they will experience some difficulty in making prompt deliveries. In the New York raw sugar market advices state that refiners are willing buyers of all supplies available on the basis of 3⅜c. for centrifugals, 96 deg. test.

TEAS.

The trade doing locally has improved somewhat over that of last week and dealers have experienced a fair demand from country buyers. There is, however, much room for improvement in the demand. A number of buyers are still holding off from taking Japan teas at present prices, believing that lower quotations will be given. Those dealers who have secured supplies are satisfied with the condition of things and do not share the view that the market will become lower. High prices still prevail. Teas, for the American standard, were quoted at the lowest at 16½c. One report states that picking has stopped in Japan, which, if true, means that prices will likely be maintained, or, at least, will not take any material drop. It is stated that the high price of Japans will create a better demand for Ceylon and China teas. The Ceylon market is firmer and green teas have again advanced ½c., making an advance of 1c. during the past two weeks. China teas, which eased off for a time, are again reported firm.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

In corn syrups some slight improvement in the demand is reported, but the market is still quiet and the prices are unchanged. Our quotations on corn syrups are: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in half bbls.; 3¾c. in quarter bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails. In molasses there is very little doing. Barbados is quoted at 23 to 24c.; Antigua, 24c. and Porto Rico at 38c. for best grade.

SPICES.

Nothing of importance has occurred on this market. There is a good demand for all kinds of spices. Our quotations are now as follows: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The demand for rice is reported to be considerably better, but the market is not particularly active. In tapioca, there is still a fair trade, with no change in prices, and our quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3⅛c.

CANNED GOODS.

Tomatoes continue to be the most interesting feature in this line. One jobber said: "Canners of Quebec tomatoes are saying that the fine weather of the past few days has had a material effect on the tomato crop, and the fruit is arriving very freely. In fact, I have been told by two or three canners that they believe they will have plenty of tomatoes to fill all their contracts, and if the fine weather continues through September, the crop will be fully as large as last year. One canner expects to be open for new orders next week." We hear, however, that many jobbers have had to follow in the footsteps of the canners, and stop offering future tomatoes; but there are still a few firms doing business in this line, and they are offering western tomatoes at $1.12½ to $1.17½. This advance in prices indicates the situation with western canners, and a shortage in the western crop must result in a corresponding firmness in the Quebec goods. As to corn, no change in price has been made, and orders are being freely booked for future corn at the prices quoted below. There is an impression that we will have high prices in this article as well later on, one jobber expressing his conviction that corn would go as high as $1, being effected by the limited pack in other lines. Both tomatoes and corn are two or three weeks late in the canning, and an Ontario cannery reports the pack of corn to be not much more than 25 per cent. of the average. Canned blueberries, to arrive, are scarce on this market, and the situation is such that most packers have withdrawn quotations until the situation could be more clearly comprehended. We quote new-crop goods as follows: Tomatoes, $1.05 to $1.10; corn, 80 to 85c.; peas, 80c. to $1.20; string beans, 80 to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1. We quote spot goods: Peas, 82½c. to $1.15; corn, 82½ to 85c.; tomatoes, $1.12½ to $1.17½; gallon apples, $2.50; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—There is not a great demand for currants at the present time. Foreign advices indicate that although the crop was damaged to a certain extent, yet supplies can be obtained in all cases. Our quotations are as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5⅛ to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The market is practically bare of old Valencias and many houses are doing no business whatever, as they have no stock. Early arrivals of High grades of Valencias are expected here via Liverpool about the third week of the present month. They are quoted at 7¾ to 8c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—Nothing further has been learned from the primary markets in regard to Sultana raisins. On this market 9½c. per lb. is quoted, but there is not much trade doing.

CANDIED PEELS.—There has been no change in this line. Citron peel is selling at 15c.; orange peel at 11½c. and lemon peel at 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—Almost no business is doing in spot stock and prices are nominal. Some jobbers have started to offer new-crop Malaga table raisins. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES.—Trade is of moderate proportions. Hallowee dates are selling at 5c. per lb.

FIGS.—There is nothing new to report on this market. Trade is very quiet.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—There is a continued fair demand for these at the prices here quoted: Pears, 10c.; peaches, 10½c. and apricots, 14½c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The demand for seeded raisins keeps up on this market and trade is fair at 9¾ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The market is not especially active but business is improving. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

As indicated in our last report, regarding the probable high price of shelled almonds of this year's crop, there has been an advance this week and some jobbers have started to offer shelled almonds, to arrive, at 27 to 28c., according to quality. This is an advance of ½ to 1c. over prices for spot goods. Pecans are also quoted higher, being now 15 to 17c. for medium size. Tarragona soft-shell almonds, on spot, have advanced considerably, in sympathy with the primary market, which is ruling very high, and are now selling at 12 to 13c. The prospects are that continued high prices will prevail for Tarragona almonds, shelled almonds and Sicily filberts. Our quotations are as follows: Walnuts, 10 to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 27 to 28c.; filberts, 9c.; Pecans, 15 to 17c.

GREEN FRUITS.

Business in green fruits has continued active throughout the week. Lower prices are quoted on Jamaica oranges this week, barrels being $1 lower and boxes, 25c. lower. Canadian peaches are higher. Canadian cabbage are now quoted per dozen, the price being 25 to 40c. We quote: Jamaica oranges, in bbls., $6 to $6.50, boxes, $4; Sorrento oranges, $3.75 to $4 per box; Messina lemons, $3.50 per box; pineapples, 13 to 20c.; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2 and eight-hands, $1 to $1.50; cucumbers, 11c. per doz.; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per doz.; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per bbl.; watermelons, 25c.; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; blackberries, 5 to 7c. per box; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $2.50 to $2.75 per box; limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 40c. per basket; blueberries, $1.50 per box; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1 to $1.50, in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, $1.10 per basket; Canadian basket tomatoes, 30 to 40c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, $1 per crate, $2.50 per case.

FISH.

Fresh haddock and cod and pike are each ½c. lower this week. Some haddock and cod have been sold at 3½c. during the week, but at this season of the year buying is done in lots of 100, 200, 300 lb., etc. In other lines there have been no quotable changes. Prices now are: Haddies, 7 to 7½c.; smoked herrings, 9 to 10c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; dore, 7½c. to 8c.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 16c.; trout, large and medium, 8½ to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl. and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. to 85c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.50 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $3.75 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Although somewhat higher prices have been paid in the country, the butter market is not much firmer. Trade has continued quiet and no new feature has developed in the market. Finest Townships creamery is now quoted at 19¼ to 19½c. and finest Ontario creamery, 18¾ to 19c., an advance of ¾c. There has been no change in the price of dairy butter, which is still selling at 15½ to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The cheese market is about ⅜ to ½c. higher than last week and the price of finest Quebec, white and colored, is now 9¾ to 9⅞c. Finest Townships is quoted at about the same price. Finest Ontario, white and colored, now sells for 9⅞ to 10¼c. Though the present feeling in the cheese market is firm and prices steady, yet the opinion prevails that top prices have not been reached. Shipments under the advanced prices have been smaller than for some time, and stocks are accumulating more rapidly. The present situation is much like that of last year, and some dealers are looking for history to repeat itself. Prices advanced, it will be remembered, last year until well into September, when there was a sudden decline, and during the latter part of that month 8½c. was the price for cheese, the best cheese of the season selling at the lowest price of the season Although nothing of this sort may occur this year, it would not come as a surprise by any means if things were to turn out much the same.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The demand for eggs has improved and trade is now fair. Prices on almost all lines show a greater range, and are higher and steady. We quote: Selected, 18 to 19½c.; candled stock, 16c., straight receipts, 15½ to 15½c.; No. 2, 13 to 13½c. in round lots.

BEANS.—There has been some improvement in this market. A fair trade is now doing in a jobbing way and primes are quoted at $1.40 to $1.45 per bushel.

HONEY.—White clover comb is a little higher and firmer. For white strained a lower price is quoted. The market is steady. We quote: White clover comb, 11c. per lb. and white strained, 8c. per lb.

POTASH.—The advance in prices last week was not maintained and values dropped below previous quotations. The market is quiet. We quote: First pots, $4.20 to $4.25; seconds, $3.50 to $3.55; pearls, $6 to $6.10 per 100 lb.

POTATOES.—No quotable change occurs this week. The market is fairly active at 75c. per bag for choice stock and 60c. for ordinary.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Trade continues quiet and prices are little better than nominal. We quote: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—The market for flour was in considerably better condition this week than last. Prices have advanced in some lines, and at the new figures the market is active and steady. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.10; strong bakers', $3.50 to $3.80; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.65; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4.

GRAIN.—Business has become more active in grain and a good trade is reported, both for local and export account. New Ontario oats are lower, while old stock has sold at an advance. We quote: No. 1 Northern Manitoba wheat, 73½c. afloat, Fort William; and No. 2, 71½c. September shipment. New crop rye is quoted at 56c., September shipment; new peas, at 84 to 85c. Corn sells at 71c.; buckwheat, 63c.; barley, 52 to 53c.; No. 2 Ontario oats, 35½ to 36c. New oats are quoted at 35¼ to 35½c. afloat here, September shipment.

FEED.—Bran was a little easier during the week and lower prices are now quoted, but the market has become steady. A good trade is doing. We quote as follows: Manitoba bran, $16.50 to $17; Ontario bran, $15 to $15.50; Manitoba shorts, $23 and Ontario shorts, $22 to $23.

OATMEAL.—A decline took place last week in all oatmeals. The price of rolled oats is now $4.90 per barrel, a drop of 50c., and $2.42½ per bag, a drop of 25c.

BALED HAY.—The new crop has now been put on the market and is selling at $7 to $7.50 per ton, in round lots. In old-crop hay, Nos. 1 and 2 have advanced considerably. We quote old crop as follows: No. 1, $9.50; No. 2, $8 to $8.50, clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Pecans are 1c. higher.
Eggs have gone up 1c.
Canadian peaches have advanced.
Shelled almonds have advanced 1c.
Spanish onions are 50c. per case lower.
Jamaica oranges are $1 to $1.50 lower per barrel.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., September 9, 1902.

BUSINESS is resuming its normal condition after the Exhibition of last week, which crowded the city for six days to an unheard of extent for so many days with visitors from all parts of the Provinces and the State of Maine. Retail business was exceptionally heavy. Of course, wholesalers had recalled most of their travellers, and were very busy paying attention to visiting customers and taking orders from these personally. The attendance at the Exhibition for the six days was about 80,000. The most any previous show had in ten days was but little over 60,000; therefore this year's fair breaks all records. It was also superior to all former shows in the excellence of its varied features. It required a special lodging bureau to provide for the crowd of people that could not be accommodated at the regular hotels and boarding houses. Merchants report a good business and declare that the fair was a distinct benefit to the city. In trade, generally, the conditions are active with a promising outlook, to which big crops and excellent prices for lumber contribute largely.

OILS.—Trade in burning oils continues active. The same is true of lubricating and paint oils. The market conditions remain without notable change.

SALT.—The supply is equal to the demand and the market is steady, and we quote: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.75 to $2.85 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.60 to $2.65 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22-23c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—The situation has not materially changed for several weeks. The market is a waiting one, to be determined by the action of the packers. Peas are firmly held. The tendency in salmon still appears to be upward. The movement in canned goods, generally, is limited, but the demand is increasing.

GREEN FRUITS.—New Brunswick apples are now on the market and are plentiful. Their season is short, but they are an excellent crop. The price is $1 to $1.75 per bbl. Nova Scotia is reported short on Gravensteins, but with a good crop of Baldwins and Nonpareils. Their plum crop is short. Ontario peaches, plums and pears are offered freely at moderate prices, although the former have advanced a little. Champion grapes are now on the market as well as the tinted Spanish grapes. Californian fruit is about done. Jamaica oranges are selling at $7 per bbl. and will be regularly received every month, with the price tending lower. Sorrento oranges are about out and Valencias are not due till about November. Lemons are weak, the cool weather in the States having lessened the demand. Bananas, of good quality, are regularly received via Boston, but no cheaper grades are out until the next direct steamer arrives from Jamaica.

DRIED FRUITS.—The spot market is almost bare of raisins, and the new crop have not yet arrived. Prices are expected to rule higher than last year. Currants are easier than last year. New evaporated apples are lower than a year ago, and it is expected that supplies now about due will be offered in a small way at about 8c. New Spanish onions, of choice quality, are quoted at $3.50 per case. Stocks of figs, dates, apricots, etc., are very light. New figs will leave Smyrna this month, and dates will be here in December. Apricots and peaches will come along in about six weeks, and prunes later. Orders for these have, of course, been placed.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Butter has advanced in the last week or two and good dairy tubs are selling at 17 to 19c. and rolls, 20 to 22c. Cheese sells in a jobbing way at 10½ to 10¾c. Eggs continue to bring a good price, with case stock at 16 to 18c.

SUGAR.—The market is firm with quite a large demand. Dealers are well supplied.

MOLASSES.—The market is steady, and as the demand will now steadily increase there is a prospect of a little higher prices.

FISH.—Fines aggregating $1,100 were imposed on fishermen down the bay last week for the illegal seining of herring. Bay herring have sharply advanced in price, and are held at $2 to $2.10, with Grand Manan at $2.30 to $2.35. Smoked herring are in large supply and extremely dull. Fresh fish are scarce. We quote: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.60 to $1.70 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $2 to $2.35 per half barrel; dry cod, $3.40 to $3.55; halibut, 11 to 12c.; pickled shad, half barrel, $6.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Manitoba flour is easy. Barley has advanced. New oats are daily expected. Middlings are now expected to tend lower. New hay will sell lower. Our quotations are as follows: Manitoba flour, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.15; medium, $3.95 to $4.10; oatmeal, $5.10 to $5.50; cornmeal, $3.20 to $3.25; middlings, $26 to $28; oats, 56 to 57c.; handpicked beans, $1.75 to $1.80; prime, $1.65 to $1.70; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.40 to $4.50; hay, new, $9 to $10.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, September 8, 1902.

SOME heavy showers in the Red River Valley have retarded harvesting and threshing somewhat, but elsewhere throughout the Province and Territories the weather has been ideal for both operations and work is in full blast. There is a scarcity of harvest hands and wages are very high.

Considerable new wheat has been sold, and by next week the amount will be more than doubled. One of the greatest drawbacks caused by the shortage of labor is the fact that so little stacking can be done, and in this way the crop is protected from damage by wet weather. On the whole conditions are favorable and work well advanced. At the present time about 60 per cent. of the crop may be considered safe.

Local jobbing houses report an excellent business in all lines; in fact, they have about as much as they can do in comfort. There have been few changes in prices during the week.

CANNED GOODS.—The situation is without change. Factories in the east still continue to refuse orders except "subject to pack," and there is no hope here that the condition of affairs will improve. Tomatoes are still quoted at $2.75 per case; corn, $1.95 to $2 and peas, $2 to $2.10, according to variety and pack. Canned fruits are steady and with limited demand.

DRIED FRUITS.—Quotations for Valencia raisins have been received and fine off-stalk will open here at $8.50 per box. There are no layers in the first shipment. As yet there are no quotations for Californian muscatels.

EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Californian apricots, peaches and pears are offering freely and the prices are markedly lower than at the same season last year.

SUGAR.—The demand is very heavy, but prices remain without change. Extra standard granulated, $4.35; bright yellow, $3.75.

SYRUPS.—There is a fair demand at unchanged prices. We quote: Extra bright, per lb., 3 to 3½c.; medium, 2¾ to 3c.; maple, cases of 1 doz. ½-gal. tins, $6.75 to $7; glucose, bbls., 3⅝ to 3¾c.; ditto, ½ bbls., 3¾ to 3⅞c.; molasses, per gal., New Orleans, 35 to 38c.; ditto, Porto Rico, 45 to 46c.; ditto, Barbados, 55 to 57½c.

HONEY.—Prices on new honey have been received and are about ½c. higher than last year. Advices received this week show the Californian honey crop to be short and the demand heavy so that none will be shipped to this market. It is not anticipated, however, that there will be any difficulty in securing sufficient for the trade here.

FLOUR.—The market is normal with a fair trade both locally and for export. Prices for the moment are without any change, but there is likely to be a drop before this is in print, and for that reason quotations are not given.

CEREALS.—Very little interest is taken in this market at present. There is the usual steady consumptive demand for package goods. All lines are without change of price, but rolled oats will probably go lower within the next three or four days.

GREEN FRUITS.—This market is a very active one and the supply in all lines is very fair. Up to date five cars of Ontario box apples have been received. They have come through in fine condition and find ready sale at $1.50 per box. They are very superior to the Washington box apples. British Columbian and Montana crabs are offering freely. The British-Columbian crabs are particularly well colored. Late Crawford and Ashland peaches sell at $1.25 per crate and are in great demand for canning. Plums, both Washington and Oregon, are arriving regularly, and the price ranges from $1.25 to $1.50 per crate, according to the variety. A number of baskets of Ontario plums have been received, but as usual, they are in poor condition and of inferior quality, a very poor advertisement of what Ontario can produce in the line of plums. Some Ontario grapes have come in and sell at 60c. per basket. Box pears sell at $2 to $3, according to variety, and Ontario baskets at 75c. Tropical fruits are without change. We quote: Oranges, $5.50 to $6; lemons, $5.50; bananas, $3; pineapples, $3 per doz.; cocoanuts, 90c. per doz.

BUTTER.—Creamery shows rather a dull market and the supplies offering are comparatively small. Price is unchanged at 16½ to 17c. factory. The receipts of the dairy article have not increased very materially, while the demand for fresh sweet dairy is good. The best grade brings 13c. and inferior, from 10 to 11c.

EGGS.—The supplies have not increased during the week and the demand continues keen. The price at Winnipeg is 15c., subject to candling.

CHEESE.—The make this season is very small, the offerings for the week being light. The price is unchanged at 9½ to 10c. per lb.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

HALIFAX, September 8, 1902.

THE business in the grocery line has only been fair during the past week, and the market has been without special features of any kind. In all lines mentioned in last report the prices remain firm. Payments at this season are not quite as prompt as earlier, but the dealers are not worried as there is every indication of good crops, which will tend to make money plentiful when the harvesting season is over. On the whole, the volume of business done this season has been very satisfactory.

Butter has been coming in very plentifully in the past month, and dealers do not wish to stock up with more just now unless it is of the very highest grade for export. Prices are, however, ruling nominally high. Cheese is slightly lower, as there are quite large quantities held of makes previous to September. There is very little buying at present, but the market will no doubt become firmer as this month's cheese comes in.

Eggs are firm now at 16 to 17c. During the last week or two considerable quantities have come in from Prince Edward Island, but they do not turn out so well as our Nova Scotian product, and the price ranges lower.

New potatoes have been in the market for some time, and are now wholesaling at 50c. per bushel. Beets, cabbage, carrots and other green stuff is also coming in in abundance to supply the local market.

The Orinoco, which arrived 10 days ago, brought about 50 carloads of West-Indian produce to go to the Upper Provinces. She also brought a quantity of sugar for the refineries here. The Beta, which arrived Saturday, also brought a considerable cargo for the Upper Provinces.

Our Exhibition opens here on September 10 and will continue until September 18. A very large number of people are expected in the city from all parts of the Province, but no line of trade is expected to profit materially thereby except the dry goods lines. In fact, the grocery and hardware businesses will be very dull.

There is now considerable doing in the fish business, but prices continue nominally low, except in mackerel. The scarcity of the latter has run up the price in Boston and New York, and that affects this market. A few fresh mackerel are being taken on the coast, but very few compared with other years. Last year at this time good fish could be bought at retail three for 25c.; this season they sell at two for the same price. The West-Indian fish markets, as a whole, have not very materially improved.

R. C. H.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

SINCE the first of the month business has improved. Wholesalers and retailers both report that things are better than on the first of August. People are returning to the city after their vacations, and retailers are finding a good demand for preserving fruits.

There has not been any change of note in staple lines, although prices keep firm in most of them.

On the market, prices for chickens are 50 to 65c.; fowl, 75c.; geese, 60 to 75c., and ducks about 60c. per pair.

Dairy butter is very plentiful, but prices are about the same: 15 to 17c. in pails and 18 to 20c. for prints; creamery, 20 to 21c. Eggs in case lots are worth 16 to 17c. New-laid are scarce at 18 to 20c.

Potatoes are very plentiful, and are selling at 45 to 50c. per bag.

Oats are steady at about 33 to 35c. for for new and 35 to 37c. for old.

At the Ottawa Fruit Exchange, large receipts of peaches, plums, pears and apples arrive daily. Peaches are selling from 40 to 85c., according to quality; plums, 30 to 40c.; pears, Bartlett's, 30 to 45c.; Clapp's, 30 to 40c. Apples are a drug; Duchess being the variety now. Barrels have been selling from 75c. to $1.

Cheese sold at an advance on the Ottawa Board Friday last, selling at 9⅞c.; 1,792 boxes were boarded and about two-thirds were disposed of.

L. N. Bate, who was on the room committee of the Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association, has secured 14 handsome chairs for use of the association through the kindness of the following firms, who gave donations to him: Huckels & Co., the Carling Brewing Co., Chaput, Fils & Co., Ganong Bros. and the Surprise Soap Co.

Frank Mallette, of Park, Blackwell & Co., is in the city, and will be kept busy for about 10 days looking after the firm's interest, which amounts to a great deal in Ottawa.

H. H. Bfennan & Sons have opened up their new store on Bank street. It is one of the finest fitted up shops in the city. They look forward to working up a good retail business.

The Ottawa Board of Trade have secured the convention of the Ontario Dairymen's Association, which meets the coming winter.

TRADING STAMPS.

The Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association were not successful in getting their by-law through council to abolish trading stamps. At the finance committee meeting on Friday last the vote was a tie, but the casting vote of the chairman defeated the wish of the association. However, when the finance committee's report came before council an effort was made to have a reconsideration, but owing to a flaw in the motion, the original report went through. Nothing more will likely be done until the next meeting of the association. Nearly every merchant in the city is against the use of trading stamps, but a very few have to do the work, so that a great deal of influence is lost.

TRANSIENT TRADERS.

A resolution of Ald. Rosenthal's asking for legislation to bring within the operation of the Municipal Act a by-law relating to transient traders, pedlars and others, who do business in the city without paying any tax whatever, to the injury of Ottawa merchants, received good consideration and was carried unanimously.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

THE first arrival of the 1902 crop Almeria grapes arrived on the Germanic on September 4, and consisted of 62 bbls. The first arrival last year was on the same date via Liverpool ex Majestic and consisted of 136 bbls.

Private advices from Denia, Spain, state that owing to the low prices ruling in America on onions shippers are not disposed to forward stock as freely as was intended. It is now stated that the Lacroma, which was expected to bring 30,000 crates direct, will only load 15,000 crates.

SHORT FLORIDA ORANGE CROP.

According to private advices from the principal orange sections in Florida the crop this season is estimated at 800,000 boxes, as against a total of 1,250,000 boxes last season. The falling off is said to be due to the dry weather which prevailed early in the season. Advices from the Coast figure on an output of about 17,000 carloads of oranges.

NEW YORK GROCERY TRADE.

Throughout the west side jobbing grocery trade the closing of the summer vacation period has been marked by an appearance of greater activity in all lines this year than usually accompanies the commencement of the fall season. In all departments of the various jobbing grocery houses the volume of movement is said to be greater, and in general lines—that is staple commodities—the business outlook is better than was the case at the opening last season. Several of the larger concerns state that they are behind in filling orders now in hand and reports from travelling salesmen indicate that the period of active buying is only about to begin in the South and Southwest. It is pointed out that while the summer demand was fair the buying was mainly in the direction of purchases for summer requirements. There was, it is stated, no attempt made to "stock up." This has enabled the interior distributer to clean up closely, and he is now ready to fill up with a full line.—New York Journal of Commerce, September 8.

THE PRICE OF FISH.

We are sorry to have to state that the price of fish has dropped 20c. a quintal all round, besides the freight allowance given the holders heretofore. This represents a total decline of 30 to 40c. in the price, according to locality. The reduction has been necessitated by the congestion of the foreign markets. In Oporto last week the total stock was 35,000 quintals, whereas the largest at any time last year was but 27,000. The consumption last week was but 3,000 quintals, this small quantity for the whole Douro valley being due to Norwegian competition. Other markets are also becoming congested, and the outlook is not bright. The prices, as amended, are:

|---|---|
| Large and medium merchantable | $ 4 00 |
| Small merchantable | 3 60 |
| Large Madeira | 3 60 |
| Small Madeira | 3 20 |
| West India | 2 40 |
| Cod oil, per tun | 77 00 |

This change will chiefly affect the outport middleman who has been buying from the fishers, hoping the price would keep up.—St. John's, Nfld., Herald.

U. S. BBET-SUGAR CROP.

Willett & Gray say of sugar: "The domestic beet crop will be late this season, but promises to be larger than last year. According to the figures we published in June, showing the extent of sowings in the various States, a yield of 236,650 tons sugars then appeared possible, but since that time many fields of beets have been washed out by the floods, and a somewhat smaller outturn is looked for. Some factories have already begun operations, while others will soon follow, and the crop will be coming to market in a large way by the middle of October, at which time the requirements for meltings by the refineries at the four ports will be smaller than at present."

A DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP.

W. H. Merriman and John Ross, wholesale and retail grocers, of St. Catharines, have advertised a dissolution of partnership. After September 15, the business will be conducted entirely on wholesale lines by Mr. Merriman, who for the past 14 years has been closely identified with the grocery business. In his future dealings with the trade, Mr. Merriman promises to buy direct and sell as closely as possible.

A BARRIE GROCER'S SUCCESS.

James Vair, grocer, Barrie, Ont., has opened up a branch store in Toronto, having secured the store lately occupied by Michie & Co. on Spadina avenue for that purpose. He found his trade in country produce growing so rapidly that he decided to open up the Toronto store as a distributing point for his eggs, butter, chickens, etc. In charge of the new store he has placed Mr. John Craig, a young man of ability, who has a thorough grasp of the details of the grocery trade from his long experience with Mr. Vair in Barrie. Without a doubt Mr. Craig will prove an efficient and popular manager.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. W. Underwood, of Underwood Bros., general merchants, Kendal, Ont., is in Toronto this week.

Mr. J. E. Hutton, representing The Parkinson Cereal Co., Thornbury, Ont., was in Toronto this week.

Mr. Jerry Jordon, manager for George Stacy, butcher and grocer, Port Hope, Ont., was in Toronto this week.

Mr. J. F. Honor, Port Hope, Ont., is in Toronto this week looking after business and taking in the Exhibition.

FRASER SALMON PACK.

The Daily Colonist, Victoria, B.C., under date of September 4, says that the total pack of Fraser River caught sockeyes will be over 100,000 cases more than in 1900.

H. P. Eckardt & Co. report a large demand for seeded muscatel raisins in 12 and 16-oz. packages.

A car of Trinidad sugar in sacks arrived this week for H. P. Eckardt & Co. The quality is very fine.

THE ONLY YEAST WITH CREAM IN IT—JERSEY CREAM.

A large number of merchants report that they are unable to get JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES—that when they order they find that it is not sent—also, that some travellers report we are not making JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES. We want it understood we are still manufacturing, selling (and you can sell) JERSEY CREAM as usual. When appeal is decided you will find no men more loyal to that decision than we will be. If your Wholesale Grocer will not fill your order send us a card and will send it to you by express, prepaid. We will stand back of every package of JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKE sold. We will continue to make the best Yeast, the most wholesome Yeast, and intend to make it the best-selling Yeast in Canada. Remember, JERSEY CREAM YEAST is not only made in Canada, but THAT ALL profits remain in Canada. We received our first Sample Order for JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES for South Africa this week. Canada's Greatest Yeast Cake must have merits, as this order came to us unsolicited. Do not remain without, but write or telegraph to us direct, and your orders will have prompt attention. # THE UTILITY OF WEALTH.

By BARNET MOTT, in Baltimore Herald.

THIS old idea of the richest man in the world, an individual who has always had an abiding charm for every other man, woman and child, came to mind the other day when I was reading Mr. Charles M. Schwab's statement of the values of the properties of The United States Steel Corporation. Our boyish idea of the wealth of the Chinese idol was always expressed in the words "millions." In Mr. Schwab's testimony before some board, the total value of the corporation's property was given as a little over $1,400,000,000. One fourteenth hundred of this sum, or much less than 1 per cent. of the income—$1,000,000—is Mr. Schwab's annual salary. There may be such an accumulation of wealth in China. I have never been there and know nothing about the finances of either corporations or individuals. But I do not believe there is any such mass of concentrated wealth in any country of the Orient.

The sum of $1,400,000,000 represents an enormous amount of riches. When the "billion-dollar steel trust" was organized the public of all countries held up their hands in amazement at the stupendous capital. And now the company's president announces that in the short time since incorporation, the value of the property has increased 40 per cent. As was suggested at the time of the publication of Mr. Schwab's testimony, Croesus' fabled wealth was a small, street-corner tradesman's capital in comparison.

The majority of men will be honest with themselves and frankly admit that they would like to possess a tiny fraction of this sum, and would offer not the slightest hindrance if there were a possibility of the whole amount becoming theirs. He is an extraordinary and not altogether commendable man who is absolutely content with his present condition in life and who would not take advantage of an opportunity honestly to add to his comforts and his pleasures if the needed money were available. All except him who would be stationary have sighed throughout their lives—long and short—for just a few more things that they could not afford, wished that they had the money, and would gladly accept that in any honest form compatible with pride. The few who would refuse are few indeed, and somewhat unnatural.

These show a spirit when such great wealth in the hands of a few is mentioned not dissimilar to that of our boyhood dreams of China. They know nothing of the circumstances of the growth of the property, find it beyond the comprehension of inexperience and straightway conclude that there must be something evil in the acquirement of that enormous sum. The extremely rich man whom everybody is ready to believe earned his wealth honestly is so rare that I never heard of him. Jones says: "I could not gather such riches with years of toil with strict adherence to honesty, and I do not believe that any man could do so." One may doubt that a fairly intelligent man could hold so narrow, bigoted a view. As a matter of fact, it is the basis of at least a half of the common criticism of men of wealth. The number of men of good education and unquestionable intelligence who cling to that error would be surprising if it could be had. It is only ignorance's distrust of knowledge.

Everybody has been benefited by this increase in the world's wealth. The poor are not so wretched by any means as they were a couple of centuries ago, and the man of average wealth, the small tradesman and the skilled laboring man is far, far better off than he ever has been. We are just living on a scale that is comparatively huge, and we must sooner or later become used to the use of terms and figures that are the products of our mode of life.

The danger to our social constitution is not in the possession of vast wealth by any corporation or private person, or in the expenditure by the Government. We know that a corporation formed for honest business—the other kind collapses too quickly to be noticed—will be judicious in expending its wealth, and we may trust the Government to be so. Congress may be foolishly extravagant just a little once in a while, but in the long run will be generally wise in this action. What we really have grounds to fear is the expenditure of large wealth by the individual.

Mr. Schwab, for instance, who enjoys an income of a million dollars and probably more, cannot possibly use that sum for the ordinary wants of a man; that is to say, the necessities of one in the highest social station—the gentleman may not have been admitted to that standing yet, but, of course, may have all the external fittings of it—and undoubtedly spends a good deal in luxuries of one kind or another, on articles that anybody would class as luxuries for a single person. In the choice of those luxuries is the danger.

Some who think that life should be conducted by sentiment and not by reason and scientific law, hold that Mr. Schwab should give of his wealth to his employes in the form of higher wages. To do so would be to take a step back from the industrial economies that have made life so much easier, more comfortable and more beautiful than it was in Europe a century ago. The beginning made, who could tell where the retrogression would stop? The cost of production is ultimately the cost of labor. Then, if Mr. Schwab would be wise in such generosity to his employes, every employer in the land would logically have to follow his example and there would be a long leap toward the abolition of the economies that have been so beneficial. Again, who is to fix the limit of Mr. Schwab's gifts to the workmen? These will demand more and more as each effort is successful, for a man wishes to live as well as he can and to receive as large a remuneration as he can for his labor.

Much better is it for the great millionaires to do what they can to beautify their surroundings and their fellows', and add to the higher intellectual enjoyments of life. Mr. Carnegie has made this choice. Mr. Schwab would do so to a certain extent by erecting a mansion that would be truly a thing of beauty. While the others of us could not live in that house, we would improve ourselves to make the contrast less glaring. The surest way to better a poor man's lot is to surround him with such improved circumstances that he will be aroused to fit himself to enjoy them and be in some measure of harmony with them. The sentimentalists' policy of making the man dependent upon external help, paternalism, has invariably brought destruction with it.

The riches must, however, be spent in intellectual pursuits that will improve one's self, one's home and one's neighbors. Indulgence in physical enjoyment and elementary mental pleasures will be the source of national decay and extinction. Rome made this second choice and perished as a great power.

GROCERIES AND BROKEN VOWS.

Why should groceries lead to broken vows and breach of promise? This curious question is discussed by a sprightly contemporary. The Grocers' Assistant, which calls attention to the fact that "a wicked statistician has recently informed all and sundry that grocers' assistants are responsible for no less than 6 per cent. of the total breach-of-promise actions in this country." Startling as this fact may be regarded, there is no disposition in the trade to include the vending of the groceries among "dangerous callings," either for assistants or their maiden customers; but some of the former are inclined to found upon a claim for shorter hours and higher pay. With the former granted them, there would be less time for courtship over the counter, and with the latter they would be better able to pay any damages which might be given against them for blighted affections.

HIS REPORT A GOODLY ONE.

Mr. C. E. Marquis, of Killarney, Manitoba, was in Toronto recently. He was formerly a member of the firm of Marquis & McCullough, of Ripley. A few years ago he went to Manitoba as manager of the Killarney Trading Company, of which firm he a few months ago became the sole proprietor.

Mr. Marquis is a bright and enterprising man and is an interesting conversationalist. He informed THE CANADIAN GROCER that business in his part of the country is good, and that the outlook, on account of the enormous crop, is exceptionally good. He said that they all had suffered from the grain blockade last fall, and that at the time he left home grain of the crop of 1901 was still being shipped. He said that a number of people from the United States were taking up land in the vicinity of Killarney, which is in Southern Manitoba, but that it was principally improved land, and was being occupied by men with capital.

There was, he said, now practically no homestead land in his part of the country. "There is one thing about our part of the country," added Mr. Marquis, "and that is, the farmers are gradually going in more generally for mixed farming, and are raising quite a little stock."

AN EXPLANATION.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER, — In your issue of August 29, under the heading "Business Changes—Difficulties, Assignments, Compromises," I find the following paragraph :

"The creditors of Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, salmon canners, Vancouver, B.C., are to file their claims before September 30."

I must ask you to correct this in your next issue, as the information given above appears to me misleading. The business of Malcolm & Windsor, Limited, was acquired by The United Canneries of British Columbia, Limited, in 1899, and the notice at present standing in the Vancouver papers is for the purpose of notifying any possible creditors of the old firm of Malcom & Windsor, Limited, that the said firm is now in course of disincorporation. The firm is not in difficulties and never has been, it is simply being wound up.

J. E. MACRAE, Secretary,
United Canneries of British Columbia, Ltd.
Vancouver, September 3, 1902.

Thomas Kinnear, the well-known wholesale grocer, of Toronto, in an interview in The Star of that city recently said : "The grocers throughout the country are meeting their notes as promptly as they have ever done in my history of the business in Toronto. Our credit as a country has been greatly increased in England, and this cannot fail to help the development of the different branches of business."

DINED AND WINED.

MR. R. H. PALMER, Fruit Commissioner of British Columbia, and Mr. J. C. Metcalfe, President of the British Columbia Fruit Growers Association, were tendered a banquet at the Commercial Club, Winnipeg, by the Fruit and Produce Exchange of that city the other day. The occasion was a bright and memorable one and will do much to foster pleasant business relations between the two Provinces.

Mr. Palmer acknowledged the toast "Our Guests," in an eloquent speech upon the possibilities of his Province. He rejoiced in the prosperity of Manitoba. As he took the trip through the wheat fields he felt assured of the future of the country. They looked to Winnipeg as the future market for British Columbian fruit. Immigrants were coming from all parts of the States, Eastern Canada and Great Britain to Manitoba and the West and on account of the restless spirit of the Anglo-Saxon race many had drifted to the Western Province. British Columbia offered as good a home for them as the States to the south. The British-Columbian fruit growers thought they could now in British Columbia grow as good fruit as anywhere in the world and put it up in a very merchantable condition. It was as good and even better than Californian fruit. It had a quality that for shipping made it superior to any other so that it reached the consumer in better condition. Their idea was to put the fruit as quickly as possible before the consumer. Regarding the apple question Mr. Palmer said that the best apple-growing districts were in the interior of the Province. Last year all their apple crop found a market in the western part of the Territories. This year the crop was four times as large, and in the Okanagan country especially, there was a large and excellent apple crop. In connection with British-Columbian fruit he wished to say that as a whole the fruit crop of British Columbia would be later than that of California. Consumers here should be kept acquainted with market conditions so that they would not think that the fruit harvest was all over when the Californian fruit ceased coming in.

Referring to the mineral product of British Columbia Mr. Palmer said that it was now very large and not 20 per cent. of the mineral bearing land of the country had yet been prospected. In British Columbia would be found a large market for the surplus products of Manitoba so that there should be an exchange of British-Columbian products for the dairy products and flour of Manitoba.

Mr. Palmer also spoke of the attractions which his Province offered as a field for tourists. Its scenery, its fishing, its hunting, were all attractive. Conditions there were not uniform. There was every variety of soil and climate. At the coast the year was one perpetual summer and farther in the interior each beautiful valley had a charm of its own, although a somewhat colder climate. The line of the C.P.R. followed the lines of least resistance to construction and did not by any means touch the most beautiful part of the country. The Okanagan Valley in particular, was a district of wonderful beauty and of great fruit-growing capacity.

Mr. Palmer expressed his gratitude that an opportunity had been granted of displaying British-Columbian fruit at the Horticultural Exhibition in Winnipeg. He thought that nothing had done Winnipeg so much good as the boulevarding, tree planting and general beautifying of the streets that has been done here. He thought Winnipeg was now a very beautiful city and that nothing was helping it so much as the efforts of its citizens to beautify it.

Mr. Metcalfe followed Mr. Palmer. He said that the natural market of British Colimbia was in central and eastern Canada. The Dominion Government had done much to assist eastern fruit growers to place their products upon the British market. That market, on account of the distance, was not available to the fruit-growers of British Columbia, but they hoped to find a market in the Territories and Manitoba. They also hoped, as a product for shipping purposes, to make a feature of their prunes.

A LITTLE NONSENSE.

"I understand you said I wasn't worth powder enough to blow me up. I want you to take that back!"

"I will. You are worth just about enough powder to blow you up."

A little three-year-old miss, while her mother was trying to get her to sleep, became interested in a peculiar noise, and asked what it was.

A cricket, dear, replied her mother.

"A cricket, dear," replied the mother.

"Well," replied the little lady, "he ought to get himself oiled."

The following from the advertisement of a prominent wholesale grocer should be read and pondered by every dealer:

"Some grocers succeed where others seem to work just as hard and yet fail to achieve much—it is just as important to know what to push as it is how to push—pushing pure and pleasing products produces prosperity, but pushing poor stuff drives trade away."

It pays infinitely better to push a baking powder like "Royal," an article of known merit, whose good qualities are recognized and appreciated by all consumers.

Royal Baking Powder is easy to sell, and when sold there is always a pleased purchaser.

Royal Baking Powder is largely advertised and that helps the dealer; but a pleased purchaser is the best advertiser for your store, because she will recommend to others that dealer who has pleased her.

Royal Baking Powder is the highest class baking powder, made from pure cream of tartar, and absolutely free from alum or other harmful ingredient.

Cranston's Coin Trade Due Bills.

A boon to General Merchants, Grocers and all engaged in a Produce or credit Business.

Thousands of merchants in all parts of Canada and the United States have adopted The Cranston Trade Due Bill System, and are delighted with this up-to-date way of doing business. It does away with all the inconveniences of the old "Written Due Bill" system, and saves time, labor, trouble and money. As a trade-winner and advertising medium it has no equal.

After using them six years, J. E. Griffin, Dunnville, says: "We could not do business without them. They are worth more than double their cost to us."

McKenzie & Meldrum, Thedford, say: "We cannot say too much in their favor. The aluminum due bills are worth $200 a year to us, or any firm that use due bills or give credit."

And every one of our users will say as much for them. We will send you a list of users on application, and will pay your postage to write to them. If they do not tell you they are satisfied, do not order.

We make a number of assortments—$81 face value costs you $10; $91 or $116 face value costs $12; $191 face value costs $15, and $232 face value costs $20. This last assortment is "Our Leader." Coins are made in Brass or Aluminum, raised letters on both sides, your own advertising and printing.

Send for price list, samples and full particulars.

HOW TO OBTAIN RESULTS FROM ADVERTISING.

By GEO. B. FRANCK, Toronto.

THE great distributing machinery brought into existence by this era of combines demands ideas and methods of conducting business that were not thought of 20 years ago.

Manufacturers are not satisfied to remain at home, but it is their aim to have their business expand until goods produced by them are handled and sold in every portion of the civilized world.

Conditions are constantly changing. To-day men with ideas are exploiting them to the best of their ability; to-morrow the world looks for something better. The ever-present problem that confronts the manufacturer is how to cheapen the manufacture and lessen the cost of placing upon the market the articles he has manufactured. There is the jobber who must be reached, and generally through the medium of the commercial traveller. The dealer must also be interested, and last, but by no means least, is the great army of consumers. To reach the latter is the problem. This can be done and well done by good advertising, and the business man should make a judicious selection of mediums through which to advertise.

The primary object of advertising is to attract attention, to gain publicity for some particular commodity. The matter which goes to make up the advertisement must be attractive, unique, and presented in such a way as to catch the eye of the public, through the medium of the daily papers, circulars, magazines, and a hundred other ways.

Producers will manufacture and place upon the market more goods in the years to come than were ever placed upon the market before. Homes will be better and more liberally furnished, and these same manufacturers will be compelled to enlarge their plants and instal more machinery to meet the growing demand. The world judges effort largely by result. Above has been depicted the result: the means will be advertising.

This effort to gain publicity does not consist merely of contracting for a certain amount of space in certain papers or magazines, and crowding into it a lot of matter because there must be something said. Neither is it attractiveness alone that will count, but the genius of an advertiser will display itself in the way an "ad." is presented. There is not much trouble in telling the public what you have to sell; the secret lies in making them believe that they really need what you are advertising.

After advertising has begun to show results in the way of inquiries, it will not be sufficient to merely answer those inquiries, but they must be followed up. Following up a prospective purchaser is of as much importance as the advertising. A system must be established whereby the inquirer may be made aware of the fact that his business is valued. If you have several good reasons why a customer ought to purchase your goods, do not give him the whole lot in a lump, but spread them out in a series of three or four well-worded letters, and follow these up until he either purchases or it is plain that you cannot sell to him.

It has been demonstrated time and time again that good advertising more than pays for itself.

CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

From N.Y. Journal of Commerce, September 8.

THE stronger feeling noted on future red Alaska salmon culminated to-day in an advance by one of the principal interests on the Coast. A wire from Seattle, Wash., to The Pacific Selling Company here stated that The Pacific Packing and Navigation Co. to-day advanced its prices on red Alaska talls to $1 f.o.b. the Coast, and that all orders will now be taken subject to confirmation only. The reason for the advance, it is stated, is that the heavy export sales have so reduced stocks that it makes it probable that only a small quantity will be available for the home trade after the orders already booked are filled. So far as could be learned to-day the Alaska Packers' Association has not advanced above the 95c. basis for talls. It was stated at the offices of the Association's representatives here, however, that on the 95c. basis business was being taken only subject to Coast confirmation. It was considered probable that no action looking to an advance would be taken to-day. It is now believed that outside of the A. P. A. but one other interest is offering under $1. Several of the smaller interests have withdrawn entirely.

Although not officially stated it is believed that the late advices from Upper Alaska reporting a falling off below expectations on the pack in that section is one of the reasons for the present advance. It is stated that the total Alaska pack was expected to show an increase of from 500,000 to 600,000 cases over that of last year, but that estimates now figure on little if any increase over 1901. The following table shows the Alaska pack for the last five seasons: 1897, 939,400 cases; 1898, 960,400 cases; 1899, 1,098,800 cases; 1900, 1,534,700 cases; 1901, 2,022,740 cases.

The Western Alaska pack, the season for which closed on July 29, according to the local advices obtained, is said to be fully 20 per cent. short of that of last year. The amount put up by the principal canneries is as follows:

| | Cases. |
|---|---|
| Alaska Salmon Co. of San Francisco | 24,000 |
| Columbia River Packers' Association of Astoria | 27,000 |
| Portland-Alaska Packers' Association of Portland | 35,000 |
| Alaska Fishermen's Packing Co. of Astoria | 37,000 |
| Pacific Packing and Navigation Co. of Seattle. | 70,000 |
| Alaska Packers' Association of San Francisco, four canneries | 207,000 |

Two thousand and eight hundred barrels of salt salmon were put up. Reports from other fisheries on Behring Sea state that on Koggiung River a big pack has been put up; on Naknek and Ugaguk Rivers the pack is of fair size, but on Ugashik River it is exceptionally small.

At the moment on the spot red Alaska talls are available at $1.10, although it is believed that on this basis few lots could be obtained. Sales of two carloads for export account were made on Thursday and Friday, it is stated, on this basis. Most holders, however, quote up to $1.12½, and a few well-known brands are held at $1.15.

According to figures now available the Coast pack (Alaska excluded) is as follows, compared with last year:

| | Cases— 1902. | 1901. |
|---|---|---|
| Columbia River | 275,000 | 240,600 |
| Puget Sound | 290,000 | 1,105,000 |
| Fraser River | 325,000 | 1,200,000 |

The packs on the Washington coast, Skeena River, Oregon coast and Californian rivers are yet to be accounted for. The total Coast pack last year was 5,024,538 cases, compared with 3,216,518 cases for the year previous, an increase of 1,808,020 cases.

LABOR UNIONS THAT WILL FAIL.

By Charles M. Schwab, President of The United States Steel Corporation.

LABOR unions will fail as trusts have failed, as long as they have for their fundamental principle restriction of the output. I may add that every labor union with which I have ever come in contact has been founded on this principle.

A trust will succeed where consolidation is made for economy's sake; otherwise no trust will succeed.

Labor organizations have had as their foundations the restriction of the output. Now, this will never do. They will never succeed.

I am opposed to labor organizations as organized to-day. I think manufacturers are not opposed to labor organizations per se, but upon the plan upon which they are organized. I think the organizations that want to restrict the output are all wrong. The fortunes and prosperity of the workingman are identical with those of the employer, and I think that the time may come when they will be together.

IN THE ADIRONDACK MOUNTAINS.

The sweet green valleys ridged with heathery slopes
The streams whose soft blue arms encircle all,
And far away, the northern mountain tops,
Hued like the azure of the dewberry,
And mingling with the region of the rain.
—Buchanan.

TO a large number of Canadians the Adirondack region, or "Great North Woods," is a terra incognita, and this is not to be wondered at when we recall the multitude of beautiful mountain resorts which we have in our own country. However, the tourist in search of novelty and striking views knows no boundary line and enjoys revelling in the beauties of Nature whether it be in the Highlands of Muskoka, Banff Springs, in the Rockies, the Laurentides, at St. Agathe, or up the Saguenay, the beautiful St. John River in New Brunswick, the shimmering beauty of the Evangeline district, the Blue Mountains in Asheville, North Carolina, the entrancing Trossachs of Auld Scotia, the restful sweetness of the English Windermere lakes, Mount Snowdon, in Wales, Snaefell, in dear old Manxland, or the superb and majestic country of the Suisse.

To a Montrealer the Adirondacks have the great advantage of accessibility. Three hours from Montreal by the Canadian Pacific Railway and the New York Central Railway will place him within the portals of the northern gateway of the Adirondacks at the Mountain View Hotel, Mountain View Station, 1,600 feet above sea level. From the hotel balcony a grand view of the mountains may be obtained. No less than 14 forest-clad peaks being in sight with numerous lakes close at hand, one thinks of Byron :

There is a pleasure in the pathless woods,
There is a rapture in the lonely shore,
There is society, where none intrudes.

The massive pines which one delights to see in "the forest primeval" have nearly all been cut down by the remorseless lumberman except in extremely out-of-the-way places or where the United States Government has stepped in and reserved the section for the good of the people. The second and undergrowth, however, is marvelous, and the pure air is redolent with the rich sweetness of the cedars, balsam, spruce, hemlock, beech, birch, maple, elm and ash, while ferns, moss, golden rod and numerous wild flowers delight the eye and add to the delicious fragance.

The Mountain View Hotel is unique in its way. It is "run," as the Americans say, by the owner, Mr. Howard H. Lyman and his charming family. There is no "bar." Nor is there any in the village for the simple reason that no village exists. Only the hotel with the farm and boat-houses close by. Indian Lake, a fine sheet of water, is only a few yards from the verandah, which is ample and deep, with restful chairs for weary brains or aching limbs. The feeling of hotel life is absent, the place being home-like and invigorating.

You may take numerous day trips to places of interest. The village of Saranac, on Saranac Lake, is easily reached by rail in a couple of hours, and one can see lodging houses and village hotels to accommodate those with slender means in search of health or gaze upon the large caravansaries, such as the "Algonquin" Hotel or the "Ampersand," where the well-to-do New Yorker "puts up" and cools off after the excitement of coal strikes, beef trusts, watered stocks and Wall Street.

To Paul Smith's famous hotel is another day-trip or a drive from Mountain View to Schroeder's Glen (7 miles), probably one of the most bewitching spots on this broad earth. I must quote a Bostonian, who was one of the driving party. As the view burst forth, coming round a bend in the road, she exclaimed :

"This glorious vista lends a charm and produces an exuberant feeling which fills one with ecstasy, rapture and delight!"

"Amen," added a meek voice.

The extreme wildness of the surroundings is a great attraction. For instance, ask "Daisy," one of the young ladies of the house to show you High Falls. There is no beaten gravelled path here with a sign to "Keep off the grass," only a blazed trail through the woods — the haunt of deer — around stumps. Over fallen trees, "O'er moss and fell," bog and bramble our fair guide leads on until the falls are reached in a wild and sheltered glen, not marred by quack medicine advertisements, noisy mills or unsightly buildings. Here we had some more "tall" language in another vein. Several of the party were looking up at the lofty pines, and the following exclamations were indulged in :

"Ain't it sweet?"

"Oh, it's perfectly lovely!"

"It's real elegant!"

"Isn't it simply exquisite?"

Of course, my curiosity was aroused, and I looked up expecting to see a rara avis, a cockatoo, a bird of extraordinary plumage, or, perchance, a possum up a gum (spruce gum!) tree. No. Not even a squirrel in sight! At last, I inquired the cause of the excitement.

"Don't you see the big lump of fungus (toadstool) for painting upon. Isn't it delightful?"

"For the land's sake," some one exclaimed, "flap jacks and dough nuts and pumpkin pie, what a fuss over an unsightly product of dead wood!"

Returning to Mountain View we were quite ready for the tea mine host Lyman had ready for us and piles of smoking hot biscuits, ham and eggs with baked potatoes, etc., soon disappeared.

WILLIAM H. EVANS.

CLOCK FOR ADAM BALLENTINE.

At the last meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association of Hamilton the most interesting feature of it was the presentation of a handsome ebony clock to Adam Ballentine. It was in appreciation of Mr. Ballentine's services on the picnic committee. Joseph Kirkpatrick made the presentation, saying many nice things of the recipient's good work.

We want your judgment.

We want to have our Marguerite Cigars judged by every grocer in Canada. If there's a groceryman anywhere, selling tobaccos and cigars, who hasn't handled "Marguerites" we'd like to hear from him.

Our firm belief is that this cigar represents the very best value obtainable. We've been long enough in the business to know all about tobacco, and there isn't a leaf put into a Marguerite Cigar we'd be ashamed to show any customer. Take a trial lot. ## WHAT IS SALESMANSHIP?

From Mahin's Magazine.

THE offer of $25 made in the July issue of this magazine for the best definition of salesmanship brought many interesting replies. Copies of the definitions, without the names of the contestants, were placed in the hands of Mr. James B. McMahon, second vice-president and general sales manager of The N. K. Fairbank Company, who consented to act as judge. His decision, which awards the prize to Mr. George C. Hatt, 978 Broughton street, Vancouver, British Columbia, is given below, with his own interpretation of the subject :

Editor Mahin's Magazine, Chicago :

Dear Sir,—I return herewith the various definitions of "Salesmanship" which you submitted for my judgment as to the best.

I have chosen the following definition as embracing the most essential qualifications of a good salesman :

Salesmanship is that quality in a man, partly inherent, partly acquired, whereby he is able to successfully introduce to, interest in and sell to a prospective customer any article or commodity.

In considering this proposition, I have been embarrassed by the feeling that "salesmanship" is a very comprehensive term, and that there are different classes of salesmen, varying according to the requirements of the different businesses. These distinctions among salesmen are due to the evolution in the modern methods of conducting business, and this evolution now embraces most industries of the country. This is due to the widespread growth of so-called proprietary articles, which are largely developed and mainly sustained by advertising of one form or another. As a consequence, salesmen in the proprietary business, while prerequisite and indispensable, are nevertheless really an auxiliary force to advertising. In other lines of business, such as the marketing of staples, salesmen are still preeminent, and their duties in such lines differ from those of the specialty salesmen, inasmuch as they are the main, if not the sole, reliance of the producers or distributors.

In viewing "salesmanship," therefore, I have chosen to look at it from the advertising standpoint, considering that the proposition has emanated from an advertising source, and, consequently, it seems to me that the qualities that go to make a salesman are those which will introduce in the average store any article of passable merit at approximate market prices. I have always contended with our salesmen for this interpretation of "salesmanship," and I have always insisted that "salesmanship" can place any article for the first time in the average store anywhere. There are other considerations which formerly would have had a controlling influence in determining what constitutes "salesmanship," but, in the sense of selling advertised proprietary goods of fixed value, the proposition is reduced to a simpler form, and involves principally, in my opinion, the ability to persuade a dealer to invest in a proposition which is "cut and dried" for him by his employer. This may be taking a narrow view of the subject, but, as I have said before, a choice must be made of one class of salesmen, and I have chosen this type by reason of its relation to the advertiser. Neither does the type represent the simplest or easiest form of "salesmanship," because the proprietary field is flooded with articles of every class, and it takes a high quality of "salesmanship" to convince a merchant that there is going to be a demand created for every new brand that is offered on the market. I only recently read a report in The Commercial Tribune, of Denver, that there are 163 separate brands of baking powder (or mixtures called such) upon the shelves of grocers in the State of Iowa, yet that every one of these brands were sold to the grocer with a plausible story as to its quality and ready sale. Of course, every grocer had not all these brands on sale, but the average dealer has many of them, no doubt, and, in my judgment, it takes more than average ability to make such an addition to the average dealer's stock ; in fact, more ability, perhaps, than it would have taken to have sold him some ordinary staple that he bought periodically and required only a given quantity of at a time. In the latter case the sale would depend largely on the timeliness of the visit or the personal acquaintance with the dealer.

Other favorable definitions, viewing them from this standpoint, are the following :

The ability to sell goods or other property in a straightforward manner, with satisfaction to all concerned and with the least expenditure of time and money, but having always chiefly in view the benefit to be derived by the person for whom the property is sold. (George L. Beam, Denver, Colorado.)

Salesmanship is the subtle art by which a man who sells property of any description induces his customers first to desire and then to purchase. (William P. Perkins, Brooklyn, New York.)

Ability to gain confidence. Judgment to comprehend a customer. Tact to win and hold progress, and wisdom to determine when a transaction is completed. (W. G. Peters, Chicago.)

Salesmanship is the art of influencing the mind of people. Making them believe it would be to their advantage to have certain things. This may be done either verbally or by means of advertising. (A. C. Eddy, Chicago.)

Mr. F. C. Letts, president of The Western Grocery Co., which controls nine of the largest wholesale houses in the country, was also requested to express his understanding of salesmanship as a general term. His reply presents views of more than ordinary interest, and is as follows :

I find many good points in nearly all of these answers on salesmanship. If I had time I would pick words out of several and make one to suit myself. In going over these definitions and reading them hastily, I find several that are par excellence. The following is a good one and covers many good points.

Salesmanship is that quality in a salesman which enables him within the shortest space of time to place in possession of his customer the greatest amount of satisfactory merchandise, and in the coffers of his employers the greatest amount of profits, while at the same time preserving the lasting respect and good-will of the customer. (D. M. Carter, Jackson, Michigan.)

That definition is almost par excellence. Note that within the shortest space of time he places in possession of his customers the greatest amount of satisfactory merchandise, and, at the same time, and the very thing that he is working for, in the coffers of his employers the greatest amount of profit. A salesman is no good unless he can make profit for his employer, and he cannot continue to be a good salesman unless he does what this definition says—preserve the lasting respect and good-will of the customer. Bearing in mind, please, that he has made a good profit for his employer.

Another good one :

To tell all the truth about a commodity and portray its advantages so convincingly as to produce the absolute conviction and confidence necessary to make a sale, and to maintain such interest and increase sales by educating the purchaser in successful methods of disposing of or using the goods. (A. M. Woodward, Gen. Sales Agt., Acme White Lead and Color Works, Detroit, Michigan.)

There are many good points in this definition, because a good salesman must learn to educate the purchaser in a way so that he can successfully get rid of the goods. Many a man can go out and sell goods to a retailer, we will say; but, then, the retailer may have the goods on his shelf for a long time. So it is necessary that he should educate the purchaser in the successful methods of disposing of or using the goods.

Another definition that contains many good points :

Salesmanship is the science of putting into each day's work honesty in speech, loyalty to employer, the hustle of modern civilization, of being on time, of watching your weak points and strengthening them; of not only keeping your customers, but gaining new ones; of being at all times a gentleman. (H. D. Thurston, Colorado Springs, Colorado.)

This is a good one. For a salesman to be continually successful he must first be honest. Next, he must be loyal to his employers; he must be a hustler; he must be on time. Too many travelling men and salesmen do not realize the necessity of being on time. When they make an engagement, to be there on the moment; when they promise a customer to be in their town on a certain time, to be there right on the dot. And the successful salesman must not only keep his customers, but gain new ones. And a successful salesman nowadays must be a gentleman to succeed.

Another good one :

Salesmanship is best defined by the two words, prudence, magnetism; the exercise of sagacity in securing business, knowledge of the most suitable means to secure new trade; the ability to retain patronage. (Christian Eckhard, St. Louis, Mo.)

As a rule a good salesman does have, and must have, prudence and magnetism; and without the latter, particularly, he does not amount to very much as a salesman.

Another good one :

To convince the merchant against his convictions that he needs the goods, by presenting your sample and calling his attention to the space it occupies in the circular press. Thus to enthuse him to the point of purchasing and pushing them, especially when the sale is introductory, is salesmanship. (Charles A. Humphrey, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma Territory.)

I agree with this last fellow. A good salesman should know his goods so well that he can convince the merchant, even against his convictions, that he needs the goods; then he must enthuse him in such a way that after he does once purchase them, he will push them.

Very truly yours,
F. C. Letts.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Waste in the Meat Trade—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

WASTE IN THE MEAT TRADE.

MR. ANDREW WEBB, a large cattle dealer of England, is on a visit to Canada for the purpose of investigating the system of utilizing the offal from cattle slaughtered here. In an interview with a newspaper reporter he said :

"When I arived in Montreal, I was shown over the abattoir, and was utterly amazed to see the waste that was incurred through the laxity of the wholesale butchers using it. I made inquiries and was informed that the offal was merely used as a land fertilizer.

SAME SYSTEM HERE.

"When I arrived in Toronto I found the same system in vogue. I thought it was useless going farther into the country to investigate, when the two leading cities of Canada showed the smaller cities such a bad example of waste. Well might the American, when he arrives and is shown over your abattoirs, smile, and go away satisfied, and stick to that old adage, 'Silence is golden,' knowing full well that so long as Canada is kept in ignorance of the value of her waste they (the Americans) can have the full run of all our English markets to reap a golden harvest from what is classed as waste in this country.

WHAT IS DONE IN ENGLAND.

"In England the guts of every beast slaughtered is contracted for at the rate of 2s. 6d. (60c.) per set, and then the company who buys will also send an experienced man to the abattoir to take them out of the fat. The next item is the liver, which is usually sold at from 5 to 10c. each, and then only a few, the others being destroyed. In England these same livers are worth, wholesale, 6 to 7c. per lb., an average liver weighing 10 lb., making 65c., thus being a good profit of 55c. on each liver, and then I am putting the livers down at their lowest possible weight, and leaving a good margin for further profit. Again, the tripe, which is another article for the waste tub, nicely cleansed and sent to England, would fetch a ready sale at 50c. each, showing you by a rough estimate the loose manner in which you conduct one of the largest business concerns in the country.

$1.65 LOST ON EACH BEAST.

"In three articles alone you lose $1.65 on each beast you slaughter, without taking the extra profit you would reap by cleansing the gut of the beast, and, therefore, doing away with the middleman's profit. In two cities, Toronto and Montreal, the average slaughter of meat is about 2,000 per week, for a population of 600,000 persons. Your population of Canada (being at a guess) 6,000,000, it would take 20,000 beasts per week, or over 1,000,000 of beasts every year to feed the population of your country, and here I show you a waste of $1.65 on every beast slaughtered, which would show that profit, and show it easily, if carefully handled, and I would not have the least hesitation in saying that if the butchers of Canada could be brought together (or their representatives) a system could be introduced on the simplest plan imaginable, which would reach from one end of the Dominion to the other, whereby the small butcher killing from one to five beasts per week, up to the large wholesale butcher, killing 500 to 600 head of cattle weekly, would be able to take their share in the profit according to the number of cattle slaughtered by each person, and I have not the least fear in saying the profits would reach $2,000,000 per annum, and that without taking into account the enormous waste that is incurred in the sheep trade.

CANADIANS SHOULD VISIT ENGLAND.

"If a few butchers were to visit England and see the hundreds of thousands of livers, hearts, guts, brains, tongues (3s., 75c.) and tails that are put on our market every week by the large American and Australian packing firms, and find a ready sale there, you will be quite ready to admit that you are a long way behind the times, and that you throw away over $2,000,000 annually in waste.

WHO SUFFERS THE LOSS?

"And now comes the question, Who suffers the loss, and upon whose shoulders does it fall, the wholesale cattle dealer, the retail butcher or the farmer? I will leave you at this point and let you discuss the situation between yourselves, and see if it really is worth while to try and rectify the wanton waste, and if you want any further information, I shall be glad to be of any service to you."

CHILLING MEATS.

Refrigerating meat is a vital process and should be carefully attended to after slaughtering. The carcass should be well washed down with warm water in which has been dissolved a small quantity of good purifying agent such as borax ; then, before going to cooler, be allowed to drip clean, and cool off somewhat. The fresh carcass should be in the cooler not less than 48 hours ; better still, 60 or 70 hours. In any case until every vestige of animal heat has been gradually extracted. This is effected when the heat centre of the meat shows 40 deg. Fah. on thermometer when inserted. This is one of the most essential points towards the successful handling and curing of any kind of meats.

Freezing is exceedingly injurious to fresh meats as such action solidifies the liquid parts and seals the outer parts first, slowly closing in on the heat centre, which, as a rule, is beginning to decompose. However, this is arrested by the freezing process for the time being, but goes on as the meat thaws out. Thus, before curing material can reach the effected point, the meat is spoiled. Frozen meats will not admit of the action of salt, etc., which, to enter, must displace some of the liquids. This fact accounts for the colored pickle when meats have been therein some time.—National Provisioner.

U.S. CATTLE FOR CANADA.

The West Texas Stockman states the following to be the number of cattle that will be brought into Canada for the purpose of feeding : Littlefield Cattle Co., 2,000 ; Merchant & Parramore, 10,000 ; Woott & Robertson, 15,000 ; Turkey Track, 15,000; Reynolds Bros., 10,000 ; Daugherty, 8,000; Cowden & Pemberton, 6,000—making a total of 150,000 head. The report was that 1,000,000 head would go from Texas. As the paper is the official organ of the Texas Cattle Raisers' Association, the above figures should be accurate.

Referring to the above, the National Provisioner, New York, says : "The moving of 150,000 Texas cattle to Canada for grass means more than seems at first sight. It means that the American ranges are being overstocked and overgrazed; it means that the Canadian Northwest is a future factor in our beef raising, unless American ranchers and ranch conditions are better conserved and improved; it means that the invasion of Mexico for

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The market for dressed hogs has advanced 25 to 50c. per 100 lb. owing to the good demand that has lately sprung up for them. The receipts are small. Hindquarters of beef are down 50c. to $1 per 100 lb., and all kinds of beef are active. The live hog market is 12½c. easier than last week owing to a slight decline on the English market. The arrivals are free and the buying fairly active. We quote: Dressed hogs, $9.25 to $9.75; beef carcasses, $6.50 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $7.50 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.50 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 8 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 7 to 8c. Select live hogs are worth $7.12½ and fat and lights, $6.87½ per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

Business in all lines of provisions is active, and stocks of cured meats are getting light. In view of the heavy demand for lard that has recently sprung up the market for it is strong. Quotations follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10¼c; plate beef, $15 per 200 lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

Trade in provisions continued to be fairly satisfactory during the week. In smoked meats business is up to the average for this season of the year. Lard is in some demand, both pure and compound moving fairly well, and at unchanged prices. It is reported that on account of a large quantity of American pork being put on this market that a very little Canadian short cut mess pork has appeared on the market.

In dressed hogs there has been an advance of 25c., and the market is firm at the new figure. A fair jobbing trade is doing in fresh-killed abattoir dressed hogs, there being a good demand from butchers for

IMMIGRATION OF AMERICANS TO CANADA.

According to a Winnipeg, Man., special to The Evening Post, the extent of immigration into Manitoba and the Northwest Territories from the United States is little understood in the east. Sir Charles Dilke's prophecy of 12 years ago that these fertile lands would become the wealth centre of the Dominion is already being fulfilled. For the year ending June 30, 1902, 19,570 persons from the United States took up homesteads in Manitoba and the Northwest Territories, against 5,197 in the preceding year. Actual settlers number five times as many, as only heads of families can take up homesteads. In 1900 land along the C.P.R. was worth $3 an acre; now there are few obtainable lots close to the line, while the price of the nearest is $7 to $8 an acre. An examination of Winnipeg hotel registers shows that 40 per cent. of the visitors are from the United States. It is said that the cheapness of land makes it possible to produce wheat and flour at less cost than in Minnesota or the Dakotas. Millers of Minneapolis and St. Paul are anxious to get Canadian wheat, and are advocating reciprocity with Canada with the idea of having the grain duty removed. This influx of Americans is proving of great benefit to Canadian development, especially in the line of capital, as the American settlers are bringing millions with them into the country.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

A PRIVATE cable received in New York from Smyrna withdrew offerings of all descriptions of figs. One operator has advanced prices on goods to arrive ½c. above original quotations on layers.

Dodwell & Co., Limited, Colombo, Ceylon, under date of August 13, advise as follows regarding the tea auction of that date: "Of 11,658 packages equal to 953,674 lb., brought forward, 9,986 packages, equal to 778,584 lb., passed the hammer. The general tone of the market was firmer all round. Common to medium grades received more attention, especially medium brokens, and prices were dearer. There was a good inquiry for fine teas, which were well competed for, and last week's rates were fully maintained. Quality.—Some of the high district teas showed a further improvement. Low-country teas no change. The average price for the sale held on the 30th ultimo was 30c., as compared with 31c. for the previous auction."

CALIFORNIAN DRIED FRUITS.

The San Francisco Trade Journal has the following on dried fruits: "There is a continued good export demand for prunes. This is due to the light crop of all kinds of fruits in Europe. Two years ago when California had a large crop of prunes there was a large crop of apples abroad; this year we have a large crop of prunes, but Europe has a light crop of apples, and it is the cooking apples which can be kept fresh throughout the winter that cut into the consumption of both dried and canned fruits. Our market for apricots, apples and peaches is very dull and highly unsatisfactory. Advices of continued rejections of fruits shipped east, although the quality in nearly every instance is up to the regular grades, make shippers weary and offish. The losses through rejections will be heavy."

CANNED SALMON SITUATION.

Writing from Chicago under date of the 11th inst., The J. K. Armsby Co. have the following on salmon: "It is needless to say a great deal more in regard to the shortage of red salmon, the shortage is now a fact, and no longer a theory; 75 per cent. of all the salmon packed in the world is the so-called red fish, which comprises sockeyes and red Alaska; insomuch as this grade is anywhere from 1,700,000 to 1,900,000 cases short as compared with last season, and with 90 per cent. of this year's pack of sockeye already sold to Europe and Australia, it leaves practically no red salmon for the domestic market, with the exception of the Alaska red. Already a large number of Alaska packers have notified their buyers of short delivery; some of them are delivering 25 per cent., some 40 per cent., some 50 per cent.; other packers have withdrawn altogether; still others have advanced their price to $1."

CANNED SALMON IN LONDON.

The position of the better grades of salmon on the spot has materially improved during the past week, principally owing to cable confirmation from Vancouver that the fishing on the Fraser had already closed, and that the 1902 pack will not exceed 260,000 cases, compared with 960,000 cases last year, which was an exceptional one. Notwithstanding the large pack in 1901, there is very little of first-class quality remaining in importers' hands, the bulk of the goods being second rate. Large sales have been made within the past few days at advanced rates, and a further improvement in prices is anticipated. Prices for the new pack have not as yet been fixed, but they are expected to be much higher than those of last year, not only because the pack is a small one, but that the fish have cost the canners nearly twice as much as they did last season. The cheapest quality of salmon at the present moment are the finest brands of Alaska, and buyers would do well not to allow present prices to pass before securing their requirements.—Produce Markets' Review, August 30.

TOMATOES AND CORN IN BALTIMORE.

The condition of corn and tomatoes in the market remains about the same. In other words, tomatoes are satisfactory both to packers and distributors, and the situation in corn is not so. The season is so nearly closed on tomatoes and the corn condition is so well understood that the community has about become accustomed to the prevailing conditions; and we believe through a large part of the country, among the canners, there is more interest in beans than in any other staples at present.

Of the quotations in the markets there are few or no changes. No. 3 standard tomatoes are quoted now at 90c., which shows the market is steadily hardening. The increase in the value of material has caused an advance in the quotations of okra and tomatoes, which are quoted now at 75 to 80c. for No. 2 and 95c. to $1 for No. 3.—The Trade, Baltimore, M September 12.

NEW VALENCIA RAISINS IN LONDON.

The first arrival of new Valencias, per Arana, was placed on the market on Monday last, and met with a good reception. The fruit, although somewhat lacking in size, is satisfactory as regards quality and condition. Half-boxes realized from 40 to 42s., ¼ boxes, 44 to 50s. An equally good demand from the trade was apparently experienced, as the market has displayed a hardening tendency during the week, and the shipment is now practically cleared. The ss. Pinta and ss. Ruby are due on Monday, together bringing about 50 tons, and the end of next week should see the arrival of the ss. Certes, with about 150 tons. Although shipments are by no means heavy and the fruit afloat has been shipped at high costs, a hand-to-mouth policy of buying would appear to be the only safe course to adopt.—Produce Markets' Review, August 30.

CURRANTS IN LONDON.

The market for currants has been characterized by a general desire to clear out remnants to make way for new fruit. Some holders of Provincial, however, still refuse to accept ruling prices, apparently in the expectation that sooner or later the present quotations for the new crop will change in an upward direction. Reports of general rain in Greece were received at the beginning of the week, and as fully one-third of the crop was then still exposed on the drying grounds, a temporary stiffening in prices occurred. As this advance has now again been lost, it would seem that little or no damage was done—a matter for congratulation for all concerned. The London market will be well supplied for nearly all grades of new currants early next week, from the cargoes of ss. Henry Fisher, Naranja, Lusitania and Rescue. The Genoa, with the first shipment of Pyrgos fruit is due a few days later. Prices of all currants are so reasonable as compared with those which have characterized the opening of recent seasons, and in relation to the estimate of the crop, grocers may reasonably be expected to replenish their exceptionally depleted stocks with more liberality than usual.—Produce Markets' Review, August 30.

NEWFOUNDLAND LOBSTER PACK.

Speaking of the lobster pack, The Trade Review, St. John's, says: "Inferior goods are not looked for at all, and we are pleased to learn that there are very few poor lobsters packed this year. The inducement to turn out a good article in this line is becoming greater every year."

"Let us make the capital stock $1,000,000,000," said the first promoter.

"All right," said the second, who was preparing the prospectus on the typewriter.

"Will it be hard to increase that capital?" asked the first.

"No, indeed. All I have to do is to hit this 0 key a few more times."

PROFIT IN HANDLING OIL.

The storing and retailing of oil and gasoline has always been a vexatious problem to merchants who have not as yet recognized the advantages of applying up-to-date methods to this part of their business. There is always more or less evaporation and waste of oil through the use of dirty, sloppy measures, leaky barrels, etc. A great deal of time is lost in running to the back room or down cellar, which necessitates leaving the store uncared for. There are always disagreeable oil odors, oily floors, oily hands, and a considerable amount of delicate groceries spoiled. Every one who has handled oils in the old way knows how disagreeable it is.

There have, however, been great advances made in the handling of oil, and those who have installed the Bowser self-measuring and computing outfits find it as easy and agreeable to handle oil as any other article.

S. F. Bowser & Co. (Incorporated), Fort Wayne, Ind., are the manufacturers, and have but recently made several very important changes, which they fully explain in their printed matter, which, like their outfit, is of the highest class.

This firm has always had the reputation of making the best, most convenient, economical and satisfactory outfit on the market, and of representing it exactly as it was, so that their statement that their present outfit is the best in every way that they have ever put out will be widely accepted.

Attention is called to the advertisement of this firm on another page of this issue.

FIRE AT SPANISH STATION.

The village of Spanish Station is about wiped out by fire. F. E. Lang's store and dwelling and about all his stock were burned; no insurance.

W. H. Graham's store and part of his stock were burned; partly insured.

H. J. Hamilton has registered as sole owner, under the style of Hamilton & Co., and will commence business as general merchant at Spanish Station.

F. E. Lang and W. H. Graham will both go out of business.

SULTANA RAISINS HIGHER.

A cable from Smyrna reports an advance of 1s. 6d. per cwt. in Sultana raisins due to heavy buying in that market for England.

The A. F. MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. secured a gold medal for their cheese at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition.

THE FIRST VALENCIA RAISINS.

The first shipment of new season's Valencia raisins arrived on the Toronto market on Wednesday night. The shipment was a fairly large one and the quality of the fruit reported to be good. Thomas Wilson, manager of The Trading Agency of Canada, was the importer, and he has another carload close at hand.

BALTIMORE CANNED PEACHES.

Baltimore mail advices under date of Saturday, September 13, say: "Certainly the peach market has shown its ability all along to take care of itself, and right from the very first all the indications pointed strongly toward a higher market for all grades, which has come to pass. For instance, 3-lb. pie peaches, which were 50 to 55c. early in the season, are now 65c., and within the last three days gallon pie peaches have jumped from $1.90 to $2.25 per dozen."

TO DISPLAY HOLIDAY GOODS.

Among merchants, it is the general opinion that holiday goods especially should be well displayed. If visitors do not see the desired article before them they do not take the trouble to ask for it. Frequently, too, the would-be purchaser hardly knows what he desires, so that a gift-article is half sold when displayed properly in a suggestive manner. A most suitable device for the correct and artistic display of nearly all classes of merchandise is the adjustable stand or table. It can be moved about from place to place and makes a splendid and economical substitute for the old-fashioned counter. It can be used as a table, or in five different positions as shelves, and the goods do not have to be removed to alter positions as each shelf remains on a level while the stand is changed. United Factories, Limited, Toronto, will cheerfully furnish any information required regarding this splendid invention which they highly recommend for the Christmas trade.

FOOD INSPECTION.

THE chief food inspector of Montreal has issued his report for the month of August. It contains some paragraphs of particular interest to grocers.

Two grocers were warned that they must not expose bread for sale outside the store or at the doors. This warning has been given before to other grocers, but there appears to be still a number who do not take the hint. Almost every thinking grocer has pronounced against the placing of such goods in the way of all the dirt that must naturally come from the street. Some grocers will not even display goods in cans, or cases of any kind on the street, objecting to their being soiled by sun or dust. And bread should be the last of all things to expose in that manner.

Included in the food confiscated as not fit to be eaten, according to the inspector's report, was 500 lb. of fruit, candies, etc., from grocery, fruit and candy stores. At various butcher shops and wholesale stores in Montreal 300 lb. of beef were seized; 115 lb. of veal; 20 head of poultry, 90 lb. of pork; 35 lb. of fish, and 160 lb. of bruised meat.

Fourteen bakers were notified that their drivers must deliver the bread in baskets, not in their hands.

The inspector had his suspicions aroused by the appearance of some foods, and 20 samples were sent to the city analyst to be analyzed.

These efforts of the inspector to prevent the sale of impure foods will, in time, produce good results.

CANADIAN BEEF IGNORED.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is in receipt of a price list issued by The Army & Navy Auxiliary Co Operative Supply, Limited, of London, England. As our readers are well aware, this is a large retail concern in England which does an enormous business in all kinds of food products.

In this price list quite a little space is devoted to meats of different kinds. But one thing that strikes a Canadian in perusing it is the entire absence of any reference to Canadian beef. In the list of colonial beef, New Zealand and Australia are given quite a little prominence, while Canada is ignored entirely. Again, in the matter of American beef, it is set forth that "fresh beef available in London is provided from the importation of American cattle alive." Canada is again ignored.

Why Canada is thus ignored we are unable to say. During the year ending June 30 last we exported to Great Britain nearly 148,000 head of cattle, valued at $9,742,000. According to the British trade returns, the number of cattle imported into Great Britain from all countries in 1901 was 494,222, valued at $42,909,000. It is evident from these figures that Great Britain imports from Canada a respectable quantity of live cattle, which, of course, have to be slaughtered immediately on arrival on the other side. How the Army & Navy stores can, therefore, ignore the position of Canadian meat on the English market is problematical, and it seems to us that the matter is worthy the attention of the High Commissioner's office in London.

IMPROVEMENT WITH NEW REGIME.

IT is the general opinion that the recent Exhibition at Toronto, from an industrial point of view, was an improvement over its immediate predecessors. How much the credit of this is due to the new executive head we are not prepared to say. It is, however, significant that the improvement has come with the accession of Mr. McNaught, a successful business man, to the presidency.

THE CANADIAN GROCER has had occasion during the last two or three years to take exception to the neglect of the industrial features of the Toronto Exhibition, and it is therefore with some degree of satisfaction it observes that the cause for adverse criticism in this respect is much less evident than it was. And this improvement has been accomplished without in anyway impairing the entertainment features of the Exhibition. The trouble hitherto has been that more effort appeared to be concentrated on the entertainment than on the industrial features of the exhibit.

The management is certainly to be congratulated on the arrangements made for the exhibit of dairy products. Dairying is one of the chief industries of the country; but until this year one not acquainted with the fact could have easily concluded, from the way it was treated by the management, that it was insignificant and unimportant. There was no exhibit at the Fair this year that excited more general interest than the dairy exhibit with its daily practical demonstrations.

In the exhibit of machinery and electrical goods another improvement was to be seen. It has been a standing complaint with the manufacturers of machinery that the treatment accorded them by the management was simply cavalier. While all the irritation caused thereby may not have been removed, it is evident that a great deal of it has.

The main purpose of an exhibition is to hold forth to the gaze of the public the industrial life of the country as revealed in the products of the factory and field. President McNaught, with his business instinct, evidently recognizes this, and, as a result, his regime opened auspiciously.

UNFAIR TO MERCHANTS IN SMALL TOWNS.

IT is a worthy ambition that merchants of certain towns and cities have to attract customers from other places. And they cannot be blamed when, having this end in view, they endeavor to secure special rates from the railway and steamboat companies to assist them. At the same time, however, it must be remembered that the merchants from the towns whose customers they try to attract are also entitled to some consideration.

At the meeting of the Union of Canadian Municipalities in Montreal this week this was one of the questions which came up for discussion, and was referred to a committee for consideration. It seems to us, however, that questions like this are outside the province of such an organization as that of the Union of Canadian Municipalities.

In championing such schemes they are only assisting the merchants in the large cities in their efforts to attract customers from the merchants in the smaller towns and villages throughout the country. If the merchants in such cities as Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, and other places that might be mentioned, desire special rates, let them secure them on their own volition, and not call to their aid large organized bodies.

The more trade that is taken away from the smaller towns the less merchandise will the railways have to carry to the points thus affected, and it does not, therefore, seem to us in the interest of the railway companies that any such special rates should be accorded.

In the competition between the merchants of different cities and towns, it appears to us that they should be allowed to fight it out for themselves without any one of them being given the support of the railway companies, which they practicalty are when one is accorded special rates to the disadvantage of the other.

Let every town stand upon its own bottom on such matters. Discriminating passenger rates are no fairer than discriminating freight rates.

THE BONUSING EVIL.

During the convention in Montreal this week of the Union of Canadian Municipalities quite a little discussion ensued on the question of bonuses to manufacturers by municipalities, and a resolution was adopted by 24 to 1 condemning the principle.

This is a question which has occupied a great deal of attention in the Provincial Legislature of Ontario, and while laws have been placed on the statute books designed to minimize what is obviously an evil, the evil still exists in an unmodified form.

While very little may be done by such resolutions as that passed in Montreal a few days ago, it will have the effect of assisting to educate the public to put a stop to the bonusing system. It is a fact worthy of notice that some of the smaller municipalities in the country, which have been the most persistent in granting bonuses with a view to coaxing industries from other parts to their neighborhood, are to-day in a most unsatisfactory condition financially.

MANITOBA'S FRUIT REQUIREMENTS.

AT a recent banquet given in Winnipeg to Mr. Phillips, the fruit inspector for the Northwest, it was stated that the amount of fresh fruit consumed in Winnipeg annually was valued at about $168,000.

As our readers are well aware very little fruit is produced in Manitoba. Consequently the people there have to depend altogether on what they bring in from Ontario, British Columbia and California. Unfortunately for Ontario's credit, the fruit which has been brought into Manitoba from that Province has not turned out well, not that the fruit was inferior, but that the method of packing and shipping was decidedly so, causing a great deal of loss and dissatisfaction. The result has been so unsatisfactory, as THE CANADIAN GROCER pointed out in a previous issue, that some of the large firms in Winnipeg have decided not to handle Ontario fruit for the present.

It is evident from the figures we have quoted that the market is worth cultivating, for not only is there a large quantity of fruit consumed there now, but the market is a growing one, and no one can say what its extent will be in a very few years. As we have already pointed out, the dissatisfaction with Ontario fruit is not on account of its quality. We have not, therefore, to call upon Nature, but to the shippers of fruit to employ better methods of packing and shipping their product. We are glad to notice that some of them are already doing this, as our Winnipeg correspondent pointed out last week. California has already secured the lion's share of the Winnipeg market, and British Columbian fruit promises ere long to be no small factor in the market. It, therefore, behooves the shippers of Ontario to bestir themselves if their position in the Manitoba market is not to be made worse rather than better.

CANADA AND NEWFOUNDLAND.

SIR ROBERT BOND, the Newfoundland Premier, has returned from Washington, where he has been with a view to reopening reciprocity negotiations with the United States.

Canada can scarcely view with equanimity the reopening of these negotiations. A dozen years ago what is commonly known as the Bond-Blaine Treaty only needed the approval of the British Government to give it effect. This, it will be remembered, was withheld at the instigation of the Canadian Government.

If a commercial treaty between Newfoundland and the United States was distasteful to the Dominion 12 years ago, it can scarcely be less so now. Our trade with Newfoundland is larger than it was then. Our exports to that colony, for example, are over $1,000,000 larger. But should the present efforts to secure a treaty with the United States be successful, it is practically certain to receive the approval of the Imperial authorities, for we have it upon the word of Sir Robert Bond himself that he has the consent of the Home Government in his present negotiations with Washington.

Nothing as far as we are aware has been publicly said in regard to the attitude of the Dominion Government on the question. But it certainly cannot afford to be unconcerned.

At the same time, however, it is questionable whether it should take the same stand as it did in regard to the Bond-Blaine treaty. It is contrary to the spirit that rules within the British Empire to-day. What it should do, however, is to take time by the forelock and open negotiations with Newfoundland with a view to accomplishing what we failed to do when the Confederation of the Dominion was consummated.

THE COAST SALMON PACK.

In an interview published in The Times, of Seattle, Washington, under date of September 7, Charles Corby, manager of the Pacific Selling Co., at Seattle, Wash., one of the best-informed authorities on salmon, says: "The total packs in cases for the year 1901 in Alaska, on the Fraser and Skeena Rivers, Rivers Inlet and the Naas River in British Columbia, and Puget Sound, and on the Columbia River, were as follows:

|---|---|
| Alaska | 2,022,704 |
| Fraser River | 946,879 |
| Skeena River | 127,374 |
| Rivers Inlet | 73,536 |
| Naas River | 22,500 |
| Puget Sound (sockeye pack) | 1,116,207 |
| Columbia River | 240,600 |
| Total pack 1901 | 4,549,800 |

"Packs of the outside rivers of Washington and Oregon, together with the Sacramento River, brought the total for the season of 1901 to about 5,024,538 cases.

"The pack for the season of 1902, so far as it can be ascertained, will be about as follows:

|---|---|
| Alaska (allowing Col. Kutchin's estimate of over 2,000,000 cases, say, about) | 2,200,000 |
| Fraser River | 265,000 |
| Skeena River | 140,000 |
| Rivers Inlet | 71,000 |
| Naas River | 21,000 |
| Puget Sound (sockeye pack) | 309,000 |
| Columbia River | 275,000 |
| Pack for 1902 to date | 3,281,000 |

"Thus the estimated shortage this year, compared with last, at the figures given, will be in the neighborhood of 1,300,000 cases.

"Notwithstanding the fact that the pack in Alaska last season was more than half a million cases greater than in 1900, the total quantity of red fish packed was sold before March 1 of this year, and a premium was paid in Eastern markets for early shipments of this year's pack, which were brought down specially by steamers to fill the demand.

"The phenomenal demand for salmon, which has increased more than 100 per cent. since 1898, is due to the fact that new markets have been opened in China, Japan, and the Orient generally, Australia and South Africa. This, with the increased consumption in the United Kingdom and in the domestic markets of the United States, will undoubtedly make the present pack, as now estimated, insufficient to fill the world's requirements until the pack of next season is ready for the market. The spring pack on the Columbia River is reported as entirely sold up and prices have already been withdrawn."

The Province, Vancouver, in its issue of September 3, said:

"The Fraser River fishermen find that, according to the pack returns to-day made by the canners, they caught just 2,418 cases of fish too many to entitle them to 18c. per fish under the sliding scale of prices agreed upon at the commencement of the fishing season.

"The returns submitted to the fishermen showed that the total pack of the canneries amounted to 282,630 cases. The pack of trapped fish was set out as being 30,212 cases, and that number deducted from the total left 252,418 cases of fish, upon which basis the canners stated they were prepared to make payment.

"Had the season's pack amounted to 249,999 cases the fishermen would have been entitled to 18c. per fish, but as the pack returns made this morning show that the quarter million mark has been slightly exceeded, the sliding scale agreed upon calls for settlement at 16½c. per fish.

"The fisherman, however, are not satisfied with the count made by the canners, and arrangements have accordingly been made for representatives of the men to visit the canneries and check the pack. G. Mackie and A. Halcrow, members of the New Westminster Fishermen's Union, left this afternoon for Steveston to commence the checking. They will be assisted by a member of the Japanese Union. Charles Durham, secretary of the Grand Lodge, and Mr. Nekeshima, representing the Japanese Union, this afternoon commenced the checking of the written returns from the canneries, upon which count the total submitted by the canners this morning was figured."

PERSONAL MENTION.

Messrs. S. W. Moore, general merchant, Churchill, Ont.; T. A. Fisher, grocer, Lindsay, Ont.; James Row, general merchant, Avon P.O., Ont., were in Toronto last week.

A few Fair visitors at E. W. Gillett Company Limited: J. A. Dawson, Peterborough; Mrs. J. A. Dawson, Peterborough; W. A. Sillick, Teeswater; Dr. R. M. Bateman, Pickering; Herman Becker, (D. & H. Becker), New Hamburg; P. L. M. Egan (Egan Bros.), St. Thomas; John Pratt, Heathcote; Dr. A. F. Pirie, Cartago, Costa Rica, C. A.; Dr. G. Wild, Dundas, Ont.; R. McQuarrie (McQuarrie & Co.), Alton.

EXHIBIT OF SUGAR BEETS.

The beet-sugar exhibit under the direction of Mr. Harcourt, Minister of Agriculture, attracted many visitors of the Toronto Exposition. In this exhibit was an illustration plot showing beets in various stages of development, from those just ready to thin to the full grown beet which had been planted in April. Samples were also given inside the building of beets grown experimentally from Brantford, Markham, Brussels, Guelph, Orangeville and St. Catharines. Methods of cultivating beets so as to prevent waste were also shown. There was also a complete display of the instruments necessary for the cultivation of this industry. The rapid progress made in the sugar-beet industry is shown by a chart. From 1900 to the present year the acreage in beets has increased from 600 to 20,000 acres. Four new factories with an aggregate capacity of 2,200 tons of beets per day will be in operation in the fall. Next year it is calculated $1,000,000 will be paid to the farmers of Ontario for sugar beets.

BACK FROM COLOMBO.

J. M. Lobb, of Rodenwald & Heath, Colombo and Shanghai, arrived in Toronto this week. Mr. Lobb has many friends in Toronto and they are warmly welcoming him on his return to his native city.

TRADE CHAT.

The peach crop of Essex this year is the largest since the freeze-out in 1898 and heavy shipments are being made. The season will be at its height in about a week, but the latest peaches will not be ready for the market for three weeks yet.

Mr. Christopher, one of the oldest and most esteemed merchants of Sydney, died last week in Antigonish.

Theo. Ruggle, who has a general store at Floradale, Ont., was married recently near Wallenstein, to Miss Henrietta Powell.

A. E. Mullett, of the J. H. Laird grocery establishment, Galt, has been appointed travelling agent for The Acetylene Co., of St. Thomas, Ont.

The old firm of Tweed & Ewart, wholesale and retail general store, of Medicine Hat, is retiring from business and will be succeeded by Stewart, Clark & Co.

Reports from Louisburg state that the cod fishing season is especially good there this year. The fisheries of Newfoundland and Labrador are also exceptionally good and the catch will greatly exceed that of last year.

Some fish merchants of St. John's are considering the problem of shipping fresh caplin to the United States and Canadian markets. They propose packing with fresh fish boxes of 50 to 60 lb. capacity which are then to be placed in boxes of slightly larger dimensions, the interspace being firmly packed with ice.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, September 18, 1902.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS in the wholesale grocery trade this week continues active. The fall business is nicely setting in and the inquiries coming forward for all lines of goods are on the increase. The travellers who were in town during Exhibition, welcoming visitors, have returned to their fields and are busy obtaining orders for fall delivery. The market is steady in all lines and the prospects are for higher prices in pickles, if there is no immediate improvement in the crop of pickling vegetables. Macdonald's tobaccos have advanced 1c. per lb. Private communications from the United States report a scarcity of corn there and say that the new crop will not be obtainable until the latter part of December for starch and glucose factories. At present only old corn is offering at fancy prices and the conditions daily are growing more serious. Sufficient corn cannot be secured to keep the factories in operation and only enough starch and glucose are being turned out to supply the present needs of the country. Shipments of peanuts are coming to hand, and the prices are from 1 to 2c. higher than they were last year. Sugar is in heavy demand and a scarcity of supplies for the next week or ten days is feared by the agencies of the sugar refineries. Teas are quiet. Californian apricots of this year's crop are coming forward and prices have declined 4c. per lb.

CANNED GOODS.

Advices from the United States report the situation in corn unchanged. The crop has been very light and the shortage is therefore large, so that prices will be high for some time to come. Peas also will be firm. No offerings are being made in tomatoes for future delivery, although many inquiries are coming in for them from all parts of the country. The crop this year is said to be a failure in many sections, the vines having all grown to stock. The fruit keeps dropping off before it is ripe, so that the yield on the whole, it is claimed, is small. Little information is obtainable as to what the canneries are doing, but it is certain that they are paying much higher prices than last year for their tomatoes. Quotations this week are 82½c. upwards for peas, 80c. up for corn and $1.15 up for tomatoes. The prospect of a big crop of apples this year has caused the prices of gallon apples to decline 75 to 85c. The trade doing in fruits is light. Sardines, haddies and kippered herring are moderately active. Salmon is stationary in price, but it is expected here that the market will advance sharply as soon as the London, Eng., market opens. We quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES.

There continues a fair amount of business doing in all lines of coffees, the biggest portion of the trade being in green Rios. The outside markets are steady in tone and prices continue to improve. The September flowering of Santos was reported by a cablegram to be a failure, hence the upward tendency of the outside markets. Prices here are unchanged. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

The nut market, locally, is quiet. New-crop peanuts are commencing to come forward and the prices are from 1 to 2c. per lb. higher than last year. Advices from the primary markets state that quotations on Valencia shelled almonds show an advance of about 25 per cent. on last year's prices. Advices from the Coast figure an output of 667 carloads of Californian walnuts, and very heavy buying is in order in nearly all trade centres in the United States.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A fair volume of business is doing in rice and tapioca. Advices from New Orleans report a fairly brisk demand for the better grades of the river crop at firm prices. The crop of Louisiana and Texas is estimated to amount to from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 sacks. We quote: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3½ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade continues to improve in syrups, and molasses is experiencing a fair demand. The offerings on the outside markets of the grocery grades of New Orleans molasses were limited, as dealers have no surplus stocks to market. Black strap continues steady at 6 to 6½c. f.o.b. New Orleans.

SPICES.

Grades of pickling spices on the local market are still moderately active. The other lines are quiet. The outside pepper market continues strong and the available supplies are small.

SUGAR.

A heavy business is doing in sugars on the local market. The supplies on spot are small and the local agency of The St. Lawrence Sugar Refinery Company reports that there is likely to be a shortage in sugar here for the next week or ten days. The outside markets are firm, and in the United States advances of 5 and 10 points were made in some lines of softs. A later cable despatch reported an advance of 5 points in all hard sugars. London cable advices reported a firm market for beet sugar, with prices unchanged; refined was steady. The stocks of raw sugars in the United States and Cuba together amount to 341,274 tons against 348,651 tons last week and 270,216 tons last year, an increase of 71,058 tons over last year. The arrivals of raws in the Republic amounted to 54,623 tons for the week against 53,037 tons for the preceding week, and giving a surplus of 9,623 tons over the meltings. The steady demand for refined sugars a few weeks ago has continued up till now and promises to last some weeks longer, but the business lately transacted does not seem as heavy as it was a week ago. As far as new business is concerned, the volume is not heavy, but the withdrawals on outstanding contracts are large. It is expected that country dealers will soon settle down to a hand-to-mouth basis, as the beet sugar industry will offer large supplies on the markets of the United States and the desire to sell will lead to much competition among the refineries. The total stocks of refined sugar in the United States are at present 165,274 tons as against 187,232 tons last year.

TEAS.

Business on the local market in teas this week is of a light nature, the principal call being still for Indian and Ceylon blacks, with a fair amount of Ceylon greens going out. Very little is doing in Chinas or Japans by reason of the high prices at which they are held. Advices from London, Eng., state that there was a strong demand for really good liquoring Indian teas, and a slackness in the bidding for poorer descriptions. Good liquoring kinds of Ceylon teas attracted attention, but poor liquoring and commonest grades showed a weaker market. Medium grades of Ceylons were unchanged. Anything in Java teas with quality sold well, but the market for medium and poor teas was slightly weaker.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Advices from Patras, Greece, report a firmer market. Some quotations are showing higher prices, but others are unchanged. There is likely to be great variations in the quality of the fruit this year in view of this fact. Local trade is fair. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c. and Patras, 6¼ to 7c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The primary market is reported steady with a fair demand from all parts of Western and Northern Europe. We quote selects, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

DATES.—Business in this line has not fairly set in yet and the prices are unchanged. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 1½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—These are quiet and steady in price. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60 70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40 50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Apricots are being received on the local market and the quotations this week show a decline of 4c. In peaches, Coast advices report a little firmness. We quote as follows: 11 to 11c. for peaches and 9 to 13c. per lb. for apricots. Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes and 7½c. in 25 lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

There is a good market for all descriptions of fruits. Peaches are firmer than they were and the season for plums, which are being well cleaned up and are scarce, will soon be over. The market for tomatoes is very stiff and they are high in price. The first shipment of Cape Cod cranberries arrived on the local market this week, but the demand for them will not be great until the poultry season arrives. Watermelons are dull. We quote as follows: Apples, 8 to 15c. per basket; grapes, $1.50 to $1.65 for a case of 12 baskets; large red green varieties of choice quality, 60 to 65c. per large basket, Champions, 30 to 40c. per large basket and 18 to 20c. per 10-lb. basket; pears, 15 to 30c.; lawtonberries, 5 to 6c. per qt.; tomatoes, 20 to 35c. per basket; muskmelons, 25 to 50c.; peaches, Early Crawfords, 40 to 60c. per basket; ordinary varieties, 25 to 40c.; plums, Lombards, 35 to 50c.; blue, 40 to 50c.; green gages, 40 to 60c.; watermelons, 22 to 25c. each by the 100; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack; Spanish onions, 90c. per case; Californian oranges, late Valencias, $5.50 to $5.75 per case; Jamaicas, $6.75 per box; Messina lemons, $2 to $2.50 per box; bananas, $1.25 to $1.75 per bunch; Jersey sweet potatoes, $3.50 per barrel; Cape Cod cranberries, $8.50 per barrel.

VEGETABLES.

Trade in vegetables is fair and the prices are unchanged. Potatoes are firm, owing to a scarcity of stock and the prevalence of rot amongst them, so that the prices are likely to go up. Quotations are as follows: Green onions, 8c. to 30c. per dozen; rhubarb, 20 to 30c. per dozen; lettuce, 20 to 25c. per dozen; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per dozen and $1 per barrel; carrots, 15c. to 20c. per dozen; beets, 15c. per basket; new potatoes, 50 to 60c. per bush; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 75c. to $1 per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 15 to 20c. per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The shipments of eggs coming forward are showing better quality and the market is steady for the finest stock. Second grades are only in moderate demand. We quote: Strictly fresh gathered, 15 to 16c.; ordinary store candled, 14 to 15c.; seconds and checks, 11 to 12c.

BEANS.—These are steady at $1.40 to $1.50 per bushel for handpicked.

HONEY.—There continues to be fair offerings of honey at outside points at the quotations which follow: Honey, in 60-lb. tins, 8 to 8½c.; in less quantities, 9 to 9½c.; combs, $1.40 up.

POTATOES.—The demand for these is steady and the prices are firm at 40c. per bushel.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The arrivals of butter continue free and the make is very heavy owing to the fine pasturage in all parts of the country. The market is easier but prices are quoted about the same as last week. Cable despatches report an improvement in the demand for the finest creamery. Our quotations are as follows: Choice 1-lb. rolls, 15 to 16c.; dairy tubs, best quality, 15c.; store packed, uniform color, 13 to 13½c. and low grades, 12 to 12½c.; creamery prints, 19 to 20c. and solids, 18½ to 19c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The cheese market is a little stronger than last week, prices showing an advance of ¼c. over last week. At the same time the large make continues and it will tend to hold prices down here. The demand from the Old Country is good, and when the make drops off prices are expected to improve. We quote: 10¼ to 10½c.; very finest grades, 10⅞ to 11c. per lb.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—The demand for chickens is good. Live chickens are selling at 50 to 60c. per pair; dressed, 50 to 75c. per pair; ducks, 60 to 75c. per pair and young turkeys, dry picked, 11 to 13c. per lb.

GAME.—Small lots of wild duck are coming forward, but as yet there is not much demand for them. We quote: Teal, 20 to 25c. per pair; pin tails, 40 to 45c. and black duck, 70 to 75c.

FISH.

Stocks are still light and the prices are about the same as last week. Oysters have started to come in, but on account of the warm weather there is little call for them. The opening prices are $1.35 per gallon. Some smoked ciscoes are offering at $1 to $1.25 per basket. Our quotations are as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 8½ to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 8½ to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.35 per gallon; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—The market for Northwestern and Manitoba wheat is still easier, there being a slight decline in prices during the week. Manitoba No. 1 hard is quoted at 81c.; Northern No. 1, 82c. and No. 2, 81c. grinding in transit Sarnia. On the St. Lawrence market the receipts for the week have been quite free. We quote as follows: Red Ontario wheat, 67c.; white wheat, 68½c.; goose wheat, 64 to 65c.; rye, 48c.; barley, 40 to 42c.; oats, new, 31c.; old, 42c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—The market for flour continues unchanged from last week. We quote as follows: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.05 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.80 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—Trade in oatmeal and rolled oats is good, and the other lines are in moderate demand. We quote: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.50 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—Buying in hides is fair and the prices are steady at the following quotations: No. 1 green, 8c.; No. 2 green, 7c.; No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—A fair demand is reported for skins, and quotations are as follows: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 50c.

WOOL.—This product is quiet and the quotations are unchanged at 13½c. for fleece wool and 7½c. for unwashed.

TALLOW.—No change is reported in the tallow situation. Prices are weak at 6⅞ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

The movement in seeds is confined to offerings of alsike at outside points. A little timothy is also being brought forward. We quote Alsike, $5 to $7 per bushel and timothy, $1.75 to $3.

MARKET NOTES

Gallon apples have declined 75 to 85c.

Peanuts have advanced 1 to 2c. per lb.

The cheese market is firmer in tone this week.

Macdonald's tobaccos have advanced 1c. per lb.

Peaches and tomatoes are advancing on the local fruit market.

New Californian apricots have declined 4c. per lb. on the local market.

Almonds and filberts are advancing on the primary markets and this will no doubt have its effect here later on.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, September 18, 1902.

GROCERIES.

A GOOD trade is reported for the past week by wholesale grocers. In canned fruits, particularly, they are receiving many good orders. In nuts there is also much interest shown, the market continually tending higher. The failure of the French prune crop is attracting considerable attention from the wholesale trade. The situation is such that, where last year France exported 30,000,000 lb. of prunes, this year she has bought in California and Oregon 25,000,000 lb. making a difference over last year of 55,000,000 lb. in the world's supply. Reports from France also point to a great scarcity of mushrooms, high-grade peas and sardines. As to the last mentioned, it is stated that so far the sardine catch has almost been nil. Pearl hominy has declined and now sells at $2.60 in bag lots. Macdonald's tobaccos, in Ontario, Quebec and the Maritime Provinces are sold at present at delivered prices. An advance is reported of $1 per barrel in Armour's pork and 50c. in Jones'. Quotations on these brands are now: Armour's, 50 to 60, $26.50; Armour's, 30 to 40, $27.50; Jones', $25.25.

SUGAR.

This is unchanged in price on the local market. Jobbers report a very good demand and an active market at $3.65 for granulated and $3 to $3.55 for yellow sugars. The market is firm, but no advance is spoken of. The New York market for raw sugar is somewhat steadier. "Importers are asking full quoted rates," says a report, "but refiners are inclined to hold off for the present."

TEAS.

The local trade in teas, while not particularly active, is yet satisfactory, and a continued improvement is noticed. All teas appear to be firm and high with the exception of China blacks, which are very low. The consumption in these, however, is not large. Green teas are high and no large quantities are coming in. Ceylon green teas are now 1½c. higher than the lowest price of this year, and the feeling is firm. Indian black teas are reported still low but firmer. They are considered a good purchase at present prices. Nothing new has occurred in Japan teas, which are still firm. One dealer holds the opinion that 16½c. will be the lowest figure quoted on Japan.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The market for corn syrups remains unchanged with a fair inquiry and a small amount of business is doing, the prices being: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38½-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails. Molasses continues quiet and unchanged in price. An improvement is looked for before long in the market. We quote: Barbados molasses, 23 to 24c.; Antigua, 24c.; Porto Rico, 38c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There have been no new developments in this market, which continues steady under a fair movement. Quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3½c.

SPICES.

The movement in spices, especially those for pickling purposes, is still good and prices are maintained on all lines. The market for peppers and cloves is firm, and we quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

The market continues firm all round. Tomatoes, to arrive, are now quoted from $1.15 up, and the situation is such that some people are talking of much higher prices. The Canadian Packers' Association, on the 13th inst., advanced the price of corn, peas and string beans of this year's pack by 2½c. Salmon remains unchanged in price. Our quotations on new crop are: Tomatoes, $1.15; corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½ to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1. We quote spot goods: Peas, 85c. to $1.15; corn, 82½ to 85c.; tomatoes, $1.25; gallon apples, $2.50; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—There has been no change in price reported from the foreign markets, which have been steady for three weeks or more at the prevailing low figures. Locally, a fair trade is doing at the following prices: Fine Filiatras, 5⅛ to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—Good sales are reported for raisins by ss. Escalona at 24s. 6d. c. & f. Montreal for fine off-stalk. Lower prices are now being offered for shipment by steamer Bellona than were accepted for shipment by ss. Escalona. Stocks on spot are still exceedingly light. Prices range from 7 to 8c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—The feeling in this market is somewhat firmer. Sultanas are still quoted, however, at 9½c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—Business in this article is not active. The price of citron peel is 15c.; orange, 11½c. and lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—Trade continues quiet owing to the small stocks, and our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

DATES. There is nothing new to report in this line. Hallowees are in fair demand at 5c. per lb.

FIGS.—Smyrna packers have practically withdrawn offers and what few figs have been sold brought 10 to 15s. over the opening prices. Figs will be scarce.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—There is a moderate trade doing. We quote: Pears, 10c.; peaches, 10½c. and apricots, 14½c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—Prices have not yet been made on the Coast. Locally, there is some inquiry, and seeded are quoted at 9⅜ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—In prunes there is the usual steady demand, though the volume of business is not large. Prices are steady. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

This market continues to be of great interest. Further advances are quoted in several lines, and the market is firm. A cable from the Grenoble Valley states that the crop of walnuts has been almost entirely destroyed. At the moment, prices are unobtainable. Shelled walnuts, on spot, are very firm. Brazil nuts have advanced 1¼ to 1½c. Sicily filberts, of the new crop, are being offered for future delivery at 9 to 9½c. We quote: Walnuts, 10 to 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 27 to 28c.; filberts, 9c.; Pecans, 15 to 17c.; Brazil nuts, 13 to 14c.

GREEN FRUITS.

Prices have been steady throughout the week, the only item in which a quotable change occurs being in eggplant, which is down to 50c. on account of larger arrivals and a falling off in the demand. Other lines are in active movement but unchanged in price. Our quotations are as follows: Jamaica oranges, in bbls, $6 to $6.50, boxes, $4; Sorrento oranges, $3.75 to $4 per box; Messina lemons, $3.50 per box; pineapples, 13 to 20c.; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2 and eight-hands, $1 to $1.50; cucumbers, 11c. per doz.; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per doz.; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per bbl.; watermelons, 25c.; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; blackberries, 5 to 7c. per box; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $2.50 to $2.75 per box; limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 40c. per basket; blueberries, $1.50 per box; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1 to $1.50, in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian basket tomatoes, 30 to 40c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, $1 per crate, $2.50 per case.

FISH.

A fair trade has been done during the past week. Haddock, cod and halibut are higher, while smoked herring and salmon are lower. No. 1 British-Columbian salmon is 25c. per ½ bbl. higher. Standard bulk oysters have declined 20c. per gallon. Malpeque shell oysters are being sold, to arrive per express on September 25, at $7 per bbl., and later, by freight, at $1 to $5. The movement in oysters has commenced well and indications point to a good season. We quote as follows: Haddies, 7c. to 7½c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; dore, 7½c. to 8c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 13c.; salmon, 15c.; trout, large and medium, 7 to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl. and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. to 85c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6.25 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $4.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The feeling on the local market is steady, and jobbers are apparently following the market right along. Ontario butter is a shade lower, but finest Quebec and Townships make is firm, with a higher tendency. A fair demand is reported for saltless creamery, which is quoted at 20½c. An inquiry for butter has been received by one house here from South Africa, through an English house, and there is a possibility that some might be sent out by the new line to South Africa. At present the Montreal firm in question is making inquiries as to the conditions and if any facilities exist for cold storage after leaving the steamer. Prices quoted are as follows: Saltless creamery, 20½c.; finest Townships creamery, 19¾ to 20c.; finest Quebec creamery, 19½ to 19¾c.; finest Ontario creamery, 18½ to 19c.; dairy, 15½ to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—A further advance is noted in this market, finest Townships, white and colored being quoted at 9¾ to 10c. and finest Ontario at 10 to 10½c. per lb. Finest Quebec has not changed and still sells at 9⅞ to 9¾c. The market at the higher figure is steady. Offerings in the country are being taken at full prices. Business over the cable is fair for September cheese. The consumption in the Old Country keeps up well and indications point to a steady market.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—Prices are somewhat higher all round this week and business for export account has been slow on account of the high figures asked. Local buying is fairly good. We quote: Selected, 18½ to 19c.; candled stock, 16½ to 17c.; straight receipts, 15½ to 16c.; No. 2, 13½ to 14c. in round lots.

BEANS.—There is a fair demand for small lots for immediate requirements. Prices have not changed, $1.40 to $1.50 per bushel being still obtained for primes.

HONEY.—There is only a moderate demand for honey. The market is steady at 11c. for white clover combs and 8c. for white strained.

POTASH.—The market is more settled now and a fair trade is reported. We quote: First pots, $4.20 to $4.25; seconds, $3.50 to $3.55 and pearls, $6 to $6.10 per 100 lb.

POTATOES.—Although an active jobbing business is doing, choice stock is slightly lower, being now quoted at 70 to 75c. per bag. Ordinary remains at 60c.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—There is no change and trade is dull. Prices are nominally as follows: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—A fairly good business has been done in flour during the past week both locally and in Manitoba grades for export account. The advance in prices, noted last week, was not maintained in strong bakers' flour, which is 20 to 35c. lower this week. Choice Manitoba spring wheat patents are now quoted higher than a week ago, while what second grades are on the market are selling at about $4. Our quotations are as follows: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.30 to $3.45; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.65; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4.

GRAIN.—Trade has been somewhat quiet during the past week, considering the season of the year. This was the case with both local and export trade. The feeling in oats continues easy, and 34c. afloat for September shipment is now offered. We quote: No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat, Fort William, 70c. New crop rye is quoted at 56c., September shipment; new peas, 79½c. Corn sells at 71c.; buckwheat, 63c.; barley, 47½ to 48c.

FEED.—Manitoba bran is lower this week. There is a fairly good trade doing. We quote: Manitoba bran, $16 to $16.50; Ontario bran, $15 to $15.50; Manitoba shorts, $23 and Ontario shorts, $22; mouillie, $23 to $30, as to quality.

OATMEAL.—There has been no change in the situation of rolled oats since our last report. The feeling, however, is still easy. The price per barrel is now $4.90 and per bag, $2.42½.

BALED HAY.—The market for baled hay rules steady at the prices here given. A fair demand prevails and is sufficient to absorb all offerings. Export business is moderately good. We quote: Old-crop hay: No. 1, $9.50; No. 2, $8 to $8.50; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots. New-crop hay sells at $7 to $7.50 per ton.

---

MONTREAL NOTES.

Eggs have advanced.

Brazil nuts are up 1¼ to 1⅜c.

Canned corn, string beans and peas of the new crop are 2½c. higher.

Malpeque shell oysters, by express, to arrive September 25, $7 per barrel.

Armour-s pork is $1 per barrel higher and Jones' pork 50c. per barrel higher.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., September 17, 1902.

WHOLESALE trade continues in a healthy condition. The lumber operators from various parts of the Province are now visiting the city, and are placing orders for supplies. The price of lumber is high here and has advanced in Liverpool, so that the outlook is good. The millinery openings take place this week and attract many people from the three Provinces. Bountiful crops are being harvested. The markets present some features of interest.

OILS.—The demand for burning oils is steadily increasing, and the market remains steady. Lubricating oils are also steady, and the demand will continue good for some time yet.

SALT.—A steamer has arrived with the largest salt cargo ever landed here. She has between 1,200 and 1,500 tons. One firm alone has 1,000 tons. It is practically all sold. Another steamer, with 1,000 tons for the same firm, and a little for some others, will be due in a few days. Trade is, therefore, quite active. The market is steady. Quotations are as follows: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.75 to $2.85 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.60 to $2.65 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22-23c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of 2 dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per dozen; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—Peas are firmly held at 82½ to 85c. Tomatoes and corn are firm and appear to be still awaiting the dictum of the packers. Gallon apples are firm, and purchases have been made at a little higher than last year's opening. But last year the price went very high and stocks were early exhausted. This market can be most cheaply supplied from Nova Scotia. That Province will this year have an unusual portion of defective apples in its very short crop. Salmon, according to last advices, was still tending upward, with the best packs sold up. In other lines the situation is without change.

GREEN FRUITS.—Reports from Nova Scotia indicate a smaller apple crop than was indicated in my last letter. Not only is the crop short, but the proportion of defective fruit is large. Plums and pears are a fairly good crop. New Brunswick apples are now on the market and are cheap. Ontario fruit is arriving in large quantity and is selling freely. Jamaica oranges are selling well. Lemons are easy. Bananas are steady, with stocks at present moderate. Trade in fruits of all kinds continues active.

DRIED FRUITS.—There are still no new raisins, and old ones are being cleaned out at good prices. The outlook is firm for the new crop. Currants are easy, in sympathy with the lower price for new stock to arrive. As noted in last week's report, prunes and other dried fruits are not in yet, and there is nothing specially interesting to say about them.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—The market is firm for butter and higher for cheese. Good dairy tubs are quoted at 17 to 19c., with rolls, 20 to 22c. Cheese is now 10¼ to 10½c. in a jobbing way.

EGGS.—Case stock is worth 17 to 18c. in a small way. Ten cases were quickly taken a couple of days ago at 16c.

SUGAR.—Demand continues good, on a steady market.

MOLASSES.—With increased demand the market is firm, but there is no quotable change in prices. The tendency is, however, firmer.

FISH.—The scarcity of fresh fish continues. The catch has been unusually light this summer, and the dogfish, which destroy nets as well as their contents, have been very troublesome. Pickled herring have remained firm at the advance, and smoked herring are extremely dull. Dry cod and pollock are steady. Pickled shad are extremely scarce. We quote: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2½ to 3c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.65 to $1.75 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $2.10 to $2.20 per ½ bbl.; Shelburne, $2.50 per ½ bbl.; dry cod, $3.50; pickled shad, $6 per ½ bbl.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Flour is practically unchanged. Oatmeal will decline sharply as soon as the new stock arrives, and the same is true of oats, which will be offered at 45c. Middlings are easier. Beans are likewise. Hay is practically unsaleable in this market at present. The present quotations, subject to what is noted above are: Manitoba flour, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.20; medium, $4 to $4.10; oatmeal, $5.35 to $5.50; cornmeal, $3.20 to $3.25; middlings, $28 to $30; oats, 55 to 56c.; handpicked beans, $1.70 to $1.75; prime, $1.60 to $1.65; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.50 to $4.65; hay, $9 to $10.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, September 15, 1902.

THOUGH the early part of the week was cold and there was a fairly heavy general frost on Wednesday night, which caught a few late oats and barley, conditions have been favorable, and threshing and stacking are general throughout Manitoba and considerable threshing has been done in the Territories. There is difficulty in getting men for threshing machines, and some outfits are idle on that account. Jobbing trade is good in all lines and very considerable sorting orders are coming in from travellers now on the road. There have been a few changes in prices during the week, but quotations, for the most part, are steady and without change.

CANNED VEGETABLES.—The situation for the week remains unchanged, although word has been received here that a meeting of canners will be held this coming week, when new quotations may be expected. In the meantime prices remain at $2.75 for tomatoes, $1.95 to $2 respectively for corn and peas.

SALMON.—The list price for salmon is established and shows fully 50c. per case advance on all brands. It is expected that the higher prices will materially lessen the sale, although up to the present there has been no falling off in the demand. We quote: Fraser River sockeye, $6.25; Rivers Inlet sockeye, $5.25; cohoes, $4.75 to $5; humpbacks, $3.75 to $4.

EVAPORATED FRUITS.—The jobbing houses have now pretty well completed their purchases of Californian evaporated fruits, and there is a very marked difference in values between 1902 and 1901. This is especially noticeable in prunes. They have sold the past season as low as 4c., but the 4c. prune of the coming season will be a very superior article, representing fully double the value of the 4c. prune of the past season. New stock will be on the market in regular supply about October 1, although a few shipments by express have already come to hand. Apricots, to arrive in ten days, will sell at 8c., or a little under for standards. Unpitted apricots, of which there were none on this market last year, are also due to arrive by the end of the month. They will probably open at 7c. The apricots this season, though somewhat small, are of excellent quality and free from blemishes. Peaches will be even slightly cheaper than apricots, and indeed they will need to be to find ready sale, as whenever the two fruits are approximately the same in price the demand for apricots is always much larger than for peaches.

DRIED FRUITS.—Currants are now quoted at 5½ to 5¾c. for fine Filiatras, uncleaned, and 1c. additional for cleaned fruit. So far as raisins are concerned, quotations for Californian muscatels will not be received until the 20th of the month, but they will certainly be high. There is no prospect either of a drop in the price of later shipments of Denia fruit. At the present time fine off stalk are quoted at $2.30 to $2.50, according to brand.

TAPIOCA.—This is advancing and although it has not yet returned to a normal value is nearer to it than for some time past. We quote 3¾c. per lb.

RICE.—Japan has again advanced and is quoted on this market at 5½c. Patna and "B" rice are also higher at 5c.

COFFEE.—The market is firmer and seems likely to go higher on reports of damage to crops. We quote 8¾ to 9¾c. for the best numbers of Rios.

FLOUR.—The week has been marked by an advance of 5c. per sack on the best grades of Ogilvie's. This makes the price for No. 1: $2.05 to $2.10; No. 2, $1.90 to $1.95; No. 3, $1.55; No. 1, unchanged at $1.25.

CEREALS.—Rolled oats are unchanged with $2.20 as a base price. It is expected, however, that as soon as the mills begin on new oats there will be a change.

BUTTER.—The week has brought no change in either creamery or dairy. So far as creamery is concerned there are no held stocks at factories, and there is a fair demand. Purchases this week have been made at 17c. factory. Dairy butter shows light offerings for the week, and prices Winnipeg are 13 to 14c. for the best grades, with 10 to 11c. for an inferior article.

CHEESE.—There have been very few offering all week and the price has advanced as high as 10½c. Winnipeg, for small lots.

EGGS.—Supplies are small and uncertain with a very active demand. We quote 15c. per dozen for candled stock.

GREEN FRUITS.—Very large quantities are coming in at present, the rate being about two cars a day of all kinds. It is estimated that the value of fruit turnover in Winnipeg this season will touch the million dollar mark. Ontario apples are not coming forward in the best shape, and already the inspector has reported more than one lot to Ottawa. We quote: Ontario crabs, 60c.; tomatoes, 60c.; pears, 60c.; Ontario grapes, 50c. box apples, $1.50; barrel apples, $3.50; Tokay grapes, $3 per case; peaches (Ashlands), $1.25; plums (Oregon and Washington), $1.25.

NOTE.

The J. J. McLaren Co., of Hamilton, are making special displays of the products of their jelly powders and extracts in the various groceries in Winnipeg. Miss Goff is in charge, and the various jellies make a most tempting array. Miss Goff also gives instruction in the preparation of these dainties.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

BUSINESS here is still improving. Last week a change for the better was noted, and this week trade showed a still more livelier tone. It is hoped the summer dullness has passed. Wholesalers and travellers report buying very brisk, which is a good sign. A remarkable thing this week is the advance of 1c. per lb. on all Macdonald's tobaccos.

Canned salmon, for future delivery, is still firm. Stocks are arriving this week, and some is being distributed right from the track to retailers, who bought early, which is a saving to the jobber in not having to take it in and rehandle.

Currants are reported having advanced a shilling during the past week.

Canned tomatoes are very scarce here. Only about one or two houses in the city seem to have any. A small lot was sold the other day as high as $1.35 per dozen. It is hoped that retailers who have bought early will not cut prices, but figure on making all that is in them this year.

Molasses is a little stiffer in price. The quotations are about 26½ to 27c. for puncheons of the best Barbados.

Sugars are the same, although reports from outside markets show an advance.

In market produce, prices do not show much of a change, although good butter is a little harder to get. While eggs seem easier they are being offered more freely at 16c.

Oats, potatoes and vegetables are the same as last week.

At the Cheese Board Friday last the offerings of 19 factories were put up, consisting of 1,467 boxes, 881 being white and 586 colored. Selling was not very brisk, as buyers would not go any higher than 9⅝c., except in one instance, at 9 11-16c., so that only part of the offerings were sold, and although Brockville cheese sold at 9⅝c. the day before, Montreal buyers claimed it was only worth 9⅝c. in Montreal. At the conclusion a resolution of thanks was passed to Mr. John A. Reid for the efforts he put forth to bring the convention of the Dairymen's Association here next winter.

Mr. Provost, of Provost & Allard, wholesale grocers, whose house is the youngest in the city, says their trade is very satisfactory to them and that they are pleased with Ottawa as a wholesale centre.

THE FRUIT SALES.

Receipts of fruit at the Ottawa Fruit Exchange have been exceptionally heavy. The sale on Monday was thought to be a big one, but Tuesday morning eclipsed anything in the history of the Fruit Exchange. G. W. Hunt states there were between 16,000 and 17,000 baskets of different kinds of fruit on the floor, besides a car of bananas, a car of Spanish onions and a car of lemons, together with large quantities of barreled apples and pears, but notwithstanding the quantity, bidding was brisk, buyers staying with it until the last line was sold. Mr. Langdon, the auctioner, has proved himself to be without a peer in the fruit business, as he seemed to be as fresh when he got through selling as when he started, and kept it up to the end without a break.

The 2 p.m. sale consisted of express fruit that could not be taken off the wagons until the floor was cleared. The following prices were received during the day: Bananas, No. 1's, $1.25 to $1.50; No. 2's, $1 to $1.15; No. 3's, 75 to 90c. Messina lemons sold higher than for some time: 300's, from $2 to $2.10; 360's, $2 to $2.30. Spanish onions brought 67½c. per crate for the whole car. Apples, in bbls.: Duchess, $1.25 to $1.60; Astrachans, $1.25 to $1.40; St. Lawrence, $1.90 to $2; Alexanders, $1.95 to $2.05; Golden Sweet, $1.25 to $1.50; Strawberry Pippins, $2; Colvert's, $1.95 to $2. A small consignment of the Wealthy variety brought as high as $2.50. Bartlett pears, No. 1, sold at $5 to $5.50 per bbl.; No. 2, $3.50 to $4.50; Clapp's Favorite, $4 to $4.50; Flemish Beautys, $3.25 to $4; sugar pears, $2.50.

Grapes, in 10-lb. bask., Red Rogers, brought 40 to 50c.; Moyers, 40 to 42½c. Delawares (a small lot), 60c.; Moore's Early, 42½ to 50c.; Niagaras, 40c.; Worden's, 37½c.

Tomatoes took a remarkable jump, reaching 80c. per bushel for local grown. Western, in 12-qt. baskets, brought 30 to 37½c. Crawford peaches, 12-qts., 40 to 75c., according to quality. White flesh and other varieties, 30 to 50c. Plums, 37½ to 60c.; pears, in 12-qts., for Bartletts, 40 to 62½c.; Clapp's, 37½ to 50c.; Flemish Beautys, 32½ to 40c. Black lawtonberries are selling from 4 to 6c.

OTTAWA AS A FRUIT CENTRE.

The fruit business here is assuming an enormous size. At present there are five and six refrigerator cars running from Grimsby to Ottawa direct to the Exchange. They are equipped with the Hanrahan system, which Mr. Hunt has been experimenting with for a couple of seasons. The Canada Atlantic Railway took the matter up and built four or five new cars, which have been put into use. It is understood that the C. A. R. have taken the control of the system through the efforts of G. W. Hunt, who wanted them for his business.

TRAVELLERS IN OTTAWA.

John Everett, Christie, Brown & Co.'s populat traveller, is in the city and says he has had a rush of orders every day since his arrival.

Mr. Musgrove, of The McIntosh Company, Toronto, and H. H. Livingston, of The Pure Gold Co., are here also. Both report good orders all around.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, September 14, 1902.

THOUGH the opening of the Provincial Exhibition, on Wednesday last, interfered somewhat with business, the wholesale trade has shown some improvement, and no doubt this will continue from week to week until the autumn trade is fully on. Both employers and employes, who have been enjoying vacations, have returned to their posts, in anticipation of a heavy autumn business. During Exhibition week the merchants meet many of their customers from various parts of the Province, and though a great amount of business may not be done, business ties are strengthened, and possibly new customers may be made.

The retail trade is having the benefit of the large influx of Exhibition visitors in increased business. Large numbers of people have friends visiting them, the hotels are filled, and private houses which are prepared to take lodgers or boarders are taxed to their utmost capacity. The dealers tell us that in some instances the family grocery bill is almost doubled, while an extremely large trade is done in fruits and confectionery.

Prices remain practically unchanged in sugar and molasses, though the market may be considered firmer in both articles. The refineries are said to be ahead of their orders. Molasses now is in better demand, which may tend to increase prices.

Farm produce is now coming in freely and the local market is well supplied. Beef is now more plentiful, and the first auction of fat cattle this season is advertised for this week. The lot, however, is small, only 30 head, which constitutes a carload.

Butter is coming in well, but the price remains firm. There is no change in the cheese situation. Eggs are comparatively slow coming in, possibly because some dealers have begun to pickle and hold for higher prices. The latest quotation is 17c. per dozen.

The fish situation is unsatisfactory, and this may mean a poor return to the fishermen for the season's work. Mackerel are scarce, only an occasional few being taken along the coast. Word comes from Newfoundland that the fish market there is also unsatisfactory. When prices were revised on September 1 a cut of 30 to 40c. was made per quintal. This is said to be on account of Norse competition, and also the large catches made on the Labrador coast. The Labrador fish goes largely to the Mediterranean markets, where it meets Norse and French competition. There was a large catch by the Norse fishermen and prices were cut, which affected the Newfoundland prices. The West-Indian market has not materially changed and prices here are lower than usual and uncertain.

J. S. BENNETT'S DISPLAY.

One of the attractive displays at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition was the shelf boxes for groceries, drugs, hardware and other lines of trade, and kitchen cabinets manufactured by J. S. Bennett, No. 15 Marion street, Toronto. The kitchen cabinet is among the latest of Mr. Bennett's inventions. It is fitted with a bread board and drawers for spices, etc. This cabinet has many ingenious features about it, and Mr. Bennett secured quite a number of orders for it.

STRAWBOARD BERRY BOXES.

During the fruit season this summer there has been quite a scarcity in the boxes in which the smaller fruits are placed upon the market, and in order to supply the demand fruit shippers were compelled to buy up all the old boxes they could lay their hands on in the large trade centres. Not only this, the scarcity of wood has so advanced the price of same that the manufacturers of the wooden boxes have a loss staring them in the face. In view of this condition of affairs, the latter have been looking around for a substitute for the wooden boxes, and one of them, The Oakville Basket Company, has secured the right to manufacture in Canada berry boxes from strawboard. This box was shown at the Industrial Fair in Toronto, and excited a great deal of interest. The box holds the same quantity of fruit as the old-fashioned wooden one and is also made to fit into the crates as did the old boxes. The inside of the box is coated with paraffine, which thereby prevents the moisture from the berries soaking through. The box is also well ventilated. Another advantage of this box is that it can be folded up and by this means a saving of freight is entailed. The box when fitted together, which can be done instantly, cannot again fall apart. The Oakville Basket Company is having machinery put in whereby it will be able next season to manufacture 75,000 per day of these boxes. The exhibit at the Toronto Industrial Fair was in charge of J. C. Ford, the manager of the company.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR ST. JOHN'S.

HENRY McCOULVEY, a prominent resident of St. John's, Newfoundland, passed through Sydney, N.S., a few days ago on his way home from New York. To a newspaperman he announced the formation of a large company at St. John's to manufacture oil skins, soaps, candles and in fact about everything required by the fisherman. Out of 35 dealers in this line of goods in St. John's, 32 have taken stock in the company and a large building will be immediately erected. The company will be capitalized at $50,000, and Mr. McCoulvey will manage it. He has been in New York in the interest of the company. A large number of hands will be employed.

Mr. McCoulvey declares: "The people do not believe that Confederation would reduce the price of foodstuffs. They pay duty of about 25 per cent. from Canada, but I can buy the same brand of flour in St. John's for the same price I pay for it in Canada. The same applies to other products of Canada.

MADE IN CANADA.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—In passing among the exhibits at the Industrial Fair, Toronto, this year were to be seen displayed on most of the exhibits neatly printed cards "Made in Canada." Canadians had no reason to be ashamed of the goods so set out for special notice, and these cards added another link in the chain of education to that started by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association and endorsed by the Retailers' Association. The next link is the perfecting of lines made and reducing the cost of manufacture so they can meet foreign competition, and, at the same time, increase the return to labor.

The producer is also a consumer, and, in order to utilize the product of the country, he must have means to buy with. This our American neighbors do. How they do it will be my next article in next issue.

AMERICANS AS CANDY EATERS.

THE United States is the greatest candy-making and candy-eating country in the world and New York is the greatest candy city. During the year 1900, according to a census bulletin, more than $18,000,000 worth of confectionery was produced in the factories of New York City and State and more than $150,000,000 worth in the country at large. The latter figure is greater than the combined values of the confectionery output of England, France and Germany.

In the State of New York, so important has the industry of candy-making become, that it now exceeds the value of all the iron and steel products of the State. Indeed, it is about equal to the entire candy product of the whole United States 20 years ago.

In 1880, according to the census returns for that year, the candy industry of the United States amounted to $25,673,033, so about six times as much is now consumed by the average American as was considered a proper allowance by the last generation of candy eaters.

Against the total of $150,000,000 produced in this country in 1900, England manufactured about $35,000,000 worth, or 160,000,000 pounds; France, 143,299,000 pounds, and Germany, 130,000,000 pounds. England sends abroad more than half of the candy made there—"sweets," the Englishman calls them—while France and Germany consume most of their own product. In this respect they are like the United States, which also eats nearly all of its own candy.

"Strangely enough," remarks The New York Sun, "the bulk of the best candy is still made by hand, very much as it was ages ago. The 'pulling' operation, by which pulled candy is yanked about and fashioned into a great variety of shapes and designs, was practiced in India in the very same manner 3,000 years ago at the great religious fetes, when the sweet stuff was thrown over the branch of a tree and then worked by two men.

"But the Hindoos did not attempt the elaborate effects with their candy that modern manufacturers successfully practice. The decoration of dinner tables with pretty and artistic designs in candy work is now a department by itself in the making of confectionery, and a very high standard of skilled workmanship is called into use to produce original and tasty effects. An infinite variety of tints and shades of coloring can be introduced, for the colors are vegetable and harmless. From the pulled candy all sorts of shapes can be fashioned, and the resultant resemblances to satin pin-cushions, jockey caps and almost everything else that the inventive genius of the fashioner can think of are at once a tribute to the designer's art and the compounder's taste.

"In making bonbons, caramels, etc., the sugar and water must never be stirred after the sugar has been dissolved. The saucepan must never be shaken or even moved while the syrup is boiling. As soon as the sugar begins to boil it is tried constantly in ice water. When the syrup forms a little mass in the cold water it is said to have been 'boiled to the crack' and is removed from the fire.

"The process of boiling is generally divided by confectioners into the following nine degrees: the small thread, the large thread, the little pearl, the blow, the feather, the ball, the crack, and the caramel, all of which are produced by a heat ranging from 230 to 260 degrees. The ninth degree was first noted by Count Albufage Caramel, of Nismes, France, from whom the caramel was accordingly named.

The coloring of the candy is effected in a variety of ways. To color brown, melted chocolate or caramel is added. A yellow tinge is given by the addition of a few drops of tincture of saffron, while caramel mixed with carmine gives an orange yellow. Cochineal, carmine, saffron and Prussian blue are said to be perfectly harmless, yet so strong in coloring matter that a bit the size of a gumdrop will color 5,000 pounds of candy.

"There is a chemistry of confectionery—flour confections as well as candy being included—which has to receive its due attention from the manufacturer. In flour confections milk is used as a moistener instead of water.

"Next to milk, eggs are the most important moistening agents, while glycerine is also considerably used. When exposed to air glycerine increases in volumes through absorption of moisture, and used in small quantities in cakes has the result of retarding the natural process of drying, keeping the cake fresh and moist much longer than would otherwise be the case.

"Confectioners employ a variety of aerating agents, principally ammonium-carbonate, commonly called ammonia. The chemical effect of this on the confectioner's paste is to change the sugar, which is present by fermentation, into alcohol and carbon-dioxide gas, which, in its turn has the mechanical effect of distending and lightening the dough. It is only, however, when subjected to the heat of the oven that the gases in the dough are liberated so as to distend the mass and produce the required lightness. And even in the oven the ammonia evolves only half of its gas, and it has to be treated with tartaric acid to obtain its full effect."

BE KINDLY TO THE DRUMMERS.

"IT is a curious thing," said a leading jobber, "that there are so many retailers and retail buyers who, while painfully careful of the feelings and interests of their customers, are utterly oblivious to the feelings and interests of the commercial travellers with whom they come in contact. Let a man approach them as a purchaser and they are all smiles and suavity. Let him approach them as a seller, and they do not even treat him with common decency. They seem to feel a pleasure in visiting upon the head of wholesalers' agents all the snubs they suffer from their customers. As a consequence there is many a merchant doing business with travelling men who, while booking his order, curse them in their hearts, not because he is a close or shrewd buyer that they cannot over-reach, but because to get his order it is necessary to put up with an amount of indignity and humiliation that stirs their deep resentment."

Business is business and a commercial traveller or any other solicitor for patronage expects to put up with discomfort and annoyance, but no one has the right to ask him to patiently endure unnecessary humiliation. He who does shows an amount of conceit, an ignorance of the world and a capacity for making enemies that sufficiently prove his own insignificance as a man and a merchant. There are men on the road as elsewhere who cannot be too severely treated, but they are exceptions. The average travelling man has an exceptional knowledge of the world, exceptional powers of observation and insight into character and conditions, and an inside knowledge of goods and men that makes him a mine of information, a travelling storehouse, for the people with whom he comes in contact. With his access to the credit men of great wholesale houses, his acquaintance with other travelling men, and his many relations in the great markets of the country, he is a commercial factor whose influence it is hard to overvalue. What folly it is to excite without provocation the ill-will of such a man!

If a merchant cannot see the advantage of having the good-will of the travelling fraternity let him remember that credit and the amount of consideration shown the retailer by the wholesale house are often materially affected by the travelling man's favorable or unfavorable attitude toward him. It's a hard thing to be hard on a man whom you like, and the reputation of being a nice man to do business with is a valuable moral asset. Again, it is a good thing to have the good-will of the men from whom you never have bought and never expect to buy goods. The time may come when they can speak a word for or against you. The prestige for good or evil built up about us by the involuntary estimates or action of other people has its fruit as much as our direct efforts.—From The Keystone.

INQUIRIES ABOUT CANADIAN TRADE.

THE following were among the recent inquiries relating to Canadian trade received at the Canadian Government Office in London :

1. A London firm of buyers for South-African business houses desires to get into communication with Canadian shippers of hams, bacon, cheese, fruits, canned goods and produce generally.

2. A North of England firm using quantities of spade and shovel handles wishes to be placed in touch with Canadian exporters of these goods.

3. A London firm interested in a new process for treating iron sand desires to get into communication with owners of iron sand deposits in Ontario and Quebec.

4. A firm at Boulogne (France) wishes to correspond with one or two reliable Canadian shippers of apples of good quality.

5. A Middlesbrough firm asks to be placed in communication with Canadian exporters of peas, beans, cheese and other produce from whom they could obtain quotations.

6. A Johannesburg (S. Africa) firm desires to secure agencies for Canadian natural and manufactured products, and will be glad to hear from houses in the Dominion requiring such services.

[The names of the firms making the above inquiries can be obtained upon application to the Editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

QUEBEC BLUEBERRY CROP.

A Quebec paper says : "The crop of blueberries this year is a most lucrative one, and favorable reports are coming in from all parts of the district. That the reports are well founded is in daily evidence, as seldom before has the fruit been exposed for sale in such large quantities around the city. The crop in the Lake St. John district is perhaps larger than ever before, one merchant, L. E. Oates, of Roberval, Que. having purchased the fruit to the extent of $10,000, and is making an enormous shipment of some to Boston."

GLEANED FROM THE TRAVELLERS.

The commercial travellers who during the last week or so have been visiting the Exposition in Toronto, are preparing to resume their duties on Monday morning. All the wholesale dealers report a large list of customers who have called upon them during the time of the Exposition. Prospects for the fall are excellent owing to the general prosperity.

W. B. Smith, of The Davidson & Hay, who has lately made his tour in Western Ontario, states that the prospects for fall trade promise to exceed those for years previous. Crops are good; prices of cattle and hogs are high; fruits, especially apples, are in abundance. Crawfords and late peaches, however, are likely to advance. Reports from other parts are similar in nature.

A. A. Osborne, of Midland, is erecting a large brick general store which will be one of the most handsome buildings in town.

TEA AND COFFEE IN INDIA.

By W. T. Fee, U. S. Consul at Bombay.

OFFICIAL statistics of the tea and coffee production of India are of peculiar interest this year, because they deal with industries which have reached a critical stage in their history. Unfortunately, while the tendency is for the tea trade to recover its position, the palmy days of coffee raising in this country seem to be past.

TEA

It is only when the figures are tabulated that one can appreciate the enormous proportions the Indian tea trade has attained. Last year there were 521,767 acres under the hardy plant, producing 191,250,000 lb. of tea, giving employment to some 666,000 persons, and representing an invested capital of $54,000,000. About one-tenth of the production was in Dhera Dun, the United Provinces, the Kangra Valley in the Punjab, and the Travancore district in Southern India. The other nine-tenths is grown in the two Provinces of Bengal and Assam.

The period of greatest activity was in the years 1897 and 1898, when 67,000 acres were added to the tea-growing area. This tremendous expansion in the output, without any corresponding increase in the demand, bore its inevitable fruit in the glut which has in recent years brought prices down below a fair profitable level, and consequently a healthy reduction of the rate of progress set in. Last year there were only 2,281 acres added, and in the ordinary course of events a decrease in succeeding returns may be expected.

The price of tea in 1902, although higher than that of 1901, was lower than at any other time during the past 30 years. The ruling price at Calcutta during the public sale was about 14 cents a pound for broken pekoe (probably the best quality of Indian tea), and unless there is considerable advance in values, which is extremely unlikely, the poorest yielding lands must fall out of cultivation.

The United Kingdom is still the greatest repository for Indian tea, taking nearly 160,000,000 pounds of the total production, though there was a decline of some 7,000,000 pounds for the year previous; it is difficult to say how much of the tea exported to London finds its way to America. Australia comes an extremely poor second, with 8,500,000 pounds. France and Russia are the only countries whose demand shows a promising development. The popularity of "Le five o'clock" has run the consumption in France up to 75,000 pounds a year.

India consumes only 5,500,000 pounds of home-grown tea and 3,000,000 pounds of foreign. The planters have neglected the Indian market in their anxiety to stimulate the demand from abroad. Canada, with its 5,000,000 inhabitants, consumes as much Indian tea as does the United States, with a population fifteen times as great; each consumed last year about 1,075,000 pounds.*

COFFEE

Southern India practically monopolizes the Indian coffee industry. The low prices caused by the competition of the Brazilian coffee (which represents three-fourths of the world's production) have played havoc with this trade in recent years, and the average production in the last quinquennium was under 20,500,000 pounds, as compared with 34,750,000 pounds in the preceding five years. This great falling off in the output is due rather to a diminished yield than to any reduction of acreage, for the extent under coffee is practically the same as in 1885, while the output is less than half.

The coffee producers have seen the price of their commodity fall for the last 12 years. In 1890, it was £5 6s. 2½d. ($25.63) per cwt. (112 pounds), and in 1900 it touched bottom level with £2 7s. ($11.67).

There is in this country a certain demand for tea—although small — and the progress of the experiments undertaken at the suggestion of the viceroy tends to show that it is capable of expansion. Indian coffee, on the other hand, has to find its purchasers entirely abroad, and so long as the foreign market is dominated by the low-priced Brazilian product, there is no great hope for the industry.

The English demand of 13,000,000 pounds is closely followed by that of France—11,250,000 pounds. The importance of this French trade leads planters to follow, with no little anxiety, the progress of the tariff negotiations. Mr. O'Conor, director-general of statistics to the Government of India, says that the question is still unsettled, and the provisional arrangements under which the minimum tariff rate was applied to it were recently prolonged.

The quality of Indian coffee is good—so good that it is appreciated by the Arabs and Turks. It is not easy to determine how much of the 250,000 pounds of Indian coffee shipped to Arabia finds its way to Europe and America as the finest "Mocha."

* The imports into the United States of tea from British India amounts to 2,019,099 lb., and 3,093,864 lb. during the years 1899, 1900, and 1901, respectively.

HINTS ON TEA DRINKING.

By A. R. Robertson, New York.

THE use of tea is so universal that the public ought to know more about it than it does. There is no question that it is a very refreshing beverage if it is intelligently prepared—that is, if the pot is nicely washed in fresh boiling water, the dry leaves are put in, and over them is poured boiling water, and the same is allowed to stand for three or five minutes.

Unfortunately, it is so often allowed to stand on the range from half an hour to an hour before using that when the decoction is drunk it tastes more like senna or poison than tea. No wonder that some of our friends say they never drink tea except when they are feeling badly or out of sorts! But the reason is they do not know what good tea really is.

In hot weather there is nothing more refreshing and nothing that will help you to stand the heat better than a cup of warm tea. A great many prefer iced tea with lemon, but a cup of warm tea on a hot day will do you more good than a cold drink of any kind.

If taken in moderation, both tea and coffee can be used with great benefit by everyone. It only remains for each person to decide, or to find out, which of the beverages suits him or her the better.

Some claim that tea drinking is altogether the outcome of habit, but this is a mistake. In countries where the fine teas are imported from China and Ceylon, as, for example, Russia and Great Britain, the consumption per capita is four to five times as large as in the United States, and is continually on the increase. Some tell us that this is induced by climatic influences, but a closer examination leads us to believe that there is a better reason, namely, that the public here has been using teas of a very common quality for a low price, thinking they are good enough, whereas in reality poor, common or bad tea, should be left alone.

The difference between a 35-cent tea and a 60-cent tea purchased in a good store is not generally understood. If you will watch the brewing of these teas you will find that it requires a much greater quantity of the cheap tea than of the expensive kind to make a brew of the right palatable strength.

In Great Britain tea is served in nearly every house and office at 4 or 5 o'clock in the afternoon. So great is the fondness of business men for tea at this time that they frequently go without their luncheon in order to have time to drink tea in the late afternoon. If tea will compel a man to make such a sacrifice, it must be a fascinating beverage to its devotees.

The consumption of black teas, especially those of Ceylon and India, is rapidly increasing in the United States. These do not differ much from the English breakfast tea of China, except that they grow at a higher or different altitude. The growers of these teas claim superiority for their product on the ground that they are machine rolled, instead of being rolled by hand. While I agree with them in this view, I believe that from any good tea, no matter where it is grown, can be brewed a beverage that is beneficial for mind and body.

HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY

But one must be honest to themselves also. We believe in giving good measure just as much as anybody does, but when it comes to giving away all your profits, it is a very different matter.

Wilson's Scales are Honest to Buyer and Seller.

They weigh accurately, giving full measure and yet retain the profit for the grocer.

Let us send you full particulars of our BALL BEARING COMPUTING SCALE OFFER, upon easy terms of payment.

THE INTERCOLONIAL EXHIBIT.

A WALL space of some 140 feet was devoted to the exhibit of the Intercolonial Railway at the Toronto Exhibition this year. This was used to display 35 large and handsome reproductions of scenes, illustrating the country through which the Maritime Express passes. They included views in the Provinces of Quebec, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island. There were summer resorts, fishing and hunting regions and sea bathing spots depicted, all calculated to entrance the minds of would-be tourists. A handsome centre to the exhibit was a large moose head, the trade crest of the railway company, which stood out from the wall in all its natural might. Among the pictures, one of the most striking was the photograph of the Miramichi moose, shot this year by Robert H. Armstrong.

The exhibit was prepared by Mr. W. L. Creighton, the advertising agent of the railway company, and during the two weeks of the Exposition it was in charge of Mr. N. Weatherston, the travelling freight and passenger agent. Mr. Weatherston was able, from his 15 years' service on the railway, to give excellent information to the many inquirers who passed by and admired the pictures. Indeed, the exhibit attracted much attention, and there was great eagerness evinced to secure the literature that had been prepared for distribution. Many people were surprised to learn of the facilities afforded by the railway company to summer tourists. From June 1 to September 30, greatly reduced rates are in force, with a good return up to November 1, and with very liberal stop-over privileges at all the principal points of interest.

Anyone who was unable to see the pictures shown by the Intercolonial is reminded that descriptive literature will always be readily supplied at the company's offices, which will explain everything about travel on that railway.

WEDDINGS IN THE TRADE.

Geo. C. Hanna, merchant, Wingham, Ont., was united in marriage on September 9, to Miss Carrie Fisher, daughter of Postmaster Fisher of the same town.

On September 9 W. A. Burrows, one of the leading business men of Port Arthur, was united in the bonds of matrimony to Miss Marion, daughter of W. H. Longworthy.

M. P. Ryan, commission merchant and pork packer, Toronto, was united in marriage last week with Miss Ruby Shea, only daughter of James Shea, the well-known dry goods and millinery merchant, Hamilton.

Why do so many Canadians drink

Ceylon Tea?

The reason is not hard to find. It is because it is the best tea imported into Canada, and because it is best there is a popular demand for it.

People who once try Ceylon Tea never go back again to other kinds.

They stay right with it and use it all the time.

The grocers who push Ceylon Teas know this because their sales are constantly increasing instead of diminishing as the sales of some other teas are doing.

Push the sale of

and your business will increase steadily.

WHY ARE

Southwell's

Jams

superior to all other Imported Lines ?

Because each Jam has the individual flavor of its own fruit.

Many imported Jams taste all alike.

Downweight is a Thief

Stealing Your Profits Every Time You Use Your Scales. . . .

The Toledo Springless, Automatic, Computing Scale, "The Scale with Brains," is the only scale in the world that positively stops the giving of DOWNWEIGHT. It is the only Automatic Computing Scale in the world without springs No hand operation in weighing; no prices to set; no levers to move; no weights to lift; no poises to shift; you simply place the article to be weighed on the scale, and the scale instantly and automatically shows in plain figures:

1. The weight of the article in pounds and ounces.
2. The price per pound.
3. The total value of the article in dollar and cents.

It is a mechanical wonder, marvelous in its Simplicity, Sensitiveness, Accuracy and Rapidity of Operation. Made in many styles and sizes for all kinds of stores. Write to-day for illustrated catalogue.

FOUNDATIONS OF SUCCESS.

YOU can hardly imagine a boy saying: "I am going to be a second-class man. I don't want to be first class and get the good jobs, the high pay. Second-class jobs are good enough for me," remarks a writer in Success. Such a boy would be regarded as lacking in good sense, if not in sanity. You can get to be a second-class man, however, by not trying to be a first-class one. Thousands do that all the time, so that second-class men are a drug on the market.

Second-class things are only wanted when first class can't be had. You wear first-class clothes if you can pay for them, eat first-class butter, first-class meat, and first-class bread; or, if you don't, you wish you could. Second-class men are no more wanted than any other second-class commodity. They are taken and used when the better article is scarce or is too high-priced for the occasion. For work that really amounts to anything, first-class men are wanted.

Many things make second-class men. A man menaced by dissipation, whose understanding is dull and slow, whose growth has been stunted, is a second-class man, if, indeed, he is is not third class. A man who, through his amusements in his hours of leisure, exhausts his strength and vitality, vitiates his blood, wears his nerves till his limbs tremble like leaves in the wind, is only half a man, and could in no sense be called first class.

Everybody knows the things that make these second-class characteristics. Boys smoke cigarettes to be smart and imitate older boys. Then they keep on because they have created an appetite as unnatural as it is harmful. Men get drunk for all sorts of reasons; but, whatever the reason, they cannot remain first-class men and drink. Dissipation in other forms is pursued because of pleasures to be derived, but the surest consequence is that of becoming second class, below the standard of the best men for any purpose.

Every fault you allow to become a habit, to get control over you, helps to make you second class, and puts you at a disadvantage in the race for honor, position, wealth and happiness. Carelessness as to health fills the ranks of the inferior. The submerged classes that the economists talk about are those that are below the high-water mark of the best manhood and womanhood. Sometimes they are second-rate or third-rate people because those who are responsible for their being and their care during their minor years were so before them, but more and more it is becoming one's own fault if, all through life, he remains second class. Education of some sort, and even a pretty good sort, is possible to practically everyone in our land. Failure to get the best education available, whether it be in books or in business training, is sure to relegate one to the ranks of the second class.

TRAILERS HAVE NO "GO" IN THEM.

Many people are like the street cars called "trailers," which have no motors or power-generators of their own, or, if they have, do not use them. They depend on the cars ahead of them, or, perhaps, on some poor hack of a mule, which, in spite of his leanness, has some "go" in him. Such people have no energy of their own, but must hitch to someone that has. They couldn't run a business for themselves if their existence depended on it. They must "hire out" to some person of independent and masterful character. They must be set tasks and told how to do them.

"Trailers" are always dragged behind. So are the people that correspond with them. They are imitators. They do not think, because it is easier to let the leaders do it for them. They are too indolent or have too little ambition, to act independently.

Many of those human "trailers" might have been leaders, had they taken pains to develop their inherent qualities of leadership. They thought it would require too much effort to train for generalship. They were willing to remain in the ranks. The discipline for self-mastery is too strenuous for them. They want to lead an easy life, and yet they complain because they do not enjoy the success that can come only from effort. A street-car system made up solely of "trailers" would not take anybody anywhere, and a community composed solely of human "trailers" will never be heard from in the world's progress.

WHAT THE PLODDERS ACCOMPLISH.

If we were to examine a list of the men who have left their mark on the world, we should find that, as a rule, it is not composed of those who were brilliant in youth, or who gave great promise at the outset of their careers, but rather of the plodding young men who, if they have not dazzled by their brilliancy, have had the power of a day's work in them, who could stay by a task until it was done, and well done; who have had grit, persistence, common sense and honesty.

It is the steady exercise of these ordinary, homely virtues, united with average ability, rather than a deceptive display of more showy qualities in youth, that enables a man to achieve greatly and honorably. So, if we were to attempt to make a forecast of the successful men of the future, we should not look for them among the ranks of the "smart" boys, those who think they "know it all," and are anxious to win by a short route.

SELF-CULTURE AND SUCCESS.

A man does not need a college education in order to succeed in any ordinary business. You may reach a commanding position in the commercial or political world without attaining a high degree of scholarship. You may be successful, in the purely material meaning of the word,

Don't forget that we guarantee the without a touch of higher culture, without any appreciation of the nobler things of life. You may be a millionaire, with great influence in your community, and yet be almost wholly ignorant of books, art, music, or travel.

But this is a very narrow view of success. Is the meaning of life not broadened and beautified by an expansive mind, a wider horizon, and the satisfaction of finer culture?

The glory of a sunset, the beauty of a landscape, or the delicate loveliness of a rose or a lily is not necessary to our mere animal existence, but it adds much to the sum of the highest things of life.

Pictures and draperies are not necessary to a wall, Oriental rugs to a floor, or delicate pieces of statuary and bric-a-brac to the furniture of a room; libraries lined with noble books are not absolutely essential to bare existence; a knowledge of the mysteries and beauties of science, the fascination of literature, the delights of music and art—none of these things is necessary to the support of life; but how barren life would be without them! If we were suddenly deprived of these things, what would we substitute for them to differentiate our lives from those of animals?

CAPABLE FINISHERS OF BOTCHED JOBS.

Many of the cleverest men in the world are not originators, but have achieved their success by completing what others have begun, but could not finish.

It has been said that Edison, perhaps, has never made an absolutely original discovery, but this does not detract in the least from his worth or his fame.

The Patent Office at Washington contains hundreds—yes, thousands—of inventions which are useless simply because they are not quite practical, because the men who started them lacked the staying quality, the education, or the ability necessary to carry them to success. Edison has been shrewd enough to see a vast field of usefulness for the man able to carry such half-finished inventions to useful application and commercial success. He saw more in these incomplete, half-finished devices, or inventions, than he could carry out if he should live to the age of Methuselah.

Indeed, this world is full of half-finished work—failures which require only a little more persistence, a little finer mechanical training, a little better education, to make them useful to civilization. Would that we had a thousand Edisons to pick up all such dropped cords or threads, half-finished inventions, abortive attempts and discoveries which have stopped just this side of practicability! What a blessing to civilization are men who can do things to a finish, who complete what they undertake, who leave nothing undone! Think of what a loss it would be if an Edison, a Bell, and a Thomson had not come to the front and carried to a successful termination the half-finished work of others! Had it not been for these men, we should have no telephone, perhaps, no electric road, no electric lights.

Whether Edison is an originator or not, he has been clever enough to have some 500 patents placed to his credit. He has been better than an originator, for he has been a practical improver and completer of other people's ideas, many of which were but impracticable theories when he took them up. Perhaps no other man in this century has turned to practical use so many impracticable ideas as Edison has.

A GRIEVANCE OF EGG EXPORTERS.

Since preparations have commenced to fit out a new line of steamers for South Africa there has been no lack of competition between merchants to secure space for the transportation of those products which they specially handle.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade in Montreal last week, the poultry and egg traders submitted to Commissioner Robertson, Dominion Dairy Commissioner, the grievance that the matter of export of poultry and eggs had not been sufficiently considered in fitting up cold storage for the new steamers. They pointed out that this trade was a most valuable one, and with aid from the Government they were confident that they could build up a large and profitable business.

According to present arrangements each of the steamers of the new line to South Africa will be fitted to carry 200 tons of cargo in cold storage.

THE APPLE EVAPORATORS.

THE evaporating season which has now fully opened up promises this year to be one of the greatest activity. The evaporators which have been in operation in previous years are kept very busy, while the erection of new evaporators at various points is affording employment to a large number of laborers.

The evaporator of Finkle & Akerman, Bowmanville, which keeps employed between 20 and 30 hands, commenced early last week. This company has added a large brick addition to their factory and are now drying vegetables as well as large quantities of apples.

A new building, to be used as an apple-evaporating plant, is being erected in Seaforth by Town, Case & Co., of Rose, Wayne county, New York. This plant, the cost of which will be $1,400, will not only give the farmers of Seaforth an excellent market for their apples, but will also afford employment to many of the laboring people.

The evaporating factories of Blenheim, Ont., are also in full operation. That of A. Snelgrove, who supplies many wholesale firms in Montreal with dried apples, has a capacity of 200 bushels of manufactured product per day. J. C. McGuigan and Alex. McPherson, who own an evaporator in Cedar Springs, have also fitted up evaporating buildings in Blenheim, and with these combined factories will dispose of a large quantity of apples.

A WEST-INDIAN EXHIBIT.

A VERY progressive commercial spirit characterizes the business men of the West Indies and there seems to be a strong desire on the part of the inhabitants of the British West-Indian Islands to strengthen their connection with the other British possessions in various parts of the world. Especially towards Canada have their eyes been turned, where they hope to build up a profitable trade.

As a sample of their aggressiveness, the fact that they took the trouble to prepare a large exhibit of products and have them shown at the Toronto Exhibition this fall is worthy of all commendation. Planters provided the samples and The Pickford and Black Steamship Company brought them to Canada and took charge of the exhibit at Toronto.

A large portion of the floor space of the annex to the main building was covered with the West-Indian products. These were very tastefully arranged, the main outlines being in the shape of pyramids. The shining array of bottles, containing liquid products, and the luxuriant tropical vegetables and fruits were an eye-opener to many who passed through the building. Few had ever dreamed that such a wealth and such a variety of articles were produced in the islands. Many questions were fired at Charles D. Pickford, who had charge of the exhibit, about all imaginable points, and inquirers found in him a courteous guide.

The exhibit was apportioned as follows among the different islands :

JAMAICA.—Pickles, kola, jams, rum, ginger wine, orange wine, pimento dram, bay rum, peppermint, cinnamon, arrowroot, cassava, nutmegs, mace, coffee, ginger, banana meal, cocoa, honey, beeswax, pimento, sugar, walking sticks, fancy work, photos, Jippi-Jappa hats (these are a good imitation of Panama and cost very much less. A good business could be worked up in them).

DEMERARA.—Rum, sugar, nutmegs, cocoa, sugar canes, growing cocoanuts, growing coffee, Tonka beans, wood fibres, Balata gum, nuts, woods, molasses, diamonds, minerals and chocolate.

TRINIDAD.—Cocoa, asphalt, sugar, rum, cocoa, nutmegs, bitters, falernum, cocoanut oil, jams, pickles, Copra molasses.

TOBAGO.—Sponges, fossils, rum, sugar, cocoa, nutmegs, arrowroot, cassava and nuts.

GRENADA.—Nutmegs, coffee, cocoa, cinnamon, pimento and ginger.

ST. VINCENT.—Arrowroot, coffee, ginger, cocoa, baskets, volcanic ejecta and dust, photo of volcano, before and after eruption ; tobacco and cigars.

BARBADOS.—Sugar, rum, arrowroot, cassava, falernum, molasses, jams, infusorial earth.

ST. LUCIA.—Natural woods, rum, sugar, spices, cotton, honey and beeswax.

DOMINICA.—Spices of all kinds, vanilla, essential oils of lemon, lime, orange, etc.; oranges, citrons, limes, lemons, pineapples, jams, rum, sugar, coffee, cocoa, etc.

ST. KITTS.—Sugar, rum, molasses, preserved fruits, etc.

FISH FLOUR IN NORWAY.

A great deal is done in Norway to improve and preserve the provisions produced in the country and to procure a market for them abroad. The fisheries represent one of Norway's chief industries, and quantities of fish are sold at very low rates, particularly during summer. One way in which these are utilized is by means of an invention which quickly dries and pulverizes the flesh of fresh fish. The resulting product, called fish flour, is easy to transport from one place to another and has great nutritive value. A new and profitable branch of industry might be established in America, by utilizing fish in this way.

GLEANED THROUGH THE TRAVELLERS.

MANY of the drummers of the wholesale grocery houses were in town Saturday and report a fair business for the week, notwithstanding the expositions held in many of the towns which lined their routes. Now that the abundant harvest has been safely garnered the farmer is wearing a cheerful face and a fat pocketbook, both of which he communicates amply to the retail merchants of his locality. In South Simcoe the alsike crop has been especially good and Mr. Keys, of Kinnear & Co., instances two farmers in the neighborhood of Alliston, who have derived $1,200 and $1,500 from their alsike harvest alone.

Many of the merchants are taking advantage of the cheap railway rates to do a little visiting and incidentally to make purchases. A few business changes are also reported.

S. A. Bruckacher, grocer and fruiterer, of Berlin, has sold out his business in that town.

S. G. McEwen, formerly a partner of The G. Hutchison Co., Alliston, has purchased the business of H. W. Wright, of the same town.

H. S. Packham, grocer, also of Alliston, has sold out preparatory to taking up business across the line.

Frank T. Kill, of Markdale, who has had a severe attack of illness, is once more able to attend to business.

W. W. McClarty, of Owen Sound, anticipates a trip to Manitoba. On his route he purposes to visit many customers.

T. Benson, of the firm of Benson & Co., Dundalk, is anticipating a trip to the Northwest, where he is largely interested in farm lands.

One of the most enterprising directors of the Owen Sound Exposition last week was W. S. Grier, grocery and crockery merchant of that town.

Geo. Gordon, one of the leading merchants of Tottenham, has just returned from a pleasant trip to Montreal, Quebec and other places in the east.

Wm. Stenson, of the firm of Halliday & Stenson has returned from a trip to Montreal and Toronto, where he was making purchases for the fall trade.

J. Richards, of Dundalk, has just returned from an extensive trip east, during which he visited Montreal, Quebec, Halifax, St. John, and other places. His object is not made public.

F. Stafford, of Markdale, visited Toronto this week to make purchases of dry goods and other articles for a general store. R. Benson, who keeps a large general store in Markdale, was also in Toronto to make purchases.

A MODEL FAIR.

The educational aspect which now characterizes all our best expositions is conspicuous in the Whitby Model Fair which was opened on Tuesday by Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture for Canada. In Whitby, the noisy and frequently vulgar sideshows are displaced by practical demonstrations of the culture of sugar beets, of the different varieties of grains, grasses and roots. Experts from Guelph and elsewhere point out the excellent features and the defects of the animals they judge, and show their reasons for the awards they make. Lectures are to be given on poultry, stock, etc. The Women's Institute of South Ontario gave lessons on the preparation of foods. The practical aspect of the Fair is deserving of the greatest praise.

NO CHANGE IN THEIR TOBACCOS.

We have not advanced the price of our tobaccos. "Amber" smoking tobacco, "Bobs," "Currency" and "Fair Play" chewing tobaccos are the same size and price to the consumer as formerly. We have also extended the time for the redemption of "Snowshoe" tags to January 1, 1904.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Seized the Opportunity—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

SEIZED THE OPPORTUNITY.

DESCRIBING the manner in which Chicago packers intrenched themselves in English markets, The London Mail says :

"Fortune played into their hands. The stock of Canadian lean cattle sent here to be fattened up was no longer permitted to land, by order of the Board of Agriculture. The Argentine, which had sent us enormous quantities of live cattle, was placed out of bounds, Australia and New Zealand entered into a period of sustained drouth, which shortened their stock supplies. The English market lay practically at the mercy of the American beef kings.

"They seized the opportunity and 'worked' it for all they could. They opened their own shops in many parts of the country, they have their stalls at every great wholesale market, they supply the retailers with a business skill which earns them custom. And it would be foolish to deny that they are largely keeping their own products. Let any stranger walk through Smithfield in the early morning and he will see that the Swift stall is the brightest and best there, and its men are among the cleanest and smartest of salesmen. The American dressed beef is bringing prices almost equal to the best Scotch, because it rivals it in quality, and in a few years the American imports of dressed beef have gone up at Smithfield from 5,513 tons to 105,678 tons. To-day more than a quarter of the meat sold in Smithfield is the chilled beef sent over from the United States. Were American cattle slaughtered at our disembarkation ports the proportion would be much larger.

LIVE STOCK POINTERS.

Hogs are still running short. That means continued high pork products. The shortage to date at the leading centres for the season's pack is 2,500,000 hogs. Stockers and feeders furnish the feature of the cattle market. They are being bought in large quantities, but at high prices for such stock. This indicates that next year's market will be well supplied with finished beef, but at what price the future alone can tell. As the feeders cost now an average of over $4 per 100 lb. live weight, it is safe to say that they cannot come back into the market as finished beef steers at under $6.50 per 100 lb. average price on the hoof. That means high finished beef next year. The present lower price of grass beef means nothing. Such beef is always cheap at this time of the year.—National Provisioner.

MEAT COMBINE IN DAWSON.

A meat combine is being organized at Dawson which will control a stock of more than $1,000,000. Restaurants, hotels and large mining companies are laying in stocks in anticipation of a sharp rise in prices.

COMBINE OF CATTLEMEN.

In consequence of the formation of a Beef Trust by leading men at the head of that industry in Chicago and the West, there has followed a combine of the cattlemen of the Northwestern and Southwestern States, which, with a capital of $50,000,000, will practically control the cattle business in those regions.

NEW PACKING COMPANY.

Letters patent have been issued incorporating Robert D. McGibbon, Thos. C. Casgrain, Edouard F. Surveyor, Douglas Armour and Montague Miller, all of Montreal, to carry on the business of meat and fruit packing with all rights and privileges accessory to the operation thereof, under the name of The Dominion Packing Co., Limited, with a total capital stock of $1,000,000.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

This week dressed hogs, in sympathy with the live stock market, have declined 50c. per cwt. Receipts are still light. The demand for beef is fair and receipts are fairly good. The live hog market has declined considerably. We quote: Dressed hogs, $8 75 to $9.25; beef carcasses, $6.50 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $7.50 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.50 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 8 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 6 to 7c. Select live hogs are worth $7.00 and fat and lights, $6.75 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4 25 to $5.

Business in all kinds of provisions is brisk, and stocks are becoming light. We quote: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c. ; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c. ; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10c.; plate beef, $15 per 200 lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

A fairly good trade has been done in smoked meats and lard. No changes in price have occurred and the market rules steady. In fresh-killed abattoir dressed hogs their is an easier feeling, although the price remains as yet at $9.50 to $9.75 per 100 lb. This is in sympathy with the decline in live hogs. A fair trade is reported. We quote: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail. Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9½c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce : 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c. ; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ⅝c.; 5-lb. tins, ¾c.; 3-lb. tins, ⅞c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail ; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11½c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $25.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50 ; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14 50 to $15.00 per bbl.

WINNIPEG.

DRESSED AND CURED MEATS—Beef has declined ½c., and is now 6½ to 6¾c. The supply is heavy. Veal continues at 8 to 9c.; mutton, 8c., and lambs, 12½c.; hogs, 9 to 9½. Cured meats have advanced from ½ to 1c. per lb. in sympathy with hog prices. We quote: Hams, sugar cured, 15 to 16c. per lb.; breakfast bacon, bellies, 16c.; backs, 14½c.; spiced rolls, short, 13c.; long, 13c.; smoked shoulders, 11½c.; cooked hams, 25c. per lb.; smoked long clear, 13c.; dry salt long clear 12c.; dry salt backs, 12½c.; lard, tins, 11⅞c.; 50-lb. tubs, $6.25 ; 20-lb. pails, $2 50 ; 10-lb. tins, in cases, $7.10 ; 5-lb. tins, $7.20; 3-lb. tins, $7.25. ## ENLARGING THEIR SAMPLE-ROOM.

Owing to the increase in their business, and consequent need for more room, L. Chaput, Fils & Cie are extending their sample-room, taking in the room at the rear of the building. These will be converted into one large room, uniformly finished throughout, which will contain about twice as much floor space as that now occupied.

In the new addition will be located the shippers' and buyers' offices, and also the office of the Customs officer. The new room will be splendidly lighted, two large windows being now placed in on the side fronting St. Dizier street. These improvements are expected to be completed during the early part of October, when the firm will have one of the finest sample-rooms in the trade.

A VALUABLE CONNECTION.

Advertising might suitably be called a "connection"—that is a connection between the things you have to sell and the people who ought to have them. A railroad train must necessarily have couplers with which to connect its cars. The engine drawing the train does not depend upon the couplers for its locomotion, yet without these couplers the train would be useless for the carrying of passengers. The head of the firm is the "engine" and the advertising the "coupler"—both are absolutely essential to draw trade. Good advertising aimed at the kind of people who require the advertising connection pays. A politician derives invaluable benefit from the prominence he receives through newspapers. A business house must also keep its name and goods constantly before the public notice to obtain proper recognition from the buying public. Advertising does it. It is the connection.

It is understood that The Lake of the Woods Milling Co. will issue $1,000,000 additional capital, making total $1,500,000.

TO ADVERTISE WELL.

DO not waste much time, paper and ink in generalities when writing advertisements, says Merchants' Review. Describe the goods you have to sell, mention prices and then stop. That is the usual advice of the best judges, but in practice there is great room for variety in the way the thing is done. The difficulty often is that the goods will not bear accurate description. When a grocer has a really good article, or several articles of merit, he cannot do better than print a brief description of the merit or merits, and if the price is remarkably low he can dwell upon the fact without danger of the ad. suffering in effectiveness.

Cut away all redunancy of phrase or epithet, all the words that can be spared. Never mind whether you are making or losing your reputation for originali providing you are not missing any of the good points of the articles you are advertising. If these points are really good, they may be able to carry the rest of the stock upon their shoulders.

Given a good brand of coffee and another of butter, the rest of the stock ought to be carried without difficulty, even though its quality leaves something to be desired. We mean by this that people who purchase the butter and coffee will be likely to accept the rest of the stock without murmur. Hence the importance of maintaining the quality of the two articles, and the necessity of making every point in their favor tell in the advertisements. There are people who lay stress upon flour, tea, coffee, etc., but coffee and butter count the most with the most people, and although it is always safe and in every way best to keep the stock uniformly superior, it may not be necessary to mention the fact in the ad., so long as the two staples are properly treated.

A dealer who prides himself upon the quality of the butter he sells was recently compelled to close a branch store in a certain town, and since then we have heard this grocer's judgment as a buyer of butter attacked by good judges. At the time we were at a loss for a reason for the closing of the aforesaid store, but when the critics of his dairy department began to be heard we put down the closing of the store to failure to suit the local taste in the matter of butter. Coffee is nearly not quite as important.

Tell of the good points that they have. Tell of the bad points that they do not possess—that is, the bad points of the common goods. Tell why good coffee and butter should be indispensable to the family.

WEST INDIES AND CANADA.

The following from The Antigua Observer indicates how commercial, if not political federation with Canada is being regarded and discussed in the West Indies :

" There is no doubt that Canada can supply us with 60 per cent.; Europe with 30 per cent. and the United States 10 per cent. of our whole imports.

" Freight from Canada is low—half of what it is from Europe—as low as from America, with this advantage also over European imports that you can order goods and receive same within a month, whereas from Europe months elapse before your goods come to hand. With exports of a perishable description the voyage to Europe occupies 14 days—to Canada seven days. In fact, even European manufactures may be imported from Europe via Canada at a slightly cheaper rate of freight than direct from Europe. Continental manufacturers are brought to this island with lighter shipping charges than from London or other cities in England. Goods from Glasgow come cheaper in the matter of freight via New York than direct from England.

" With closer commercial relations with the Dominion of Canada it would possibly lead to a branch of some Canadian bank being opened here and conducted on different principles to those that are at present in existence and which are not quite suited to the time."

DOES NOT AFFECT TRAVELLERS.

The secretary of the Commercial Travellers' Association has received the following letter from directors of the Association in Winnipeg :

"The report that you have received in respect to the city of Winnipeg imposing a tax on commercial travellers is incorrect. These reports take their origin from the recent by-law put through by the city of Winnipeg covering transient traders. In the past very great complaints have been made to the city council in connection with peddlers. Under these circumstances a by-law was introduced covering this class only. The idea of imposing a tax on commercial travellers was never even suggested or discussed in connection with the recent by-law that has been placed in force."

CURRANT CROP OF GREECE.

United States Acting Consul L. Nicolaides, writes from Athens, August 19, 1902, that the Ministerial Council has decided that the proportion of the currant crop of Greece to be retained for the year 1902, according to the law of retention of 1899, is to be 20 per cent. of all currants exported to foreign countries from August 18, 1902, to August 17, 1903. It is thought that the currant production of this year will be approximately 330,000,000 lb. The total quantity exported from August 18, 1901, to July 12, 1902, was 150,000,000 lb.

At present, adds the writer, the prices of currants are not high, but the growers hope to obtain good prices for the new crops, on account of the percentage of retention having been fixed at 20 per cent. instead of 15 per cent., as during the last year.

WHY SOME MEN GO WRONG.

ANOTHER young man in the employ of the U. S. Government at Minneapolis post office has gone wrong. He has been opening letters to obtain the money they contained, and after doing it for a long time without detection, he has at last been found out. He had grown bold as well as hardened in his course, so that when decoy letters were arranged to come under his hand, he took the bait and was caught in the trap. This is what the public finds out at first publication.

Behind the scenes there is a longer story to tell. The temptation to do wrong came many times before the first really criminal act had been committed. It was very repulsive to even think of such a thing, and it never ought to have been thought of again. But the seeds of dishonesty were somewhere in the soil of that mind. There was not the instinctive uprising of a "Thou shalt not" when evil suggestions came. The start was wrong.

But every young man should view this and similar cases in a correct light, or many a one "who thinketh he standeth" may fall. The actual breach of strict honesty was committed when the young man decided he would be willing to commit the deed if he thought he would not be found out. The tempter gained a great advantage when the question of right and wrong was waived. Anyone who would commit a crime or a wrong if without the restraint of fear, is ready to cultivate a fearless spirit and take the chances.

If there is right and wrong, honesty and dishonesty, integrity and lack of principle, then there is but one safe position to occupy. One must conscientiously decide what is wrong, and stand for the right, whatever the circumstances. In this case there was no question. The act committed was a very grave crime, and its consequences will inevitably be very disastrous. But sometimes we must make up our minds where the question is not so easy to decide, and when conscience indicates the path to evil, we must count evil and danger as synonymous.—Eli, in The Commercial Bulletin.

BORACIC ACID IN FOODS.

THE use of boracic acid as a preservative has for some time occupied the minds of those interested in the transportation and preservation of foodstuffs. Hitherto the employment of boracic acid for purposes of preservation has been prevalent in both America and Europe. In Sweden it has long been extensively used for meat and milk, but in England it is absolutely forbidden to introduce any preparation of borax into articles of food, while in Germany, although the Society for the Protection of the Interests of German Chemical Industry, now in session at Frankfurt, have entered a vigorous protest, an Act prohibiting its employment for preserving goes into force at the beginning of the year.

In the United States, where the large amount of butter for foreign export renders the use of boracic acid or some such preservative almost imperative, the question has arisen as to whether butter so impregnated shall be considered as adulterated butter. Commissioner Yermes submitted the matter to expert chemists for testing and has acted according to their decision. These report that borax preparations, if used in small quantities, do not possess the quality of removing rancidity or of deodorization, but if used in sufficient quantities will remove traces of rancidity. Commissioner Yermes has accordingly enacted that if boracic acid is used in small quantities, for the sole purpose of postponing usual and natural changes in butter, the latter shall not be taxed as adulterated butter, but if used in large quantities, or as a wash, it shall be liable to the higher tax of 10c. per lb.

In Canada, as far as we are aware, the question of boracic acid as a preservative of meats has never been seriously discussed. Neither are we prepared to say to what extent it is used. It is, we believe, very little used at any rate.

HONEY CROP TURNS OUT FAIR.

THE honey crop has turned out better than was expected a couple of months ago. At that time in some sections of the Province the wet weather had prevented the bees from going out and gathering in the honey from the flowers. The crop of red clover was abundant but the rains had killed off numbers of the bees. But since then there has been more sunshine, and in the western parts of the Province dryer weather has been prevalent. So there is a fair yield of extracted reported, but comb honey of good quality is a little scarce.

The offerings are now reported free at outside points, and sales have been closed at 7½c. for the extracted, and from $1.25 to $1.50 per doz. for the comb. Besides, there has been a large stock carried over from last year, so, on the whole, prices this year will be no higher than before.

A fairly good demand for this fall is reported, especially on future account. The fruit season is now affecting the sales somewhat as it always does every year, but a little later on a brisk trade is anticipated. The manufacturers of candies and confectionery always use large quantities every year, but they commence to lay in their requirements a little later on in the season.

THE SITUATION IN EGGS.

THE Toronto egg market is becoming firmer in tone and prices are a little higher than they were a week ago. The receipts are falling off to some extent, and now 17c. is wanted there for selected goods and 16 to 16½c. for ordinary candled. Buyers are not willing to pay over 15c. f.o.b. at outside points for good fresh eggs.

The receipts of eggs on the Toronto market during the summer were not quite as large as they were last year. The farmers, probably owing to the high prices they could get for their hogs and cattle, largely consumed eggs instead of meat, and so did not bring as many to market. The quantity of this product placed in pickle and cold storage this year is said to be smaller than last year. The prices paid, however, for eggs all through the summer have been unusually high, being never below 14c., and complaint is now made that exporters have bought their eggs at too high a figure to enable them to export the article with profit.

Some sales already have been made on English account, and the market over there is stiffer, the latest advance being 6d. per 100. The British market appears to keep gaining in strength, and the inquiry from there has been more active this last day or so. The season for Canadian eggs in England is now opening, the Irish and Russian product not being as plentiful there, and will not be so for some time to come. Dealers here, in consequence, are expecting to realize fair prices for their stocks.

The exports of Canadian eggs last year amounted to some 8,000,000 dozen in round numbers, valued at about $1,350,000.

The total imports of eggs into England for the year ending September 1, 1902, were over $26,000,000 in value, according to official figures furnished by United States Consul Hitchcock. Ireland was a heavy contributor, sending in $11,000,000 worth of the product. Eggs to the value of $5,675,000 were imported from Russia, as compared with $1,200,000 worth from there the previous year.

The opening up of Siberia by the Trans-Siberian Railway is giving Russia an outlet on the British markets for her surplus dairy products which will make her a serious competitor with Canada, Australia and other British colonies.

CHINA AND BRITISH TEAS IN CANADA.

IN their last monthly letter, Meekin & Co., London, England, said: "In China teas a small business took place, but no improvement was shown in prices. There are large increases recorded in the exports from China to all the larger consuming countries, in spite of a continually contracting demand. It will be seen that the stock of China teas in London is again increasing to a material extent. Very heavy shipments have been made to the United States of America from China, and should much of the quantity consist of green teas, it is probable that the recently-opened markets for the greens of India and Ceylon may be found not so satisfactory in point of price as they have been hitherto."

The above remarks in regard to increase in shipments of China teas do not apply to Canada. Instead of increasing they are decreasing, as far as this country is concerned, and that in regard to both greens and blacks. Of course, as far as the former are concerned, the high price and scarcity naturally very materially contributed to the decline in the importation. The following table shows the imports of China black and green teas into Canada, direct and indirect, during the last five fiscal years :

IMPORTS OF CHINA TEA.

| | Black in lb. | Green in lb. |
|---|---|---|
| 1898 | 3,323,335 | 1,343,328 |
| 1899 | 2,723,874 | 1,701,196 |
| 1900 | 2,843,572 | 1,235,197 |
| 1901 | 3,644,450 | 863,406 |
| 1902 | 1,057,221 | 471,786 |

The imports of British-grown tea on the other hand have steadily increased during the period, as the following table shows :

IMPORTS OF INDIAN AND CEYLON TEAS.

| | Black in lb. | Green in lb. |
|---|---|---|
| 1898 | 5,308,995 | 120,132 |
| 1899 | 7,781,436 | 69,917 |
| 1900 | 11,449,197 | 50,389 |
| 1901 | 10,263,237 | 426,212 |
| 1902 | 10,553,467 | 612,477 |

And it is worthy of note that this increase in the importation of British-grown tea is in spite of the fact that the quantity brought in from India has declined, owing, no doubt, to the cessation of the special efforts that were at one time made by the Indian Government to push business on the Canadian and United States markets. Ceylon has persevered, and the increased trade is the fruit thereof.

Although the position of China tea on this and other markets is much inferior to what it was a few years ago, it does not follow that it will also be so. It may possibly be that the increased trade to which McMeekin & Co. refer is the initiation of a more aggressive policy on the part of China. While the signs are by no means yet very apparent, one cannot say what the future may develop. Stranger things than the awakening of China have happened.

British-grown black tea has not only the inside track, but it is quite a distance ahead of its Chinese competitor. It cannot afford, however, to overlook the fact that its somewhat antiquated competitor may yet adopt modern methods and develop considerable speed.

A LINK IN THE TRADE.

Notwithstanding the prophesies of some wise ones, wholesale houses in all lines of trade will be stronger than they have been in the past.

They form a natural link between the manufacturer and retailer, and are a part of the economic machinery whereby manufactured goods are concentrated for the convenience of all concerned.

HIGHER PRICES PROBABLE ON PICKLES.

THERE will be a scarcity of pickles, principally of cheaper grades this year, and the prices of the latter will probably be advanced. The crop of cucumbers this season in all parts of Ontario has only been a fraction of what it was last year, and picklemen are now waiting for the season's crop to be gathered in before making a change in prices.

Definite figures regarding the yield of cucumbers this season have not yet come to hand, but a careful estimate places the crop of 1902 up to the present at one-third to two-fifths of that of last year. The condition of the present crop around Owen Sound, Scotland and other cucumber-growing centres of Ontario is about the same, the vines being much injured by the cold and wet weather of which we had so much during the summer, and a large number of the seeds planted in the spring being eaten by bugs. The vines are now in a sickly condition and cannot bear much more this year. Mild weather, though, may continue for some time yet, and this will increase the yield to a considerable extent. Last year the first frost was about September 21. This date is now past, and it is expected that a period of two or three weeks may elapse before the vines are killed by the frost. But the whole of the present crop will be under 50 per cent. of that of last year, no matter how fine the weather turns out. As soon as the crop is all in and the picklemen are able to size up the situation some change is probable in prices.

The extent of the coming appreciation it is difficult to estimate, as the prices of pickles here are controlled by the selling price of the English article, which can be cheaply imported from the Old Country and placed on the Canadian market as a competitor with our own product. The preferential tariff gives the English manufacturer a chance to enter into competition with the Canadian, which he is not slow to take advantage of. The finer grades of English pickles especially have still a hold in the Dominion, and should the prices of the cheaper home-made grades be advanced materially the British goods will gain a foothold in Canada which might be permanent.

The crop of onions is said to be a fair one, and cauliflowers, though doing poorly early in the summer, are now turning out better than expected. Although the prices are still high, they will probably come down to their usual basis before the end of the season.

ADVANCES IN TOBACCOS.

Several brands of tobaccos have been advanced during the past week. The brands "Lily" and "T. & B.," manufactured by The Geo. E. Tuckett & Son Co., Limited, were raised by 7 and 4c. respectively, the price of the former being now 68c. and of the latter 74c. per lb.

Canadian leaf tobacco has advanced also, the value being now 9 to 9½c.

In Macdonald's tobaccos, there has been 6c. per lb. advance in "Brier," "Victoria," "Index" and "British Consols," and 2c. per lb. advance in "Honeysuckle."

The Empire Tobacco Co. have not advanced their prices.

HOW TO USE SOFT COAL.

THE question which at present transcends all others in Canada and the United States is the fuel question. Everyone is turning over ways and means in his mind whereby the difficulty which has arisen because of the famine in hard coal may be overcome. Hard coal sufficient for even a fractional part of the requirements is now out of the question. One large user in Toronto this week offered $20 a ton for 100 tons and could not get even one ton.

All are now agreed that the best substitute is bituminous or soft coal. Another difficulty, however, here arises on account of the fact that the use of soft coal demands not only different attention than the hard coal which we have been in the custom of using in our furnaces and stoves, but closer attention. And a good deal of consideration is being given to this particular point.

Among those who have investigated the matter is the editor of Scientific American, and the result is given in part as follows :

"After careful inquiry among the coal dealers and general coal interests, we are satisfied that when the public begins to buy soft coal, as it will have to do before very long, the dealers will be able to supply all that is needed at a cost not to exceed, even in the suburbs, $5 or $6 a ton. We are assured by one of the largest dealers that there is no doubt that, even if the strike should continue for several months longer, it would be possible for householders to obtain an abundance of bituminous coal at the price named and probably for something less. Nor is there any quality in soft coal which renders it unfit for domestic use. Indeed, as a matter of fact, practically no other fuel is used, or has been used, for domestic purposes in Great Britain, and, while the cooking ranges differ somewhat in design from those used in this country for anthracite coal, it will be quite possible for the householder, by using a little judgment, to burn soft coal to advantage in the ordinary American cooking stove. The most important fact to remember is that the great quantities of gas thrown off when soft coal is first ignited render it necessary to supply considerably more air above the bed of fuel than in the case of anthracite coal. Thus, in replenishing the kitchen stove, it will not do to fill the grate entirely full of fresh fuel, since this would result in the rapid lowering of the oven temperature, which would not be restored until the mass had become ignited and the gases had been somewhat burned off. It will be found that the best method is to feed small quantities of fuel to the fire at frequent intervals, keeping the lower drafts closed more than would be in burning anthracite coal, and keeping the upper draft constantly open. For use in the heating furnace, soft coal will be found to give good results when once the proper manipulation of the furnace has been learned. It should be understood at the outset that more constant attention will be necessary, for the reason that soft coal burns more quickly and will not remain incandescent for so long a time as anthracite coal. During the daytime the attendant will have no difficulty in keeping a steady fire if he is careful to feed the furnace frequently ; to keep the bottom drafts but slightly open ; and to give a liberal feed of air through the air inlet in the furnace door. Owing to the rapidity of combustion of bituminous coal it will not be possible to bank up the furnace for the night and leave it with a certainty that there will be a live fire remaining in the morning ; but this difficulty can be overcome if a ton of anthracite is laid in with the winter's supply of soft coal, and the anthracite used only for banking up the fire over night. A ton of anthracite used for this purpose should suffice to tide the household over a period of high prices.

"There is one feature connected with the use of soft coal, however, which, unless it be carefully safeguarded, may introduce an element of danger. We refer to the heavy deposit of soot in the flues which will occur when soft coal is used. This soot, unless it is swept out at stated intervals, will accumulate, and being inflammable would be liable to ignite and produce a fierce fire in the chimney, with a consequent risk to the dwelling. It sometimes happens that the ends of rafters or beams are, by careless or ignorant construction, allowed to project into the chimney flues. These might become ignited and carry fire to the interior of the house. There is further danger that the shower of sparks from a burning chimney would ignite the shingle roof of the suburban cottage. These risks may be obviated by sweeping the chimney, say once in two months. The "chimney sweep" is an important personage in the old countries, and it would be a curious incidental development of the strike if he should make his appearance, even temporarily, in this country."

We would suggest that our readers place the above article up In their stores in a conspicuous place in order that their customers may read it.

A COMPARISON OF COSTS.

A United States exchange says : "Rather interesting are the figures put forward by Chairman Griggs, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, showing the increase since 1897 in the necessaries of life and the consequent decrease in the purchasing power of a dollar. Mr. Grigg quotes from the report of the Massachusetts Bureau of Statistics of Labor to show that in 1902 a dollar will buy less than in 1897 of the following articles by the following percentage:

|---|---|
| Common soap | 19¼ |
| Starch | 10⅛ |
| Roasting beef | 16⅔ |
| Soup beef | 17⅔ |
| Rump steak beef | 8 |
| Corned beef | 7 |
| Fore quarter veal | 23⅓ |
| Hind quarter veal | 17 |
| Veal cutlets | 11½ |
| Fore quarter mutton | 32⅓ |
| Leg mutton | 27 4/5 |
| Fresh pork | 28 1/5 |
| Salted pork | 25 2/5 |
| Hams | 3 |
| Shoulders | 11 |
| Sausages | 13½ |
| Lard | 40⅞ |

| House rent | 40 |

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. E. M. Johnston, of Johnston, North & Co., canned goods, dried fruits, etc., New York, was in Toronto on Saturday en route home from the Pacific Coast.

Mr. W. L. Hunter, who, during the last few months, has been travelling extensively in the Northwest in the interests of The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, Toronto, has returned to the city.

Mr. Herbert N. Cowan, representing The Cowan Chocolate Co., of Toronto, attended the St. John, N.B., Exhibition with an exhibit of his firm's goods. He reports a successful business in the east.

INDUSTRIES OF BRITISH COLUMBIA.

The 15th annual report of the Vancouver Board of Trade is to hand. The condition and progress of each of the growing industries of the Province of British Columbia is thoroughly and comprehensively reviewed. As is to be expected, the greater part of the report deals with the rapidly-increasing mining and shipping industries, and the members of the Board of Trade show themselves keenly alive to all the industrial interests of the Province. The report is diversified by magnificent scenes depicting various features of the industrial life of this picturesque Province.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, September 25, 1902.

GROCERIES.

IN wholesale groceries this week a fair number of good-sized orders have come forward from various parts of the country where the travellers have been working. The fall trade from this out will be increasing and all lines are becoming active. Macdonald's tobaccos are firm and his "Briar" brand has appreciated 7c. per lb., owing to an advance of about 100 per cent. in the foreign leaf of which this brand is made. Following this, the leaf out of which the "Prince of Wales'" brand is made is also going up, too, and the prospects are for a further advance in this article. Canned goods are featureless, excepting that reports come from France to the effect that the catch of sardines there this season is small and that prices are likely to go up. The coffee market is quiet, with a small amount of business doing in green Rios. All the opening prices of nuts are high this season, and buyers are moving carefully so that not many orders so far have been booked. Tapioca is a little easier and quite a quantity is offering at ¼c. below our former quotations. Trade in syrups and molasses is light as yet, and in spices the demand is still for the pickling grades. Heavy buying continues on the local sugar market and the prices are firm in sympathy with the strong markets abroad. Teas are quiet and unchanged, and in dried fruits first shipments of Valencia raisins came to hand last week, but were cleaned out almost as soon as they arrived. Californian dried fruits are, in some lines, beginning to come forward.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade in vegetables is quiet and the prices are firm and unchanged with no prospects of there being a weakening in them before next season at least. No tomatoes for future delivery are offering, and it is difficult to foreshadow what the opening prices will be. We quote: Peas, 82½c. up; corn, 82½c. up and tomatoes, $1.15 up. Buyers are now convinced of the fact that there is a shortage in this year's salmon pack, and so are actively inquiring for quotations, and a good many orders are being taken by local wholesalers. Sardines are in good demand and the prices are firm in sympathy with reported higher French markets, where the catch this year is said to be smaller than usual. Trade in other lines of fish and meats is fair and the prices are unchanged. We now quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES.

Trade in coffees on the local market is at present principally confined to green Rios. The outside markets have a tendency to sag, owing to the increasing pressure from Brazil to sell and the indifferent demand. Quotations are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

Buyers of nuts on the local market are holding back by reason of the high opening prices of nuts this year, and very few orders have been booked so far. This season's bag walnuts will be 2c. to 3c. higher than last year's, if not more. On the outside markets all kinds of nuts are firmly held and an active interest is reported in walnuts and almonds.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A fair demand continues for rice at unchanged prices. Tapioca is weaker, with liberal offerings and the prices have sagged ¼c. Southern advices report fairly active and firm markets for rice. Tapioca is quiet and steady abroad. We quote: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 3¾c.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Little interest is yet being shown in syrups or molasses beyond some call for the former for the lumber camps. Prices of syrups are steady outside and molasses are held at full market prices, blackstrap being unchanged.

SPICES.

The business doing in spices is principally in pickling grades, which are moderately active. Nothing new is reported from the East on pepper and there was an absence of offers for forward shipment. Nutmegs were firmer on the New York market.

SUGAR.

The local demand for sugars continues heavy and the market is firm in sympathy with strong markets outside. Advices by cable from Europe report the beet crops in Germany and Austria slightly damaged in some sections by frost, and that the yield there this year will not be so large as expected. This, if fully confirmed, will have the effect of imparting a firm tone to the markets elsewhere, and probably cause an advance. The London, England, cables report a firm and unchanged market for beet sugar. The stocks of sugar in the United States and Cuba last week were 331,081 tons against 341,274 tons the week before and 273,311 tons last year, an increase of 57,770 tons over last year. The offerings of raws on the market of the United States are much reduced in quantity and the tone and tendency favors the sellers. But the cane crop of Louisiana and the large crop of beet production coming in shortly will much reduce the requirements from the Atlantic coast and stand in the way of improvements in prices in the United States. A heavy demand for refined is reported in the United States, which is quite beyond the abilities of refiners to supply for a while at least.

TEAS.

As far as Japan teas are concerned all desirable grades are up 1c. per lb., leaving nothing really saleable under 19½ to 20½c. per lb. on the local market. Some teas are offered at 18c., but their style and quality is undesirable. Indian teas of good merchantable value are offering at 11½ to 12½c., and flavored teas at 16 to 18c. Fine orange pekoes are scarce at 17½ to 25c. per lb. Ceylon greens are also hard to get and some of Japan make are attracting attention. Latest advices by letter from Japan, bearing the date of September 3, report that prices, which at one time showed an advance of 2 yen per picul, have of late somewhat weakened. The quotations are from 9 to 10 yen higher than those ruling at the corresponding period last year. A marked decrease in the production of the third crop is reported. Advices from London, England, stated that good Indian liquoring teas commanded chief attention and sold well, while medium and common teas were less inquired for, selling with a weaker tendency. Bidding in the Ceylon teas which were brought forward showed less animation, the competition not being so well distributed as during the last few weeks. Common and medium grades showed a weaker market, but the better class of teas about maintained previous values.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The demand for these on the local market is steady. The second shipment of currants left Patras this week for Canada by the ss. Bellona. The market in Greece is reported a little firmer. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c. and Patras, 6¼ to 7c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The first shipment of new-crop Valencia raisins was received on the local market at the end of last week. This is about a week earlier than the first arrivals last year. These were rapidly cleaned out at 8½ to 9c. per lb. for selects.

DATES.—Little demand is as yet reported for these and the opening prices of the new crop, as far as can be ascertained, have not been made yet. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—Lack of interest in prunes is reported as being shown on the local market. The sizes of Californian prunes are going to run small this year, it is said, and large will be scarce. We quote as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60 70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The first quotations this season of Californian loose muscatels have come forward. They are 1c. lower for Canada than for the United States. We quote as follows: 5c. for 4-crown, Griffin & Skelley brand; 4½c. for 3-crown and 4c. for 2-crown, f.o.b. Fresno, in 50-lb. boxes.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —Coast advices still report a strong feeling among producers and holders of apricots and peaches. Our quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. for peaches and 9 to 13c. per lb. for apricots. Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The arrivals of peaches this week have been large and the prices are low, lower, in fact, than they have been for years. They are hard to move, and a good deal of inferior quality are offering. Plums are plentiful, but the demand for them is slow. Apples can be had in abundance and are bringing better prices than they did a week ago. A fair inquiry continues for watermelons. Lemons are very weak, and some limes that are offering are finding no sales. Ripe peppers are scarce and are bringing 75c. to $1 per basket; greens are not wanted. We quote as follows: Tomatoes, 20 to 30c. per basket; peaches, Crawfords, 30 to 50c. and ordinary, 15 to 30c.; pears, 20 to 30c. per basket for Bartletts and 15 to 25c. for ordinary; grapes, 20 to 30c. for small baskets and 30 to 45c. for large; plums, 35 to 50c. per basket; apples, 15 to 25c. per basket and $1 to $1.50 per barrel; crabapples, 25c. per basket; vegetable marrow, 40c. per basket; watermelons, 15 to 20c. each by the 100; lemons, $1 upwards per box; onions, ordinary, 75c.; Spanish, 90c. per case; peppers, green, 15 to 30c. per basket; ripe, 75c. to $1; oranges, Jamaica, $3.50 per box and $6.75 per barrel; Jersey sweet potatoes, $3.50 per barrel; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack.

VEGETABLES.

A fair demand is reported for most lines of vegetables. Lettuce is scarce and has advanced 10c. per dozen. Potatoes are very high, the prices during the last week going as high as $1.20 per bag, but owing to freer receipts this week they have gone down some. Our quotations are as follows: Green onions, 8c. to 30c. per doz.; lettuce, 30 to 40c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per dozen and $1 per barrel; carrots, 15c. to 20c. per dozen; beets, 15c. per basket; new potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 75c. to $1 per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 75c. to $1 per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The receipts of eggs have fallen off a little and the market for good, fresh stock is 1c. firmer than last week. It is interesting to note that the United Kingdom, according to official figures furnished by U. S. Consul Hitchcock, imported eggs to the value of $26,000,000 during the year ending last August. Of these, $5,750,000 worth came from Russia. From the same source, the year before, the imports of eggs reached a value of $1,200,000, showing that since the opening of the Trans-Siberian Railway Russia is gaining a big hold on the English market. We quote: Selects, 16 to 17c.; ordinary, store-collected, 15 to 16c.; seconds and checks, 11 to 12c.

BEANS.—Very few of these are offering. We quote $1.40 to $1.50 for primes and $1.30 for handpicked.

HONEY.—There are more liberal offerings of honey at outside points than was anticipated some time ago. Buyers are paying 8 to 8½c. outside for large quantities and 9 to 9½c. for small lots. Combs are quoted at $1.40 upwards per dozen.

POTATOES.—The offerings of these are freer this week. We quote 75c. per bag on track in carlots.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The price of butter on the local market is steady and unchanged. The offerings of low grades, store packed, at outside points are still large, but there are no buyers. Creamery is firmer here owing to cable reports of a firmer market in Great Britain for finer grades of butter due to buyers there speculating on a short make of Australian butter owing to a drought there. Quotations are as follows: Choice 1-lb. rolls, 15 to 16c.; dairy tubs, best quality, 15c.; store packed, uniform color, 13 to 13½c. and low grades, 12 to 12½c.; creamery prints, 19 to 20c. and solids, 18½ to 19c. per lb.

CHEESE.—Reflecting the firm tone of the English market the prices of cheese here are higher this week, and as high as 10¼c. is wanted f.o.b. Ingersoll. In the Old Country the demand is still large, the high prices of meat forcing the people to turn to other things for their food, thus increasing the consumption of cheese. Quotations in Toronto are as follows: Cheese, 10½ to 10¾c. per lb.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—There is a good demand for chickens, but the warm weather is keeping back deliveries of all kinds of poultry. We quote: Chickens, dressed, 65 to 85c. per pair; live chickens, 50 to 60c.; ducks, 70 to 85c.; live ducks, 50 to 65c.; young turkeys, 11 to 13c.

GAME.—The warm weather is having a quieting effect on the game market and there are no receipts worth noting. Prices are nominal. We quote: Teal, 20 to 25c. per pair; pin tails, 40 to 45c. and black duck, 70 to 75c.

FISH.

Stocks of fish are arriving with more freedom. The fall fishing season will soon commence and then trade will be quite brisk. A slight improvement is noted in the demand for oysters, but business in them will not be of much account until the cold weather sets in, and our quotations are as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 8½ to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 8½ to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.35 per gallon; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—In sympathy with the corner in Chicago, where wheat rose 10c. per bushel, there has been a slight advance in the wheat market. New oats have declined a little, while old oats have ceased to be offered. In barley, there is an advance. We quote: Red Ontario wheat, 69c.; white wheat, 69c.; goose wheat, 64 to 65c.; rye, 49½c.; barley, 41 to 42c. and oats, 33 to 34c.

FLOUR.—This market continues brisk. Prices are steady and unchanged. We now quote: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.05 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.80 to $3.85; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—Oatmeal and rolled oats are still in good demand. Rolled wheat has declined 20c. per cwt. We quote: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.30 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—Buying in hides continues fair. In green hides there is an advance of ½c. With this exception quotations are the same as last week. We quote: No. 1 green, 8½c. No. 2 green, 7½c. No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—Prices are steady and the demand is fair. We quote as follows: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 50c.

WOOL.—Wool continues quiet at the same quotations. We quote: Fleece wool, 13½c. and unwashed, 7½c.

TALLOW.—Prices are still weak at 6¾c. to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

There is still little moving in the seed market save alsike, and this, owing to the bad weather during the alsike harvest, is frequently inferior in quality. The movement is chiefly confined to outside points. Timothy is also on the market in small quantities. We quote as follows: Alsike, $6 to $6.25 per bushel; timothy, $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel. The prices are higher for extra fine grade seed.

---

MARKET NOTES.

Eggs are 1c. higher on the local market.

Tapioca is ¼c. per lb. weaker in some cases.

Macdonald's "Prince of Wales" tobacco has advanced 1c. and "Briar," 7c. per lb.

Creamery butter in solids has advanced ½c. per lb. on the strength of a stronger English market.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, September 25, 1902.

GROCERIES.

A FEATURE of the market this week has been the advance in tobaccos of several brands. A few evaporated apples have appeared on the market, and are quoted at 7¼c. per lb. New Californian apricots and peaches are also offered. Apricots are being quoted from 10¼ to 10¾c. and the peaches from 9¼ to 9¾c., according to brands. These are loose, in 50-lb. boxes. Canary seed is considerably higher, now selling at 3¾ to 4½c. per lb. Hempseed sells at 3¾ to 4½c. Pearl brown sago has sustained a material advance. Based on the laid down cost the present import value of pearl brown sago here would be 4¼ to 4½c. High prices are also quoted for small cheese, which is now sold at 11½ to 12c., with a higher tendency.

SUGAR.

Granulated sugar is still quoted at $3.65 and yellows at $3.00 to $3.55. A good demand continues at these figures, stimulated somewhat last week by the advance in New York, which many buyers thought would be followed by higher prices on the local market. The active market is likely to continue throughout this month and part of October, as the crop of fruits is large and fruit-preserving operations will be on a large scale. In New York the market for raw sugar has been active and firm.

TEAS.

Whatever the future may bring forth it is apparent that holders of Japan teas are at present very firm in their views, and are not in the least inclined to shade prices. Indeed, a recent report states that about the lowest at which even the poorest grade of Japans can be secured is 17½c. Almost no consignments are coming to Canada. Trade is not particularly active, but a continual improvement in the demand indicates that many buyers are of the impression that they can secure as good prices now as later. Any good Ceylon teas are firm and inclined to higher prices. Indian black tea is also firmer and a little higher in price.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Business in Barbados molasses is reported a little better this week by jobbers, but there is still only a comparatively light movement. Owing to the extremely low price, however, Barbados molasses is taken in place of other molasses and syrups. As a consequence there is almost nothing doing in other lines. We quote: Barbados molasses, 23 to 24c.; Antigua, 24c.; Porto Rico, 38c. Corn syrups are very quiet, owing to the demand, such as it is, being almost wholly on Barbados molasses. It is said that only one barrel is sold this year against 20 barrels last year. We quote as follows: 3½c. in bbls.; 3⅝c. in ½ bbls.; 3¾c. in ¼ bbls.; $1.60 in 38-lb. and $1.20 in 25-lb. pails.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Nothing of importance has occurred on this market and a good steady demand continues at unchanged prices. We now quote: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags;

$2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3⅛c.

SPICES.

Peppers are reported nearly 1c. higher on the primary market, and locally the prices are very firm, though no advance has occurred. Other spices are moving well and the market is active and steady. Quotations are as follows: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

Some new-crop tomatoes have now been put on the market and are quoted at from $1.12½ up. Old crop are practically out of the market. Canned salmon also commenced to arrive last week, and the jobbers are now busy delivering the goods to customers who had bought to arrive. We quote: Tomatoes, $1.12½; corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½c. to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1.00; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The market in Greece weakened somewhat and prices are cabled 6d. lower for choice fruit, fine Filiatras being quoted at 11s. 6d.; Vostizzas, 18s. 6d. and Patras, 14s. 6d. Locally, there is a fair demand, and our quotations are as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5⅛ to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The primary market is firm and with very small supplies. The first direct steamer, the Escalona, is now on her way with 60,000 boxes of fruit. An early shipment of Valencia raisins was received by Montreal firms on September 10. These are quoted at 7⅞c. and over. To arrive, fine offstalk are offered at 6½ to 7c.; selected, 7 to 7½c. and layers, 7½c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—A cable from Smyrna reports the market stronger and an advance of 1s. 6d. per cwt. has occurred, owing to heavy buying from England. Locally, Sultanas are quoted at 9½c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—These are moving along as usual at unchanged prices. We quote: Citron peel, 15c.; orange, 11½c. and lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is nothing new to report in this market this week. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

FIGS.—Advices from Smyrna have withdrawn offerings of all descriptions on the new-crop figs. Even at very high prices it is difficult to procure any goods. A report says that notwithstanding that the crop is being housed early, only 10,803 camel loads of four cwt. each had reached the bazars on the 6th inst., as against 31,828 cases for the same date last year.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—Some new crop loose muscatels are being offered to arrive. On the local market there is a fair demand for seeded raisins at 9¾ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—Nothing new is reported in regard to prunes. The demand keeps up and quotations are unchanged as follows. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

This market continues to advance. Further damage to the crop of Grenoble walnuts has left the visible supply very small. On the local market spot Grenoble walnuts are 1c. higher. The new crop of Jordan shelled almonds has advanced on the primary market, owing to speculation. Spot filberts are higher on the local market and also Tarragona almonds. Pecans have advanced 2c. We quote: Walnuts, 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 27 to 28c.; filberts, 9½c.; Pecans, 17 to 17½c.; Brazil nuts, 13 to 14c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

New sweet potatoes have arrived on the market and are selling fairly well at $3.25. Watermelons have disappeared from the market. Messina lemons are 50c. per box higher, while Spanish onions are 25 to 35c. per crate lower. Business is moderately active. We quote: Jamaica oranges, in bbls, $6 to $6.50, boxes, $4.00; Messina lemons, $4.00 per box; pineapples, 13 to 20c.; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1.25 to $2 and eight-hands, $1 to $1.50; cucumbers, 11c. per doz.; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per doz.; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per barrel; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; blackberries, 5 to 7c. per box; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $2.50 to $2.75 per box; limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 40c. per basket; blueberries, $1.50 per box; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1 to $1.50, in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian basket tomatoes, 30 to 40c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, 65 to 75c. per crate and $2.50 per case; sweet potatoes, $3.25 per barrel.

FISH.

The market continues fairly active for the season. No quotable changes are reported this week. In halibut, a fairly good trade is doing, and the movement in oysters is also satisfactory. We quote: Haddies, 7c. to 7½c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½ to 8c.; dore, 7½c. to 8c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 13c.; salmon, 15c.; trout, large and medium, 8 to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $4.75 to $5.25 per bbl. and $2.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per ½ bbl., and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 75c. to 85c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose, boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $17.50 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6.25 per ½ bbl., and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $4.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—All grades of creamery butter are quoted higher this week, and under the new prices an active market prevails. Business, both for local and export account, is brisk. The advance has been partly in sympathy with the higher price of Danish butter on the English market. The best butter of the season is now being placed on the market and there may be a feeling that this deserves better prices. We quote: Saltless creamery, 21½c.; finest Townships do, 20¾ to 21c.; finest Quebec do, 20¼ to 20¾c.; finest Ontario do, 19c.; dairy, 15½ to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—Higher prices are quoted for cheese, although there is but little business doing. Buyers in England are not anxious to take goods at the figures quoted at present, and in consequence export business is almost nil. There is considerable speculation on the market, and the feeling prevails with many dealers that it is topheavy and a drop may occur soon. It is difficult, however, to look forward in this market and it may be possible to maintain the present prices for some time. It is not easy to see the reason for the present high prices, the past season having been a record one for pastures and the make of cheese being correspondingly large. Of course, the export demand has been unusually heavy, and the consumption, influenced to some extent by the high prices in other provisions, has also been large. But prices are now sufficiently high to warn dealers to go carefully. We quote this week as follows: Finest Townships, white and colored, 10⅜ to 10½c.; finest Quebec, 10½c. to 10¼c.; finest Ontario, 10½c. to 10⅜c. per lb.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—There is no change in the price of eggs. A fair trade is doing and the market is firm. Not much business is doing in fresh stock for export owing to the high prices ruling here. We quote as follows: Selected, 18½c. to 19c.; candled stock, 16½ to 17c.; straight receipts, 15½ to 16c.; No. 2, 13½ to 14c. in round lots.

BEANS.—Business is fairly good in a jobbing way. The prices are unchanged at $1.40 to $1.45 for primes.

HONEY.—There is some demand for honey, but the market is not specially active. White clover comb is worth 11c. and white strained, 8c. Buckwheat honey is as yet offered to a very limited extent.

ASHES.—A material advance took place in potash last week and the new prices are still maintained, although the feeling is now somewhat easier and a decline may shortly be in order. We quote as follows: First pots, $4.35 to $4.40; seconds, $3.60 and pearls, $6.25 per 100 lb.

POTATOES.—The market is somewhat higher this week, sales having been made in a jobbing way at 75 to 80c. per bag and in carload lots, 65 to 70c. per bag. Trade is active.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Trade continues very quiet and no quotable changes are reported. Prices are almost nominal, as follows: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—There has been some improvement in the demand for export, and good sales are reported of Manitoba flours to ports in Great Britain and to South Africa. No change in prices have taken place, but the market is in a much healthier condition and prices are becoming firmer. We quote as follows: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4 to $4.25; strong bakers', $3.30 to $3.45; straight rollers, $3.50 to $3.65; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4.

GRAIN.—The demand both from local and foreign buyers is still light and the market is quiet, though steady. Manitoba wheat is higher by 1½c. and buckwheat is considerably lower. In the latter and barley, prices are little better than nominal. Other lines show no quotable change, but the feeling is easy. We quote: No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat, 71½c.; rye, 56c.; peas, 79½c.; corn, 71c.; buckwheat, 58c.; barley, 47½ to 48c. and oats, 34c.

FEED.—Ontario bran has declined 50c. There is a fairly good demand and the market is moderately active. Other lines have been steady. Our quotations are as follows: Manitoba bran, $16 to $16.50; Ontario bran, $14.50 to $15; Manitoba shorts, $23 and Ontario shorts, $22; mouillie, $23 to $30, as to quality.

OATMEAL.—The market for rolled oats is not particularly active this week. The feeling has become a little steadier. We quote: Rolled oats, in barrels, $4.90 and in bags, $2.42½.

BALED HAY.—In old hay there has been a decline of 50c., except in clover, which is steady at our last quotations. Trade is fair. No change in the price of new-crop hay is reported, and it is selling at $7 to $7.50 per ton. We quote the old crop as follows: No. 1, $9; No. 2, $7.50 to $8; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Messina lemons are 50c. per box higher.

Grenoble walnuts are 1c. higher; filberts, ½c. higher.

Small cheese has advanced and is now quoted at 11½ to 12c. per lb.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., September 23, 1902.

THE volume of wholesale trade is generally satisfactory, without anything to give it more than an ordinary seasonable stimulus. The lumbermen are beginning to pick up supplies, which, on the average will probably cost them the same as last year. It is estimated that the log cut will not be above last year's average. That is the feeling at present. The present year is closing up very satisfactorily for the lumber dealers, but some of them are a bit conservative with regard to next year. Among features of the week are to be noted the advance in canned goods, and also in tobaccos. Another lot of fruit direct from Jamaica has affected local prices a little. Ontario fruit is plentiful and Nova Scotian plums are on the market. The supply of fresh fish has increased a little, after a summer of short supply. Butter is easy but cheese is firmer than a week ago. The pack of canned vegetables in this Province is extremely short.

OILS.—The general market conditions remain unchanged. Prices are steady for both burning and lubricating oils, and there is an excellent demand, especially for the former.

CANNED GOODS.—The prices of corn, peas, tomatoes, and wax beans have been advanced 2½c. in sympathy with the action of the Canners' Association. The pack of corn, peas, tomatoes and blueberries in this Province has been very short this year, and not sufficient to fill all orders booked. Salmon continues very firm. In other lines there is nothing new.

SALT.—A cargo has been received since our last report, and, as was stated a week ago, another large one is about due. The one just received is the largest that ever came to this port. There is a good demand, practically all being sold to arrive. Our quotations are as follows: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.75 to $2.85 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.60 to $2.65 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22-23c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of two dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

GREEN FRUITS.—The heavy season for the banana trade is about over, and the stocks will be of smaller size and quality. Ontario fruit is now arriving by the carload, with a good demand. Valencia oranges are said to be a light crop on account of cold rains. There is a good supply of Jamaica oranges here now. Lemons continue weak. The Nova Scotian apple crop is unquestionably short this year.

DRIED FRUITS.—The spot market is nearly bare of old raisins, which are very firmly held. The currant market remains easy. Evaporated apples are selling at 8 to 8½c. per lb. Stocks of old figs, dates, etc., are very small, and new stock is not yet due. Spanish onions sell at $3.25 to $3.50 per case.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Butter is easy at 16 to 18c. for dairy tubs. One lot of factory butter sent from Sussex to Bermuda has brought a repeat order. Cheese is firm and a little higher at 10¾ to 11c. Eggs are steady, with case stock at 16 to 18c. and strictly fresh, 20c.

SUGAR.—The market conditions are unchanged. Prices are firm and the demand is active, with dealers well supplied.

MOLASSES.—The usual fall demand is now active, and as stocks are not too large the market remains firm with a possible upward tendency for choice quality of pure goods.

FISH.—While halibut and mackerel are scarce, there is a better supply of cod and haddock. New smoked herrings will soon be on the market and will probably sell out of store at 9 to 10c. per box. Dry fish is steady and pickled herring a little easier than a week ago. A few fine fall shad have been taken in the harbor this week, and quotations are as follows: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 6½ to 7c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.65 to $1.70 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $2 to $2.35 per half barrel; dry cod, $3.40 to $3.55; halibut, 11 to 12c.; pickled shad, half barrel, $6.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—Flour is steady. New oats are offered much lower than old, and oatmeal is affected by the nearness of lower-priced new stock. Beans are a little lower. Hay is practically unsaleable except in a peddling way. Middlings are unchanged, but expected to tend lower. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4.15 to $4.20; medium, $3.95 to $4.10; oatmeal, easy at $5.40 to $5.50; cornmeal, $3.20 to $3.25; middlings, small lots, $26 to $28; oats, new, 42 to 54c.; handpicked beans, $1.65 to $1.70; prime, $1.55 to $1.60; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3.00; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.40 to $4.50; hay, new, $9 to $10.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, September 22, 1902.

THE week has been marked by high winds, unsuitable to threshing, and on Friday night there was a general and very heavy rain. This has again delayed threshing somewhat, but it is not thought that any damage will result to the grade as the wheat is now quite hard. The small movement of wheat has curtailed the circulation of money to some extent, although the banks are all prepared for the wheat rush when it comes. There are not many changes this week, but the few that have taken place are important. The most important is that of the advance on all Tuckett and Macdonald tobaccos on this market, making the prices of "T. & B," 75c.; "Lilly," 69c.; "Crescent," 64c.; "Briar," 70c.

CANNED GOODS.—The situation has again changed for the worse as far as tomatoes are concerned, the result of the packers' meeting being a further advance of 2½c. per dozen at the factories. The price here for last year's stock has not changed, but the tone of the market is increasingly firm. Every advance on the tomato market adds to the firmness of corn and peas. Sugars are unchanged at the prices quoted for so many weeks. A very active demand is reported.

COFFEE.—Rios are firmer and show a slight advance, being quoted at 9½c. to 9¾c. per lb.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Beyond the decreasing of supplies there is nothing new to note. The rush of threshing and other fall operations has made many farmers stop sending to the creameries. The amount of creamery on hand is small and the price has advanced from 17 to 17½c. to 18c. factories. So far as dairy butter is concerned, very little, indeed, is coming in. There is an active demand, and prices are higher. Dealers are willing to pay from 13 to 14c. for the best grades.

CHEESE.—The offerings have not improved and the season for making is now practically over. We quote 10 to 10½c. Winnipeg.

EGGS.—The scarcity has again advanced the price, and 16½c. Winnipeg is now quoted.

GREEN FRUITS.—The first car of Concord grapes is due to arrive Monday. The price will be 50c. per basket. Fall apples are arriving freely. Cranberries are in and quoted at $9 per barrel. Pears, plums and peaches are without change, and the season is rapidly drawing to a close.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, September 22, 1902.

NOTWITHSTANDING the excitement over the Provincial Exhibition — a time when both employers and clerks feel they wish to have some off-time to see the "speed competitions"—regular old-fashioned horse races under a new name—and the various other attractions that go to make up an exhibition, there was considerable volume of business done in the grocery trade. The exports to the West Indies were particularly heavy, the greater part of which comes under this line of business.

The flour market is comparatively dull just now and the same may be said of the various feeds. Prices in both are only nominal and depend on the amount of stock held. The feed market, though prices were high, maintained a large amount of business, as there was, on account of the high price offered for beef, considerable fattening of stock done by the farmers. Beef is now coming in very freely and the demand for feeds will not be so great until later in the season. The cornmeal and oatmeal markets are firm at prices quoted some time ago.

The prices of new-crop hay and oats has not been fixed yet, but the figures are not expected to rule so high as last season. The crop in both is above the average. Potatoes are coming in freely and are selling, wholesale, at 45 to 50c., according to quality. Apples, except the very early varieties, are not yet on the market. The grocers are still retailing American Gravensteins, which are worth about $1 per barrel. Native apples, of none too good a quality, are selling at $1.50 to $2.50 per barrel. A peculiarity of the Halifax market is that apples of a very poor quality and pack are sent here by the growers and high prices are realized—simply because the people must have them; while the same farmers send hundreds of barrels of first-class apples to foreign markets, and, on the whole, only net a nominal price—actually less than could be obtained in the city.

Until a few days ago it was expected that there would be a very abundant crop of cranberries, but reports from many quarters denote that the night frosts have ruined the berries. The regular season for harvesting in the Province is about the end of this month.

The prices for canned tomatoes and corn are somewhat unsettled, but late reports state that fine weather since September 1 has helped the crop considerably, which was previously expected to be almost a total failure. The price here naturally depends on the western markets, as this Province does little in canning.

Considerable fish is now being shipped to the West Indies and the market at some points has improved, notably at Porto Rico and Cuba, while that at Barbados has fallen off. The fishermen have done well this season, which, in a measure, will make up for low prices. Mackerel are now being taken plentifully along this coast, and ready sale is made, both for the local market and for export to Boston and New York.

R. C. H.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

BUSINESS continues fairly brisk among both wholesale and retail trade. Prices in most staple lines are very firm.

Another advance in Macdonald's and Tuckett's tobaccos has taken place of one, four and seven cents per pound on different brands. Already other large manufacturers are canvassing the retail trade, using their best efforts to work in their lines, now that the merchants are feeling somewhat sore over such a reduction in profits by the large advance. It is understood a lot of orders for sample goods have been given.

Spanish onions have been offered as low as 50c. per crate in large lots. This price is somewhat lower than was received for a carload at auction last week.

The demand for green fruits has been good all week and the receipts were heavy, but prices keep about the same.

At the Cheese Board on Friday last cheese sold at an advance, reaching 10¼c. The offerings totalled 1,665 boxes, made up of 818 white and 847 colored. When the above price was reached most of the salesmen could not sell quick enough.

The city council have voted in favor of granting an extension of five years to the franchise of The Bell Telephone Company, which was about to expire. The fact that at the next session of Parliament, it is possible that new legislation will be asked for, there was nothing to lose in waiting until then. A notice of reconsideration was moved, so that it is possible that the council will change its mind as the business men of the city are aroused and intend to show the aldermen the mistake they are making; already two of them are sorry.

Wm. Clarke, of Sydney, Australia, a merchant and member of the Sydney Chamber of Commerce, was in the city this week. His object in visiting Canada is to meet with merchants and manufacturers of the country and arrange with them for the establishment in his own country of agencies in their interests. Canadians, he said, would find in New South Wales, where he has had 25 years' business experience, a ready market for barley for malting purposes; oats and wheat, boots, India rubber goods, canned fruits and fish, carriages, machinery and furniture. In return, as yet, New South Wales could only sell to Canada wines, such as claret and hock, and a quantity of canned meats, though, should the manufacture of woollens assume large proportions in the Dominion, his country could furnish a practically unlimited supply of the finest wool. Mr. Clarke, speaking with ardor, said the present was Canada's golden opportunity. The Republic to the south of us was wasting no time in getting their agencies established firmly in Australia. Canadians didn't seem to recognize this, and when they did, in all probability the hour of opportunity would be gone.

Fred Hodge, of Oliver & Soutam, is in the city. Mr. Tuthill, of John Taylor & Co., was here all last week and booked large orders for "Gold Soap," and other makes.

NO CHANGE IN THEIR TOBACCOS.

We have not advanced the price of our tobaccos. "Amber" smoking tobacco, "Bobs," "Currency" and "Fair Play" chewing tobaccos are the same size and price to the consumer as formerly. We have also extended the time for the redemption of "Snowshoe" tags to January 1, 1904.

NEW PERSIAN DATES.

Cable advices from Persia report that the ss. Tabaristan—the first direct steamship with dates for this market—crossed the bar on September 18. At last advices the steamer was anchored outside completing cargo, and was expected to leave on Sunday, September 21 for the passage to this continent. According to the advices, the cargo will be about 100,000 boxes.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

TEA IN NEW YORK.

A FIRM and fairly active market continued to be reported. It was quite generally believed that during the past week there has been fairly extensive buying of Japan and Formosas to come forward, due here the latter part of the year. Offerings have been limited and prices have shown a hardening tendency, especially for Formosas. The spot business has been limited.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, September 22.

CANNED CORN IN MAINE.

Referring to canned corn advices from Maine packing sections indicate that many packers are not offering at all. One packer writes that he will not be able to deliver more than ten per cent. of his contracts. It is estimated from reliable data that the total Maine pack will be fully 50 per cent. short.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNE HARVEST.

Mail advices from San Francisco say of prunes: "The prune harvest is on and the weather is unfavorable. Help is reported scarce in some sections. Packers are not buying freely, even at the low prices. Outside prunes can be purchased on a 2-cent. basis, and Santa Claras at 2½c. delivered at packing house. Packers are very busy caring for packing and filling future sales of cured fruits, as nearly all the packers of prunes handle other fruits and are desirous of getting their September shipments ready before heavy prune deliveries are at hand. There is some foreign demand, but like the domestic demand, it has slackened off for the present at least. A car of prunes was shipped from Niles the last of this week, and a car from Napa will be shipped the first of next week."

CANNED TOMATOES IN THE STATES.

It will be remembered that the western section of the country had a disastrous year in 1901 upon tomatoes, caused by the excessive drought, which killed off their vines and left them little or no supply at the end of the season. It is now beyond dispute that the amount of tomatoes packed in the West this year will not exceed the pack of the same section last year, and during the past ten days Jack Frost has virtually destroyed all hopes of an improvement. We would say here that this condition is decidedly unfortunate. We wish it were otherwise, because there is more loss to the packers in the entire absence of a pack than there can possibly be profit by such a reduction of supplies and advancing prices.

In this market tomatoes are quoted today at $1 for standard No. 3, and brokers state that they cannot find them at 97½c. Buyers from many parts of the West are seeking tomatoes in this market and this accounts for the steady advance in prices. Considerable quantities of tomatoes are still coming in and packers are paying from 50 to 60c. per bushel for them, taking all they can find of good quality. As a consequence No. 3 cans are in large demand and the market for such cans is very active. The goods as rapidly as gotten up are shipped away and the market is kept nearly bare of tomatoes at present quotations. Standard No. 2 tomatoes are quoted at 75c.; No. 3 seconds at 90c.; No. 2 seconds at 70c. and standard gallons at $3.25. These prices indicate the strength of the market as showing a strong call for all sizes and grades.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md., September 19.

SOME FEATURES IN SUGAR.

Willett & Gray say of raw sugar: "With the coming of the domestic cane crop of Louisiana next month, to be added to this season by an equal amount of domestic beet production, both to be marketed South and West, the requirements for refined from the Atlantic coast will be considerably reduced, standing in the way of much if any further improvement. To fill a possible gap in supplies coming between crops our refiners have bought in Europe some 40,000 tons of beet sugars. Much of this may go to New Orleans refiners for use before the domestic crop is available, that crop being much later this season than usual. On the contrary, our despatch from San Francisco to-day quotes new beet granulated on the market at 3.90c. net against 4c. quoted for cane granulated. There are a few weeks now during which holders can obtain full quotations for raw sugars, and inasmuch as all quotations are quite low compared to cost of production, there is but little room for lower prices under any possible conditions. A steady, good market is assured for a while at least."

THE PEANUT SITUATION.

Private mail advices from Weldon, N. C., referring to peanuts, state: "The coming crop of Spanish will not be fit to shell before the latter part of November, and then it will be risky in any quantity. There has not been a hill dug yet. The dry weather has affected all crops alike, and the cotton crop is the lowest in years. We look for the peanut crop to turn out about the same. Unless the Spanish crop brings a fancy price this fall the farmers will certainly reduce the acreage and put in more cotton and tobacco, both of which show more profits." A letter from Waverly, Va.: "All grades of Virginia peanuts are exceedingly scarce in the country, and we feel confident that dealers will find it very difficult to secure sufficient amount of Virginia stock to keep them running until the new crop comes in." A Smithfield cleaner writes that he is oversold on "Circus" grade and No. 1 Virginia shelled. A Norfolk cleaner says to-day: "We cannot get stock to shell. We find it a difficult matter to get stock of any kind to fill our orders. The entire crop will, in our opinion, be consumed. It is fully 60 days before new crop will be available."

Stocks in Virginia, of Virginia grade, are estimated at little in excess of 4,000 bags, compared with fully 125,000 bags at this date last year.

DELIVERIES OF INDIAN AND CEYLON TEAS.

McMeekin & Co., London, report as follows regarding the deliveries of Indian and Ceylon teas during August:

INDIAN.—The deliveries still continue to show a satisfactory increase, and the low price for grades suitable for foreign trade has induced good inquiry from export buyers. It is reported from India that the shipments to the end of August are now only on a level with the figures at the same period of last year. Excessive rainfall in several of the districts has affected the yields, and made it difficult to manufacture tea of good quality. Should there not later on be any large addition to the figures of yield, a gradual improvement may reasonably be looked for in the value of most grades, because the development in the consumption at home and abroad has of late been so great that it will now be much more easy to deal with a yield equal to that of last season."

CEYLON.—"Though the deliveries show a moderate increase for the three months when compared with last year, they are under those for the same time in 1900, while the imports are materially higher than they were last year. The shipments from Ceylon have for the six months past been showing more or less advance on the figures for the same months in 1901, and it is reported that they will continue to show increases. It is to be feared that this may prevent an improvement in prices, as buyers handle Ceylons with great care, and are unwilling to buy them ahead of requirements, as they frequently do with Indian teas."

THE TEA TRADE FOR AUGUST.

Harrisons & Crossfield, London, September 5: "The tea market has maintained a brisk tone during August, notwithstanding that it is generally more or less of a holiday month; supplies have been freely taken at firm rates. The quality of most of the arrivals has improved, which has helped to promote confidence on the part of buyers. Some of the best invoices both of Indian and Ceylon teas have met with very active competition, and realized prices which must have been satisfactory to the producers. The market having for some weeks past been bare of really good 'stand-out' teas, is the probable cause of the present demand for the best kinds, rather than any increased consumption of higher-priced tea. The returns of 45 of the largest Indian tea estates have recently been made up for last season. The capital invested reaches nearly £10,000,000 and as the average return to the investor for them all was only 3¼ per cent., it is probable that further extension will be discouraged for a time. In the direction of finding new outlets for surplus supplies, an interesting experiment has been in progress amongst the native populations of India for the last twelve months, said to be the outcome of a suggestion of the Viceroy, and assisted by contributions of tea from the principal planters and a grant of money from the Tea Association; namely, the hawking of small packets of Indian tea through the country, containing about ¾ oz., which are sold for one pice or 1-12 of a penny English. In this manner the sales for the 12 months have been 330,000 lb.; the demand is rapidly growing, and the promoters are sanguine enough to anticipate a sale of 20 million lb. annually in a few years, which, if realized, would more than take off the present surplus."

CURRANTS IN LONDON.

The first cargo of new currants, consisting of some 900 tons per Lusitania, was placed on the market on Monday, and was followed on Wednesday by the Naranja, with about an equal quantity, and on Thursday by the Rescue and the Henry Fisher, with some 700 tons and 500 tons respectively. Thus the market is now fully supplied with an excellent assortment of all growths. The expectation of an unusually active market in consequence of the depletion of existing stocks, and the favorable prices mentioned for new currants has been completely falsified by the manner in which the first cargo was discharged and the tardy arrival of the following ones. Instead of the fulfilment of the expectation of buyers to find three full cargoes offered on the market on Monday last, only one steamer was available, and that one was discharged with a slowness unparalleled in ordinary recollection. The two following vessels, instead of completing the journey in about eleven days, as is usual with early steamers, which are usually chosen with some regard for speed, managed to reach our port in 13½ days and 14½ days respectively, giving an average speed of between 7 and 8 knots per hour. Thus, everyone's time was wasted, and there being at no time during the first half of the week any reasonable selection, buyers naturally showed reluctance to operate. This state of affairs, although to be deprecated as showing great want of ordinary business management, is not an altogether unmixed evil, as it has allowed prices to settle down a little from the opening, leaving, so far as most qualities are concerned, a firm basis for future operations.—Produce Markets' Review.

CANNED SALMON 3s. HIGHER IN LONDON.

The past fortnight has been marked by a very great change in the position of salmon, in consequence of the sudden ceasing of the run of the fish in Puget Sound and on the Fraser River. When this information first reached this country there were few people who attached any serious importance to it and thought there was plenty of time for a late run of fish to come, and, even if this did not occur, the market would not suffer to any extent, because stocks in England and America were reported to be heavy, and, in addition to this, the pack on the Skeena River was known to be a good one. The strength of the position, however, very soon began to make itself felt, the first indication being that fine parcels of Fraser River salmon were eagerly accepted when offered on the market, even at 1s. to 1s. 6d. above the quotations which had been ruling. This was followed by the market being cleared of a number of parcels which, although perfectly sound, were yet not of first-class quality, being either indifferently packed or packed at the end of the season. As soon as these parcels were sold it became evident that buyers who wanted really fine reliable Fraser River flat salmon would have to pay higher rates, and quotations have advanced, for both choicest quality talls and flats, quite 3s. per case. Alaska salmon has improved to the extent of 3 to 6d. per case in face of the reports that this year's Alas' a pack is a good one, but it is to be hoped that importers will not attempt to advance prices to such an extent as they did in the autumn of 1900. Salmon is undoubtedly in a strong position, and with present attractive price, a large trade should be done, and it is expected, even by the most pessimistic, that the market will gradually harden for spot parcels, as quotations even now are quite 1s. per case less than packers are selling new season's goods of sockeye fish "to arrive." —Produce Markets' Review, London, September 6.

Cranston's Coin Trade Due Bills.

A boon to General Merchants, Grocers and all engaged in a Produce or credit Business.

Thousands of merchants in all parts of Canada and the United States have adopted The Cranston Trade Due Bill System, and are delighted with this up-to-date way of doing business. It does away with all the inconveniences of the old "Written Due Bill" system, and saves time, labor, trouble and money. As a trade-winner and advertising medium it has no equal.

After using them six years, J. E. Griffin, Dunnville, says: "We could not do business without them. They are worth more than double their cost to us."

McKenzie & Meldrum, Thedford, say: "We cannot say too much in their favor. The aluminum due bills are worth $200 a year to us, or any firm that use due bills or give credit."

And every one of our users will say as much for them. We will send you a list of users on application, and will pay your postage to write to them. If they do not tell you they are satisfied, do not order.

We make a number of assortments—$81 face value costs you $10; $91 or $116 face value costs $12; $191 face value costs $15, and $232 face value costs $20. This last assortment is "Our Leader." Coins are made in Brass or Aluminum, raised letters on both sides, your own advertising and printing.

Send for price list, samples and full particulars.

SPECIALIZING IN MANUFACTURING.

By "CANADIAN TRADE."

ANOTHER link in the chain to make "Made in Canada" on goods more general is to improve the quality and to produce at lower cost.

There is a tendency in Canada for manufacturers to try to make a large variety of different classes of goods in the one factory. By this method a greater variety of machinery is necessary. Employes from constant changing do not become as expert. The little details cannot be as well looked after, such, for example, as improvements in methods and designs. Consequently the cost of production is higher, and lines not so attractive in either finish or price as can be obtained from other countries.

Manufacturing in this country is, comparatively speaking, in its youth, and the market has been limited. With experience and larger markets, however, will come better methods.

We are more conversant with American methods on account of their being on the border of our own country. From the class of goods, and the prices they are sold at, it can be gathered that similar methods are employed in other countries. The cause is summed up in concentration of energy and resources. They largely confine their lines to as small a variety as possible, and adapt their machinery and methods to turning out lines attractive in finish at low cost. Special machinery is largely employed, and, to look after this machinery, competent help is employed and well paid. Being well paid, the employes exert themselves, and are expected to do so in order to turn out large quantities. Having money to spend, they utilize more of the goods produced, and obtain greater comforts for their homes, and as the homes are the strength of the nation, there is greater happiness and contentment.

This specializing has got some headway in this country, and is proving successful where tried. The mention of three concerns in different lines will emphasize this, namely, The Dominion Cotton Company, who make different lines of goods at each of their mills, one mill after another having been overhauled and adapted to the work it was to do with the best machinery that could be obtained to turn out better goods and larger quantities. The Toronto Radiator Co., whose goods have gone across the "great pond" to be installed in heating some of the largest buildings in England, and The Slater Shoe Co., who have developed a large business in men's boots. There are others. At a factory visited recently, I was shown a machine design by one of the proprietors that is to take the place and do the work of six different machines, and another designed by the same man that does work in 20 minutes, that formerly, under an old system, took over three weeks.

I will close by saying to manufacturers, concentrate; make and push the sale of as few lines as possible. In other words individulize. Only increase lines as capital will warrant, obtaining the best machinery and the best results.

The next article will be "The Manufacturer, the Wholesaler, the Retailer."

INCREASING THEIR CAPACITY.

The Capstan Manufacturing Co., Toronto, manufacturers of baking powder, catsups, mince meat, etc., are considerably increasing the capacity of their factory and adding new machinery, a move necessitated by their increasing business.

POOR APPLE CROP IN ENGLAND.

According to the statements of a large fruit-receiver in England, the fruit crop there is worse than it has been for years past. Early apples were fair in quantities but, owing to the failure of the late crop, the probabilities are that the Canadian product will find a large and ready market this year in the Motherland

THE FRUIT GROWERS.

The executive of the Ontario Fruit Growers Association have decided to hold their annual meeting on December 2, 3 and 4. A large display of fruit will be made and the directors of the 13 experimental fruit stations in the Province will be present for the purpose of instructing farmers as to the best varieties to grow for the domestic and foreign markets.

A DISASTROUS FIRE.

The premises of The Snowdrift Co., manufacturers of baking powder, Brantford, Ont., were visited on Friday evening, September 19, by a disastrous fire and the place was reduced to a heap of ruins. The blaze started about 9 p.m., and despite the efforts of the fire brigade the building was a total loss. The contents comprised an engine and boiler, several tanks of spice extracts, large quantities of pepper, ginger, glycerine, alcohol, mnstard oil and ammonia. The loss to the firm will be $20,000. The value of the stock was placed at $25,000 and the building was worth $8,000. The insurance amounts to between $14 000 and $17,000.

HIGH FREIGHT RATES ON APPLES.

The abundant crop of apples in Ontario this season renders the question of the transportation of this article to outside markets a matter of great import. The Chatham Daily Banner-News, in commenting upon this problem, scores the railways for their excessive freight rates upon such commodities. This journal points out that Manitoba and the Northwest afford an ample market for our surplus apples in Ontario, but the cost of transportation would be several times greater than the worth of the apples. The freight on apples to Calgary would be as much as $3.52 per bbl. It refers this problem to the Chatham Board of Trade for solution.

THE FRUIT INSPECTION ACT.

There is not a little dissatisfaction expressed among the fruitmen regarding the recent amendment to the Act relating to the inspection of fruit, which provides that barrels and packages of apples must be branded I, etc., according to their quality. Now the standard of fruit varies considerably in different localities, that which would be considered first-class in one locality being but second rate when compared with that of another locality. Again, there may be found in a section a small number of large-sized apples which excel all the others, but it would be obviously unfair to the apple growers to be obliged to mark all other apples second class merely on account of these. Such a classification will, it is claimed, damage the sale of many good apples.

HOGS IN PRINCE EDWARD ISLAND.

One of the leading pork buyers of Charlottetown, in an interview with a representative of The Charlottetown Examiner, stated that the output of hogs in Prince Edward Island would double that of last year. "Pork will be put on the market much earlier this year," declared this buyer, "and when the Western corn-fed hogs are shipped the price will be bound to fall. This year there will be a much greater difference in the price of good hogs and poor hogs. Last year the top price was paid for almost any kind of hogs, but this year good-sized fat hogs will command a considerably better price than the small lean ones."

ADVERTISING COMMENTS.

THE power of persistent and extensive advertising has been recently demonstrated by the success of The National Biscuit Company of Jersey City, whose "Uneeda" biscuits and their successors are pretty well known to the general public. Being in the grocery line the following extract from the annual report of Chairman Green, of the board of directors, should interest Canadian merchants :

"When our company started," he said, "our goods were sold almost entirely in bulk. We determined that the true way to sell was in small, air-tight, moisture-proof packages. We soon found that we had hit popular taste, and the "Uneeda" brand was followed by many other packages put up in In-er-seal form. We have reached consumers almost wholly through advertising, and results have been far beyond our hopes. In the past year the total sales increased to $38,625,135, a gain of $2,185,975, or 6 per cent., and the profits increased to $3,670,445, a gain of $352,000 over the previous year. During the past year the company invited its employes to invest in its stock, and they have taken over 4,000 shares."

The Acme Tea Company of Philadelphia, of which Thomas P. Hunter is president, now controls 110 grocery stores in that city. But this is not the surprising part of the matter. When it is further explained that the first of these 110 stores was started only 17 years ago with the modest capital of $400, then it will be seen that there is something phenomenal about this growth. The business was started in Thomas P. Hunter's name, trading as The Acme Tea Company. In 1900 The Acme Tea Company was incorporated for $1,000,000, with a paid-up capital of $700,000. This stock is owned by employes of the company, and the controlling stock is owned by Thomas P. Hunter. The Acme Company roasts all its own coffee. It manufactures a great many of its own goods and has grown and canned special goods under its own brand. Mr. Hunter hopes to have a grocery store on every corner of Phildelphia."

If it were asked, what more than anything else has brought about this marvelous growth, a good many people would be inclined to say that the judicious advertising, which the firm has always used, has had a great deal to do with its success. Mr. Hunter, himself, is a firm believer in the effectiveness of up-to-date advertising, and attributes great things to it. The Acme Tea Company at present uses a quarter-page advertisement in every Philadelphia paper on Mondays and Thursdays.

Suppose a grocer gets in a line of goods which he is convinced is absolutely the best of its kind in a certain community. He knows that none of his competitors has as good goods and he also knows that the population of the town buys approximately the same bulk of these goods from each grocery store. Now, how is the general mass of the population going to know that his goods are any better than those of the other grocers, if he doesn't explain the superiority of his stock through the public press? A commonsense, plain, and truthful state ment of the good points of his wares is absolutely necessary if he would make headway.

Advertisers should remember that the papers cannot do more than half the work in making a success of any business. A paper will bring the inquiry, but the advertiser must do the real selling. Just there is where he is inclined to shirk. He sends a circular, or catalogue, and then sits down with folded hands to wait for orders. He should do more. He should follow up his catalogue with letters—not one or two, but many—until he finally gets his order. He goes to considerable expense to get a prospective customer, and then lets him get away through not "keeping everlastingly at him." If all advertisers had a systematic plan of following up inquiries, successes would be many more than they are now.—Judd's July Jottings.

The advertising manager of a large wholesale grocery firm believes that retail grocers will find it more remunerative to "feature" lines of goods that bring in a decent profit rather than to advertise cuts in sugar and the unprofitable staples. The grocer who keeps a super-excellent stock of cheeses, condiments, fruits, and higher-priced ware, says he, can afford to advertise them almost exclusively, leaving the sugar trade to the man around the corner who sells a dollar's worth for ninety-nine and a half cents.

People of this country have been educated to go to the newspapers to find where to go for what they need. This is so true that no well-informed man will deny it. It follows that the advertiser who uses the newspapers will get the customers. This does not mean that the newspaper is the only means for successful advertising, but it is the universally approved medium, although some who believe in it may employ other methods as well. All believe in its merit, while all do not give pre-eminence to any other one method.

Free coffee and tea, served to shoppers during the busiest hours of the day, are store attractions that cost very little and are productive of invaluable prestige. Women appreciate little attentions. Good store service has some of the qualities of good restaurant service. The ingredients of a dollar dinner may not cost nearly as much in proportion as those of the 25-cent meal, but the tact shown in serving makes the dinner absolutely distinct. The service of a store ought to express the management's good-will to and conscientious care for patrons. The serving of small luxuries like tea and coffee costs very little compared to some forms of advertising, and the store which first adopted it in a town would secure a distinction that could hardly be taken away from it by subsequent imitators.—Printers' Ink.

SUCCESS AS A GROCER.

THE subject which I am about to discuss is a very broad one and covers a vast field of thought, but I will endeavor to follow it closely, yet briefly, touching only on those points which I consider the stepping stones to success as a grocer, says D. Mansfield in Inland Grocer.

In this business, as in any other, it is necessary in order to be successful that the person should have had some experience and also that his inclinations should be along this line. New and startling difficulties will beset him on all sides unless he has by actual experience learned how to turn aside these obstacles or else by careful management surmount them.

If his training has been in the country town, he should by all means locate there; if in the city, there he should begin his business, for the difference in conducting business in the country and in the city would be so great that he could scarcely hope to succeed should he move from one to the other.

One of the greatest difficulties which a grocer may meet is the accumulation of stale goods in the store, causing a "dead weight" on his hands. This difficulty can only be overcome by great care in buying and selecting your stock. Watch your stock carefully. Keep a good assortment on hand and yet be slow in buying more than your trade demands of perishable commodities.

Be friendly with your neighbors. Be united in your labors and, above all else, do not be duped into a price-cutting contest, which will surely result in injury to yourself.

Strive to keep your store popular and yet get good living prices. Often stores with the best patronage are receiving the best prices.

Now comes the question which confronts all business men and which must be answered by each and every merchant individually, and that is the question, "Shall it be cash or credit?" I have been in business eleven years and have spent much thought and effort on this subject. In my business I am unable to follow a cash system on account of the farmers' inability to meet their obligations through the months in which they have small returns from their farms. I therefore give a limited credit and make a study of the ability of each individual. I learn his circumstances thoroughly and know just how much credit I can safely give him. In many instances I feel safe in saying that I know their circumstances better than they know themselves.

Care must also be taken in collection. Always choose an opportune time for pressing them to meet their obligations. Never ask a man to pay you when you know he hasn't a cent to pay with. Watch him closely and seize the first opportunity when he has the cash. In most cases, unless very hard pressed, he will meet his obligations like a man. I have always attended to this department personally and can safely recommend this method to others as I have had good results.

Keep your business full of life. Be enthusiastic in your work. Enthusiasm is catching. Your clerks will get your spirit and hustle, too, without being driven. Say to them, "Come on with me," and let them feel that you are not afraid to trust them, but let them bear responsibility; and above all, do not shirk responsibility yourself.

Never waver when it is necessary to say "No." Do not send your clerk, but step up and tell the customer yourself. He will have greater respect for you and it will avoid embarrassment for the clerk.

Never advertise what you cannot do and do not intend to do. The disappointment which would result among your trade would cause them to lose confidence in you and in your business.

Be prompt in replying to your correspondents. This may seem but a small matter, but it means volumes. No matter how little you are concerned with the matter in hand, reply promptly, showing at least this courtesy to the correspondent. That very letter may open the way to a friendship which in later years may not only be very pleasant but very profitable.

Keep your credit good that you may buy as low as possible and therefore be able to meet all competition and retain a legitimate profit.

Lastly, avoid buying from too many firms. Select good houses and stay by them. Be prompt in meeting your obligations and let them feel that they can depend upon you for prompt payment. Then should you meet with misfortune and be obliged to ask for favor for a short time, you may expect it to be granted freely, as they can put confidence in your integrity and will also feel under obligations to you for the confidence you have placed in their business and the patronage you have given them. Some merchants reason that there is no friendship in the business world, but I differ from them. I am buying now from the houses I commenced dealing with, and during the years of our business associations I have found no truer friends. So I believe that in order to make a thorough success of the grocery business you should win the confidence of all with whom you have business relations.

"TERSE TANK TALKS."

A neat, well-gotten-up booklet containing a great many truths pertaining to the economical and convenient storage and handling of coal oil and gasoline is published by S. F. Bowser & Co., Fort Wayne, Indiana, under the title above given. Anyone interested in handling oil at a profit will do well to write this firm for their little booklet, which they will send postpaid free of charge.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

A FULL assortment of Crosse & Blackwell's goods, including peels, pickles, sauces, etc., has just arrived in store with Grocers' Wholesale Co., Limited.

New Malaga raisins were delivered by Lucas, Steele & Bristol last week.

Grocers' Wholesale Co., Limited, offers Van Houten's cocoa at right prices.

Labrador herrings, bbls. and halves, are in store with Lucas, Steele & Bristol.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, are selling a fine quality of Spanish onions at a low price.

Ask Lucas, Steele & Bristol for kippereens. They have them in cardboard boxes.

The Davidson & Hay, Limited, have just received a consignment of Loggie's 2-lb. "Eagle" brand blueberries.

Spanish onions in crates are offered at low figures by The Eby, Blain Co.. Limited. Special quotations in round lots.

The T. Kinnear Co. have received large shipments of Jose Part select saisins, dried Californian peaches and apricots, of which they are now ready to dispose.

"Our sage, savoury, poultry dressing, etc., in screw top jars are sellers," say Lucas, Steele & Bristol.

A shipment of fine Filiatra cleaned currants in half-cases has just been received by The Davidson & Hay, Limited.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, have a large stock of Sultana raisins which they are offering at special quotations in round lots. These are especially suitable for bakers and confectioners.

Close buyers should communicate with The R. & J. H. Simpson Co., Guelph, Ont., when open to buy new cleaned Filiatra currants in cases and half-cases for delivery about November 1.

"Golden Imperial" pickling vinegar, offered by Lucas, Steele & Bristol, is absolutely good and will keep pickles for any time.

The R. & J. H. Simpson Co., wholesale grocers and tea importers, Guelph, Ont., have just received a car of New Orleans molasses in bbls. and half-bbls. which they are offering at a special price.

The Eby, Blain Co.. Limited, have just completed extensive alterations and additions to their mill and report that they are now in a position to fill all orders for "Wheat-Os," the ideal breakfast food.

PROSPEROUS GROCERS.

Gibbons Bros., retail grocers, Toronto, have removed their business from 750 to 742 Queen street east. So much has their trade increased that they found it necessary to seek these new quarters which are a good deal larger and handsomer in every way than the old, and are provided with a large basement. The front has been nicely painted and two large plate-glass windows have been put in. New shelving and counters have been added to the store and there is comfortable stabling at the back. Gas lights up the interior, light being supplied from a row of jets running down the centre of the store, and everything is kept neat and fresh about the place. The business of Gibbons Bros. ought greatly to increase with their removal to their new stand.

LIFTING SUGAR BEETS.

The lifting of the crop of the Ontario Sugar Co., near Berlin, consisting of 5,000 acres, was commenced last week, and will keep the growers hustling for weeks. The slicing of the beets will probably commence on October 4, and a big demonstration, in which the people of Berlin and the vicinity will paaticipate, will mark the beginning of operations in the new plant.

TRADE CHAT.

THE shipment of oysters from Prince Edward Island commenced last week. The first lot was shipped to Montreal by S. C. Craswell, North St. Eleanors.

J. O. Cameron, late with The Hudson's Bay Co., is starting a general business at Michipicoten River.

"Salada" Tea Co. have been so rushed with business they have found it necessary to work every night.

D. R. McIntyre, general merchant, of Belmont, was married on September 24 to Miss Edith Browne, of Winnipeg.

Mrs. Florence L. Smith, wife of Edward N. Smith, grocer, Sarnia, died at her home September 26, at the age of 27 years and 2 months.

A prominent fruit grower of Queenston, Carl E. Fisher, was appointed last week to the registrarship of deeds for the County of Lincoln.

Among the exports to the United States from Canada last week were 81,172 lb. of "Salada" Ceylon tea.

The grocery business conducted for a number of years by Walter J. Stewart in Thornbury has been purchased by W. F. Rolph, of Stayner.

The Government cold-curing rooms for cheese at Woodstock, Brockville, Cowansville and St. Hyacinthe were closed at the end of September, and will not be reopened again until next summer.

The premises of Watt & Gordon, who keep a wholesale grocery and liquor store in Montreal, were visited last week by burglars and $125 was carried off from the office safe. This is five times that this building has been entered by burglars.

On September 20 the fish-curing establishment of Leonard Bros., St. John, N.B., were visited by fire. The firm had a large quantity of fish in stock, which, owing to the excellent services of the salvage corps, was for the most part removed. The amount covered by insurance is said to be small.

The refrigerator car service on the Canadian Pacific and Canadian Northern for the handling of perishable freight during the summer was discontinued last week, the weather now being sufficiently cool to ship this freight by ordinary box car. The heated car service will be inaugurated as soon as severe weather sets in.

A record crop of peas this year is that of Jas. McComb, of Arnott, near Chatsworth, Ont. Mr. McComb had nine acres of peas, which, when threshed, produced 360 bush., an average of 40 bush. to the acre. This pea is called "The Chancellor," and was selected by Mr. McComb from four varieties submitted to him for testing purposes from the Experimental Farm at Guelph.

P. E. I. LOBSTER HATCHERY.

According to The Charlottetown Guardian, Professor E. E. Prince, Dominion Fishery Commissioner, purposes to visit that town shortly to report upon the most desirable site for a lobster hatchery.

This hatchery, which is due to the efforts of the Fishery Department to conserve the lobster industry, will have sufficient capacity to hatch from the spawn 100 to 150,000,000 of little lobsters yearly. Of course, much of the lobster spawn and even many of the young lobsters will be destroyed by other creatures of the deep, but there will still be sufficient, it is expected, to replenish the waters of the Island with these crustaceans.

Beef in England—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

BEEF IN ENGLAND.

A LETTER from George McMicken, A former Winnipegger, who now resides in London, Eng., as agent of the Great Northern Railway steamship lines for Europe, to a friend in Winnipeg contains some interesting information.

Beefsteaks in London, Mr. McMicken writes, are dear to many, and soon will be dear to everybody. The price is now up to 1s. 6d. per lb. This is worse than Klondike prices. Supplies of beef in England just now are scarce, and prices are commensurate with the scarcity. One of the London dealers, Mr. McMicken says, in discussing prices in a newspaper interview, said: "The ring are limiting supplies. The people must have beef, and the ring know it. Hind quarters are selling at 7¼ to 9½d. per lb. wholesale. I know that 1s. per lb. was paid for rumps. That means that unless something is done to relieve the market, beefsteaks will be retailed at 1s. 6d. per lb. Many people will he unable to pay the price."

Prices, it is expected, Mr. McMicken writes, will not go down until the embargo on Argentine cattle is taken off, or until Canada can send more supplies. The present year for the cattle exporter of Canada should be a good one.

COLD STORAGE IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

The slump in the price of fish, and the cargoes of fish now on the return to this port unsold, are an object lesson that ought not fail to warn all those whose business it is to look after the welfare of the counrty and the dangers ahead. Why is the price of fish going down? Why are cargoes of fish returning unsold? Simply because we are slowly, but surely, being elbowed out of the Mediterranean markets by French and Norwegian competition. This is not so much due to quantity, as to quality. What has killed our sale of herring is now doing the same to our codfish, and without appearing to be a Cassandra we warn our merchants, as well as the country, that cold storage—that is the export of our codfish fresh—is the only remedy for the danger which, even as we write, is in sight. What better proof, what stronger argument do we require than to know that in the month of September some Newfounland cargoes of fish are returning from the Mediterranean undelivered and unsold? This ought to be enough for all to unite and look around for a remedy for an evil which threatens a worse crash than that of the bank and commercial failures of 1894. Let us write cold storage for our fish high on our banners; let it be our new policy; let all strive to help in bringing it about, and thus avert a common calamity which is now threatening us.—Herald, St. John's, Newfoundland.

A NEW GRADUATED SCALE.

The following circular has been addressed to the Canadian jobbing trade by the principal packers in Canada, whose names are signed below:

Dear Sirs,—With a view of uniformly adjusting the price of small packages of pure lard and compound lard over tierces, and thereby doing away with considerable confusion that results in one producer asking a higher or lower price than his competitor, we, the undersigned, have agreed to the following scale:

GRADUATED SCALE FOR SMALL PACKAGES OF PURE LARD AND LARD COMPOUND.

Effective October 1, 1902.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 60 and 50-lb. tubs, | ¼c. | Over Tierces. |
| Half-barrels, | ¼c. | " |
| 20-lb. wood pails, | ½c. | " |
| 10-lb. tins, | ¾c. | " |
| 5-lb. " | ⅞c. | " |
| 3-lb. " | 1c. | " |

It is confusing for one jobber to have a quotation from one concern for an assorted car of tubs and pails at ¼c. over tierces, and from another concern at ½c. or ⅝c., although the tierce basis price may be the same. A regular scale will permit all jobbers to ask a uniform advance, and all producers to quote their goods at the tierce basis price with a like advance for small packages.

OUTBREAK OF HOG CHOLERA.

The hog cholera is now causing much alarm to farmers and hog dealers in the neighborhood of London, Ont. Over a week ago Dr. J. H. Tennant, Government veterinary surgeon, discovered a serious outbreak of this disease in East Tilbury, and under his direction 289 hogs were killed within four days. Rumors of hog cholera in other districts of the same locality are prevalent, but have not yet been confirmed.

Despatches from Welland also show that hog cholera has broken out in Willoughby, where H. H. Bean, of Black Creek, had 25 hogs slaughtered by order of the inspector. Symptons of the desease are reported elsewhere in the same locality.

CHEESE-MAKING IN NEW BRUNSWICK.

According to the statements of Mr. Mitchell, Dairy Superintendent of Kings, St. John, Queens, Westmoreland, and Albert, New Brunswick, the output of butter in this district will exceed that of any previous season. As in other parts of Canada creameries are becoming more popular in this section, as the farmers see it is more profitable and labor-saving to receive cash direct for their milk, than to manufacture and market their own butter. A praiseworthy feature of the New Brunswick creamery is that the milk is subjected to the Babcock test and is paid for in accordance to its richness in butter and fat.

Already 6,000 boxes of cheese, averaging 75 lb. each, have been shipped to England, in addition to large quantities to the West Indies, where there is an increasing demand for New Brunswick butter. That sent to the English market is shipped in square boxes containing 56 lb.

Difficulty is experienced in obtaining a sufficient number of qualified men to take charge of the local creameries, and at present several young men from Prince Edward Island are at the head of the local butter factories.

SWIFT & CO. IN HAMILTON.

The business of the Fowler's Canadian company, Hamilton, Ont., was taken over by Swift & Co., of Chicago, on September 29. For several days stock-taking has been going on in connection with the deal, and everything was practically settled before the Swifts took over the business.

The Swifts intend to largely extend the pork-packing business in Hamilton. They will put up a large plant, and will get in shape for doing a big section of the business in Canada. It is said by a Hamilton paper that the packing-house to be erected will be the largest one in the Dominion.

William Walker, who managed the Fowler Canadian business, remains in office. He is now the managing-director of the Swifts' packing-house business, and also manager of the Hamilton Stock Yards Co., which has been merged in the Swift enter-

WITH CAPITAL AT $1,000,000.

The Dominion Packing Co., of Charlottetown, is applying for incorporation. B. F. Pearson, of Halifax, is one of the principal promoters. The capital is placed at $1,000,000. The company ask power to run steamships in connection with their business.

BEGINNING TO PACK EGGS.

The Wingham Times says that The Wingham Produce Co. and Wm. Armour & Son are commencing to pack their eggs for fall shipment. Improvements are also in order now at both of Wingham's produce establishments. Armour & Son are preparing to build a brick cold storage building alongside their present premises, and The Wingham Produce Co. are building a large frame addition to their storehouse.

YEAR'S FOOD CONFISCATIONS.

Dr. McCarrey, chief food inspector of Montreal, has completed his annual report for 1901, showing just what confiscations, etc., were made during this period. The report is as follows :

Number of samples of milk tested, 3 894; number of dairies inspected, 1,806; number of license permits issued, 568 ; number of gallons of milk confiscated, 64 ; number of cows inspected, 11,557.

Animals slaughtered.—Cattle, 61,998 ; calves, 46,716 ; sheep, 82,359 ; hogs, 116,655

Animals confiscated.—Cattle, 70; calves, 457 ; sheep, 42 ; hogs, 91 ; bruised meat, 8,251 lb.

The following confiscations were made in butchers' stores : Beef, 246 ; poultry, 23 ; mutton, 246 ; veal, 973 ; pork, 2 345; fish, 12,675.

In fruit and other stores, 3,940 lb. of goods were seized.

One thousand pounds of impure ice were also confiscated.

PORK-PACKING IN P. E. I.

Davies & Fraser, Halifax, N. S., have submitted a proposition to the Prince Edward Island Government through Hon. B. Rogers, to equip a pork-packing, canning and cold-storage business there on condition that they can secure 30,000 hogs and 1,600 head of beef cattle per year. They do not specify any quantity of fruit etc., but will handle what offers of marketable quality. They ask for no concessions except exemption from taxation for 25 years and that the Government secure cold storage on the Island steamers to Pictou. This proposition is a business one which contrasts favorably with that recently published. They will employ what labor is necessary as well as expend money to build a plant suited to the requirements of the business and as they are already in this business and have made a success of it they can no doubt successfully handle it.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

During the past week the hog market has declined considerably, and trade has been more sluggish than for months past, due, in great measure, to the bad weather. Beef has also declined. We quote: Dressed hogs, $8 25 to $8.75; beef carcasses, $5.50 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $6.00 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.00 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 8 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 6 to 6¼c. Select live hogs are worth $7.00 and fat and lights, $6.75 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

In provisions the business continues brisk and stocks are becoming very light. Prices remain steady. Quotations are as follows: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10c.; plate beef, $15 per 200 lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

The market for Canadian pork and provisions is steady under a fair demand, considering the season. In American barrel pork an advance has been made of 50c., and wholesalers are now quoting in single barrel lots, Jones', $25.75; Armour's, 30-40's, $28; Armour's, 50 60's, $27. Apart from this there has been no new feature in the provision trade. In fresh killed abattoir dressed hogs, however, the market weakened somewhat, and $9.50 per 100 lb. is now quoted. Since this decline of 25c. a steadier feeling prevails, and at present a fairly good demand is experienced. Quotations follow: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail. Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20-lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ¾c.; 5-lb. tins, ⅞c.; 3-lb. tins, 1c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11⅛c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $25.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14.50 to $15.00 per bbl.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

In barrelled pork prices are held at full figures. The sale is limited, particularly for this time of year. Beef is being more freely offered. Lard is still high and the market si firm. In fresh beef, domestic is freely offered at quite low prices. Ontario keeps quite high. There is a better demand for pork, and full prices are obtained. Mutton has a fair sale. Lamb is in large supply and keeps quite low. Only a light supply of veal received. We quote: Mess pork, $21.50 to $22.50; clear pork, $23 to $24; plate beef, $14 to $16; pure lard, tubs, 12 to 12¼c.; pure lard, pails, 12¼ to 12½c.; compound, 9¼ to 10c.; Fairbank's refined, 10¼ to 10½c.; domestic beef, 5 to 7c.; Ontario beef, 7 to 9c.; pork, 8c.; mutton, 5c.; lamb, 6 to 6½c.; veal, 5 to 7c.

WINNIPEG.

In dressed meats the market remains unchanged for the week. The supply in all lines is good.

In cured meats, hams are quoted at 15c. for small and 14½c. for large. All other prices are without change for the week.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

IT was learned that during the latter part of the week there was considerable trading in a large way, principally in new-crop teas to arrive, and at full quoted prices. Sales reported include 6,000 to 7,000 packages Formosa, 3,000 to 5,000 packages Japan, of which 1,000 packages were old crop, 2,000 packages of Pingsuey and 2,000 packages old-crop Foochow. The line business continued to be reported as fairly active, principally for forward deliveries and at full values.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, September 29.

SINGAPORE PINEAPPLE.

Referring to Singapore pineapple, The Paul Taylor Brown Co., New York, says: "We are this day in receipt of advices by mail from Singapore, dated August 21,,announcing the shipment of 4,500 cases of preserved pineapple ex-ss. Bencleuch for our account. This letter also reports that the season had just closed at that date and that it had been an extremely unprofitable one for the packers, owing to the extremely low prices realized on their products. There is a supplementary season in December and January, when some packing will be done, and our Mr. Brown leaves here next month, in order to be in Singapore during that season for the purpose of bringing the packers' attention to some improvements in the style of packing, which we think will prove beneficial to the trade here and in the United States."

SULTANAS AND VALENCIAS EASIER.

A heavy decline has taken place in the price of Sultanas since the first arrival took place on August 28, amounting in some instances to as much as 10s. per cwt. At the reduction, however, and with the price on a level with the Smyrna market, and appearing fairly settled, business is becoming active, and buyers operate with more confidence. Two full cargoes are on the way, one being nearly due, and when these are on the market the trade may be expected to assume its usual season's proportions. The market for Valencias has, during the week, been a gradually declining one, each day showing a decline on the previous day of 6d. to 1s.; and the market closes with half-boxes from 35 to 38s., and quarter-boxes, 39 to 50s.—Produce Markets' Review, September 13.

CANNED CORN IN THE STATES.

There is reported a considerable buying interest in offerings of Iowa and Ohio canned corn, with sales for shipments here on the basis of 75c. for standards f.o.b. factory for Ohio pack and 70c. f.o.b. factory for Iowa pack. Some business in Southern pack, Maine style, is reported at 75c. f.o.b. factory. Referring to the situation a few days ago a New York broker in conversation with The Journal of Commerce said: "Now that it is definitely known that Maine packers will make extremely short deliveries, and that the State pack will not be on the outside estimate over 50 per cent. delivery on contracts a considerable buying interest is developing in Western and Southern packs. Wholesale grocers have sold heavily to the retail trade, and are seemingly anxious to purchase stock for supplying these contracts if possible. The situation is more serious than has been the case in years, for the reason that in first hands stocks are believed to be the lightest known in several seasons. There was a larger consumption of corn last season, I am told, than ever before, and this being the case the market now opens with a comparatively light carry-over and short pack of the new. On the basis of 75c. f.o.b. factory for Ohio pack the Western market is firm, and offerings are by no means pressing for sale. Spot offerings of State are light. In fact, I do not know where I could go and pick up any quantity at the present prices. Quotations are largely nominal both on State and Maine offerings. Succotash has taken an upward tendency in sympathy with the higher tendency of corn."

A THREATENED SCARCITY OF CURRANTS.

Three further cargoes of new currants have arrived by the ss. Tudor, Cygnet and Genoa. Although the market is now well supplied with all qualities, very little fruit is at present on the way to London, and should the demand continue as active as it now is, it may be feared that by the end of the month a temporary scarcity may be experienced. It is matter for regret that there should be any such danger, as under the conditions which have prevailed for many years, the London market, being accustomed to be fed with liberal consignments, and having arranged its operations on that basis, is always liable to considerable disturbance when that basis is not maintained. The quality of the latest shipments continues to bear out the favorable impression produced by earlier ones, and so far the crop may be said to be the best of recent years. Alarmist reports are from time to time received as to the condition of rain-damaged fruit, which may be shipped here later, but there is little use in meeting difficulties half-way, and probably this fruit when received will be less bad than it is now represented. Demand for all qualities and from all classes of buyers is active, and while sellers refrain from any undue pressure, they show a salutary disposition to meet buyers' requirements, and thus contribute much to the satisfactory condition of trade in the article. No change in prices has taken place during the week except a little stiffening in that of Provincial, and quotations for all qualities are eminently reasonable.—Produce Markets' Review, September 13.

CANNED SALMON HIGHER IN LONDON.

The trade in spot salmon has been general, and, in the aggregate, will no doubt prove to be above the average of former years. Prices have further advanced, many holders preferring to carry their goods over to another season rather than sell them at the narrow margins which even the present advanced prices allow. A large business has been done in salmon of the present year's pack, which will come to the markets in 1903; in fact, it is now difficult to obtain offers in some descriptions, the packs having been almost entirely disposed of. The quality of the existing stock of Alaska fish is very good, and it is difficult to explain why the margin which now exists between this description and the better grades, should be so exceptionally wide. For instance, the difference between Alaska talls and Fraser talls is now 6s. per case, a fact which would seem to leave no doubt that either the Alaska must advance or the Fraser decline.—Produce Markets' Review, September 13.

COLOMBO TEA SALES.

Dodwell & Co., Limited, Colombo, under date of August 27, advise as follows: The offerings at to-day's tea auction comprised 14,389 packages equal to 1,171,253 lb., of which 1,428 packages equal to 117,538 lb., were withdrawn for higher limits. The sale passed with brisk competition for all kinds at hardening rates, demand continuing perfectly strong for broken grades, the finest kinds of which realized very full rates. The market is in a strong position for fine teas, owing to the supply being insufficient to meet the requirements of the trade. Common leaf teas show an advance of ¼d. per lb. on last week's rates; the price for clean liquoring pekoe Souchong is 3¼d. There is a good inquiry for sound liquoring dusts and fannings, and prices keep very steady. The average price for the sale held on the 13th inst. was 33c., as compared with 33c. for the previous sale. The exports to the United Kingdom for the present month will be about 7 millions, against 6 millions last year. The estimate for September shipments is put at 7 millions.

COLOR AND ORDER IN A GROCERY STORE

COLOR plays a more important part in the arrangement of goods than most are willing to admit, says B. H. Allbee in Grocers' Criterion. It is color that attracts and holds attention anywhere, even in the dingiest grocery store. It is color which will stop a passer short in his tracks and compel him to look at a window regardless of his personal inclinations at the time, as it is color which makes a room look cheery or cold, according as it is used.

There is no question about this proposition. Color pleases every human being, from the most astute Caucasian down to the lowest form of humanity known. If the decorator of a store would follow the greatest of all instructors, Nature, he will discover at once that color in richest profusion has been lavished upon very many of the humblest objects whose origin is in the most lowly of places. Therefore, use color in plenty, not loud, garish color, but warm, pleasing shades which will create a sense of satisfaction in the minds of those who see them.

Manufacturing grocers have recognized this desire for color in putting up the numerous package goods which are offered. There is an endless variety of shades and combinations which afford unlimited opportunity for artistic displays on shelves or elsewhere. It requires an understanding of color combinations, but that is not difficult to acquire, and once in possession of this knowledge very many incongruous and unpleasant arrangements will be prevented. Formerly it made no difference. There were no package goods, with the exception of coffee, tea, and spices, and the packages in such cases were all alike. Grocers could place them on their shelves in any way and no conflict of color resulted. The coffee and tea packages were nearly always plain manila paper, printed in black, while spices had labels varying from yellow to white. The printing was nearly always black, hence the impossibility of making up anything that was satisfactory in the way of display.

Probably at the present time canned goods offer the most satisfactory assortment of artistic colorings from which to choose in making up a display. There is every imaginable color and shade intermixed with gold, silver and bronze decorations, which enhance the appearance and greatly increase the decorative possibilities. It dosen't require any marked ability in such work to make a store like a sort of art gallery.

The shelves, as has been previously pointed out, can be made convincing advertisements of the quality of the goods carried. It isn't enough that the stock is displayed upon the shelves. The tendency is to put up the goods in a sort of mixed mass, which suggests very many unpleasant things. Order is essential. A grocer's shelves can be made as attractive in their way as the shelves of a druggist. Perhaps to a large proportion of people the attractions of a grocer's shelves will be considered much more satisfactory than the shelves of a druggist. But many, very many, grocers can go to the druggist and secure many hints in cleanliness and orderly arrangement.

Emphasis should be laid upon this question of orderly arrangement. Order is said to be heaven's first law. Why is not essential. But any successful manager of large enterprises will tell you that order ought to be earth's first law, but it isn't, and a peep into the average grocery store confirms this suspicion.

Some grocers disfigure their store fronts by outside displays, which are not only disagreeable under the most favorable conditions, but are positively disgusting as usually made up. Where one deals in green groceries, too, it is absolutely impossible to secure any sort of a display that can, by any stretch of imagination, be called attractive. It is possible to make up a good display of potatoes or other vegetables, but a mixture of berries, vegetables, tropical fruits, and a miscellaneous selection of other species of groceries is a conglomeration sure to raise a conflict of sensations, if it dosen't raise anything else. And you can all rest certain that it will not, under any circumstances, raise your bank account. The most profit accrues to the myriads of flies which consider such a display as legitimate prey. Prowling dogs and cats are frequent visitors, and their calls do not enhance the value of food products. Possibly other unpleasant accompaniments might be adduced without having to seek far, but these few are perhaps sufficient to indicate the general effect such displays produce.

As a matter of fact, a purchaser doesn't need an entire vegetable garden spread before her eyes to know what she wants. As a rule, vegetables speedily wilt and lose flavor in the air and sunshine. Astute purchasers understand this and will not patronize the average grocer if a vegetable man who understands his business is near. Sometimes a display of fruits, which will not wilt or lose flavor in the sunshine, is a profitable investment, but there is more or less danger in it, and even this is not recommended. Better by far leave your front entirely clear, utilizing your windows to their fullest capacity and arranging the interior of the store as artistically as possible. This method gives dignity to the appearance of your place of business and adds stability to your constituency—two features of the utmost importance in building up a trade.

Every arrangement of a store window and interior should contain a development of the idea of suggestiveness. In this way trade can be created and one's business greatly enlarged. If you can lead a customer to make more purchases than were originally intended merely by offering silent suggestions you will be performing what is frequently omitted from the average dealer's efforts. Urging often fails. The proper method of suggestion never does. Therefore study it carefully and get so you understand it thoroughly. It will help you succeed and thereby increase your income.

THE TOMATO SITUATION.

ALREADY there is a strengthening of price reported in the canned tomato market both in Maryland and in California. Notwithstanding the fact that the Baltimore packers are rushed to death getting their tomatoes packed, and that there is a dearth of cans and cases, it is scarcely likely that a sufficient pack will be made, on the whole, to permit of any amount of canned tomatoes being put into stock.

An authority in California is credited with the statement that there will not be enough tomatoes packed in the entire United States to supply the demand. This means that, because the popular desire for tomatoes has become a fixed quality, prices will go away up. At present Californian packers have been compelled to turn down repeated orders from the east, simply because it would be utterly impossible to supply them. Every canner in that State has already sold his entire estimated pack, and reports say that it will require the most favorable growing weather to enable them to fill their orders in full. Owing to prevalence of low prices earlier in the year, jobbers cleared out their entire stocks, with the result that they are now offering good cash prices for tomatoes.

In Canada it is not improbable that there will be a very considerable shortage. Owing to the lateness of the season and the fact that the tomatoes are rotting on the vine, the supply of the raw fruit is very scarce. Then, too, while last year's pack was a very fair one, a considerable portion of it was exported to the United States, where there was a scarcity. Altogether, then, the Canadian pack of 1902 will be short and prices will go up in sympathy.

A "KICK."

THE following letter was sent to a Montreal newspaper on September 27, the writer signing himself "British Merchant":

The writer noticed an article in a well-known English paper referring to the trade of Canada with Great Britain in comparison with the trade the States have with Britain.

The writer of the article was evidently a Canadian, as, after detailing some of Canada's energetic efforts to promote trade with the Old Country, he blames the British merchant for lack of enterprise.

As a merchant, I may be permitted to reply that the fault may rest with the Canadian merchant or manufacturer.

My firm have made several efforts to introduce Canadian goods into this country, and two or three agencies have been given us, but the same agencies have also been given to other firms, as our representatives have discovered when offering the goods; with the result that we at once drop them.

No self-respecting firm is going to offer goods for which they are supposed to be the agents, to find that other firms are offering the same; also posing as agents for the same concern.

We are agents for several American houses, and have the entire handling of their goods, and we have had every possible support in our efforts, and never had any similar experience with them.

It is a common practice for British merchants or manufacturers to appoint more than one agent for their goods in Canada; and why such should be objected to in Great Britain, where with so much greater population a larger field is provided, is not quite clear. In some cases firms as near to each other as Montreal and Toronto are agents for the same British goods. Each manages to do a good trade in his respective locality and throughout the country surrounding, and neither considers it any loss of self-respect that another firm is handling the same goods.

A SHORTAGE OF CANNED CORN.

A heavy shortage in canned corn is reported from New York. There is an unprecedented shortage in the Maine pack and a decided falling off in the New York State pack. Prices have risen rapidly in sympathy. Three weeks ago Maine standards were quoted at from 95c. to $1 per doz. spot, while last week the nominal price had risen to $1.15 and $1.20, with very few offering at any price. Jobbers in the United States are looking on the present situation with anxiety. In many cases they have already bought and sold heavily for future delivery, and there is no telling where the goods are to come from.

The situation has been further aggravated by the new law, which requires that all canned goods must bear a label, stating where the goods were packed. Under this enactment, those Western packers who sold Maine standard under their own label can no longer do this legally. They have, accordingly, bought largely of Maine to supply the trade which they built up prior to the passing of the law. This has considerably added to the shortage in the east.

What bearing this will have on the Canadian market for canned corn is doubtful. It is probable that the pack here will be at least normal, in which case it may not be impossible that goods will ultimately be shipped to the United States. But, if the circumstances surrounding the corn market last spring are recalled, some doubt may be felt as to whether it will be possible to spare any of the Canadian pack. It will be remembered that the Canadian syndicate brought over to the present season a stock equal to the whole pack of a few years ago. Such a situation was viewed with alarm at the time, but all fears were dissolved when the stock in first hands was greatly disposed of during the spring.

At present, in default of securing Maine or New York State futures, a heavy business is being done by New York jobbers in Western corn. They are paying 70c. f.o.b. factory on Iowa pack, and 75c. f.o.b. factory on Ohio pack. It will not be wondered at if they presently make inroads on the Canadian pack.

A merchant cannot keep his customers unless he keeps up to date.

PROBLEM OF MOVING THE NORTHWEST CROPS.

THE enormous cereal crop in Manitoba and the Territories has naturally again brought to the front the question of getting it to the seaboard. A statement made in Montreal places the number of Canadian vessels available for the service at 18, while a Fort William authority estimates that we have 30 grain-carrying vessels, taking into account passenger steamers as well. Vesselmen themselves have recently declared that they can handle about 2,500,000 bush. weekly.

Although there are really no more railway lines in operation in the West than there was a year ago, the facilities for carrying the grain are better than they were a year ago. The C.P.R. has lengthened all its sidings between Fort William and Winnipeg, so that each siding is now able to accommodate two trains of 90 cars each. Besides this, large additions have been made to the rolling stock. General-Superintendent Leonard only a few days ago said that the C.P.R. had 10,000 cars west of Fort William for the wheat service alone. Estimating 800 bushels to the car, this would mean a carrying capacity of 8,000,000 bushels.

Now, with regard to the wheat crop. Exactly what it is cannot be said. At a moderate estimate it can scarcely be less than 75,000,000 bushels, allowing 60,000,000 for Manitoba and 15,000,000 for the Territories. Last year Manitoba gave 50,502,000 bushels and the Territories 12,676,000, a total of 63,000,000, while there were inspected at Winnipeg over 46,000,000 of the crop of 1901. We all remember the difficulty that was experienced to move this crop and that millions of bushels had to be carried over to 1902, simply because of the insufficient transportation facilities.

As we have shown, the transportation facilities are better than they were in 1901. But the question is, have they sufficiently improved to warrant one in concluding that they are equal to the demand that will be made upon them? Candidly, we do not believe they are. The fact of the matter is, that even with the addition of the Canadian Northern, the grain-producing capacity of the West is far in excess of the transportation facilities of the country. And the weakest link in the chain is the steamship service.

The steamers we have are few and the carrying capacity of the most of them is anything but modern. And even were their general carrying capacity more modern, they would have to lighten at Port Colborne of anything in excess of 75,000 bushels if they were bound for the lower lakes. As much as 250,000 bushels of wheat have been carried through the American Soo Canal by one steamer, and the average cargo is 175,000 bushels. It is evident, therefore, that Canada is handicapped in more ways than one in regard to the transportation of grain from the Northwest.

During the calendar year 1901 there were shipped from Fort William and Port Arthur 15,374,000 bushels of wheat. Of this 3,225,000 bushels went through the Welland Canal, 5,000,000 bushels to New York, via Buffalo; 1,500,000 bushels to Owen Sound, 2,160,000 bushels to Midland, 600,000 bushels to Depot Harbor, 700,000 bushels to Point Edward, 1,500,000 bushels to Goderich and Meaford. The remainder went to Port Huron and Detroit.

It has been claimed that it will not be a great while before 100,000,000 bushels of wheat will be shipped annually from Fort William. And the way the Northwest is developing such a thing is probable, but the question that concerns us most is how we are going to properly handle the quantity that is now produced by the West.

Two or three years ago the Dominion Government essayed to relieve the situation by suspending the navigation laws, but it created such a storm that it promised never to do it again. It is just a question, however, whether it would not be justified in doing it again.

The United States has certainly no right to consideration from us as far as shipping laws are concerned. There is not and never has been any intention on the part of the United States to give a moderate interpretation of their shipping laws as far as Canada is concerned. On the contrary, their interpretation has always been of the strictest and most arbitrary character. The refusal to permit Canadian vessels to participate in the carrying trade from Porto Rico and Hawaii to the United States is a proof of this. But the question is, would we, by a temporary suspension of the navigation laws, and thereby allowing United States vessels to participate in our carrying trade, facilitate the marketing of the enormous grain crop of the Northwest? It seems to us there is but one answer to the question.

On the United States side of the upper lakes last year 77,000,000 bushels of grain and 8,000,000 barrels of flour were carried. If, therefore, the vessels which engaged in carrying that quantity could for the short time now remaining before the close of navigation be permitted to engage in the the Canadian carrying trade the result would obviously be to the advantage of the commercial interests of Canada, for the more grain that can be shipped the more money will there be to circulate in the country.

THE TOBACCO COMBINE.

SIGNIFICANT in many ways is the reported combination of the British and American tobacco interests, which was announced last week. At a time when the Morgan Shipping Trust and the American commercial invasion seem to many to be menacing British commercial interests, such an amalgamation as this is calculated to remove many disquieting fears. It is probably the first attempt yet made to unify the transactions of an important international industry. Up to the present period the tendency has been to unite industries on purely national lines. Then international competition stepped in and the same policy of union, it appears, will be applied to meet the exigencies of the present situation.

What is to be the outcome of this further combination is a matter of speculation. It will at least tend to unite British and American interests and serve to place the Anglo Saxon peoples in their proper relative positions to meet the commercial attacks of the future.

The statement just issued by the officials of the combining tobacco companies gives some details concerning the amalgamation. The text reads in part: "The business of Ogdens, Limited, has been transferred to the Imperial Tobacco Co., and the export business of the Imperial, Ogdens and the American Tobacco Co. and its allies have been amalgamated, and a joint company is in course of formation, under the name of the British-American Tobacco Co., Limited. The result is that the Imperial Company will, as agreed between the hitherto competing parties, be left in possession of the trade of the United Kingdom, while the American Company is not to be disturbed in the United States or Cuba, and the British-American Company will compete for the trade of the other parts of the world. The Imperial Company will pay for the good-will of Ogdens business in ordinary shares ranking with the similar shares of the original vendors behind the 5½ per cent. preference shares of that company, and will pay for the tangible assets of Ogdens in cash."

The capital of the British-American Company is to be $30,000,000, and Mr. J. B. Duke is to be president. Though American interests control two-thirds of the stock, the headquarters of the company will be in London, since from that centre business can be better managed.

CHEESE MARKET STIFF.

THE cheese market is still a strong one, both at home and abroad. At our factories in the country prices are firmly held at 10⅝ to 10⅝ for the finest colored cheese, of September make, about 1c. higher than a year ago. Cable offerings based on the above prices in the country are not meeting with many responses, and holders seem to expect that even higher prices than these will yet be realized for the product. Their confidence in a firm market in the future is no doubt inspired by the fact that in the latter part of last week prices in England advanced 2s. per cwt., bringing up the quotations there to 51s., with a stiff market. This is the highest point reached in cheese for over two years, the record price being made in August, 1900, when cheese went up to 58s.

Not only is the market strong in Canada. In the United States a similar condition prevails, and this week at the factories there the record prices of 11¾c. for colored and 11 9-16c. for white were reached. The market on the other side is exciting. The peculiar part of it is that there seems to be nothing to warrant this appreciation beyond a keen competition amongst buyers for September cheese, which enjoys the reputation of being the finest of the year, strengthened by the reports of advancing markets in the Old Country. The high markets on the other side of the Atlantic for meats, canned goods, and provisions generally, seem to warrant a big demand throughout the coming year for cheese, and, no doubt, the consumption of the product will be large. Holders seem to be speculating on the above supposition, as they are at present conservative in their offerings. Prices will probably be kept up for a time, but it is difficult to predict whether the expectations of the cheese men in this country and the United States will be realized, in so far as a continuance of the present figures for any length of time is concerned.

The make of cheese in Canada this season is said to be the largest in the history of the country. The heavy rains all summer produced an abundance of grass and the cows yielded more than the usual supply of milk. Fortunately for the farmers the prices realized for the cheese have been high, and the markets active with numerous inquiries from across the Atlantic.

So far the exports of cheese this season from Montreal reach a total of 1,434,162 boxes, as against 1,235,080 for the same period the year previous, and there seems to be large quantities of the article still held on this side of the water.

HEALTHIER BUTTER MARKET.

THERE has been an improvement in the market for butter this week and the prices of choice creamery and dairy are firmer in tone. The markets on the other side are more active, the supplies of Danish and Irish butter having dropped off unexpectedly, and a report is gaining ground that the make in Australia will not come up to the mark this year. This is having the effect of making the inquiry more active for the Canadian article and consequently prices are firm. Should the market improve from this out in the Old Country, jobbers here will be able to work off their surplus holdings which have been accumulating all the year waiting for an oppertunity to be placed on the English market.

The inquiry from England has quieted down a little, but an improvement is looked for in a day or so.

The season for Canadian butter is now opening in the Old Country and anything good ought to be in brisk demand shortly, but prices of course have their limit over there. The market here has been kept up pretty well all summer.

The annual imports of butter into the United Kingdom amount to 3,702,810 cwt., of which the Dominion supplies about 6½ per cent., or 230,000 cwt. in round numbers. The heaviest supplies come from Denmark, France, Holland, Russia and Australasia. By these figures it can be seen that Canada has room to greatly increase her contributions to the British market and still hold only a fractional part of the trade.

Complaints are coming forward from various parts of the country of a falling off in the milk supply, but this occurs at this time every year. The make this season has been a record one, and may be expected to keep up fairly well while the pasture holds out. Quotations on the Toronto market are about 15c. for choice dairy and 19 to 19½c. for selected creamery solids.

AN INJURIOUS TARIFF REGULATION.

The Summerside, P.E.I. Journal says: The United States have adopted new regulations in regard to fresh fish shipped from Canada to the United States. Henceforth a duty of a quarter of a cent. per lb. will be imposed on smelts, etc., if shipped in packages of 100 lb. or more. If the packages are under 100 lb. each, an ad valorem duty of 30 per cent. will be imposed. This looks very much like a direct blow at the Provincial smelt trade, as smelts are shipped in small boxes, and are not so conveniently or advantageously handled in large packages. This is a matter the fishermen and shippers would do well to inquire into particularly. At the same time it is difficult to understand why the United States should frame such regulations, which, if strictly enforced, would go a long ways towards killing the smelt trade, as the people of New York, Boston and other eastern cities depend altogether on this Province for their supply of fresh smelts.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, October 2, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE activity noted last week in the wholesale markets continues and an increase is reported in the volume of business in almost all lines of groceries. Canned vegetables continue firm and unchanged, and fruits are in the same condition. Macdonald's tobaccos are firm at the advance reported last week, but there is a shortage of "Prince of Wales," and the factory will be about one week behind in filling orders. The manufacturers of corn syrup have reduced the price of the article ½c. per lb., and trade in syrups generally is reported to be on the increase. In view of the strong and advancing markets abroad sugars have been put up 5 points and quite a little trade continues in the commodity, although the drawing near of the end of the fruit season is having the effect of diminishing the sales. Teas are quiet and unchanged. Advices from the primary market report advances in Valencia raisins and quotations on new crop fine off-stalk and selects are ¼ to 1c. higher than the old prices.

CANNED GOODS.

Trade generally, in canned goods, as may be expected at this time of the year, is a little quiet. Tomatoes are scarce and few of this season's crop, if any, are offering. Very little of old stock is on hand. Peas and corn are both scarce and the prices are firm and unchanged. We quote: Peas, 82½c. up; corn, 82½c. up and tomatoes, $1.20 up. Meats are quiet and fruits are dull. Sardines are firm in tone and the prices have an upward tendency. Salmon is active and unchanged. Haddies and kippered herring are in fair demand. Other lines are quiet. We quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES.

The local coffee business is quiet and the prices all round are firm and unchanged. The outside markets showed advances owing to a report by cable from Santos predicting a decreased movement of the crop. Quotations are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c. No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

Trade, locally, in nuts is quiet and the opening prices of all grades will be considerably higher than last year. Advices from Sicily report damage to the filbert crop there causing holders here to be firm in their views. Cables from the primary markets show advances in the prices of about 1½c. per lb. for Bordeaux walnuts and of about 3c. per lb. for Grenobles. In view of the excessive prices of the latter, buyers this year will likely use more of the Bordeaux.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Trade in rice continues moderate and the same is true of tapioca. The New Orleans market is reported to be fairly active and firm for fancy head rices and light buying in the lower grades. The outside tapioca markets were draggy. Our quotations are now as follows: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade in syrups is picking up nicely. The manufacturers of corn syrups have lowered the prices of the article ½c. per lb. in whole, half and quarter barrels and 20c. in 3-gallon and 10c. in 2-gallon pails. The outside syrup markets are experiencing a fairly active demand from exporters. The offerings of molasses outside were small and dealers claim that they have barely sufficient stocks on hand to supply the wants of their trade up to the time of the marketing of the new crop and so prices showed a hardening tendency.

See pages 43 and 44 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SPICES.

A little business is reported in spices, the call still being for the pickling varieties. Cable advices from Holland report a stronger turn to the market for Lampong pepper.

SUGAR.

After remaining steady and unchanged without break from June 5, prices of sugar on the local market on September 30 advanced 5 points in sympathy with the strong and active outside markets. The local trade, though still heavy, is not as active as it was, owing to the fact that the bulk of the green fruits have been marketed. Raw beet sugar of 88 deg. test, which has been down as low as 5s. 11½d. f.o.b. Hamburg is now quoted 6s. 9d. f.o.b. Hamburg, and foreign refined has fractionally advanced and is firmly held. November and December shipment is being quoted at an advance of 5c. per 100 lb. New York refiners are still behind in their deliveries fully one to three weeks and the refineries are still melting the large quantity of 45,000 tons per week. The receipts in the United States for the week were large, being 49,600 tons, increasing the total stock to 169,681 tons, against 165,081 tons last week and 172,205 tons for the same time last year. The European beet crop for the coming season is estimated, according to cable reports, at 5,400,000 to 5,900,000 tons, as against 6,880,000 tons last year, and as prices at present are at a low level everywhere the present quotations will likely be maintained even if there be no advance on the European market.

TEAS.

The local tea market is unchanged from last week. Japan and China greens are scarce and high in price and a fair call continues for Ceylon greens. Blacks of Indian and Ceylon teas are meeting with a fair call. Advices by cable from Japan report a stronger market, the offerings being limited and prices hardening. Communications by letter from London, England, are to the effect that there is a marked weakness in common and medium grades of Indian teas, but the demand for good and choice teas was maintained and many of the finest kinds brought good prices. The lower grades of Ceylons continued to sell at cheaper rates, a fall of ¼d. being noted in common kinds. In medium grades the quotations were sometimes ½d. cheaper.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—There is a fair demand for these on the local market. The markets of Greece continue steady and unchanged. We quote: Filiatras, 5¾ to 6c. and Patras, 6¼ to 7c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The local market is active and the prices are firm for new stock. The opening quotations on this season's Valencia raisins are as follows: Fine off-stalk, 8 to 8¼c. and selected, 8¾ to 9c. Some Sultanas are on the way at 8½c. for delivery on arrival.

DATES.—Trade in dates is still quiet. The cargo of dates on the ss. Tabaristan, now on her way to this continent from the other side, is stated to consist of 109,000 boxes, of which 73,000 boxes are Hallowee, 11,000 Khadrawee and 25,000 Sairs. No opening prices have as yet been made on this cargo. We quote as follows: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—A quiet feeling prevails in prunes and prices are steady. At the Coast large sizes of Santa Clara fruit are not offered, except in a limited way. We quote : Californian prunes, 100-110's, 5c.; 90-100's, 5½ to 6½c.; 80-90's, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80's, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60 70's, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60's, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50's, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—We quote 5c. for 4-crown, Griffin & Skelley brand ; 4½c. for 3 crown and 4c. for 2-crown, f.o.b. Fresno, in 50-lb. boxes.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS —Apricots are firmly held on the Coast and peaches are steady. Quotations are as follows : 11 to 14c. for peaches and 9 to 13c. per lb. for apricots. Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

Quite large quantities of peaches and grapes are coming forward and the prices of the former are still remarkably low. First season's quinces are on the market and the crop is said to be a fair one. New Jamaica oranges are on the market and the quality is reported to have never been better. The crop this year of these oranges is stated to be large. We quote as follows : Tomatoes, 15 to 30c. per basket ; peaches, Crawfords, 30 to 50c. and ordinary, 20 to 30c.; pears, 20 to 30c. per basket for Bartletts and 15 to 25c. for ordinary ; grapes, 20 to 30c. for small baskets and 30 to 45c. for large ; plums, 50 to 75c. per basket ; apples, 10 to 25c. per basket and $1 to $1.75 per barrel ; crabapples, 25c. per basket; watermelons, 15 to 20c. each by the 100 ; lemons, $1 upwards per box ; onions, ordinary, 75c. ; Spanish, 90c. per case; peppers, green, 15 to 30c. per basket ; ripe, 75c. to $1; oranges, Jamaica, $3.75 per box and $6.75 to $7 per barrel ; Jersey sweet potatoes, $3.50 per barrel ; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack ; quinces, 35c. per basket.

VEGETABLES.

Trade in all lines of vegetables continues fair and the prices are about the same as they were a week ago. Quite a demand is being experienced for cabbage, and pickling onions are scarce. Cucumbers are also hard to get. Quotations follow : Lettuce, 30 to 40c. per doz. ; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c. ; turnips, 30c. per dozen ; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen ; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; carrots, 40 to 50c. per bag ; beets, 40 to 50c. per bag ; potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag ; beans, 20c. per basket ; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen ; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz. ; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 50 to 75c. per basket ; pickling onions, 75c. per basket ; ditto cucumbers, 75c. to $1 per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—Light receipts of strictly fresh stock are reported and the market for this grade is firm. Considerable quantities of seconds are being offered and when these are cleared out a healthy fall trade is looked for. At outside points 15c. will be paid for good stock. From stock, Toronto, quotations are firm at 17c. for strictly fresh gathered ; 15 to 15½c. for ordinary store candled and 12 to 13c. for seconds and checks.

BEANS.—So far the offerings of beans have been light and reports keep coming in to the effect that the crop all over the country has sustained damage through the unfavorable weather of the summer. We quote : Primes, $1.40 to $1.45 and handpicked, $1.50 up per bushel.

HONEY.—Offerings of honey at outside points continue free at the prices quoted below. Trade, locally, is fairly active. We quote : Extracted, 8 to 8½c. for large quantities and 9 to 9½c. for small lots. Combs, $1.25 up per dozen.

POTATOES.—The arrivals of potatoes on the Toronto market during the week have been liberal and prices are weaker than last week by 5 to 10c. per bag. The crop this year is said to be affected by rot more or less and this will have a tendency to keep the markets stiff all the year. We quote 65 to 70c. per bag on track, Toronto.

BUTTER.—There has been a more active demand for export for the finest grades of dairy and creamery butter. Low grades, locally, are dull and featureless, with plenty offering. Quotations are as follows : Choice 1-lb. rolls, 15 to 17c. ; dairy tubs, best quality, 15c.; store packed, uniform color, 13 to 13½c. and low grades, 12 to 12½c.; creamery prints, 19 to 20c. and solids 19c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The market is firm and the prices have advanced a little since last week. Keen competition at the factories is reported and this is keeping up the market. English advices report the cheese market strong over there. We quote : Finest cheese, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—The receipts of chickens, ducks and turkeys have been more liberal and as the warm weather is keeping back the demand, prices are weaker. We now quote : Chickens, dressed, per pair, 65 to 75c.; live chickens, 50 to 60c.; ducks, 70 to 80c.; live ducks, 50 to 75c.; young turkeys, 11 to 12c. per lb.

GAME.—The receipts are still light, owing to the earliness of the season, and not much inquiry is reported for any quoted below. Quotations on teal and pin tails are from 5 to 10c. lower per pair. We quote : Teal, 20c.; pin tails, 30 to 35c. and black duck, 70 to 75c.

FISH.

The receipts of fish have been liberal and the demand very good. Digby herring are now on the market and are of good quality. The catch this year is stated to have been large, and our quotations are as follows : Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 8½ to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British Columbian salmon, 20c.; whitefish, 8½ to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; Niagara whitefish, 9c. per lb.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.35 per gallon ; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket ; Digby herring, 50c. per bundle of six baskets.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—Owing to the increased amount of new grain put on the market prices have, in many cases, declined a little. This is specially the case with wheat and oats. Rye has advanced another ½c. We quote : Red Ontario wheat, 66c., middle freights ; white wheat, 69c., goose wheat, 67c., middle freights ; rye, 50c. ; barley, 41 to 41½c. and oats, 31 to 32½c.

FLOUR.—Owing to the decrease in wheat there has been a corresponding lowering in flour. Hungarian patents and Manitoba bakers' have each dropped 5c. We quote : Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70 ; Hungarian patents, $4.00 to $4.10 ; Manitoba bakers', $3.75 to $3.80 ; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—The demand for oatmeal and rolled oats is but fair. Oatmeal, owing to the depression in the price of oats, has dropped 20c.; rolled wheat is also 5c. lower. Quotations are as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5 ; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra ; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra ; rolled wheat, $2.25 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4 ; split peas, $4.75 ; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bbls.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—These, so far, remain unchanged, but owing to the great decline which took place in Chicago and the United States markets last week, a corresponding change is expected here. We quote : No. 1 green, 8½c.; No. 2 green, 7½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—Prices are practically the same though business is weak. We quote : Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 9c. ; No. 2, 7c. ; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each ; shearlings, and lambskins, 50 to 55c.

WOOL.—This is very quiet and the quotations are unchanged. We quote as follows : Fleece wool, 13½c. and unwashed, 7½c. per lb.

TALLOW.—Prices are low. We quote 6¾ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

The movement in alsike is still very moderate, while no red clover is offered. We quote : Alsike, $6 to $7 and timothy, $1.50 to $1.75.

MARKET NOTES

Sugar has advanced 5 points.

Corn syrup has declined ½c. per lb.

Potatoes have declined 5 to 10c. per bag.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, October 2, 1902.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS in groceries has kept well up to the mark during the week. The market is advancing on several lines, tomatoes being one of them. New Labrador salmon is now in stock with some wholesalers and is being sold at $7.25 per half barrel. Spanish onions, in crates, which are abundant on this market, are quoted as low as 45c. American pork has advanced, and wholesalers are now quoting Jones' at $25.75; Armour's, 30-40's, $28 and 50-60's, $27 in single barrel lots. Prime white pea beans, which weakened somewhat last week, have regained their firmness and are now quoted by jobbers at $1.70 to $1.75 per 60 lb. Skinless dressed cod is now on the market in 100-lb. cases, being quoted at present at $5 per case. Steam refined pale seal oil is higher, now selling at 60 to 70c., according to quantity. Small cheese has followed the advance in large cheese; the price is now 12 to 12½c.

SUGAR.

There has been no important development in this market since our last report. Locally, a good, steady demand is still experienced at unchanged prices, the business, on account of the fruit preserving season, being fully up to the standard of former years. Granulated sugar is selling at $3.65 and yellows from $3 to $3.55 per 100 lb.

TEAS.

The situation in teas on this market has not much changed. Japans keep as firm as ever; but those who expected lower prices still stick to their belief. "We will be getting cheap Japan teas in January," said one importer. A small amount of old Japans is still on the market, but it is dwindling to within a very small compass. In China teas the feeling continues firm. One buyer is obtaining them from London at a lower price than he is quoted from China. Business with merchants in the country continues quiet. Many merchants are pretty well supplied with all the teas they will require for some time. One dealer states that he has enough for ten months yet.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

"Perfection" brand of corn syrup has been reduced in price ½c., and the following are the present quotations: In bbls., 3c.; half bbls., 3⅛c.; quarter bbls., 3¼c.; in 38½-lb. pails, $1.40 and 25-lb. pails, $1.10. The demand is still light on account of the low price of Barbados molasses. For the latter there is a fair demand at unchanged prices, 23 to 24c. being quoted, according to quantity. Antigua molasses is worth 24c. and Porto Rico, 38c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

The market continues moderately active. No new feature has developed and prices are unchanged. Quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3½c.

SPICES.

The market continues firm in general and nearly all spices exhibit a higher tendency. Prices are yet unchanged on this market. A fairly good demand is experienced., and we quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

Tomatoes continue to be the all absorbing feature in the canned goods situation. One of the largest Canadian jobbers said: "The most pessimistic anticipations regarding tomatoes have been more than realized. From every quarter come reports indicating that the situation is worse than was expected, and the scarcity of tomatoes is now known to be such that some jobbers will have to do without them." During the week jobbers have again advanced the price, and tomatoes on spot and to arrive are quoted at $1.30 upwards. Our quotations are as follows: Tomatoes, $1.30; corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½c. to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1.00; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Nothing further in regard to the primary market has been received. On the local market prices are unchanged under a fair demand, and quotations are as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5½c. to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—A considerable quantity of these raisins were received from the Allan ss. Corinthian, which arrived in port on September 30. These are early shipments. The first direct steamer, the Escalona, is expected here early this month. Following her, comes the ss. Bellona, due about November 1. Quotations now are: Finest off-stalk, 6½ to 7½c.; selected, 7⅜ to 8c. and layers, 7½ to 8¼c., according to brands.

SULTANA RAISINS.—There is nothing new to report in these. The market continues firm and the price quoted is 9½c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—These are in fair demand for the season. We quote as follows: Citron, 15; orange, 11½c. and lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—No new feature has developed. Prices are unchanged. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

FIGS.—The primary market for Comadre figs shows no sign of weakening. The most important feature in the position is the shortage in Smyrna.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—Prices for seeded raisins have not been announced for Canada yet. It is understood that prices for the United States will be 1c. higher than for Canada. Locally, there is a fair demand for seeded, which are quoted at 9¾ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—These continue in steady demand, and prices are unchanged. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

A further advance of ½c. is reported this week in Brazil nuts. The feeling in all lines is firm. Valencia shelled almonds, on spot, have become scarce, and in view of the situation on the primary market holders have felt justified in advancing the price. They are now quoted about 2c. higher. We quote: Walnuts, 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 28 to 30c.; filberts, 9½c.; Pecans, 17 to 17½c.; Brazil nuts, 13½ to 14½c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

Jamaica oranges are now quoted $1 lower and Messina lemons, 50c. lower. Pineapples have practically disappeared from the market, the quantity now held being very small. No. 1 bananas have declined in price 25 to 50c. per bunch and eight-hands, 25 to 75c. Plums have advanced 20 to 35c. Canadian apples, in barrels, are higher. Spanish onions are considerably lower, being 15 to 25c. per crate and 10c. per case. We quote: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $5 to $5.50, boxes, $3; Messina lemons, $3.50 per box; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1 to $1.50 and 8-hands, 75c.; cucumbers, 11c. per dozen; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per dozen; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per barrel; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $2.50 to $2.75 per box; limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 60 to 75c. per basket; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1.50 to $2; in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian pears, 10c. per basket; Spanish onions, 50c. per crate and $2.10 per case; sweet potatoes, $3.25 per barrel; Canadian blue and white grapes, 25 to 30c. per basket; Delawares, 10c. per basket; Malaga grapes, $5.50 per keg.

FISH.

The fish trade has continued active during the past week. The first consignment of Malpeque oysters of this season arrived on September 25 and were quickly disposed of. The first arrivals on this market are getting later each year. Some years ago they used to arrive about the first of the month. Haddies are ½c. lower this week. They are in fair demand. Whitefish and dore are also quoted ½c. lower than last week. Halibut is 1c. lower. No. 1 Nova-Scotian herring are 50c. higher, while Holland herring have come down 5c. per keg. No. 1 Labrador salmon, in tierces, is very scarce, and the price has been advanced 50c. British-Columbian salmon is 25c. per half barrel higher. Quotations are as follows: Haddies, 6½ to 7c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7 to 7½c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 15c.; trout, large and medium, 8c. to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $5.25 per bbl. and $3 per half bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per half bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per half bbl. and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 70 to 80c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2 lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $18.00 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6.50 per ½ bbl. and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $4.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per dozen; Malpeque shell oysters, $4 to $5 per barrel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

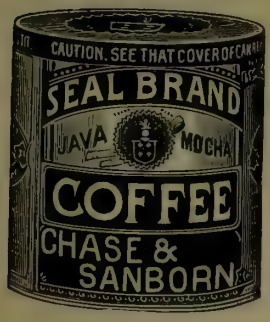
EGGS.—These continue in fairly good demand at unchanged prices. Business in a jobbing way is active, but in round lots not much is doing, and we quote as follows: Selected, 18½c. to 19c.; candled stock, 16½ to 17c.; straight receipts, 15½ to 16c.; No. 2, 13½ to 14c. in round lots.

BEANS.—A considerable decline in the price of beans has taken place, sales being made this week at $1.25 to $1.30 per bushel, which is 15c. below last week's quotations. There is a moderate inquiry.

HONEY.—A better feeling prevails on this market, and both white comb and strained are ½c. higher. A fair trade is doing, with white clover comb selling at 11 to 11½c. and white strained at 8 to 8½c. per lb.

ASHES.—No change is reported in the price of ashes, though the market continues quiet and easy. We quote: First pots, $4.35 to $4.40; seconds, $3.60 and pearls, $6.25 per 100 lb.



POTATOES.—A further advance is noted this week in potatoes and at the new prices the market is active but steady. 80 to 85c. per bag is paid in a jobbing way, while carload lots are quoted at 70c. per bag.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—The demand is still light for maple products. No change in price is reported. We quote: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The tone of the market is somewhat easier this week, although, except in finest Quebec, no quotable decline is reported. In finest Quebec, ½c. lower is quoted. A good amount of butter is coming forward, but business is not very active. We quote: Saltless creamery, 21½c.; finest Townships do, 20¾ to 21c.; finest Quebec do, 20 to 20½c.; finest Ontario do, 19c.; dairy, 15½ to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—There has been another slight advance all round in cheese during the week, amounting to about ½c. on each make. No other material change in the condition of the market is to be noted. The feeling seems to be still firm. Business for export is still almost at a Describing their worst privations, he writes: "We endured for a long while a wretched infusion of Native Corn (Wheat) for Coffee!" ### THE MARKETS.

BUSINESS is still quite active in Ottawa. New stocks are arriving by [illegible] are [illegible] [illegible] better, so that the city markets have been very good, which helps to enliven things, although the weather has been bad during the week. All classes of merchants report having had a good month during September.

The sugar market, as far as prices go, remains the same; the amount of business done is large as people are still preserving. Redpath and St. Lawrence granulated is $3.72 and Woodside, $3.67; yellows are $3.07.

In teas, low-grade Japans are scarce and very firm. Black teas are plentiful with good volume at low prices.

H. N. Bate & Sons report a drop in corn syrup. They quote; Barrels, $0.1[illegible]; half barrels, $0.12½; quarter barrels, $3.25; 3½-lb. pails, $1.40 and 25-lb. pails, $1.10.

Canned tomatoes are not being offered and there does not seem to be a definite price, but figures asked are from $1 to $1.25 a dozen. Corn and peas are quoted at 85 to 90c. per dozen.

The coffee and spice trade is good and has been for some time. C. H. Cochrane & Co., the only manufacturers in the city, are rushed with orders.

Small lots of evaporated apples have arrived and are being quoted at 7 to 7½c.

B rice is lower than quoted last time, prices now being $2.97½ in bags. Sago and tapioca are the same, about 3½c.

The first lot of new Valencia raisins arrived in the city this week via Liverpool. For finest off-stalk the price is 7½c., having advanced ½c. last week. New candied peels are also to hand and are being sold much lower than last season. Lemon peel is quoted from 8¾ to 9½c.; orange, 9½c. and citron, 13 to 14c.

Higher prices are looked for in black and white peppers. It is said they will show an advance of 2 to 3c. Sumatra black is 14c. and white, 24c. Penang black, 16c.; white, 26c.; Singapore black, 18c. and white, 28c. Cream of tartar is also firm and ¾c. higher.

Manufacturers of tomato catsup say they are worse off than they thought. With half the quantity of tomatoes and increased business the situation is very bad, and some brands have to be withdrawn as stock cannot be got to manufacture them.

The sale of illuminating oil is now very good. Prices are as follows: Best American, 18½c. and prime white Canadian, 14½c.

Butter in prints, 20 to 23c.; pails, 17 to 19c.; creamery, 21c. Oats, 28 to 30c.; wheat, 65 to 75c.; buckwheat, 54c.

THE CHEESE BOARD.

At the Cheese Board Friday the highest price this season was reached. There was a small offering, 1,114 boxes being boarded, 764 white and 350 colored. Bidding opened at 10c. and reached 10⅝c., when all but 75 boxes were sold.

THE FRUIT EXCHANGE

Green fruits at the Ottawa Fruit Exchange are still around in large quantities. During the week prices ranged as follows: Calvert apples, $1.60 to $2; St. Lawrence, $2 to $2.30; Wealthys, $1.80 to $2.25; peaches, 12 qt., 35 to 50c.; grapes, Niagara, 23 to 26c.; do Concord, 22 to 26c.; do Rogers, 25 to 30c.; gages, 50 to 80c.; plums, 40 to 60c.; pears, Bartletts, 40 to 65c.; melons, 5 to 12c., according to size.

A NEW ENTERPRISE.

The Ottawa Milling Company, Ottawa's latest manufacturing concern, have got well started into the making of rolled oats and oatmeal. This company is composed of some members of the old McCoy Milling Co. They are making the "G. Y." rolled oats and so far have turned out an article equal to that made by the old firm. Already they are doing a large local trade besides filling some big export orders. It is their intention as soon as possible to manufacture breakfast foods in packages.

A DEMONSTRATION.

O. H. Cummings, of The Postum Cereal Co., is in the city. He is calling on the trade inquiring as to how "Grape Nuts" and "Postum" are selling. His company have an expert demonstrator in John A. Bryson's grocery, showing the different ways that Grape Nuts can be served and a shorter way to make Postum Food Coffee. Mr. Cummings looks after all outside business in the United States and Canada and is much pleased with their business on this side. It is his intention to come back to Ottawa and demonstrate in different parts of the city at a later date.

Bedingfield & McCusker are making extensive alterations in their warehouse. They are fitting up a new suite of offices, which materially add to the appearance of their warehouse when entering.

NOTES

Bedingfield & McCusker shipped on Monday two cars of potatoes to Montreal.

Provost & Allard are handling this year "Sovereign" brand of salmon. It is becoming well known as one of the finest brands on the market.

It is reported but not generally known that Montreal manufacturers of vinegar are raising their scale of prices to be uniform with western manufacturers, which means an advance of about 5 to 6c. per gallon.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, Man., September 29, 1902.

BUSINESS has been very active all week, and as very considerable wheat has been marketed money is beginning to move and by the end of another week should be in fair circulation. The banks are making every effort to assist dealers in the matter of the crop. There is only one serious drawback now in sight and that is a grain blockade. In spite of all the protestations of the railway companies, all who are to any extent familiar with the situation are certain that already traffic is congested and that before another ten days has come and gone, should the present favorable weather continue for threshing, there will be the worst tie-up the country has ever seen. Jobbers in all lines complain constantly of the delay in freight deliveries, and state that between the incapacity of Canadian factories to furnish sufficient goods and the inability of the railways to deliver promptly after goods have been shipped the life of the jobber is anything but a bed of roses.

There have been few changes to record for the week.

CANNED VEGETABLES.—The tomato situation is the same, only more so. It is reported that $2.10 per case factories has been refused by canners. The price here has not been advanced, but the markey is very stiff and jobbers are not keen to sell stocks on hand. Corn and peas are firm and without change.

CANNED FRUITS.—There is a nominal demand and the supply is good in all lines with the exception of gooseberries, cherries and raspberries, all of which are scarcer and higher than in previous years.

EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Reports have reached this market that apricots and peaches have advanced ½c. each in the primary market, owing to the unprecedented demand. No change has taken place in the market here, and in any case the prices of new fruit are much lower than last year.

DRIED FRUITS.—Sultana raisins have advanced ½c. in the primary markets, and this will affect prices here, as only a small amount of the stock required for this market had been purchased before the advance took place. Sultanas are due to arrive here about October 1. New Smyrna figs are due by the same vessel. Prices for new figs are not definitely quoted as yet, but they will be excellent in quality. New Valencia raisins and currants are due on Wednesday next.

NUTS.—Many lines of nuts are very high. Grenoble walnuts are 7c. per lb. higher than last year, and some houses are ordering Marbots exclusively on that account. The shipments of Grenobles to this market will be much smaller than usual. Marbots are about the same price as last year and will sell here at 12c. Shelled almonds are much higher and are quoted to arrive at 32c.; soft shelled almonds, 14c. and filberts, 11½c. Stocks of last year's peanuts are growing small and the price is higher. Quotations for the new crop are not yet given by the trade here. Old-stock shelled walnuts are worth 25c. per lb.

CANDIED PEELS.—Full winter stocks are now on hand and show excellent quality. We quote: Lemon, 11c.; orange, SPICES. All lines are in good demand. Ginger is the only spice that shows an advance for the season.

COFFEE.—Firmer, with an advance of about 1c. for the week. Quotations for Rios run from 9 to 9¾c., according to number.

FISH.—The fall market is now fully established and there is a fairly full line on hand. Haddies are not yet quoted, though first shipments by express should be in almost any day now. Labrador herring are quoted at $1.25 per barrel; mackerel, $1.80 per kit; Digby chicks, 18c. per box; boneless cod, 5½c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.—A very active market, particularly for apples and plums. Oranges are quoted $5.50 to $6 per case; Californian lemons, $5.50; bananas, $3 per bunch; box apples, $1.50; apples, per barrel, $3.50; crabs, 60c.; box crabs, $2; Ontario grapes, 40c. per basket; Tokay do, $2.75 per crate; Malaga do, $2.50 per crate; cranberries, $9 per barrel; plums, $1.25 to $1.50; pears, $2.50; Ontario basket pears, 75c.; do tomatoes, 90c. per box of 40 lb.; baskets, 40c.

CREAMERY BUTTER.—Stocks are well cleaned up at factory and prices are 19 to 20c. There is a short supply of good fresh dairy table butter and prices are firm at 13 to 14c. for the best grades.

EGGS.—Shortage of eggs is increasing and the prices are firm at 16c. Winnipeg for fresh gathered, subject to candling.

CHEESE.—There is practically little offering and factory stocks are well cleared up. Prices Winnipeg, 10½ to 11c.

CANADIAN MAKES SOUGHT FOR.

Among financiers and business men the opinion is freely expressed that commercial affairs in the Dominion are in a most satisfactory shape. There is a disposition on the part of consumers to purchase Canadian-made articles. Among household articles this is well illustrated in the enormous demand for Bryan's brushes, Boeckh's brooms and brushes and Cane's Newmarket woodenware. It would be difficult to imagine a better or more comprehensive range than United Factories, Limited, are now showing.

POTATO ROT.

With the exception of light, sandy districts, reports from nearly every part of Ontario manifest a poor potato crop. The yield, indeed, has for the most part been abundant, but the rot, due to the rains, has considerably damaged this product. Caradoc, and other sections of Southern Ontario, according to local papers, will be an exception to the rule, but this does not affect the potato market when potatoes are offered at no less than $1.10 per bag, 45c. above the price of a year ago. Exchanges from Sherbrooke and Richmond, Que., also report that the potato is rotting badly in that vicinity.

Mrs. W. L. Shields is now carrying on the business of her late husband who kept a general store in Coboconk.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, September 29, 1902.

BUSINESS continues brisk and the autumn trade is opening up extremely well. Reports of good crops are coming in from all quarters, and the travellers are sending in good crops of orders, and, what is more important still, the best of reports for all-around activity in business for the autumn season in every line of trade. Payments have been met all through the season with unusual promptness and there have been few losses from failures or otherwise. The tone of the grocery trade is quite satifactory both to wholesalers and retailers.

Flour at present is very firm and stocks in the hands of jobbers are very low. For some time both retailers and jobbers have bought very sparingly—a condition which seems to have prevailed generally—and now when all want to stock up for the autumn trade, the mills being rushed with orders, are quoting an advance of 10 to 20 cents. This will, no doubt, affect the local market eventually.

Cornmeal is at an advance of 10c. Rolled oats and oatmeal are easier and declines are noted, though the prices are only nominal until the full report of oat and corn crops is made up. Present prospects are for lower quotations in both. Feeds, which have been running high, are quoted down $1.00.

Oats are quoted at 45 to 50c.; potatoes, 45c.; hay, $10.50, somewhat lower than at this season last year. Barrelled pork is up about 50c. per bbl. Beans are easier in price on account of good crop reports. Sugars remain unchanged. Molasses, if anything, are firmer, but no change locally. For the latter there is a good demand, Canned goods are unchanged locally, but packers' quotations are firmer. Heavy beef is now coming in readily and is quoted at $9 to $9.50. Butter is firmer, owing to a good demand for export to Great Britain and a reported advance there of one shilling. Cheese is running at 9¼ to 9¾c. for August. September is held by the factories for 10c.

As in Nova Scotia, the fish question in Newfoundland is becoming a serious one. As noted last week, the price in the Ancient Colony has been cut very low. A week ago a meeting was held by the fish exporters in St. John's to consider the situation, and prices were fixed for the various export fish, all of which are very much lower than last season. This is affecting the market here, as Newfoundland fish is being sent to Halifax instead of exporting direct, or selling to the regular exporters there. "West India" cod is now quoted in Newfoundland at $2.00 for small, $3 40 for large; merchantable cod, $3.60 to $4.00; haddock and ling, $2.40. Cod oil has also declined in Newfoundland and is quoted at, in oak casks, $75.00; in soft wood, $74.00.

A meeting of the Maritime Grocers' Guild was held here last week, but it is not possible to obtain information of the doings of that body. Trade matters were talked over, ideas were interchanged, and the meeting is said to have been a most satisfactory one. Among those present were S. S. DeForest, St. John; C. H. Peters, St. John; A. J. Teed, St. Stephen; S. A. Jones, St. John. C. H. Peters was elected president and H. G. Bauld, of Halifax, vice-president.

WINNIPEG'S FRUIT SUPPLY.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—On page 20 of your valuable publication received to-day, I notice an item re Manitoba fruit requirements, in which there are two statements made, both of which are misleading.

In the first I am made to appear as the recipient of the honor of having had a banquet tendered me. It is painful to have to deny this, but candor compels me to say that the honor was done to Messrs. Metcalf and Palmer, representing the British Columbian fruit growers. I had the very great pleasure of being present, however, as a guest of the Winnipeg Fruit Exchange. Being called on for some remarks, I stated the facts you refer to in the article mentioned, but not precisely in the same way.

What I said was this: That the value of the fruit imported, and on which duty was paid during the last fiscal year at the port of Winnipeg, amounted to the sum of $168,000. This does not take into account the fruit arriving from British Columbia or from Ontario, nor of the oranges or lemons purchased at the auction sales at Montreal, so that the actual value of fruit handled and consumed in Winnipeg in the course of a year, will be much larger than the sum of $168,000 as given by you.

I notice that your correspondent here intimates that it will be near the $1,000,000 mark, a statement that I see no reason to dispute.

J. J. PHILP,

Dominion Fruit Inspector for Manitoba and Northwest Territories.

FRUIT CROP GOSSIP.

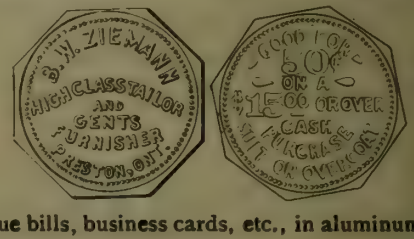
ONE of the largest orchards in Quebec is that possessed by J. E. P. Racicot, of Hull. This orchard is situated at Ste. Pie, Bagot county, and contains 5,000 apple trees. The yield this year was 600 bbls., but, as the orchard is yet young, a far greater crop is expected in a few years.



British Columbia is bound to make a reputation as a fruit-growing Province, and is making every effort not to be outrivalled by Ontario. By producing a second crop of berries the latter has, by no means, distanced her sister Province of the West, in which many fruit dealers are disposing of their second crop of strawberries.

According to exchanges from Quebec, the quality and quantity of apples this year in that Province is much above the average. Many large shipments are being made from both Quebec and Montreal. The steamer Tunisian, which sailed on September 27, carried no less than 12,000 bbls. of Canadian apples, which, with other products, made one of the largest freight cargoes taken out of Montreal this year.

The apples shipped to England are arriving in good condition, and the best quality is bringing $2.25 per bbl. R. W. Shepherd, manager of the Ottawa Navigation Co., who possesses one of the finest apple orchards, recently made an experiment in shipping by cold storage a cargo of Duchess apples to England, and had the satisfaction to find that they arrived in perfect condition and netted him $2.25 per bbl.

BUSINESS AND ITS MANAGEMENT.

APPLY YOUR KNOWLEDGE.

WHEN you think a scheme is good for any other place than yours, it is proof that you can use some portion of that scheme for your own business or it would not have met with your approval, remarks Drygoodsman and General Merchant. If a clerk thinks that a certain bit of advice would be a mighty good thing if he were in some other position, he can make up his mind that it is at once applicable to him or he would not have such an opinion.

This attitude of thinking matters do not apply personally gets a great many people into trouble, or rather allows a great many people to fall into ways the otherwise would not fall into. Too many people about a store are always ready to think a correction or a suggestion is not meant for them, but is applicable to the rest of the force.

The clerk may read of the conduct of business in big department stores, or some section of the country where conditions require different methods than will apply to his work, and he immediately fails to find where such a thing is applicable to him. It is applicable every time, if he will think over his own conditions and work the idea to his needs.

The head of a small house thinks that matters which are of vital importance to big concerns need not fit his case in the slightest particular, but he has only to think that all business is alike with the exception of size and the changes in demands for attention and details which the different sizes require.

For the good of every business it behooves all connected with it to keep eyes open every minute for something that can be applied to its workings. It makes no difference where it comes from, so long as it is something that can be applied to the business either directly or after changes. Store people are apt to think that ideas for their uses can be obtained only from sources that have some sort of connection with their kind of business. While it is a fact that such sources will furnish the quickest and most readily adapted ideas, it is also a fact that some of the best ideas of trade and the handling of business are gathered from sources that are almost entirely foreign to store life.

WHY THE NEW ONES SUCCEEDS.

The retailer who has plugged along in the most honorable sort of a way for many years sometimes finds that the trade of his town or section goes to a new man who seems to do things in a way that calls people to him. The old retailer does not understand that the new man is just as square and honest and treats the people in just as good a manner. He is apt to think that some underhanded method is being attempted and bewails the fact that shall put the faithful and honest man in the rear of the procession while the smart one gets in the lead through fooling the people, or something of that sort.

The clerk watches the progress of the new fellows who come into the business and finds one who seems to get along faster than any of the others. The fast one gets next to the best customers and seems able to sell goods that no one else in the store can sell in the same way or the same quantity. The young fellow meets the approval of the firm and begins to go past the other fellows who have been so long in the ruts of doing the things that seem easiest.

The advancement is made because of the manner in which the young man catches hold of everything that can push forward the business. He is the fellow who gets a business of his own sooner than anyone else in the store.

BRIGHT FELLOWS ARE WANTED

Why is it that the demand is so great for fellows who are determined to make a go of whatever they take hold? It is because there are so many who get up in the morning and go to bed at night, in the meantime doing their work because it has to be done and not because they want to do it or because they are trying to do it in some newer and better manner.

Every line of trade at the present time is demanding men who can go ahead with everything placed in their charge and be depended upon to get all there is out of it. Too many are asking for the good things and are either not able to give the work demanded or are not willing to do more than is actually required.

Every man who will go at it with a will to apply whatever he sees in some way to the work which confronts him every day and make a success out of it will soon find the place he now has too small for him and another opening ahead. If he is in business for himself he will see where every day he is making a better thing out of his opportunities and the trade is coming his way.

It pays to keep your head working all the time.

FOLLOWING THE FAIRS.

The E. W. Gillett Co. Limited are doing extensive advertising at all the prominent exhibitions and fairs in Ontario. They were in evidence at the Toronto and London Fairs, and during the past week made a good show at Brantford. This week the South Waterloo Fair at Galt is being attended and the great fair at Markham. Next week Brampton and Berlin will receive the exhibit. The work in connection with advertising "Magic" baking powder, "Gillett's Lye," "Royal Yeast" and the other well-known sundries is being looked after by J. F. Holden, the Western Ontario representative, and W. H. Seyler, sales manager, and that the merits of the goods are being thoroughly explained to the public goes without saying by all who know these hustlers.

A GROCER'S SUICIDE.

Henri Beland, a former grocer of Montreal, who was well known in that city, died by his own hand on September 25. After taking breakfast with his wife and a few others at his boarding house, he went upstairs, and shortly afterwards two loud reports were heard. On reaching his room the door was found to be locked. When opened, Mr. Beland was discovered sitting on a sofa, a gun at his feet, his face shattered beyond recognition. He was taken to the Notre Dame Hospital, but died in a few hours.

Of late years Mr. Beland had been employed as bookkeeper by J. B. Rolland & Fils, printers and stationers. The officials of that firm state that he had some dispute with the company a few days before, and had been despondent ever since. On Wednesday, the day before his death, he returned to the office and fixed up all the books and accounts.

MANUFACTURERS AND THEIR SELLING METHODS.

By "CANADIAN TRADE."

GOD in His providence has made bountiful provision for the wants of every living creature. With advancement in civilization has come increased requirements and desires for better surroundings.

He has so placed the provision to meet our wants, that investigation and intelligent work are necessary to obtain them. All things have a beginning. It is from the small that the larger is developed. It is this process of development that has called into existence the manufacturer from the humble handworkers, etc., of the various trades to the large manufactory well equipped with machinery. The manufacturer has to obtain materials from other sources, either from the mine, forest, soil or animal kingdom, so only forms a link in the chain of providing for the public wants.

Farmers, when living close to centres of population, can, and do market many of their products. I have noticed that the most shiftless farmer and his better-half come, as a rule, oftenest to the market, thereby neglecting duties at home. Accidents happen; cattle get into and destroy a grain field, etc., in their absence. His neighbor who stays at home and looks after the daily requirements conducts his farm to obtain the best results. When he goes to market it is with a full load, and while there he contracts to sell what he has for sale.

The point I wish to make is that the manufacturer can market his own goods directly to the customer in a limited way, but that he would obtain better results by giving attention to the improvement of his methods of manufacturing and more largely leave the question of distribution to the wholesaler and retailer.

The head of a large manufacturing concern, unsolicited, recently made the statement to me that a wholesale jobber could market goods cheaper than a manufacturer. The jobber collects his goods from many sources, and offers a larger variety to his customers. The retailer can get from one source a larger variety of goods, which is often quite a saving in freight and trips to the station for goods. It makes fewer accounts for the retailer to look after, and to provide for the payments in remitting, etc. In Eastern Ontario competition between manufacturers and jobbers divides up accounts, and is largely accountable for the pressure to book orders long in advance of the season for which they are required. The result is often that a dealer carries, when he can ill-afford to do so, stock from one season to another, with the probability of it deteriorating in value in so doing, both by lying around and from preventing newer and more desirable goods taking their place. Jobbers could afford to handle lines on smaller margins if they had not to divide up the trade with the manufacturer. Competition between jobbers would regulate prices. On the other hand, manufacturers having the selling of the goods off their hands, the expense of disposing of them could go towards reducing price and enabling them to meet competition. Some manufacturers have recognized this and have a fixed price at which goods will be sold to the retail trade, and provision made for the cancelling of commission allowed the jobber if he breaks prices.

AN INCIDENT IN THE LIFE OF A WESTERN TRAVELLER.

Samuel Vila, representing James Turner & Co., in the Northwest, sends them a photo showing how they cross rivers in Alberta in flood time. He also writes the following re the photo:

Mr. Vila's dangerous journey, while the "boys" are waiting to see if he will drop in.

"I am mailing you a small photo taken by one of my friends on our famous hand-car trip from Nanton to Calgary in July last. It shows the railway bridge across Sheep Creek, the only method of crossing this creek, the traffic bridge having been washed out. We left our hand-car from Nanton there, and secured another, as the section foreman positively refused to ride or run across by pushing it or to allow us to do so.

"The photo does not enable one to realize what bad shape the approach to the bridge was in. You can see how the superstructure is sinking on the right-hand side of the photo. The main current and force of the river left its old bed under the bridge and washed out all the approach, so that where I am in the middle is the lowest part of a practical but unintentional suspension bridge, all hanging merely by the fastenings (fish plates) from one rail to the other, the ties being suspended from the rails by the spikes. The reason one had to hang onto the rail as illustrated was that owing to the ties being old and spongy, and every once and a while, as you will see by vacancies, as soon as one was stepped on it would drop (15 feet) into the river, and the only way of saving yourself was to hang onto the rail."

COAST VIEW ON SALMON.

Commenting on the salmon situation on the Coast, with particular reference to the Alaska pack, The Seattle Trade Register in its current issue says: "Jobbers report the market condition on salmon as somewhat improving, although the demand is not as heavy as it ought to be at this time of the year. The nominal advance of 5c. per dozen made by The P. P. & N. Co. last week has not been followed by other jobbers. Current prices on sockeyes remain where they were a week ago, while Alaska are a little firmer at 95c.

"Considerable feeling was created among salmon dealers by the interview of Col. H. M. Kutchin, special agent for the Treasury Department, which appeared in The P.-I. last saturday morning. It was misleading altogether, and either Col. Kutchin was wilfully misquoted in order to get up a sensational, yellow-paper article, or else the Colonel attempted to air himself on a subject with which he is not at all familiar. If Col. Kutchin fathers that interview in The P.-I., he has grossly misstated facts, the result of which will be to fool many buyers not well posted on the situation to defer buying and cause them to wait for a time when prices must necessarily be higher by reason of the actual shortage that will prevail. If Col. Kutchin intended to confine his remarks to the pack of Alaska alone, then to that extent he was correct in saying that it would exceed that of last year, but the tenor of the whole article appears to have been written in malice and so twisted with inuendoes as to make it appear that the many authentic reports published in The Trade Register and other trade papers had been gotten up for stock-jobbing purposes exclusively in the interest of salmon brokers, in order to boom the prices and keep them up on false representations during the season of 1902-1903.

"The estimated pack to date is roughly as follows:

| | Cases. |
|---|---|
| Alaska | 2,400,000 |
| Fraser River | 282,630 |
| Skeena River | 180,000 |
| Rivers Inlet | 80,000 |
| Naas and other B. C. | 35,000 |
| Puget Sound—sockeye | 318 800 |
| Columbia River | 275,000 |
| Total | 3,571,430 |

"Estimating the Sound fall pack at 140,000, the Washington coast at 50,000, the Columbia River fall at 125,000 and California at 11,000 cases, this would make a total 1902 pack of 3,897,430 cases, or 1,127,108 cases less than the total 1901 pack."

Rice and its Cultivation in Japan.

AMONG all the industries and commerce of Japan no one thing figures so largely as rice, hence its cultivation is the most important factor in agriculture. It is impossible, says a writer in The Louisiana Planter and Sugar Manufacturer, for one who has never lived in the country to fully understand the value of the services of the farmer, and to what extent he contributes to the success of commercial life. If he did nothing but furnish rice and rice-straw he would more than measure up to his share of contributions to commerce. Rice itself is used for a greater variety of purposes than any other food. Millions of bushels are consumed in the preparation of the national drink, called sake. The amount may be understood when it is known that 32 per cent. of the entire national income is derived from the amount used in this manner. Rice-flour is used in great quantities in the preparation of sweets in common use among all classes. The strongest paper and much writing material is also made from rice-straw, which furnishes supplies for endless industries. Matting for beds is padded with its longest stalks, horses and bullocks are shod with a poorer grade, houses thatched, rope manufactured, sandals woven, etc. The great variety of uses make the rice crop the most important feature of farming. Hence it is that more time is given to its complete cultivation than to all other crops combined. Two conditions are indispensable to success in rice-growing—rich soil and plenty of water. Terrace planting figures largely in farming, otherwise there would be only a small per cent. of cultivated land. The terraces are the work of uncounted generations, and the labor invested in beautifying the hillsides can never be estimated. All the stones, gathered by hand from the ground have been used to build up and make strong the edge of each terrace to secure it against floods or landslides. In the construction of these great care has been taken to provide for water supply, either by turning the tide of some natural watercourse or leaving a place at the top of the highest terrace where water may be conserved against a time when there may not be a generous rainfall. Usually the sides of this reservoir are walled in by the stonework so common in Japan, a feature of striking beauty wherever it is found. From either this or some other source the water courses very slowly from bed to bed, flooding the small sections included within the miniature dykes, until the whole surface is softened. Then it is that the very trying preparation of each small field begins. It some places a bullock is used with a plough, and as a second process the space is again covered with a harrow, which is only a row of heavy spikes driven into a piece of wood and attached to the bullock by ropes. More frequently the work is done with a hoe, and the labor does not cease until the entire bed is reduced to a muddy paste. Nothing could be more praiseworthy than the manner—and cheerful manner at that—in which the farmer, and usually the entire family of workable age, including wife and daughters, set about a task unknown to women in other parts. These flooded places very soon become the home of every sort of water creature known in this mild clime. Water-snakes wriggle their slim bodies through the liquid mass, frogs and lizards seem to enter a contest to see which will perform the greatest number of antics around the ankles and over the feet of the farm hands, while leeches demonstrate the clinging tendency of their nature by retaining a fond hold of any part of the body exposed to an attack. It is a common sight to see hundreds of women wading about in these watery, muddy fields, a foot deep in the slush; in fact, millions of them spend days at a time in such a plight during the planting season.

Rice is planted in rows for the same reason the other grains are; as this necessitates transplanting, the first sowing of the seed is broadcasted in small seed-beds. Nothing is done by way of cultivation until the sprouts are ready to be placed in the prepared soil, with the exception of covering the seed with some sort of quick fertilizer; frequently rice straw sprinkled with lime does the work. During the time while the seed is sprouting and obtaining sufficient growth to be transplanted, the beds are watched with great care during the day, and at night, little lamps, protected from the wind by old tin cans, are placed in the beds to frighten away pests of any sort that might destroy the young grain. The time of transplanting is the signal to draft everyone into service. If there are not enough hands among the farmer's family outsiders are engaged. Men earn twenty cents a day and their board, while the women, after a time-honored custom in more civilized lands, receive 25 per cent. less for the same amount of work, done side by side with men in the same field. The shoots are pulled up by the roots, tied into small bunches, and thrown into the planting beds. A line is stretched from side to side, which is followed in setting the rows, that they may remain regular. Then it is that the hands wade in, regardless of all things. A bunch of young plants is held in one hand, the other being used in planting. Several spears are gathered from the bunch, and with these between the thumb and first finger the arm is thrust down almost to the elbow to reach the firmer soil, where the plants are set to take deep root for summer growth. The planting takes place during the rainy season, when the rainfall is supposed to be sufficient to keep the beds properly flooded. Last season most of the planting was done with the rain simply pouring down for days at a time. Rain does not interfere with the operations in the least, for the rice-straw is put to service in making raincoats. The long spears are woven close together in a band large enough to go around the waist. The band of a second piece fits the neck. When the rain strikes the straw it runs off over the smooth surface. This rice-straw coat is a great protection to the wearer. In addito this the bamboo hats are about half as large as an umbrella. These are really made to prevent injury by the sun, but are also useful during the rains. If the rainfall fails, as it sometimes does, then the heavy work is greatly increased, for frequently the fields are watered by hand. A water-wheel is a common means of irrigating the fields from a flowing stream or canal. The wheel is operated by treading it. A heavy pole is thrust deep into the ground, and a man destitute of clothing, save a loin-cloth, mounts the wheel, and hanging to the pole with an iron grip his feet fly from spoke to spoke with such rapidity that electricity seems an unnecessary force. This throws the water into furrows, and it quickly floods the bed. Finding a small outlet, it slowly courses from one section of the field to the other, but constant treading is necessary in order to keep up the supply. It is doubtful if the genius of man has ever devised so many modes of irrigation as are found in Japan. This is, doubtless, due to the knowledge of the vast interests at stake in the failure of a rice crop. It is a question whether the people could ever be induced to change their system, as it has obtained for several thousand years, even if they knew modern methods greatly decreased toil.

The rice-plant forms a single blossoming ear, containing from 30 to 60 grains, and when developed to the fullest, frequently 100 grains are found. In a good season the yield is 40 bushels to the acre, but much depends on the rains. There are about 200 species of the grain, some of which ripen early and some late.

Borden's Brands of Condensed Milk and Evaporated Cream at Canadian Prices.

We beg to announce that we have established a branch factory at Ingersoll, Ont., and that we are now prepared to fill all orders for the Canadian trade promptly, and at considerably reduced prices, owing to the establishment of the Canadian Branch. Our Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, Gold Seal Brand Condensed Milk and Peerless Brand Evaporated Cream, unsweetened, can be obtained through our local representatives.

BORDEN'S CONDENSED MILK CO.

Originators of Condensed Milk. Established 1857.

Selling representatives in Canada: F. W. Hudson & Co., Toronto. W. H. Dunn, Montreal. Erb & Rankin, Halifax. W. S. Clawson & Co., St. John, N.B., also Shallcross, Macaulay & Co., Victoria and Vancouver, B.C.

is our newest and most seasonable biscuit. You'll want it for your oyster customers during the winter. It's a light, crisp, tasty biscuit, highly commended by particular people who have used and are still using them. A necessary adjunct to oyster stews, soups, scollops, etc. Better order some now. You won't have to "push" them. They will be in good demand all through the "R" months.

PROPOSED GERMAN TARIFF ON FOOD STUFFS.

By J. F. MONAGHAN, United States Consul at Chemnitz.

THE proposed tariff law on food stuffs has just had its first reading before the German Tariff Commission. While the German Government itself had in mind a decided increase in the price of food stuffs—as indicated by its proposed recommendations upon the new tariff—the commission, which is composed mainly of Agrarians, has drawn up a schedule of duties which presents an extreme advance even over these recommendations. The following table shows the tariff on food stuffs in force at the present time, that recommended by the Government, and that determined upon by the Tariff Commission :

| Article. | Present tariff. | Government proposition. | Tariff commission. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Rye | $ 0 83 | $ 1 43 | $ 1 67 |
| Wheat | 83 | 1 55 | 1 79 |
| Barley | 48 | 95 | 2 14 |
| Buckwheat | 48 | 1 43 | 1 67 |
| Cereal flour | 1 79 | 3 21 | 4 46 |
| Rice | 95 | 3 81 | 4 46 |
| Pearl barley and oatmeal | 1 74 | 3 81 | 4 46 |
| Starch | Free. | 3 81 | 4 28 |
| Vermicelli | Free. | 4 76 | 5 95 |
| Oleomargarine | Free. | 7 14 | 19 04 |
| Potatoes | Free. | Free. | 60 |
| Vegetables | Free. | Free. | 48 |
| Fruits, packed | Free. | 1 43 | 2 38 |
| Strawberries | Free. | 3 57 | 4 76 |
| Pork | Free. | 7 14 | 10 71 |
| Prepared | $3 57 to 4 05 | 8 33 | 14 28 |
| Bacon | Free. | Free. | 8 57 |
| Sausages | 4 05 | 10 71 | 16 66 |
| Game | Free. | 10 71 | 16 66 |

The above figures are based upon a unit of 100 kilograms, or 220.46 pounds.

In the case of five articles, the Tariff Commissiom deems the proposed increase recommended by the Government sufficient, namely :

| Article. | Present tariff. | Government proposition. |
|---|---|---|
| Lard | $2 38 | $2 08 |
| Butter | 3 81 | 7 14 |
| Cheese | 4 76 | 4 76 |
| Eggs | 48 | 1 43 |
| Linseed and rapeseed oil | Free. | 2 86 |

The Agrarians claim that secret understandings between the guilds of butchers and bakers are responsible for the high prices. The Butchers' Guild, of Essen, has just made public the following statement :

In consequence of the continued rise in the price of pork and beef, which has been obtaining for a period of two years, and does not seem to have reached its climax, we are compelled to raise the price of prepared meats and sausages.

In order to dispel the erroneous opinion on the part of the public that the butchers are responsible for the advance in prices, we, the undersigned guild, declare that this is due to the scarcity of live stock, brought about by the closing of the German Empire to the importation of live stock from the more abundantly supplied neighboring States ; for it is a matter of general knowledge that the German agricultural industry cannot cover the home demand for live stock. A change in the price of food stuffs can, therefore, not be expected until the tariff barriers have once more been removed.

MODERN TENDENCIES.

THE exposition of the company idea is perhaps the most striking tendency observable in retail grocerdom of late, but, as we have pointed out in earlier issues, it is but a recrudescence or revival of the chain-store system which years ago took root in the tea and coffee branch, and opened a way for a number of dealers to amass great wealth, says Merchants' Review.

We do not take much stock in the gloomy predictions of the people who see no future for the independent grocer because of the growth of chain-store systems. Perhaps the independent dealer will become a chain-store grocer himself. We somehow feel that the words of the poet, with a slight change, may properly be applied to some of the latter-day forms of competition, to wit :

Big combines may flourish or may fade,
A breath may kill them as a breath has made.

Good management may enable the companies to escape the perils of the merchant's career, and poor management may bring the proudest of them to the dust. They are not more nor less vulnerable than the independent dealers.

Another tendency not without significance is revealed by the growing practice among wholesale grocers to push a general brand or trade mark to the front. This trade mark, covering as it may dozens of different food products, all of superior quality, is taking the places of the separate brands for canned goods, syrups, teas, salt, fish, cereals, provisions and many other lines of goods, which were so diverse in sound and suggestiveness that a headache would almost result from the first attempt to memorize the brands. One line of goods may have been packed under a name taken from a florist's catalogue, another may have borne a label suggestive of crusading times, another simply the firm name, and so on. In the case of goods that would compete with some highly popular proprietary brand it was a not uncommon practice to adopt a firm brand suggestive of the older name ; in this way scores of similarly-named brands of coffee found a market.

Still another tendency in the grocery trade threatens the very existence of some of the retail grocers' associations. We allude to the manner in which the buying exchanges are spreading among association dealers. These dealers have little time for meetings or festive occasions, and when the duties of buying exchange membership have been performed and the exchange picnic and ball have been attended, the grocer feels that he has done enough.

This drawback has been plainly seen for some time ; indeed, it was foreseen by The Review years ago. The allegiance of the associated grocers cannot be divided without dire consequences to one or the other of the organizations, and to combine the two forms of co-operation is to invite the possibility of the original organization becoming unwieldy and alienating a class of dealers whom it is desirable for trade unions to attract.

To the Dealers.

We have not advanced the price of our tobaccos. Amber Smoking Tobacco, Bobs, Currency and Fair Play Chewing Tobaccos are the same size and price to the consumer as formerly. We have also extended the time for the redemption of Snowshoe Tags to January 1st, 1904.

EVERY POUND OF CEYLON TEA SOLD OVER YOUR COUNTER IS THE MOST VALUABLE ASSISTANT YOU CAN EMPLOY FOR THE PURPOSE OF WINNING AND HANGING ON TO YOUR TEA TRADE.

That competition is keener than it ever was is an acknowledged fact. Every opportunity offered for offsetting competition is grasped by the aggressive, up-to-date retailer. There are many opportunities offered. There is none better than by selling that ever-pleasing, fragrant, delicious tea — Ceylon Tea. It has always proven itself a true and faithful friend of every grocer who has sold it It helps him make friends, and not only to make them, but to hang on to them. Figures prove conclusively that Ceylon Tea is in greater demand than any other, due to the fact that people like it better than any other.

OUR TRADE A MARK

The Value of Annealing.

Annealing is the most costly step of mantle making—consequently a cheap mantle cannot be properly annealed—That is the reason a cheap mantle caves in like this if you lay it on its side, after burning off the coating—Try one—They injure your trade.

Mantles branded A are thoroughly annealed over pressure gas—They fit the burner—They don't shrink—They stand up this way—They are reliable—They help your trade.

—We are the sole manufacturers of A mantles.
—Write us if you are interested.

Popular Opinion.

It won't pay you to go against Popular Opinion. He's the largest buyer of cigars on earth, and when Popular Opinion says a thing is "right," he's going to get that thing every time he wants it. He has picked out as being the best three-for-a-quarter smokes in Canada, and if he can't get them from you, he'll slip in somewhere else and get 'em. They have the largest sale of any cigar in the Dominion, and it's all on account of Popular Opinion—and quality of course.

GEO. E. TUCKETT & SON CO., Limited, HAMILTON.

He Comes Back For More.

The man you sell my cigars to usually comes back for more. That's because he finds that my cigars are a better value for the money than he ever found before. The retailers who buy from me know this, and they come back to me for more, regularly.

It is because I know they will do so that I can afford to make my famous trial offer, which I will tell you all about if you ask me.

THE ADVERTISING ARENA.

ADVERTISING is by no means confined to newspaper publicity, and a merchant should not forget this important point. A man's correspondence is a great indication of what his business is like. Even if he cannot afford a typewriter, he should at least see that his letters are neatly written and that his letter-head is well printed. This is an indirect form of advertising. Then, there is the tying-up of parcels. If this department is not carefully handled. an air of sloveliness may creep into the business which will tend to keep some customers away. Then, again, if a delivery wagon be used, it should be kept spick and span, both as regards the wagon and harness. A smart-looking turnout is sure to create a favorable impression in the minds of the public. Cleanliness, of course, is always deserving of praise, and if a customer feels that his or her purchases are handled carefully, he will be more inclined to patronize the shop that looks after this matter.

In making a contract with a newspaper it often pays to have a clause inserted to the effect that, during the period the contract runs, the advertiser is at liberty to use space between certain limits. That is, there is a maximum and a minimum space, which he can use at will. Very often it is unnecessary to use a large space, as, for instance, after Christmas or after a country fair. At such times it is economy to be able to resort to a smaller space at a lower price. No publisher is likely to repudiate a contract which provides for the use at will by his client of one of three spaces.

Good business methods are based upon the ability to keep track of public opinion regarding merchandise and follow it with as few mistakes as possible. Good advertising is simply the application of the same methods to the exploiting of that merchandise. Therefore, the successful merchant is usually successful in advertising. He may lack the ability to write ads., but his knowledge of what the public wants or does not want is of far more importance to his advertising than the mere literary work. The trained ad-writer can set forth his wares in the best light, using his knowledge of display, mediums, argument and pictures to let the public know what the merchant has in stock, but the knowledge of the public's likes and dislikes is the largest factor in the campaign. Not all the word-juggling in the world will induce it to buy what it does not want, nor will any lack of advertising keep it from buying what it does want. Advertising simply facilitates the work of bringing merchant and buyer together.—Printers' Ink.

Such an amazing amount of literature is published nowadays about advertising, in which its advantages are made to transcend every other consideration, that one cannot blame a merchant if he jumps to the conclusion that returns to advertising are as certain as dividends on Bank of England stock. There is nowadays so much excellent advertising done, that it becomes every day more difficult to write convincing ads. This is not said to discourage would-be advertisers, but merely to warn them not to build their hopes too high. Everybody knows that advertising has paid many who have tried it. There is no reason why others should not derive advantages from it as well. Only in starting an advertising campaign, don't expect too much at first. Perseverance in it, as in every branch of business, is requisite to success.

Ask an intelligent inhabitant of any town who is the leading grocer or the leading drygoodsman or hardware merchant in that town and it will usually be found that it is the man with the greatest publicity. It may be in some cases that the publicity has come from the business, while in other cases it may be that the business has sprung from the publicity. (By publicity is not necessarily meant newspaper advertising, but everything about the business which makes it known to the people. The little corner store out on the border of the town is known to but a few people in comparison with the handsome downtown store. The latter has the greatest publicity.) The point is that business and publicity go hand-in-hand, and if the two are so guided and directed as to work in harmony, great results are certain to follow. There should be progress in both departments. The business may be pushed on with no conscious thought of the publicity,but such progress is slow in comparison with what it might be were the publicity watched as well.

"Why don't you trade with me?" said a close-fisted merchant to a customer the other day. "Because," replied the customer, "you have never asked me. I have looked through all the papers for an invitation in the shape of an advertisement, but in vain. I never go where I am not wanted." The time to put forth special efforts is the time when people will not buy unless specially urged to do so. It is a mistaken idea to sit still in dull seasons; the time to push business is when business needs pushing. It stands to reason that when things are lively people are going to buy anyway, and it takes less efforts to secure patronage, but the merchant who hesitates to put forth advertising expenditures in dull seasons is only adding to his burden, for instead of judiciously expending money in advertising to induce people to buy, he sits idle, letting regular expenses run on and hoping when the busy season does come along to catch up the loss.

SHIPMENTS THROUGH CANADIAN SEAPORTS.

W. S. FISHER, St. John, N.B., in Industrial Advocate.

PERMIT me to elaborate more fully my views in re the resolution on transportation matters offered at the recent Maritime Board of Trade meeting at Sydney. I would say that in my opinion there is no subject of greater importance to Canadians than this, and I hope the matter may be taken up and discussed, especially with reference to the tremendous increase in Canadian trade through American ports.

With the remarkable increase in the volume of imports and exports that has taken place within a few years and with the rapid increase that is now going on in the development of the area of cultivated lands, especially in the Northwest, as well as in the extension of our mining and industrial enterprises, we shall shortly find ourselves face to face with the problem of transporting this vastly increased tonnage through Canadian channels.

Notwithstanding the apparently successful efforts that have been made during the past seven or eight years to divert the imports and exports of Canada from foreign routes to our own, the unfortunate fact remains that we have not by any means accomplished what we should have done; as, while the volume of traffic through Canadian channels has grown, it has not kept pace with the total increase in trade, as evidence of which I submit the following figures as given by the Canadian Statistical Department:

| | 1897. | 1901. | Increase in round figures in four years. Per cent. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Total import and export trade of Canada..... | $257,168,000 | $386,903,000 | 50 |
| Deduct the import and export trade with the U. S. A..... | 111,022,000 | 182,867,000 | 65 |
| Balance being total oversea trade ..... | 146,146,000 | 204,036,000 | 39 |
| Canadian imports and exports through U.S.A. ports ..... | 31,983,000 | 59,793,000 | 80 |

It will thus be seen that the oversea imports and exports of Canada through American seaports have increased over 80 per cent. in four years, as compared with a total import and export trade with other countries than the United States of only 39 per cent.

The best authorities seem to agree in feeling that the growing period for Canada is only just getting well under way and that the next ten years will show an increase in our exportable products of at least five fold.

Mr. Robert Meighen, president of The Lake of the Woods Milling Company, on his return from a recent trip to the Northwest, stated that he was bold enough to predict that within five years the Northwest would grow wheat enough to supply the British Empire.

Presuming that to be an extremely optimistic view, it is safe to say that our trade during the next few years is bound to develop enormously, and if our present shipping facilities are so utterly inadequate (as the figures above given would seem to indicate) to handle the present volume of trade, where shall we be if within a few years this is increased to even twice as much? The answer is not hard to find: unless in the meantime every nerve is strained to place our highways, whether on land or sea, in a position to handle this increased traffic.

The effort to do this should include not only provision for fast freight and passenger steamers, but the proper protection and equipment of our waterways, coastlines and harbors, and the placing of these in a position so that the largest traffic may be handled safely, speedily and economically through them.

It seems to me that it would be nothing short of a national calamity if, through any lack on the part of the Government of the country, conditions should arise, or be allowed to exist, whereby the precedence of the St. Lawrence route as the great national highway for Canadian commerce during the season of open navigation should be menaced or jeopardized. With equal force the same remarks apply to the Maritime Province ports where the traffic must be handled during the winter season, and no effort should be spared by the Government and the people of this Dominion whereby the great and growing stream of Canadian trade shall be conserved and kept within the bounds of our own country.

Nothing less than this should be the aim of every Canadian and by this means we can do more to build up national sentiment and remove sectionalism, and make every Canadian feel that no matter whether he is in the east or the west, the interests of the whole country are equally his and that it is each for all and all for each.

Our cousins to the south have shown us an example of this by the protection afforded to everything American. Let us be wise and follow along the lines of advancement which they have adopted under somewhat similar circumstances with such good results.

A CRITICISM OF BUSINESS METHODS.

Editor CANADIAN GROCER,—In the preceding articles of this series I endeavored to point out that manufacturers should confine their lines of manufacture to as few lines as possible, and that the distribution to the retail trade should be largely left in the hands of the wholesalers.

Both manufacturers and wholesalers should recognize that retailers are entitled to the local trade, including public institutions, the rule being that unless bought for sale again the trade should go to the retailer.

We all have to live. The interest of all will be better served by recognizing the other man's right to business existence. Any saving a customer makes is often more imaginary than real. What is saved in first cost is lost by the inability to obtain the advice and experience of the local dealer.

A short time ago a general store merchant was in the city. He was opening a new store, and had picked out his dry goods and grocery lines. He came to the hardware house and inquired for the traveller whom he knew and had bought goods through. It was his first meeting with the local salesman; also the proprietor. When solicited to place his orders he would not, remarking: "I am tired buying and will hold for your traveller, as he knows what I want better than I do myself."

A leading Methodist clergyman in a sermon said: "I have as much resaon to thank the clerk or merchant that sells me something that I require as he has to thank me for my money. He has rendered me a service."

Knowledge and experience are factors in business that may be more valuable to the consumer than any saving of dollars and cents in a purchase.

Being connected with the wholesale trade, I could buy many lines for personal and domestic use at wholesale prices, but I do not, for three reasons:

1. I have to lose more time to obtain requirements.

2. I cannot get the personal service.

3. Because I get from the retailer in the quantities that suit my requirements, not as a favor, but as a business transaction.

Neither do I patronize departmental stores. Legitimately conducted they have claims for recognition as distributors of commerce. My living comes from the sale of goods. For advertising purposes, they resort to cutting of prices of staple lines, and often sell at a loss. This demoralizes the sale of that line through reguiar dealers, and renders it difficult to obtain a legitimate profit. It is a line in one business to-day, another to morrow. I reason that the bait is put out expecting to make up on lines that the average customer knows nothing about.

Every self-respecting merchant should use his influence against this method of business and be in favor of legitimately conducted businesses.

You may well ask here: "What have these things to do with developing 'Canadian trade?'" A chain is only as strong as its weakest link. The retailers have rights that should be recognized. Their businesses should not be rendered unprofitable by wrongful competition. They have a place in the distribution of goods to consumers.

Retailers should have a thorough knowledge of their businesses, conducting it to make a living for themselves and those depending on them. Competitors have to live. To down them by cutting prices or other undesirable methods may rebound. Rather become associated in obtaining better results and fighting evils that exists in business. Retailers will find it in their interest to become members of the Retail Associa-

MONTREAL GROCERS MEET.

The regular monthly meeting of the Montreal Grocers' Association, held on Thursday evening, October 2, in the Monument National, was the occasion for the annual election of officers. This and the reading of the treasurer's report occupied practically the whole of the evening, a few small matters being merely touched upon without any material result.

The elections resulted in all the officers of last year being reappointed. The officers for the ensuing year are now as follows :

President—Ald. R. Turner.
1st Vice-President—N. Chartrand.
2nd Vice-President—J. E. Manning.
Treasurer—F. Bigaouette.
Honorary Secretary—M. Lapointe.
Secretary—J. P. Dixon.
Committee of Directors—A. O. Galarneau, H. Macy, J. O. Levesque, J. B. Deschamps, M. Repentigny, P. O'Brien, A. D. Fraser, O. Champagne, H. O. Laniel, P. Daoust, J. Poirier, E. W. Farrell.

The reading of the business report showed the affairs of the association to be in a good condition from a financial point of veiw. The receipts for the year just ended were $1,317.13, and there remained a balance of $514.94 on the right side of the ledger.

THE GROCER'S RESPONSIBILITY.

In the handling of food products a weight of responsibility rests on the grocer. For instance, the health of his customers as well as the pleasing of them must be considered.

In these days of close buying and close competition, the price of an article is by some grocers of prime importance; quality is of little consideration. But are these the successful merchants? Hardly. Take any city, according to population, you will find one, two, three or more grocers who are looked up to as the leading grocers, the successful grocers. What has contributed to their success? Principally quality and neatness. They handle only the best and purest goods, no cheap adulterated imitations of standard articles find entrance into their stores, the best is none too good for their customers, who are willing to pay a fair price for honest goods. This is the reason why so many first-class stores sell Schepp's improved cocoa in packages and Schepp's "Edelweiss" cocoanut.

A GROCER ROBBED.

About 2 o'clock in the morning on Saturday, October 4, the safe of J. B. E. Letellier, wholesale grocer, St. Paul street, Quebec, was blown open by burglars and a small amount of cash, together with promissory notes amounting to $2,000, secured by them.

A resident near-by was awakened by the noise of the explosion and saw four men cross the street from the store. He notified Mr. Letellier, but the burglars made good their escape.

TRADE CHAT.

Messrs. Adams and Stewart of Embro, Ont., purpose establishing an evaporator, vinegar works, etc., in their village.

Mr. Robinson, wholesale grocer, of Hamilton, Bermuda, who visited Toronto recently, stated that Canadians now had a much better market in Bermuda than hitherto, though the great bulk of the trade, of course, goes to the United States. The chief exports of Bermuda are onions, potatoes and lily bulbs, while their imports are mostly manufactured articles.

MAN'S WORK.

No man is born into the world whose work
Is not born with him; there is always work
And tools to work withal for those who will;
And blessed are the horny hands of toil!
The busy world shoves angrily aside
The man who stands with arms akimbo set
Until occasion tells him what to do.
And he who waits to have his task marked out
Shall die and leave his errand unfufilled.

THE PROVISION TRADE.

Toronto's Turnover of Cattle—The Markets—Miscellaneous Notes.

TORONTO'S TURNOVER OF CATTLE.

THE statement of City Commissioner Coatsworth that the cattle market in Toronto caused a turnover annually of $10,000,000 caused some surprise among the rank and file of citizens. They had but little idea of the extent of the cattle business in Toronto. To men in the business the statement was also a surprise, for but few of them had ever figured out the year's total. Since the statement of Mr. Coatsworth several of the larger dealers have looked over his figures, and one and all were of the opinion that the Commissioner's figures were a great deal too low. It was agreed that $12,000,000 instead of $10,000,000 would be nearer the mark. Mr. Coatsworth based his estimate upon the trade of last year. This year's trade will be fully a fourth greater than last year.

|---|---|
| Cattle—174,860 at $50 per head | $ 8,744,000 |
| Sheep—141,277 at $5 each | 706,385 |
| Hogs—153,306 at $7 each | 1,073,142 |
| Calves—8,582 at $4 each | 34,328 |
| Total | $10,556,855 |

William Levack, one of the biggest dealers on the market, says that the Commissioner's averages are away low. The Commissioner approximately values hogs at $800 a car. In many cases this year the value has gone up to $1,300. Cattle were roughly averaged at $1,000 a car, while in many cases the value has gone to $1,500 a car.—Star, Toronto.

OPENING FOR ONTARIO HOGS.

A cablegram from Sydney, Australia, to W. G. Parmelee, Deputy Minister of Trade and Commerce, Ottawa, announces that dressed hogs in cold storage, which are selling at 14 to 16c. per lb. in Australia, have been made free of duty. It is thought that at these figures Western Ontario hog-raisers may be tempted to make some shipments.

THE LARD SITUATION.

The statistical position of lard in the United States has undergone considerable change the past week, and The Chicago Board of Trade Reports show that the visible supply on October 4 was not more than enough to supply the city of New York alone for more than two weeks. Therefore higher figures for lard may be expected in the near future.

GREAT BRITAIN'S LIVE STOCK.

The following is the preliminary statement of the live stock census of Great Britain, compiled from the returns gathered on June 4 1902 :

| | 1902. No. | 1901. No. |
|---|---|---|
| Cows and heifers in milk or in calf | 2,556,126 | 2,602,294 |
| Other cattle, two years and above | 1,332,362 | 1,427,983 |
| Other cattle, one year and under two | 1,385,776 | 1,407,653 |
| Other cattle, under one year | 1,281,712 | 1,325,964 |
| Total of cattle | 6,555,976 | 6,763,894 |
| Ewes kept for breeding | 9,999,171 | 10,161,830 |
| Other sheep, one year and above | 5,523,710 | 5,940,896 |
| Other sheep, under one year | 10,242,825 | 10,274,474 |
| Total of sheep | 25,765,706 | 26,377,200 |
| Sows kept for breeding | 349,000 | 319,724 |
| Other pigs | 1,950,567 | 1,860,201 |
| Total of pigs | 2,299,567 | 2,179,925 |

| Year. | Cattle. | Sheep. | Pigs. |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1892 | 6,944,783 | 28,734,704 | 2,137,859 |
| 1902 | 6,555,976 | 25,765,706 | 2,299,567 |
| Dif. in 1902 | 388,807 | 2,968,998 | 161,708 |

In its review of the above unsatisfactory state of Britain's live stock situation The London Times says :

"The continued increase in the number of cattle which had been in progress from 1894 to 1900, received a check last year which has been followed by a still greater reduction this year. The result is that the total number has receded to less than what it was four years ago. Unfortunately, too, the reduction has affected each one of the four classes into which cattle are divided. The loss in sheep can only be looked upon as disastrous. Not even after the terrible drought of 1893 did the number sink to quite so low a level as has now been touched, for the table shows that this year's total is lower than any in the preceding 10 years. It is, in fact, necessary to go back to the year 1889 to find a smaller number. As with cattle, so in the case of sheep, the loss is distributed over all sections. Pigs, being prolific animals, fluctuate more irregularly in numbers than other sections of live stock. The present total of 2,299,567 is beaten in seven of the preceding 10 years. The subjoined comparison of this year's figures with those of 10 years ago reveals some momentous changes on the decade. In particular, it is disheartening to find that the sheep of Great Britain are now practically 3,000,000 fewer than they were 10 years ago."

VISIBLE STOCKS OF LARD.

The N. K. Fairkank Co., Chicago, advise THE CANADIAN GTOCER as follows : "Our cable advices give the following estimates of the stocks of lard held in Europe and afloat, on October 1, to which we add estimates of former years and stocks in cities named :

PORK PACKERS,

TORONTO, ONT.

PORK-PACKING IN THE WEST.

Since the pork-packing industry commenced a few years ago in Manitoba it has steadily and rapidly increased in proportions. Winnipeg, of course, has been the headquarters of this trade, but of late it has extended to many parts of Manitoba and the West, and, according to those who are competent of passing a sound judgment upon this matter, will soon form one of the staple industries of the West.

One of the pioneers in this industry is J. Y. Griffin & Co., of Winnipeg, who have for some time carried on an extensive business in that city. This company, besides considerably increasing the capacity of their factory in Winnipeg, have decided to open a branch packing-house at Calgary, consisting of two storeys and a basement, 50 x 130 ft. in dimensions, the whole to be of solid stone.

In Calgary, as in Winnipeg, they will also deal extensively in other provisions and products of the farm, such as butter, cheese, poultry, etc., which they expect will find a good outlet in the West. In addition to these two establishments in Winnipeg and Calgary, they have also warehouses in Nelson and Vancouver, where they dispose of surplus produce.

The success of this firm speaks well for the future of hog raising in the West. As in other industries which are but in an incipient condition in Manitoba, it has been found that little more than pluck and perseverance, with a power to adapt the industry to the conditions of the country has succeeded in removing most of the difficulties to be encountered.

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

The hog market during the past week has been somewhat dull, though a slight improvement is noticeable on that of the week previous. Receipts in both hogs and beef have been light while the demand is but fair. Select live hogs have declined another 50c. Lambs have advanced somewhat. We quote as follows: Dressed hogs, $8 25 to $8 75; beef carcasses, $5.25 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $6.00 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.00 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 7 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 6½ to 7c. Select live hogs are worth $6 50 and fat and lights, $6.25 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

The provision market remains steady and prices are unchanged. Quotations follow: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23 50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10c.; plate beef, $15 per 200-lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

In nearly all lines of provisions there has been a fairly active market during the past week. Canadian short cut mess pork, heavy, has been quoted $1 lower by some dealers, and the demand has increased considerably, a good business being done in round lots for the lumber regions. Fresh killed abattoir dressed hogs are still lower in price this week, being quoted from $9.25 to $9 50 per 100 lb. The market is quiet in this line. Hams and bacon have also been moving well at the prices we quote, which are unchanged. Canadian pea-fed bacon has advanced about 2s. on the English market, and higher prices are looked for. We quote: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail. Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ¾c.; 5-lb. tins, ⅞c.; 3-lb. tins, 1c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20 lb. pails, and 11½c. for 60 lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $23.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $25.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14 50 to $15.00 per bbl.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

In fresh beef, receipts, particularly of domestic stock, have been quite large and prices are quite low. Western stock, which is quite largely sold, is firm. Lamb is plentiful. Fresh pork is light and there is an increased demand. In barrelled meats, pork is rather higher, and the demand is much affected by the extreme prices. While beef is not relatively as high, quite full prices rule. Lard is held firm. Large sales of both pure and compound have been made. We quote as follows: Mess pork, $21 to $22 50; clear pork, $23 to $24; plate beef, $14 to $16; domestic beef, 5 to 7c.; Western beef, 7 to 9c.; lamb, 6 to 6½c.; mutton, 5c.; veal 5 to 7c.; pork, 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c.; pails, 12¼c.; compound, tubs, 9¼c.; pails, 9½c.; Fairbank's refined, tubs, 10¼c.; pails, 10½c.

WINNIPEG.

DRESSED MEATS—The market is well supplied with beef and prices are slightly lower, 5¾ to 6½c. per lb. being the present quotations. Mutton is in fair supply at 8c., and lambs, 11½c.

CURED MEATS—The market is high and firm with an active demand. Prices for the week are unchanged. Hams, 15¼ to 15½c.; breakfast bellies, 16c.; backs, 14¾ to 15c.; spiced rolls, short, 12¾c.; long, 13¼c.; smoked shoulders, 11½c.; smoked long clear, 13c.; dry salt long clear 11c.; dry salt backs, 12½c.

SAUSAGES—Pork, 8c.; bologna, 7½c.

LARD—In tierces, 11⅞c.; 50-lb. tubs, $6.05; 20-lb. pails, $2.30.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

TEAS IN NEW YORK.

No additional business of importance was reported transacted in the market for invoices. A fair amount of interest continued to be reported shown by buyers, especially in Foochow oolongs and Pingsuey. Sellers were reported indifferent and held firm for full quoted prices. The line business was moderately active. The buying continued principally for forward deliveries, although there was some demand for prompt deliveries.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 6.

CALIFORNIAN PRUNE CROP.

Mail advices from San Jose, Cal., say of prunes: "It is now estimated that California will produce 120,000,000 lb., of which Santa Clara county will contribute 90,000,000 lb., only 16,000,000 lb less than in 1900, the big-crop year, when the State had 150,000,000 lb. As in the case of last year sizes will run small, with premium for large sizes. Packers report a rush of orders for October."

BREADSTUFFS IN TRINIDAD.

Gordon, Grant & Co., Port-of-Spain, Trinidad, under date of September 21 report as follows in regard to breadstuffs: "Late liberal receipts have fully stocked the market with all items and business at the moment is exceptionally quiet. Both bakers' and extra flour are in fair request, but for supers there is only a languid inquiry and prices on the whole are again slightly easier. Cornmeal is weakening in value and imported bread and crackers are neglected."

VALENCIA RAISIN AUCTION IN LONDON.

The first sales of the season were held on Wednesday, when about 240 tons of Valencia raisins were offered as against 460 tons last year. Previous prices were not quite maintained, ½-boxes realizing 31 to 36s., while medium fruit in ¼-boxes showed a decline of 2 to 3s. per cwt. Fine parcels were few and far between, and found ready buyers at 11 to 46s. The demand, considering the prices ruling, was better than might have been anticipated, but the retail trade evinces a marked disinclination to depart from the extremely cautious policy they have adopted since the commencement of the season. This attitude cannot be regarded as otherwise than correct while the fruit is in its present condition, as, no matter how short the crop may eventually prove to be, or whatever the prices may reach in the future, disappointment is almost inevitable when a comparison is made between the fruit of to-day and the freshly landed fruit of a few weeks hence.—Produce Markets' Review, September 27.

CANNED SALMON IN LIVERPOOL.

Spot business in salmon has settled down into a steady day-to-day trade, buyers who missed getting in at the lowest point of the market contenting themselves with buying as their requirements dictate. The wide difference in prices between Alaska and Fraser goods, coupled with the fact of forward Alaska being offered at just about the same parity as ready goods, causes uncertainty as to the future in the minds of those who have not been able to give more than passing attention to the article.—Produce Markets' Review, September 27.

THE PROBABLE SUGAR OUTPUT.

Willett & Gray say of raw sugar: "It is too early to make close calculations on the probable outturn of the cane crops, but our latest special advices from the principal countries of production indicate a net decrease of about 120,000 tons in the cane sugar crops of the world. The Philippines and Porto Rico will likely give larger crops next season, but Louisiana, Martinique, Argentina, Brazil, Java, Queensland and Mauritius crops are each expected to show a falling off. We estimate the United States and Canada beet sugar crops, however, at 62,000 tons larger than last year's production. As to Cuba, we calculate on an outturn the same as last season."

CURRANTS IN LONDON.

The market for currants continues strong for all qualities except Provincial, which show a slight decline. The quality of later arrivals of this description also shows some little falling off as compared with that of earlier shipments; but, where all is so good, it is somewhat invidious to find fault. In better descriptions, also, there is in recent arrivals a dearth of really fine fruit, but it may be hoped that this deficiency will be remedied in the fairly heavy cargoes now on the way. The general scarcity of the past two or three weeks is now in a fair way to be put an end to, and the heavy October trade—in all probability likely to be heavier than ever this year—will fall upon a well-stocked market at a most reasonable range in prices.—Produce Markets' Review, September 27.

TRINIDAD COCOA MARKET.

Gordon, Grant & Co., Trinidad, under date of September 24, report the cocoa market as follows: "Receipts have been more meagre during the fortnight and will not increase for another week or two. Light pickings are being made on some planations, but the regular crop will not commence until next month. The prospects continue to be favorable and liberal supplies are expected in the last two months of the year. There being keen competition for the small lots coming in, prices have been firmly maintained at $12.75 to $13 for ordinary to good red and $13.50 for fine fermented estates. Exports for the fortnight amount to 857 bags, of which 179 bags went to the United States and shipments from October 1 to date are 168,788 bags, as compared with 136,272 bags for the same period last year."

CANNED TOMATOES AND CORN IN THE STATES.

But the peculiar fact should be noted and remembered that after the many vicissitudes of the season the conclusion of the summer leaves the tomato situation very much where it was at the beginning, and that tomatoes to-day are almost in exactly the same position and value as they were in the middle of June. Thus New Jersey talls are quoted at $1.15 to $1.35. Such a situation may be considered as unparalled in the past 25 years. It is much more remarkable than the situation this time last year; then the inference was that the season of 1902 would be a record breaker coming upon a denuded market, and as a consequence all hands prepared for such a condition. But 1902 at its conclusion of the pack, starts in at a valuation such as held in the midst of the famine prices of the spring. Whereas, at the opening of October, 1901, the quotation price of Jersey tomatoes was $1.05 to $1.10.

With the whole winter before them for the market to take such a value upon it as this argues a more drastic condition of things than occurred all last winter. Corn is beginning to attract as much attention as tomatoes. Now that the New York and the Maine pack have closed it is almost officially stated there will not be over 50 per cent. of a pack in either of those States, which means that the packers will not be able to fill half their contracts and the corn market will be in the hands of the jobbers.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md., October 3.

CANNED TOMATOES IN BALTIMORE.

Private mail advices from Baltimore say of tomatoes: "The improvement in weather conditions has been more favorable for tomatoes, and the market is a little better supplied. The feeling is steady, with offerings at 95c. net cash on standard 3s., although some packers quote up to 97½c. There is a feeling here that the market will not go much below the 95c. basis, as the packing season is virtually over. It is known that the failure of an interest reported some days ago had a somewhat unsettling effect, but the impression exists that this interest sold heavily of futures, the buyers of which will be compelled to replace in the open market. The quantity said to have been sold by this concern is estimated at 100,000 cases, of which a small portion only was packed prior to the failure. The unsold balance, believed to be large, will have to be procured in the open market."

LARGE CROP OF CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.

Private mail advices from Fresno say: "The prices were uniformly well received. The packers, who expressed themselves as stated, were W. M. Griffin, A. Gartenlaub, Lee Gray, A. L. Hobbs, A. L. McCray, James Madison and W. A. Veith. Mr. Griffin said the price was safely under that for which foreign raisins could be laid down in New York, and that as many raisins would be sold as if the price were lower. Gartenlaub said the trade took what raisins it needed and that a price lower than conditions justified did not accelerate the movement of raisins. That, he said, was demonstrated last year. Lee Gray declared that 3,000 cars should be taken at the jump. One packer, who afterward protested against his name being used, thought the high prices would encourage outside packers. Mr. Gartenlaub volunteered the statement that the Association would have more growers with it this year than ever before in its history.

"The crop prospects are favorable for an output of 100,000,000 lb. In 1898 the output was 80,638; 71,568,000 lb. in 1899; 94,325,000 lb. in 1900, and 72,000,000 lb. in 1901. It will thus be seen that this year's crop is 19,400,000 lb. in excess of that of 1898, 28,500,000 lb. in excess of that of 1899, 6,000,000 in excess of 1900 and 28,000,000 in excess of 1901. Notwithstanding the large crop, the prices are only a cent lower than those of 1900 and half a cent less than those of 1899. The opening prices of last year are not a fair basis for comparison, for they were immediately dropped ½c., and the bulk of the crop was sold for 4⅝c., 4c. and 3½c., so that this year's prices are 1½c. in advance of those of last year."

AFTER THE SHUTTERS ARE UP.

ONCE two beautiful white eggs laid side by side in a new nest. A big man gathered them up with his rough hands and sold them to a grocer. And one little egg was a good little egg and went into an angel cake, but the other little egg was a very, very bad little egg, and got mashed on an actress.—Town Topics.

A teacher in the Dallas county public school recently received the following letter:

Sir,—Will you in the future give my son easier soms to do at nites? This is what he's brought hoam two or three nites back: "If fore gallins of bere will fill thirty to pint bottles, how many pints and half bottles will nine gallons of bere fill?"

Well, we tried and could make nothin' of it at all, and my boy cried and laughed and sed he didn't dare to go bak in the mornin' without doing it. So I had to go and buy a nine-gallin keg of bere, which I could ill-afford to do, and then he went and borrowed a lot of wine and brandy bottles. We fill them, and my boy put the number down for an answer. I don't know whether it is right or not, as we split some while doin' it.

P. S.—Please let the next some be in water, as I am not able to buy more bere.—Mobile Register.

The publisher's private secretary was, above all else, a young woman of refinement, both of conduct and of language. Brought up in New England and educated at a college famous for its niceties and elegancies of existence, she was as far removed as possible from the slang-using, bang-wearing, gum-chewing stenographer of the comic papers. Next door to the publisher's establishment a young Englisgman, striving with moderate success to establish himself here as a landscape architect, had opened an office. In due course of time he became acquainted with the publisher, who, in turn, introduced him to the private secretary. One day, when the private secretary was sitting serene and dignified at her desk, there entered precipitately the Englishman.

"How do you do?" she said sweetly.

"I beg your pardon," said the Englishman, "but could you spare me just a little of your gum?"

"Gum!" she explained in horror. "Surely you don't think I——"

"Really, I beg your pardon," ejaculated the Englishman, a second time, in still more confusion. "How stupid of me. I remember now you say mucilage in America."

THE HOP CROP OF THE WORLD.

According to Commercial Agent Bardel, of Bamberg, the hop crop in Bavaria is in excellent condition. The weather, which on account of low temperature and more than plentiful rains has been rather unfavorable to nearly all other crops, has been highly beneficial to the growth of the hop plant, the only visible drawback being a delay of more than two weeks in the ripening of the burr, so that this season's crop in Bavaria will be gathered later than it has been for 30 years. Otherwise the plants are in good condition. Conditions in Wurtemberg, Baden, Alsace-Lorraine and other places are reported to be nearly as good as those in Bavaria. In Bohemia, too, the coming crop promises to be of excellent quality, and the output will be fairly large; it is at present computed at nearly two-thirds of last year's enormous crop. Reports from other hop-growing countries indicate that the crops which are likely to be gathered are not so good. The crop in England is said to be only one-half of that of last year. The crop in the United States is also reported short; but the continent can easily supply any deficiency at moderate prices. The table below shows an estimate of the hop crop in the most important hop-growing countries for this year compared with that of 1901:

On September 29, Mr. Samuel A. Nelson, of Nelson Bros., dry goods and grocery merchants, Charlottetown, was united in marriage to Miss Edith Nelson, of China Point.

FAILURES FOR NINE MONTHS.

According to Bradstreet's, Canadian failures for the first nine months of 1902 numbered 851, a decrease of 18 per cent. from last year, while liabilities aggregated only $6,300,413, a decrease of 35 per cent. from last year.

CANADA CAN CO. CHANGES HANDS.

The Dominion Canister Co., Limited, have bought the business of the Canada Can Co., Dundas, Ont., and are moving from the present quarters into more commodious ones. They are arranging their machinery to double the output, so they will have a capacity of between six and seven million cans per annum. They will be ready to start business in the new factory about October 20.

A SOUL OF HONOR.

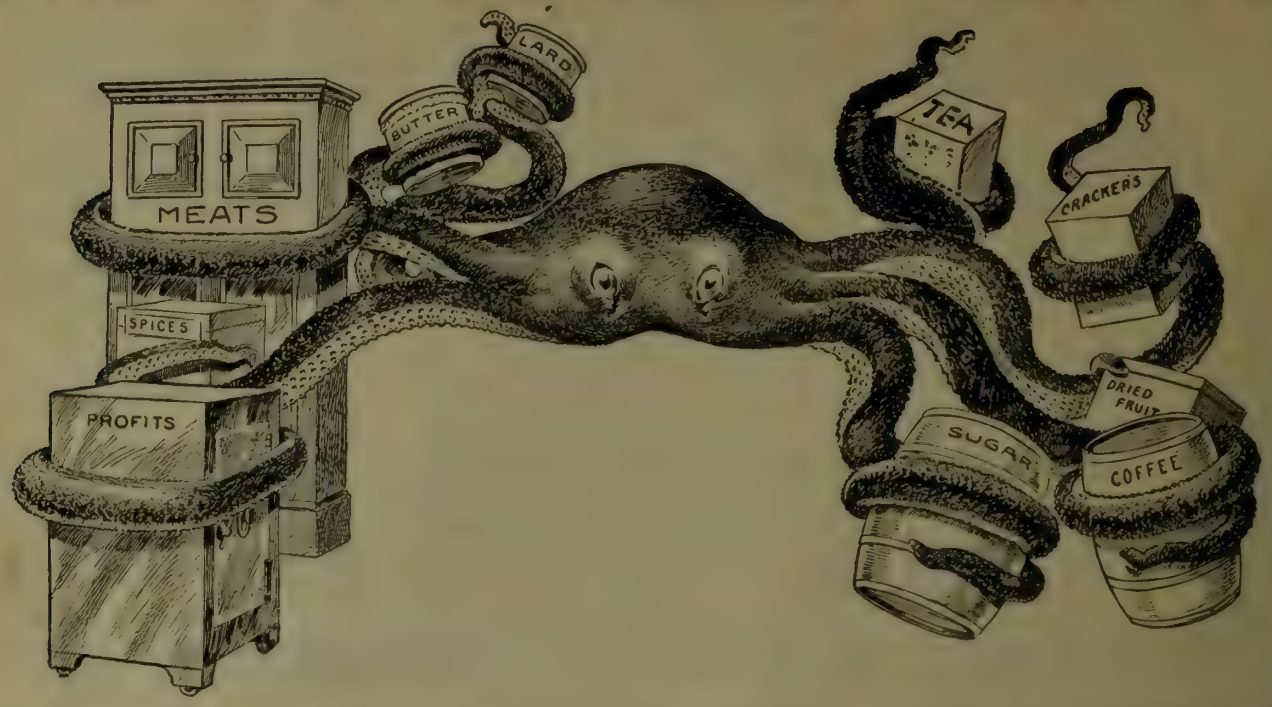
A KINDLY reference to the late Major Charles Smylie, president of the National Licorice Company, whose lamentable death by shooting was referred to in THE CANADIAN GROCER some weeks ago, appeared in a recent issue of The International Confectioner. It read: "Major Smylie was born on April 19, 1858, in Williamsburg, now included in Greater New York, on the site of the present home of the Williamsburg Savings Bank. He was educated in public and private schools and under tutors at home. He was of a studious turn of mind and absorbed learning readily. He became so far a master of the French and German languages that he spoke them fluently, and studied in them as well. He also developed musical ability of a high order. He entered upon his business career at the age of 15 with the concern of Young & Smylie. After his father's death, in 1881, he managed the estate's interest in the business, and, in 1886, he and his brother Adolphe entered the firm. At this time George Young, the senior partner, withdrew from the firm, leaving the personnel C. A. and A. E. Smylie and Thomas H. Bauchle.

"Mr. Bauchle died last fall, and in April of this year the Smylies acquired the Bauchle interest, thus becoming sole proprietors of the business. From this time on it was Major Smylie's ambition to see consummated a consolidation of the houses engaged in the manufacture of licorice specialties. It was largely due to his own efforts that shortly before his death he saw this ambition gratified and became the president of The National Licorice Co.

"Throughout his business career Major Smylie was the soul of honor. He was aggressive and determined to succeed as a business man; but he was ever courteous, ever lenient where others were concerned, but rigid as iron with himself. His guiding star was honor, and in all his business dealings he trod the path of integrity that his star lighted. He made friends easily; or, rather, his personality, his character, his attainments, his manner and his methods drew men to him and they became his friends.

"Few men like Major Smylie have died, because few like him have ever lived. He was a strong man in the best sense of the word."

Mr. Williams succeeded in growing some fine peaches in Picton this year. He has six trees and this season they averaged about 1 bush. each, one tree bearing 1½ bush. This is the only successful attempt at growing peaches so far known in Prince Edward county, Ont.



Grocers should remember that Royal Baking Powder is never peddled. Consumers are supplied only through retail dealers.

It is the honest advertising which the Royal Baking Powder Company does that aids and protects grocers more than they sometimes remember. It trains the housewife to buy standard goods at reliable stores and to not patronize peddlers. Peddlers are the bane of honest grocers.

Grocers should keep a full, live stock of Royal Baking Powder, remembering that every sale of it is a blow at the peddler and a strike for honest dealing in high-class goods.

STATISTICAL POSITION OF SPICES.

RELIABLE estimates as to the stocks of black pepper, nutmegs, cloves, China cassia and Batavia cassia in New York in October of this year shows them, with the exception of nutmegs, to be smaller than in the Octobers of 1900 and 1901. The deliveries in every case during September of this year were in excess of the receipts.

On October 1, 1902, there were 2,680 bags of Singapore and 6,825 bags of Sumatra, a total of 9,505 bags of black pepper in New York, as against a total of 18,105 bags on October 1, 1901, and 21,215 bags on October 1, 1900. The total arrivals during September, 1902, were 8,282 bags, made up of 4,659 of Singapore and 3,623 of Sumatra, and the amounts of the deliveries for the same month were 4,879 bags of Singapore and 6,173 bags of the other, or a total of 11,652 bags, decreasing the stock of black pepper in New York in September by 3,370 bags.

There was, however, a larger stock of nutmegs on October 1 of this year than in either 1901 or 1902. The figures are 7,050 cases on October 1, 1902; 6,350 in 1901, and 4,432 in 1900. The total arrivals during September 1902 were 893 cases, and the deliveries the same period were 1,393 cases.

There were in New York 10,400 bales of cloves on October 1, 1902, as against 13,100 bales in 1901, and 13,700 in 1900. The receipts during September were 3,364 bales and the deliveries 3,714.

The supply of China cassia is only half of what it was in 1900. On October 1, 1902, the total number of packages, made up of 1,450 matted bales and 6,450 broken packages, was 7,900 packages, as compared with 1,000 packages in 1901 and 14,515 in 1900. The total receipts during September were 1,250 packages and the deliveries were 2,450 packages.

On the 1st of October of this year the stock of Batavia cassia in New York was 1,000 packages of No. 1 and 1,650 packages of No. 2, a total of 2,650 packages. In 1901, on the same date, there were 500 and 2,750 packages of Nos. 1 and 2 respectively, or a total amount of 3,250 packages, as against 5,536 in 1900. The arrivals during September 1902 were 532 packages and the deliveries 1,382 packages.

The spice market continues strong, and, in view of the statistical position, it is likely to remain so for some time.

COUNTERFEIT BILLS.

A number of counterfeit Bank of Montreal and Molsons $5 bills have been found in circulation in Montreal. Some of them have the appearance of having been some time in use, this appearance doubtless being given to them on purpose by much handling in order to make the deception more complete. But they can be detected easily by the numbering.

The $5 bills issued by the Bank of Montreal are numbered in each series up to 300000. The counterfeit bills are numbered from 900000. Any bill bearing the number over 300000 is not one of those sent out by the bank. In the Molsons Bank bill the date is July 2, 1901, and the series number 214258B.

ONION CROP OF ONTARIO.

THE onion crop all over Ontario is large this year, the yield being reported much above the average. Many inquiries are being received by commission merchants in towns from growers in the country who all say that they have abundant supplies on hand to dispose of, and that the stock is of excellent quality, being very large. The yield in some localities approaches 400 bush. to the acre. In other years 285 bush. to the acre was considered above the average. The rainy weather evidently caused the onions this year to thrive.

On account of the large size to which the onions have grown, pickling onions are very hard to get this fall.

The opening prices are 60c. per bag and are likely to be lower. Last year the price was 75c. at first and early in the season advanced to $1.

Usually when we have a surplus stock of this commodity in Canada we can dispose of it in the United States, but the yield is large over there this year, too, and so onions here will be cheap all through the winter.

AN INSURANCE LOSS.

Never can the necessity for a careful examination of and adherence to the conditions of an insurance policy be emphasized too frequently. The courts are constantly dealing with cases where, through some irregularity, a policy-holder has lost his insurance money.

The latest case occurred just recently when the Walkerville Match Company tried to recover $3,083.45 under a contract entered into with the Scottish Union and National Insurance Company. The case was tried without a jury at Sandwich, and Chief Justice Falconbridge has just handed out judgment in favor of the defendants. The defence was that the defendants were not bound by a receipt issued in the name of one Davis, who had been an agent, but who was superseded. The insurance was not entered on the register, the money for the premium did not reach anyone who could be called an agent of the company till after the fire, and it did not appear that anything was known about the risk at the defendant's head office. It was held that under these circumstances the plaintiffs could not recover damages.

THE APPLE TRADE OUTLOOK.

IT is now generally conceded that the apple crop in Ontario will not be as large as anticipated a few weeks ago. At that time the bulk of the apples were in various stages of growth on the trees, and the yield appeared as if it would be large. But later on it has come out that a good many of these apples are of inferior quality (wormy and spotted), and not marketable for export. The Nova-Scotian crop is light and of poor quality, and in the New England States the crop will not be as large as it was thought it would be a month or so ago.

In England the crop is poor and exporters here have been looking for a stiff market there. But latest cable advices from Woodall & Co., Liverpool, to Eben James, Toronto, bearing the date of October 6, say that the market was glutted with fruit in a bad condition, especially Greenings, and prices were lower in consequence. Culverts were quoted at 12s. 6d. to 14s.; Kings, 16s. to 24s.; Greenings, 7s. 6d. to 15s.; Baldwins, 13s. 3d. to 15s.; Rebstones, 12s. to 14s.; Jenetts, 9s. to 13s.

Mail advices from the same source under date of September 27 say: "The week's receipts are 26,024 bbls., which, at this early period, must be considered a fairly large supply. With the exception of a few Baldwins, which were mostly immature, and some of very poor quality, the fruit consisted of the usual early varieties, and, although the season for such is advancing, the quality and condition has been generally satisfactory, and compares favorably with that of last week. There was a rather large proportion of the green varieties, which are never so salable as those showing color, and on these there was an occasional shrinkage in value. There has, however, been an active demand throughout, and the market closed strong at yesterday's sales; some fine parcels of Gravensteins and Kings being eagerly competed for at a slight improvement."

Exporters interviewed by THE CANADIAN GROCER have, however, every faith in a good market for first-class winter fruit. Shipments last week were not greatly in excess of 1898 and 1899, and the quotations of October 7 are lower owing to the act of some dealers shipping inferior fruit with the better stock now going forward. A higher range of prices is looked for shortly, as an important factor in Ontario will be the labor question, it being impossible to get enough workmen to handle the crop owing to the number of men who have gone West this year. The United States crop has been exaggerated, and Old Country buyers who are now over there will have to buy in Canada instead.

From England it is stated that a syndicate is being formed to import from this country high-grade apples packed in boxes to sell at high figures.

As far as reported the total shipments of apples in barrels to the English market from America are as follows:

| From— | Total | Same week in 1901. |
|---|---|---|
| Boston | 22,037 | 1,385 |
| New York | 22,228 | 3,438 |
| Montreal | 35,790 | 16,552 |
| Halifax | 5,695 | None |
| Portland, not yet heard from.. | .... | None |

THE RAISIN SITUATION.

ANOTHER year of short supplies of Valencia raisins appears to be a foregone conclusion. If anything it is likely to be even more pronounced than it was last year.

Early in the season it was anticipated that the yield would be a fairly good one. But, unfortunately, the output has been much curtailed, owing to damage both by sun and rain. This fact, following a season which had experienced an unusual shortage, has naturally led to a marked appreciation of prices. Good selected fruit, such as is commonly used on the Canadian market, is fully 3s. above the lowest point, while compared with the figures ruling a year ago they show an advance of 10 to 12s.

What adds to the strength of the situation on the Canadian market is the fact that importers here have bought but sparingly this year.

While, however, Valencia raisins are so scarce this year, the condition of affairs is the very opposite in regard to Californian raisins. From an article printed in another column it will be seen that the Californian people are estimating the output at about 100,000,000 lb., which is 28,000,000 lb. in excess of the crop of 1901.

Prices are being cut a great deal in California at present, and it is declared that shippers are losing $80 a car at the figures at which they are now selling. In view, therefore, of the short crop of raisins in Spain, the present would appear to be an opportune time to buy Californian raisins.

CARE OF THE STOCK.

NO part of a merchant's business is more important than the care of the stock. Unless the stock is properly kept it is impossible for the business to be in a really healthy condition.

The stock, like the blood in the body, must be kept circulating if life is to be preserved. Consequently it needs constant and systematic attention. And to successfully do this is no small task.

Stock books, or something that will be a good substitute cannot be done without. But these in themselves can be of very little use unless entries are promptly made when certain lines are running short. Besides, it is also well to have a record of how this and that line sells, a guide thus being secured for the merchant when he is buying.

But stock books can also be utilized as a help to the merchant in keeping his stocks down, as well as keeping them up, for the latter is even a more difficult problem than the former.

Merchants and clerks who are successful stock-keepers are close students of the trade papers and the markets. Indeed, they can scarcely be the one unless they are the other.

Possibly some of our readers would not object to describing through our columns their methods of taking care of their stock.

THE BRITISH GROCER AND HIS COMPETITORS.

From The Daily Despatch, London, Eng.

THE proclamation of trade war at St. Helens has made the situation of the ordinary private retail grocer a matter of more urgent public interest than usual. His difficulties and dangers have been freely canvassed, and his probable fate has been painted in colors none too bright. His total extinction has been predicted with some confidence. In some respects the outlook is dark enough. The presence of the co-operative store with their 2,000,000 of customers and 70,000,000 sterling of annual trade is in itself a menace not to be despised. Almost the whole of this large overturn is in grocery goods and provisions, and almost all of it is transacted in the North of England. The pressure of this competition varies in different localities. In St. Helens, in Dewsbury, in Bolton, and in Leeds, it has made the progress of private trade almost impossible. In Bradford it is claimed that the expansion of the trade of the private grocer is at least equal to that of the stores. In Manchester and Salford, despite the greater population, the stores do only half the business of the 80 branch stores in Leeds, and little more than the stores of Bolton.

In one West Riding town, which ten years ago supported in comfort nine large private shops, all have been swept away but two. And of those, one which had formerly an overturn of £130 a week has now a bare £30. Needless to say, there is bitterness felt there. The disastrous nature of the effects alone would provoke soreness.

But the methods of the victorious stores are answerable for much more. The private trader feels that he is at grips with an antagonist of great and unseen powers, wielding an influence he cannot combat. The investor, the holder of from 20 to 100 shares in the co-operative venture, is the most powerful agent in the grocer's destruction. Determined to protect and improve his holding, the investor exercises all the influence at command to add custom to the stores. If, as sometimes happens, the shareholder is also an unscrupulous man and an overlooker in a mill or foreman of works, the pressure he is able to bring to bear is enormous.

Profits are lower than they were. The halcyon days when American provisions were first coming into this market, when bacon could be bought for 3½d. and sold for 6d. per lb., are no more.

Yet, taking the country over, grocers wax in number and, in the aggregate, also in wealth. At the present time in England and Wales there are probably well over 200,000 male and female grocers. Between the years 1881 and 1891 they increased in number 40 per cent. Last year the reported failures were 934—say, .5 per cent.—a number not to be wondered at in view of the inexperienced and penniless persons who embark on this career; the total liabilities reached three-quarters of a million. Grocers, builders and publicans fail in almost equal numbers year by year.

Another enemy to the retailer, of whom much that is interesting may be said, is the giant grocer, the proprietor of many shops, known expressly as "company" shops. These keep down prices. They buy cheap and sell cheap. Their proprietors are satisfied with a return per shop that would not maintain a man and wife. A net income of £1 per week from a shop is little use to the owner of one set of premises. But the man with 20 or 80, or the company with 250 branch shops can afford to be well satisfied with an average of even so little from each.

In a purely cash business the lock-up of capital is slight. With care the stock can be turned over ten, even twelve, times in the year. That means that the purchases can be paid for by sales as soon as the customary month's credit has expired.

The "company" shops are ruled by a rod of iron. Wages and expenses are curtailed to the irreducible minimum. One large concern makes its utmost remuneration to its branch managers the not too princely sum of 26s. per week. Bright young fellows issuing from their apprenticeship are installed as managers. They enter into a stamped undertaking not to commence business on their own account within a five-mile radius of their branch for two years after leaving employment. Inspectors paid by the company range the country over, paying surprise visits to the shops, and five or six times a year commanding an immediate stock-taking. All goods consigned to a branch are invoiced to the manager at the price he will have to sell them. For any deficiency, howsoever arising, the ill-paid manager is liable, and the deduction is made from his wages.

The inevitable tendency of this procedure is to provoke reprisals. The ill-paid servants are goaded into trickery and deceit towards the company and to the public. A cheese had been stolen from the shop door, and the manager's wages were consequently being docked of its value.

"I'll take it out," said the victim, savagely; "I'll take it out of tea."

The method of "taking it out" is simplicity itself. A customer asking, say, for a pound of 3s. tea is handed a packet of the 2s. article, and the shilling so gained goes into the pocket of the man behind the counter. Or eggs consigned for sale at eighteen for the shilling are sorted into qualities of 16 and 18 respectively. Tickets on goods are deliberately misplaced.

In some employs the discipline is so severe that a manager leaving the premises between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m., and being detected, is instantly dismissed. Meals must be got when and how they can, but not away from the shop.

The rise of the "company" shop was subsequent to that of the co-operative stores. It is within the last ten, or, at the utmost, fifteen years that the business done by the many-branched grocer has assumed really great proportions. Despite the advantages these establishments possess over the single-shop men, because they buy better and much more largely, their advance is not so rapid as might be supposed. In many quarters the small grocer far exceeds them in rate of growth. The proprietor, and frequently his wife with him, working for his own gain, studying closely the characteristics of his neighbor, proves more successful than the often perfunctory minion of the large capitalist.

And then the usually accurate local knowledge of the small man gives him an advantage. He sees the growth of the new districts which are ever being pushed out from the borders of the towns. He marks out a likely spot where the neighborhood almost guarantees a livelihood, and there he settles. The inspector of the company cannot compete in suburban shop-locating with the native.

Hence it comes about that by prescience and adaptability, by careful steering in a troubled sea, the small pot preserves itself from destruction by the big pan. Although there are some places in which success is out of the question for the unmoneyed, there are other fields in which the attentive and obliging vendor of comestibles stands a most excellent chance.

THE YUKON TRADE.

About 80 per cent. of the supplies now finding their way into the Yukon are Canadian goods," said Mr. Robert Kelly, wholesale grocer, Vancouver, while in Ottawa the other day. Mr. Kelly attributes this welcome change in Yukon trade conditions largely to the successful efforts put forth by Canadian manufacturers, especially canners of food products, to rival the productions of Oregon and California. For several years the trade in canned goods was almost exclusively in the hands of Americans, but now that Canadian canned fruits and vegetables have been pushed into the Yukon they have come to be preferred, even by Americans, to similar articles imported from the United States. To illustrate the importance of the trade, Mr. Kelly observed that he had secured for the Yukon one consignment of 15 carloads of canned vegetables and fruits from two establishments in Central Ontario.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, October 9, 1902.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS in wholesale grocery jobbing circles has been quite large this week in all lines. No tomatoes are as yet being offered, and the prices of the other lines of vegetables are still firm in sympathy with the strong outside markets. The advance in sugar of last week has been maintained, and although the outside markets have fluctuated considerably during the week, they have become a good deal easier. Rice and tapioca are quiet and syrups and molasses are unchanged. In teas, Japans continue strong and scarce with very few new teas offering. China greens are still high and Indian blacks of the better grade are in demand. Quite a few Ceylon greens of Japan make are attracting attention. Jobbers are now well supplied with currants and a reduction of ¾c. has been made in the price of Filiatras and ¼c. in Patras. Valencia raisins continue much in demand and the prices for present delivery from stock are stiffening with the reports of advances on the primary markets. Prices were made last week on Californian seeded raisins and a larger business was done than there has been for several years past. These raisins are this year being sold at a loss to the shippers, owing to a fight that is at present going on in California between some of the seeders. In nuts, trade is still on the quiet side and no arrivals of new crop are reported on the market this week. Owing to the firm advices from the primary markets the prices of Grenoble walnuts have been advanced 1¾c.; Marbots, 2c.; Sicily filberts, 2c. and shelled walnuts, 3c. per lb. The prices of all lines are likely to be high throughout the year.

CANNED GOODS.

The trade doing at present in vegetables is light and prices are generally firm and unchanged. There is little news regarding the tomato crop of this year, and no offerings for future delivery are being made by the canneries as far as can be ascertained. The prices of corn and peas are maintained at their present high mark and are likely to continue so for some time to come. Some lines of vegetables are scarce, and jobbers seem to be out of succotash. Beans are firmer. Meats are steady and salmon continues active without any further advance over those made some time ago. Sardines are strong with an upward trend. Other lines of fish are active and unchanged. We quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES.

A moderate call is reported for coffee on the local market. The outside markets are quiet and prices showed a slight reaction, notwithstanding cable advices from Santos at the beginning of the week were to the effect that the crop prospects there were unfavorable. We quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

The quotations on new nuts are higher than last year, especially for shelled almonds, walnuts and all kinds of Tarragona almonds. The present stocks of nuts in the hands of jobbers are light and Grenoble walnuts have gone up 1¾c.; Bordeaux walnuts, 1½ to 2c.; Sicily filberts, 1 to 1½c. and shelled walnuts, 3c. per lb.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Not much trade is being done in either rice or tapioca at present, the call being mostly for small lots. The rice market is firm in the South, where the crop has been delayed by recent heavy rains, but it is reported to have not suffered much damage. Tapioca outside is reported to show a better undertone, cable advices from the East being firmer, and buyers were showing more interest. We quote: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Syrups continue to show an improvement in their sales and the market is steady. The supply of syrup outside on offer was limited, with a fair inquiry for export. The grocery grades of New Orleans molasses were a little scarce outside and dealers, generally, claimed to have moderate supplies of the article. The offerings of blackstrap outside were limited.

See pages 39 and 40 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SPICES.

Trade in spices is quiet this week. Pepper is firm, reflecting the tone of the strong market outside, where the spot offerings were limited and stocks light in the hands of jobbers.

SUGAR.

The local sugar market has maintained the advance of last week and there is nothing further to report save the listing of a new grade of granulated sugar by a Montreal manufacturer. This is quoted to retail buyers at $3.88, Toronto basis. Just as we were going to press last week one of the New York sugar refineries reduced the prices of refined 5 points, and Arbuckle soon followed. The next day The American Sugar Refining Company reduced their prices to the same basis. There is no apparent reason for this decline, unless it be to meet the competition caused by the marketing of the domestic beet granulated and the improvement in shipments. Since our last report raw-beet sugar of 88 deg. test advanced first, to 6s. 11¼d. and later to 7s. 3d. f.o.b. Hamburg, an appreciation of 6d. for the week. Since then they have reacted slightly to 7s., but later these are quoted at 7s. 2¼d. This is considerably above the parity of 96 deg. centrifugals, which are still quoted at $3.50 f.o.b. New York, while beet, on the same basis, would cost $3.78. Holders of cane are asking 3 9-16c., an advance of 1-16c., but buyers are indifferent at anything over $3.50. The advance at Hamburg in the beet sugar is mainly owing to the unfavorable weather reports, and it will be some time before the extent of the damage to the growing crop is known. The receipts of raw sugar for the week were only 27,264 tons, while the meltings remained at 45,000 tons, reducing the stocks by 17,736 tons. The total stocks in the United States and Cuba are 279,945 tons, against 313,681 tons last week and 239,008 tons last year. The stock in Cuba is now reduced to 128,000 tons.

TEAS.

Japan teas continue strong and scarce, and there are few new teas offering. Indian teas, to imitate Japan teas, are receiving close attention. Teas from 6¾ to 9½d., c.i.f., are becoming popular and selling readily. When the manufacture of these is improved, they are sure to meet with a big demand. Green Ceylons of the same character of make, are being offered, but the Indian teas are claimed to show better value. The supply is not equal to the demand and buyers have to take what they can get. Indian blacks, like souchongs, are very scarce and good teas are going to cost 5½d., or 11¼c. net. Pekoes and orange pekoes of fine value are selling at from 6½d. to 9½d. to arrive. In Ceylon blacks, good mercantile goods are worth from 5¾d. up, and choice and broken orange pekoes, where the quality is important, are worth 11 to 12¼d., or from 22½ to 26½c. On the London, Eng., market, latest reports by mail are to the effect that the downward tendency of prices of Indian teas seems to be arrested and buyers showed more inclination to purchase, imparting a generally firmer tone to all grades. The Ceylon tea market was in about the same condition as that for Indian teas, there being an improvement in the bidding for all grades.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Jobbers on the local market seem now to be well supplied with currants and the prices of Filiatras are about ¾c. and Patras, ¼c. lower. We quote: Filiatras, 5 to 5¼c.; Patras, 6 to 6¼c. and Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The primary markets are advancing and prices, locally, are firm for Valencia raisins. There is a good demand locally. We quote as follows: Fine off-stalk, 7½ to 9c.; selected, 9c. and selected layers, 11c. up.

DATES.—Trade, locally, in dates is still quiet. The ss. Tabaristan is due on October 24, at New York. We quote: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The local market is still quiet. New crop on the Coast is firmer on the large sizes. We quote: Californian prunes, 100-110, 5c.; 90-100, 5½c.; 80-90, 6½c. to 7c.; 70-80, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50, 8¾ to 10c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—Prices were made last week for seeded raisins and a larger business was done than there has been for several years past. Mail advices from San Francisco say that the curing of raisins is progressing slowly, but that raisins will be coming in freely in the early part of October. We quote as follows: Californian loose muscatels, 5c. for 4-crown, Griffin & Skelley brand; 4½c. for 3-crown and 4c. for 2-crown, f.o.b. Fresno, in 50-lb. boxes.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Coast advices report advances in some grades of apricots. Our quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. for peaches and 9 to 13c. per lb. for apricots. Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

The receipts of green fruit have not been so large this week at the Scott street market, as the bulk of the crop of peaches, plums, etc., has been marketed. Sales were fairly brisk at steady prices, the demand being sufficient to absorb all the offerings. Peaches, grapes and apples were the most abundant fruits on the market. Plums are about over. The quince crop is beginning to come in and prices were easier than last week. Cranberries are being offered, but as the poultry season has not yet quite opened, the demand for them is not great. We quote: Tomatoes, 20 to 30c. per basket; peaches, Crawfords, 25 to 50c. and ordinary, 20 to 30c.; pears, 20 to 40c. per basket; grapes, 17½ to 22½c. for small baskets and 30 to 45c. for large; plums, Rein Bland, 50 to 75c. per basket; apples, 10 to 25c. per basket and $1 to $1.75 per barrel; crabapples, 25c. per basket; watermelons, 15 to 20c. each by the 100; lemons, $2.50 to $5 per box; onions, ordinary, 75c.; Spanish, 90c. per case; peppers, green, 15 to 30c. per basket; ripe, 75c. to $1.00; oranges, Jamaica, $3 to $3.25 per box and $6 per bbl.; Jersey sweet potatoes, $3 to $3.50 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack; quinces, 20 to 35c. per basket; cranberries, $9.50 per barrel.

VEGETABLES.

A small demand is reported this week for vegetables at unchanged prices. Cabbage, parsnips, cauliflowers and potatoes comprise the bulk of the trade. Cucumbers are very scarce, and we quote as follows: Lettuce, 30c. to 40c. per doz.; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; carrots, 40 to 50c. per bag; beets, 40 to 50c. per bag; potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 50 to 75c. per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 75c. to $1 per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—This market is very little changed from last week. There has been a shrinkage in the receipts, but prices are steady for strictly fresh stock, with a slight advance over the quotations of last week. We quote; 17 to 18c. for strictly fresh No. 1 stock, ordinary store candled, 15 to 16½c. and seconds and checks, 12 to 13c.

BEANS.—The offerings of beans so far have been light and the prices are firm at $1.40 to $1.45 for prime and $1.50 upwards for handpicked.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.—There is yet no call for these excepting for future delivery. Prices are steady at 7½c. for evaporated and 5½c. for dried.

HONEY.—Receipts continue fair and the demand is improving. Quotations are as follows: Extracted, 8 to 8½c. for large quantities and 9 to 9½c. for small lots. Combs, $1.25 up per dozen.

POTATOES.—The prices of potatoes are steady and the arrivals are fair. Buying is mostly in small lots. Quotations are 70c. per bag on track in carlots.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Latest reports from the market of England show an easier tone, and the trade here is a little easy. Exporters are not anxious to fill orders at the present prices offered by cable, and only the finest goods, locally, are in demand. Secondary and low grades are dull and featureless. We quote: Finest 1-lb. rolls, 16 to 17c.; selected dairy tubs, 15 to 15½c.; store-packed, uniform color, 13½ to 14½c.; low grades, 12 to 13c.; creamery prints, 19 to 20c.; solids, 19 to 19½c.

CHEESE.—A further appreciation in cheese of ½c. per lb. has occurred since last week, and sales are now being made at the factories at 11c., and only a few transactions are being closed at this price. The outlook is bright for a continuance of the present high market. We quote 11¼ to 11½c. per lb.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—There have been freer deliveries of chickens and the prices are easier. Ducks are also more plentiful, but young turkeys are scarce. We now quote: Chickens, dressed, 50 to 75c. per pair; live, 45 to 60c.; ducks, dressed, 65 to 75c.; live, 50 to 60c.; young turkeys, dry picked, 11 to 12c. per lb. and old, 9c. per lb.

GAME.—There is very little game being offered yet and the demand is very light. We quote: Teal, 20c.; pin tails, 30 to 35c. and black duck, 70 to 75c.

FISH.

Quite a large amount of fish has been received during the week and the prices of some lines are lower. Trout and whitefish have declined 1½c. per lb. Quite a number of oysters are moving out. We quote: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 4 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 7 to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British-Columbian salmon, 15 to 20c.; whitefish, 7 to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.25 to $1.35 per gallon; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket; Digby herring, 50c. per bundle of six baskets; finnan haddies, 7½ to 8c. per lb.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—Receipts on the grain market are now quite large. The prices are firm and trade is brisk. The following are the quotations at outside points: Red Ontario wheat, 65c., middle freights; white wheat, 66c.; goose wheat, 63c., middle freights; rye, 50c.; barley, 41 to 41½c. and oats, 31 to 32½c.

FLOUR.—The market has been steady and firm. Prices are unchanged. Quotations are: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.00 to $4.10; Manitoba bakers', $3.75 to $3.80; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—The demand for oatmeal is milder, while rolled oats is somewhat stronger than last week. The prices are unchanged. We quote as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $5; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.90 per bbl.; in wood, 10c. extra; broken lots are 20c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.25 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bags, or $4 in bags.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—Trade is moderate. The prices are unchanged. We quote: No. 1 green, 8½c.; No. 2 green, 7½c.; No. 1 green, steers, 9c.; No. 2 green, steers, 8c.; cured, 8½ to 9c. per lb.

SKINS.—Trade is somewhat dull and prices remain unchanged. We quote: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive. No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 50 to 55c.

WOOL.—This remains quiet at the same quotations: Fleece wool, 13½c. and unwashed, 7½c. per lb.

TALLOW.—The prices are low at 6¾ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

The export demand for alsike is much better. Red clover is now offered in limited quantities. We quote: Alsike, $6 to $6.50; timothy, $1.40 to $1.60; red clover, $5.50 to $5.75 per bushel. For fancy grades a little extra is offered.

MARKET NOTES.

Cheese is ½c. up since last week.

An appreciation of ¾c. has taken place in mat tapnet figs.

Cable advices from Smyrna re Sultana raisins report that the market there is firm and is expected to advance.

Advances of 1¾c. have been made in Grenoble walnuts; 1½ to 2c. in Marbot walnuts; 1½c. in Sicily filberts and 3c. in shelled walnuts.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, October 9, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE fall trade in groceries, as in most other classes of merchandise, is quite satisfactory, and payments are reported well met. There has been no striking feature on the market during the week, since the advance in sugar, although several lines have assumed a stronger tone and give signs of a higher tendency in prices. Pure lard has advanced ½c. per lb. Prime white pea beans are again higher. They are scarce on the market and holders are apparently not alarmed at any consequences that may follow upon higher figures being demanded. At present they are asking $2 per 60 lb., a price between 25 and 30c. higher than that of a week ago. Rolled oats have declined 30c. per barrel, and the present price is $4.50; in bags, $2.25.

SUGAR.

The advance in sugar which occurred just too late to be included in our report, has not had any appreciable effect on the business doing in this market, which is still active at $3.70 for granulated and $3.05 to $3.60 for yellows. The continued advance in raw sugar on the European market was responsible for this. Some dealers are looking for further advances should the present strong feeling in the raw sugar market be continued.

TEAS.

There is still rather a quiet market, locally, for teas, many merchants throughout the country being apparently supplied with a sufficient stock to last them through the fall trade. In this connection a Montreal importer says: "I don't think we are feeling the effects of the present situation in teas on the producing markets as yet to any extent, nor will we until after the fall trade is over. In January, say, when merchants must buy new teas, the strength of the market for new Japan teas will be more apparent, and will be keenly felt. We will have a high market then." This is in direct opposition to the statement made to us last week by another large buyer who is confident that in January next Japans will be lower. This diversity of opinion exists throughout the market, but the outlook at present seems to be altogether on the side of the former. Indian and Ceylon teas are still low, but with a better feeling. Ceylon green teas are in good demand. Gunpowders, which are in comparatively poor quality, are still higher; all China green teas, in fact, are from 4 to 5c. higher.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The reduction in the price of corn syrups last week has not been followed by any marked increase in the demand, though some jobbers report a better business this week than last. The prices of corn syrup are still as follows: In bbls., 3c.; half bbls., 3⅛c.; quarter bbls., 3¼c.; in 38½-lb. pails, $1.40 and 25-lb. pails, $1.10. Barbados molasses are selling fairly well, and some irregularity in the price is reported. As near as can be judged, about 23c. is the prevailing price. For Antigua and Porto Rico there is a very small demand, the former being quoted at 21 and the latter at 38c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

This market is entirely unchanged. There is a fair demand and the prices are steady, and our quotations are now as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3⅛c.

SPICES.

The market is fairly active and still firm. The latest advance in peppers on the primary market has been well maintained. Cochin gingers are scarcer and very firm. No quotable change is reported here. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

All lines of canned goods continue to occupy the strong position which they assumed earlier in the season. No further advance is reported on this market. The scarcity of sardines, due to the short run off the French coast, has been followed by a higher tendency in prices, and an advance is looked for here. Our quotations now are: Tomatoes, $1.30; corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½c. to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1.00; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Mail advices from London state that choice garden Vostizzas are becoming scarce there, and reports from Greece are to the effect that there is only a small quantity of that fruit for shipment. Locally, there is no change. Prices are as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5¼c. to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¼ to 7c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—There is no change. We quote 9½c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The closing prices for "Blue Eagle" Valencia raisins for shipment by ss. Bellona, which sailed last week from Denia, were 25s. 6d. for fine off-stalk; 28s. 6d. for selected and 29s. 6d. lor 4-crown layers. The demand was not large and it is expected that the Bellona will not have a heavy cargo. On this market prices quoted are as follows: Finest off stalk, 6½ to 7½c.; selected, 7¾ to 8c. and layers, 7½ to 8¼c., according to brands.

CANDIED PEELS.—There is no change to report. A fair demand exists at the following prices: Citron peel, 15c.; orange, 11½c. and lemon, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is an active inquiry for these. Nothing further has been learned from the primary market. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

FIGS.—Comadre figs in tapnets are now quoted to arrive, prices being from $1.17½ per tapnet and over.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—There has been no change of importance on this market. There is a fairly good demand and prices are from 9⅞ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—The demand for these keeps up and the prices are firm. Quotations follow: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

According to all advices the new crop of Grenoble walnuts will be very small, hailstones having caused a great deal of damage. It is said that the price later on will not go below 15c. in bales. On the local market this week there is no change in prices, and the market continues firm. We quote: Walnuts, 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 28 to 30c.; filberts, 9½c.; Pecans, 17 to 17½c.; Brazil nuts, 13½ to 14½c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

Messina lemons have regained their former price and are again up to $4 this week. Pears are 25c. lower. Plums are reported to be practically out of the market. Blue and white grapes are from 7 to 10c. per basket lower. Red grapes are now on the market in baskets and are quoted at 25c. Quotations follow: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $5 to $5.50, boxes, $3; Messina lemons, $4.00 per box; cocoanuts, $3.25 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1 to $1.50 and 8-hands, 75c.; cucumbers, 11c. per dozen; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per dozen; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per barrel; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; peaches, $1.25 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.75 per box; pears, $3.25 per box and limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 60 to 75c. per basket; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1.50 to $2.75; in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, 50c. per crate and $2.10 per case; sweet potatoes, $3.00 per barrel; Canadian blue and white grapes, 18 to 20c. per basket; Delawares, 40c. per basket; Malaga grapes, $5.50 per keg; red grapes, 25c. per basket.

FISH.

The demand for fish continues fairly active and is reported fully up to the standard of former years. No quotable changes have been made during the week and prices are unchanged. We quote: Haddies, 6½ to 7c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7 to 7½c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 15c.; trout, large and medium, 8c. to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $5.25 per bbl. and $3 per half bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per half bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per half bbl. and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 70 to 80c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5 per bbl.; mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $18.00 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6.50 per ½ bbl. and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $1.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per dozen; Malpeque shell oysters, $1 to $5 per barrel.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The price of eggs has advanced ½c. There is a fairly good demand locally for small lots. We quote: Selected, 19 to 19½c.; candled stock, 17 to 17½c.; straight receipts, 16 to 16½c.; No. 2, 14 to 14½c. in round lots.

BEANS.—Prices have taken a sharp advance on account of reports of the failure of the crop in many places in the west, and $1.25 to $1.50 per bushel is being bid for primes.

HONEY.—No change is reported in the price of honey, and the market rules steady at 11 to 11½c. for white clover comb and 8 to 8½c. for white strained.

ASHES.—Trade is dull. We quote: First pots, $4.35 to $4.40; seconds, $3.60 and pearls, $6.25 per 100 lb.

POTATOES.—These have declined considerably in price, the demand at present not being up to that of a week ago. A fair trade is doing at 65c. per bag in carlots and 75 to 80c. in small lots.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—The market shows no change whatever and is still very quiet. We quote as follows: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—This market has weakened somewhat during the past few days, and at present is decidedly easier than last week. Prices average about ½c. lower all round, and some dealers expect still further declines. The local demand is fair. We quote: Saltless creamery, 21c.; finest Townships do, 20¼ to 20½c.; finest Quebec do, 19½ to 20c.; finest Ontario do, 18½ to 19c.; dairy, 15 to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—Another advance is reported and the feeling, locally, continues firm. A better inquiry resulting, too, in more business is reported for export account, and there is a good demand on the local market. The price is now about 2c. higher than at this time last year, and competent authorities refuse to believe that there has been anything to warrant the present high prices. We now quote: Finest Townships, white and colared, 10⅞c.; finest Quebec, 10¾c. and finest Ontario, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—A fair volume of business has been done in flour during the past week at steady prices. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4; strong bakers', $3.30; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.70; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4.

GRAIN.—The demand for export has been considerably better this week and a much better business has resulted, especially in oats. Locally, trade is no more than fair. Quotations follow: No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat, 71½c.; rye, 55½c.; peas, 77c.; corn, 71c.; buckwheat, 54½c.; barley, 46 to 47½c. and oats, 33½c

FEED.—Manitoba bran and shorts are 50c. lower per ton this week. There is a fairly good business doing in all lines of feed. We quote: Manitoba bran, $15.50 to $16; Ontario bran, $14.50 to $15; Manitoba shorts, $21.50 to $22 and Ontario shorts, $22; mouillie, $23 to $30, as to quality.

OATMEAL.—A decline of 40c. per bbl. took place in rolled oats during the week. This brings the price per bbl. to $4.50 and per bag, $2.25.

BALED HAY.—No change in price is reported this week. There is a moderate demand. We quote: No. 1, $8.50; No. 2, $7.50 to $8; clover, $7 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Sugar is 5c. higher.

Eggs have advanced ½c.

Butter has declined ½c. on all grades of creamery.

Canadian blue and white grapes have declined 7 to 10c. per basket.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., October 7, 1902.

BUSINESS is active. The general tone is good. Last week was the time for paying taxes in order to save the 5 per cent. discount on all paid by October 1. It was found 219 persons more had paid than up to the same date last year. The amount received was over $7,000 in advance, showing our people have had a good year. In markets, the advance in beans is the matter of chief interest. Our dealers were caught short. It is difficult to tell what the price is, as shippers, generally, will not quote. Sugar is also quoted higher, and is held very firm. Hops, though having a small sale here, are rather higher. Rice is also quoted higher. English rice continues to largely supply the trade.

OILS.—In burning oils there is a large movement and large orders are being booked for later shipment. Prices are unchanged. Lubricating oils have a good sale for the time of year. The season's business has been particularly good. Paint oils hold the changes reported last week. Local sales are not large. There are fair receipts of cod oil. Though fair prices are obtained, they are lower than ruled before new goods were received.

SALT.—In Liverpool coarse salt some 9,000 bags were received during the week. The continued receipts have affected the demand. A fair stock is now held. Prices are firmly held because of higher freights which are being asked. Quite a fair quantity of Liverpool factory-filled has been received during the summer, but in fine salt the bulk of that now used is Canadian. Our quotations are as follows: Liverpool coarse, 55 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.75 to $2.85 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.60 to $2.65 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22-23c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of two dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—The first gallon apples of the season were received this week from Nova Scotia. Local prices are now quoted much lower. Spot tomatoes are scarce and dealers are of opinion that stock to arrive will be below the needs of our market, so firm prices will rule. Corn is unchanged. Peas are firm. In salmon, rather higher prices rule. Stocks are not large and there has been a good sale. Blueberries are very firm and the output is light. In other lines of fruit the market is well supplied. Very few plums or cherries are used. Meats are unchanged. Domestic fish have a good demand at even figures.

GREEN FRUITS.—Dealers are kept very busy. Ontario grapes are the particular line at present. There is a good sale at quite full figures. Some Ontario peaches are still offered. In pears, the season is getting late, but some nice fruit is still seen. Apples are coming to the front. Prices are low because the fruit received is soft. Full prices will rule with winter stock. The Nova-Scotian crop is light. Even Gravensteins, our best fall apples, are scarce. In plums, Nova-Scotian stock is still received and full prices are asked. Jamaica oranges have the market and the prices are unchanged. Other West-Indian oranges show lower range. Lemons are quite high and have a fair sale. Bananas have rather less attention. Cranberries are freely received. The local small berries are quite scarce.

DRIED FRUITS.—The quoting of Californian seeded raisins led to active buying of Californian fruit. The quantity of loose muscatels bought was smaller than usual on account of the prices being quoted so late dealers had bought the Malaga fruit. New Valencias are daily expected. Prices will be high. The Denia market has been very unsettled for some weeks. It is difficult to obtain quotations. Quite a few have been sold through New York. Currants will be quite low this season. Dates, while bought quite low, are higher. Peels are shortly expected. Figs are much higher than when the trade bought. Prunes will be low. Evaporated apples are quite freely received and prices are rather easier. Onions have considerable attention. Spanish have been quite low. The quantity of these brought here is quite small. Canadian yellow onions are freely received. The prices are unchanged.

DAIRY SUPPLIES.—Butter holds quite firm in price. Of poor quality, stock is light, so that bakers find it hard to get much cheap stock. Eggs are quite firm. Receipts are not large and the demand is only fairly active. Henery stock brings quite high price. Cheese is scarce and rather higher. For local trade twins are wanted.

SUGAR.—The market is again firmer. Prices here were slightly advanced this week, and refineries will not book orders ahead. The sales are large.

MOLASSES.—There is a good, steady trade. Quite a full stock is held, but it is in few hands, and is chiefly Porto Rico. Some Barbados is still here. Some of this was of particularly good quality, but it did not run even.

FISH.—This is quite an active line, but the stock is light. While there have been quite free receipts of pickled herring during the week, the market is still short. There is quite a western demand. Prices will continue firm. New smoked herring are being received. The supply, so far, has been light, and full prices are asked. Dry fish, particularly cod, are very firm. Receipts are light. Fresh fish are scarce. Finnan haddies are being more largely shipped and full prices rule. We quote: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5½ to 7c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.65 to $1.70 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $2 to $2.25 per half barrel; dry cod, $3.50 to $3.65; halibut, 11 to 12c.; pickled shad, half barrel, $6.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—In flour, there is no change and a good, steady business is being done. Feed is quite freely offered at reasonable figures. In oats and oatmeal, rather easier prices rule. Much of the oatmeal is poor. Dealers are largely to blame, as they will not pay full prices. Brans are much higher and the outlook is very firm. It is hard to get shippers to quote. Cornmeal is unchanged. Peas are scarce. Barley has a rather light sale. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4.15 to $4.20; medium, $3.95 to $4.10; oatmeal, easy at $4.40 to $4.50; cornmeal, $3.20 to $3.25; middlings, in small lots, $26 to $28; oats, new, 40 to 44c.; handpicked beans, $1.85 to $1.90; prime, $1.75 to $1.80; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.40 to $4.50; hay, new, $9 to $10.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

John Sealy has received several large shipments of new smoked herring.

James Patterson is in receipt of some fine Grand Manan pickled herring in half barrels.

The low price of jams has created a very large demand. Upton's goods are being received almost daily.

The Maritime Spice and Coffee Company have added "Acorn" Shredded cocoanut in quarters and halves to their special lines.

The first gallon apples of the season were received this week. They were shipped by J. G. Rood & Co., Waterville, Nova Scotia.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, October 6, 1902.

BUSINESS has been considerably accelerated by the continued fine weather and increased movement of grain. Up to date a little over 6,000,000 bushels have been marketed, and already from all over the country comes the cry of a blockade, owing to the shortage of cars. Jobbers also find difficulty in getting their goods for the same reason.

CANNED VEGETABLES.—The situation in tomatoes shows no signs of improvement, and the reports from Ontario as to shortage of crop are now fully confirmed. In fact, buyers who have recently visited the east seem to doubt there being even 25 per cent. of the average crop. The price has not yet been further advanced here, but the market is very firm. In regard to corn, the Western Ontario crop is reported fair, but the eastern is very light. Altogether the canned vegetable outlook is not encouraging. In canned fruits there is a good supply and normal business in nearly all lines.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—Reports as to advanced prices on Californian apricots and peaches will have little or no effect on this market for a considerable time at least, as all the houses here bought heavily at the lower prices, and the bulk of the winter stocks are already to hand. Apricots range from 8½ to 10c., according to brand and pack, and peaches, 8½ to 9c. Prunes are now quoted at the figures for the new crop: 10-50, 7½ to 7⅞c.; 50-60, 7 to 7¼c.; 60-70, 6½ to 6¾c.; 70-80, 6 to 6¼c.; 80-90, 5½ to 5⅝c.; 90-100, 5 to 5½c.; 100-120, 4c. Quotations on 30-40 are not yet to hand. Californian muscatel raisins are due to arrive in three weeks and the opening quotations are expected to be: 4-crown, 8c.; 3-crown, 7½c.; 2-crown, 7c.; London layers, $1.90 to $2; fancy seeded, in 1-lb. cartons, 10c.; choice, 9½ to 9⅞c.; 12-oz. packages, about 8c. New Valencia raisins are in, and fine off-stalk are quoted at $2.55 to $2.60. There is nothing new to say about currants; the sale is steady and prices remain unchanged.

TEAS.—New Japan teas are on the market and show excellent quality.

EVAPORATED APPLES.—New evaporated apples are in, and the quality is very good. Present quotations are 8 to 8½c., but many go lower, as the pack promises to be large, as much of the crop which is unfit for export is perfectly good for purposes of evaporation.

SUGARS.—There is a good, steady market at unchanged prices. We quote as follows: Extra standard granulated, $4.35 and bright yellows, $3.75.

GREEN FRUITS.—The preserving season is practically over for everything excepting grapes and pears. Ontario grapes are not coming in very freely up to the present time, and the price remains at 35 to 40c. a basket, according to the variety. Apples are arriving in fair condition and selling freely at $1.50 per box and $3.50 per barrel; boxed pears, $2.50, basket, ditto, 75c. Montana crabs, $2 per box; oranges, $5.50 to $6 per case; Californian lemons, $5.50; bananas, $3; plums, $1.50; peaches, $1.25 per case; cranberries, $9 per barrel.

FISH.—The market for both fresh and cured fish is good. The demand for fish foods is decidedly on the increase. Fresh fish, whitefish, 5c.; pickerel, 4c.; pike, 3c.; trout, 10c.; salmon, 12½c.; halibut, 11c.; fresh cod, 7c.; fresh haddock, 7c.; mackerel, 13c.; herrings, 15c. per dozen; salt and cured fish, Labrador herring, $4.25; mackerel, $1.80 per kit; Holland herring, in kits, $1; Digby chicks, 13½ to 14c.; boneless cod, 5½c.; oysters, selects, $2.50 per gallon.

BUTTER.—The receipts of the week have been only fair and the demand is good. Qrices are 19 to 20c. factories. There is no increase in the supply of dairy butter for the week, and as the demand is active prices are very firm for all the best grades. Prices run from 13½ to 15c. for choice fresh made in round lots Winnipeg.

CHEESE.—One car of Ontario has reached this market and a number are under order, the local make not being sufficient to meet the demands of the market. Local offerings have been small during the week and prices are firm at 11½c. Winnipeg.

EGGS.—Receipts for the week have been small and the price has again advanced, 16½ to 17c. Winnipeg being now quoted for fresh gathered, subject to candling.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, October 6, 1902.

AUTUMN trade in the grocery business is now well under way, and there is every prospect of a heavy season's business being done. The farmers throughout the country are commencing to market their produce, money seems to be plentiful, and everything tends to give a healthy tone to business. With the purchasing medium plentiful, the people are inclined to purchase more largely, and the majority of jobbers and general dealers are stocking up accordingly. The city wholesalers are all pretty busy at present and they have well-founded hopes of a regular increase for the next month or two. Payments are being well met, and the losses from failures have been considerably less than in former years.

Sugar is again fluctuating. Last week the local refineries advanced prices five cents per hundred, corresponding to a like advance in Montreal. Following this comes the report that in New York sugar is down five points. The trade in molasses is limited at this period, and prices are sustained to full quotations.

* * *

Flour prices are firm, the millers being inclined to an advance, especially in the higher grades. Stocks here have been allowed to run low, as well as in other quarters, and the millers seem to take advantage of the rush of orders coming in. However, as wheat is firmer lately, the price of all flours and possibly feeds, may be subject to an advance.

Butter is coming in strong at this season, when the cattle have advantage of better fall feed. There is a good demand, however, and prices are becoming firmer, all grades having advanced 1c. within the last ten days. Cheese is also firmer. On reports of advancing prices in England, the factories here are holding out for full prices on September make, very little of which has changed hands as yet. Eggs are still quoted at 17c. for Nova-Scotian and 16c. for Prince Edward Island.

* * *

Prince Edward Island produce has commenced to come in, but not in sufficient quantities to affect the market to a decline. As was the case last season, the greater part of the butter, eggs, cheese (except what is exported), and potatoes goes now to Sydney, where a ready market is found. Potatoes of good quality are now plentiful and are quoted at 40 to 45c. The crop seems to have been large and the season favorable to a growth of good quality. Hay and oats are only being marketed in small lots to meet present demands, as the price has not been definitely fixed.

There have been considerable apples on the market during the last week or two. The crop has only been light and apples are selling very high. Gravensteins, of no particular grade—those that certainly would be unfit for No. 1's in any market—are selling at $3 to $4, and other varieties in proportion.

A TOURIST FROM TRINIDAD.

MR. J. E. deGANNES, a cocoa planter of Trinidad, was a passenger to Halifax on the last trip north of the ss. Oruro, Capt. Seeley, of the Pickford and Black Line. Mr. deGannes had never before been in Canada, but expected to make a tour of the country as far west as Niagara before returning home. He thinks that with the very excellent steamship service between Canada and the West Indies a great many more Trinidad people will be induced to come north during the summer months in future. He says he was quite surprised to find such a good service and he thinks that Pickford and Black should make a special effort to develop the passenger trade north in summer as they have been doing for the southern trade in winter. On the way up the ship called at St. Vincent, Barbados, St. Lucia, Montserrat, Dominica, St. Kitts, Antigua and Bermuda at all of which Mr. deGannes went on shore and found much enjoyment noting the physical and social conditions of the different places. The ship's passenger list was not large, but they succeeded in having a very jolly time and all seemed delighted with Capt. Seeley as a navigator and commander.

Discussing the industrial condition of Trinidad, Mr. deGannes said that the outlook for sugar is very discouraging and that the loss of the industry will be felt severely by a large number of poor people who find employment on the different estates. He thinks, however, that the struggle will be only temporary as the opportunity for cocoa planting is especially attractive. Small holdings of land can be planted with cocoa, which, for the last ten years has paid a very fair margin of profit, and if the poor people once succeeded in starting on their own account, their future will probably be more secure than under old conditions.

Cocoa planting in Trinidad would seem to be a very profitable industry. Mr. deGannes says that the average planter grows about 200 bags per season, and some estates produce as high as 1,500 bags. The usual net profit for the past few years is about $10 per bag of 170 lb., and the planters are increasing the production from 10 to 15 per cent. yearly. Mr. deGannes thought that Canadian people should drink more cocoa. In a cold climate, such as ours, he thinks cocoa would be extremely suitable as a beverage of daily use, and he was rather surprised to find that it is regarded as a luxury by nearly all Canadian people. Mr. deGannes went west by the I.C.R. to Montreal. He travelled on the Maritime express.—Maritime Merchant.

THE KEEPING OF A GENERAL STORE.

I WILL now proceed to discuss the question of stocking. By this I do not mean what classes of goods a storekeeper should handle, for that will depend largely upon the demands made by his customers. For example, it is necessary in some instances for the general storekeeper to act as chemist also, where no professional man is established in the township. I wish principally to touch upon the methods which should be adopted in taking delivery of goods and putting them into stock. It is most important that some system of noting goods required, and checking goods received, should be followed. I am forcibly reminded of this by the experience of a friend of mine who entered into possession of a business which he was under the impression was in thoroughly good working order. In going through the stock preparatory to offering it for sale, he was quickly undeceived, for he found that, owing to the fact that the previous proprietor had not adopted any system of checking goods, he had accumulated in his clothing department a large stock of boys' suits of one size only, and there was scarcely a single suit of any other size. It was highly improbable that this individual had purchased all those suits at once, and it illustrated to my mind the absolute necessity of a close watch being kept upon every line of goods handled.

As regards stocking, the first thing to be observed is the marking off of the goods. I have known of instances where no marking off was done at all, the proprietor and his assistants carrying the prices paid for goods in their heads. These are, of course, somewhat extreme cases, but even in business where things are not quite as bad as this, still the system of marking is often by no means satisfactory. I have actually seen goods unconsciously offered at 25 per cent. below their cost price, and just at time of writing I saw another article in another trader's shop marked at 1s. 6d., which actually cost 1s. 4½d. at place of purchase, nearly 100 miles distant. I think I am safe in saying that the 1½d. difference in invoice price and selling price was more than swallowed up in cost of carriage and handling.

Immediately upon taking delivery of a consignment of goods it should be decided what margin is to be observed between the invoice price and selling price. There are four things to be taken into consideration in deciding upon this margin. The invoice price certainly is not the cost price. The charges which occur between the invoice and selling prices are :

(1) Cost of carriage ;
(2) Cost of handling ;
(3) Payment for one's own services, and
(4) Interest on capital laid out.

I recognize that the margin will vary according to circumstances. Local conditions have an important bearing upon it. In many cases it really resolves itself into a question not what is a fair profit to make on a certain article, but what it is possible to make. Too often one's competitor decides his profits for him.

Personally, I am strongly of opinion that every article should show profit, be it ever so small. I would emphasize my previous point that cost of carriage must be added to every line. This is my method in detail. When I commenced business 20 years ago, I noted the weights of articles that generally arrived in separate packages, such as jams, currants, pickles, preserved milk, etc. Then I divided the amount of my railway charges on these particular packages by the number of tins or bottles comprising the package, and was thus enabled to estimate what percentage should be added to the invoice price. This system I have continued ever since. Bulk stuff, such as flour, sugar, etc., is bought by the ton, and is charged at special rates, and therefore presents no difficulty in estimating the cost of carriage. But there are hundreds of articles sold in a general store which cannot be individually inquired into to find the actual cost of carriage. Now, it is with these that I adopt the general average principle. I find out the cost of carriage on all my goods, including currants, pickles, etc., but excluding stuff bought by the ton, such as iron, flour, wire, sugar, etc., for, say, six months. Supposing it amounts to £120, while my purchases total £2,400 for the same period, I then ascertain that this actually amounts to 5 per cent. charge all round. I therefore add 5 per cent. to the invoice price, for carriage, on all those goods upon which I cannot exactly gauge the charge.

I admit that in this somewhat crude manner some goods are made to bear more than a fair proportion of the cost of carriage, but on an average the system works out very well. Later on I hope to show how the percentage of working expenses can be estimated. For the present, let it suffice for me to point out that this is really a charge upon the business, which the business as a whole should bear. I have met traders who consider the invoice price as the cost price, and when they indulge in cutting to any extent they are actually cutting right into the bone, namely, the invoice price. Thus they are losing money in addition to working for nothing.

Having now ascertained the laid-down cost and made due allowance for working expenses, the question of profit arises. Just here it is impossible to say anything definite, for each trader must decide this question for himself. I can only impress upon your readers the necessity of making a fair average margin on the aggregate of the goods handled, for at the present time many articles, such as sugar, tobacco, etc., leave comparatively no margin, but on a great number of other lines, with due care, a fair profit can be made. The trader must bear in mind two points in which he is particularly interested, first, in securing a fair return for his own services, and, second, in getting interest upon his capital. He also has to remember that, amongst other incidental charges, are those of the inevitable bad debts, and such discounts as he might allow upon either cash or monthly accounts.

Now, for a word or two on "marking." The trader will, of course, have a private mark of some sort for his cost price. The system generally adopted is to take some word containing ten letters, such, for instance, as Cumberland, each letter standing for a figure—

| C | U | M | B | E | R | L | A | N | D |
| 1 | 2 | 3 | 4 | 5 | 6 | 7 | 8 | 9 | 0 |

I would suggest that the selling price be marked in plain figures, but some traders also adopt a private mark for this. This appears to be to be inadvisable, as you always want to impress your honesty of purpose upon the minds of your customers, and where the selling price is marked in plain figures people are more likely to have confidence in you. I might say, incidentally, that I have no sympathy with the trader who has two prices for the same article.

UNPACKING AND SORTING.

A word or two might not be out of place in regard to the unpacking and sorting of goods. Where possible, I would suggest that a small portion of the store be set apart for this purpose. I have a short counter in a back store which I find handy for both unpacking and repacking goods for delivery. All goods should be carefully checked with the invoices, and any shortage or discrepancy of any kind, whether it be in getting the wrong size or wrong brand of goods, should be immediately reported to the merchant or manufacturer. Not only should the goods be checked by the invoices, but the invoices in turn checked by the orderbook or cards (if the latter system be adopted). The marker will then proceed to mark cost and selling price, and if this be done systematically it will be found that the business of stock-taking at the end of the year will be greatly facilitated. Another advantage of having goods properly marked is that, if you desire to hold a sale, you will have little trouble in ascertaining what is the lowest possible price you can afford to sell the goods at.

As for those goods which the ordinary grocer handles, and which are probably of especial interest to your readers, I would emphatically state that a price-book should always be kept, otherwise there are bound to be vexatious differences in the selling price of the same article bought probably from different houses or at different times. The price-book must be kept up to date, and if you receive a consignment of goods upon which you think you can make a concession in prices, alter your price-book immediately. It would be a good idea to use different colored ink for alterations, as then the salesman, having the reduction brought prominently to mind, can easily draw the attention of the customer to the fact that this alteration has been made. Of course, in grocery lines, the cost prices cannot be marked on the goods, as they are in the drapery or hardware departments, but your order-cards or order-books will contain all these particulars. In conclusion, I would recommend that all invoices be checked, both in the extensions and additions. If this be done it will surprise the ordinary storekeeper to find out how many mistakes occur during the course of a year. Each item should be ticked off by the person who checks the goods, and the invoice should be initialled by the person who passes it as correct.—Country Storekeeper in The Australian Grocer.

Who are Using Trade Due Bills?

A Few Names of Progressive Merchants who Have Adopted the Cranston System

Aluminum and Brass Trade Due Bills are not a fad. They have passed the experimental stage and are now in use in thousands of the best departmental and general stores in the United States and Canada. On this side of the line they have steadily gained in popularity, and for one user ten years ago, there are now fifty. In adopting the system you are not making an experiment, but you are accepting and putting into practice one of the best business ideas of this progressive age. To those who had the courage some ten years ago to enter on an unknown, untried system, apparently expensive, the merchants of to-day owe a debt of gratitude. These forerunners have proven beyond the slightest possibility of a doubt that Trade Due Bills in Aluminum or Brass make the only satisfactory way of handling a produce trade: that they save time, trouble, labor, inconvenience and money; that they are a splendid advertising medium and that they are easily worth double their cost to the enterprising and up-to-date merchant who adopts them. Some users claim they are worth $200 a year to them.

Here are the names of some of those who have adopted the Due Bills:

Buck & Schmidt, New Dundee.
M. Y. Shantz, Berlin.
W. Lincoln Scott, Stratford.
Scofield & Co., Pt. Dover.
James & Deming, Brantford.
The Mason Co., Bowmanville.
Jas. Maylor & Son, Forest.
Playfair, Preston & Co., Midland.
Beck M'f'g. Co., Penetanguishene.
Stonehouse Bros., Wallaceburg.
Kane & Kane, Orillia.
J. Dickie, Oshawa.

Don't believe us, we are prejudiced. We have heard nothing but good words for them. Pick out two or three of the above and write to them and we will pay your postage. If you do not get satisfactory replies, do not order. SEND FOR SAMPLES.

"Dandy" Oyster

is our newest and most seasonable biscuit. You'll want it for your oyster customers during the winter. It's a light, crisp, tasty biscuit, highly commended by particular people who have used and are still using them. A necessary adjunct to oyster stews, soups, scollops, etc. Better order some now. You won't have to "push" them. They will be in good demand all through the "R" months.

TEA TASTING.

IN England tea tasting, as in this country, is quite a profession, and The London Tit-Bits has the following to say on the matter :

"Tea tasting is a talent which comes with birth and cannot be learned. And not ouly must a tea taster possess an extremely susceptible palate, but his sense of smell must also be particularly keen.

"Smelling, in fact, plays almost as important a part in the work as tasting. By simply handling and applying to his nostrils a pinch of tea from a dozen separate chests, an expert can often tell the quality of each and the price it is worth. And when it is mentioned that tea can be bought in Mincing Lane at from 3½d. to 7s. per lb., it will readily be understood that it requires no little skill to determine the various qualities.

"Tasting, however, is resorted to in order to make quite sure. A small quantity will be taken from, say, a dozen packages of tea, and after each sample has been carefully weighed will be placed in a tiny teapot. When the boiling water has been poured in the tea has to stand for exactly six minutes—which is the proper time it should be allowed to brew. It is then poured into cups and milk added, but no sugar.

"Taking a peculiarly shaped silver spoon, the taster, when the tea is sufficiently cool, will proceed to taste each cupful, and each packet from which the sample has been taken will be marked according to the judgment pronounced. Sometimes the taster has to take two or three spoonfuls from each cup in order to make quite sure that his judgment is not at fault. And even then it is sometimes considered necessary to have his opinion confirmed by one or two other experts. A tea taster, however, is seldom at fault, and some of them are so skillful that, by merely tasting a sample of tea in this manner, they can immediately tell where and when it was grown as well as its value.

"The tea leaves, too, are often taken from the pots and duly examined. For, although it is not considered an infallible test, yet good tea is often determined by the rich brown color of its infused leaves. It is also a peculiar fact that a taster can often tell from the size and the shape of a broken leaf the size of the original perfect leaf, and in that way come to a decision regarding the quality of the blend."

DEFINITION OF A GROCER.

Some years ago Mr. Artemus Ward gave the following definition of a grocer : "A grocer is a good-natured man who deals in the necessities of life at the corner. He solicits trade by marking all his goods down to cost and when the customers don't pay promptly he waits. Yes, he is the man who lives by selling sugar, and makes so much money on it that he is expected to give lumps of it to all the children. Oh yes, the grocer is a pious man. He rarely ever swears, except when he sells 18 lb. of raisins out of a 26-lb. box, or when he weighs out a barrel of granulated sugar and it lacks just 6 lb., or when he hears Mr. Never-Pay say, 'Charge it,' or when the summer is so hot he loses a dozen good cheese, or when the winter is so cold that his potatoes freeze, or—but your mother is calling you. Good-night, child ; I'll tell you the rest about the grocer another day."

FROSTS AND BRAZILIAN COFFEE.

THE subject of those Brazilian frosts which are reported to do so much damage to the coffee trees of Brazil is treated as follows by The Brazilian Review :

"We give a number of telegrams relating to the frost, from which it would appear to have been about as bad as it possibly could be if made to order. The fact that several of the big estates seem to have escaped damage altogether, whilst the neighboring plantations are reported to be almost destroyed, lends it an element of romance that would seem to counsel caution, an attitude that the failure of the local markets to respond to any extent confirms. No doubt there has been a severe frost and a good deal of damage has been done, the extent of which can, however, only be fully appreciated after the September and October flowerings.

"The effect of severe frost upon coffee trees during flowering is generally to ruin the flowering and, if very intense, to affect the twigs themselves, which dry and fall off. The buds and flowers corresponding to this year's July and August flowering must, therefore, have suffered severely and in many instances be entirely lost. Moreover, where the frost was very bad the trees will be weakened and be prevented from flowering as usual in September, October and November, except, perhaps, to a limited extent on the lower part of shrubs over 8 years of age. Trees up to 4 years must be pruned to prevent total loss. Older trees which are partially defended by abundant foliage generally only lose part of the latter, and entirely regain their vigor in a couple of years at most."

INQUIRIES ABOUT CANADIAN TRADE.

The following were among the recent inquiries relating to Canadian trade received at the Canadian Government Office in London, Eng.:

1. A London firm having branches at Beira, Port Elizabeth and Cape Town, desires to get into communication with Canadian firms wishing to establish agencies in South Africa for Canadian produce and manufactured goods.

2. A firm in Portsmouth desires to open up business relations with firms in Canada who are exporters of fruits, such as apples, etc. They will undertake sales at a fixed commission.

[The names of the firms making the above inquiries can be obtained upon application to the Editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

To the Dealers.

We have not advanced the price of our tobaccos. Amber Smoking Tobacco, Bobs, Currency and Fair Play Chewing Tobaccos are the same size and price to the consumer as formerly. We have also extended the time for the redemption of Snowshoe Tags to January 1st, 1904.

THE EMPIRE TOBACCO CO.
MONTREAL, QUE. LIMITED

Which is the Wisest Plan?

To sell the kind of teas that possess the essential qualities which contribute towards making every grocer's department profitable and successful—or to lose the opportunity of attaining a popularity for this department by handling teas the public will not show any particular partiality for.

OF COURSE

the former plan is the best for every go-ahead grocer to adopt, and as

Ceylon Teas

are conceded to be by far the most preferable teas imported into Canada, we make no exaggerated claim when we state that if you are anxious to please your customers and win their confidence and tea trade you will find of the greatest assistance to you in your most laudable ambition.

EVERYTHING

comes to the man who

WAITS,

but Robinson's Patent Barley

and Robinson's Patent Groats

have stood the test of over ninety years, and are now being sold by almost every reliable Grocer in Canada.

Don't WAIT until you are asked for them, but stock these Foods NOW.

THE ADVERTISING ARENA.

DO not take it for granted that everybody has time to read all you want to say in the space you occupy in your local paper.

The best advertisement that can be written is that which puts you in communication as directly as possible with those to whom you appeal and at the same time does not put you on a false footing with them.

* * *

Don't surround your ideas with typographic obstructions, nor let anything in your advertisement become more prominent than the one thing that is going to make customers of your readers.

* * *

An illustration should, as nearly as possible, convey some idea of what your business is. Do not fill your valuable space with something foreign to your product.

The first object of an advertisement is to cause the reader of it to believe that he needs the article advertised, and the second, to leave him in such a frame of mind that he will take the trouble to learn more about it.

* * *

The man who has a horse to sell selects his prospective customers, and then tells them about the horse. This is advertising, and it is about as far as advertising can go. What the man with the horse for sale tries to do is to get someone enough interested to look at the horse, then salesmanship comes in to do the rest.

Most failures in advertising come from the belief on the part of the advertiser that the only thing necessary is to state in the newspapers or other publications what he has to sell, and then sit down and wait for the orders to come in. Active salesmanship is required to cinch the business.

* * *

The country merchant, or the purely local advertiser in any line, can generally get assistance from the publisher of his local paper, and to him he should go for advice and help. The merchant knows what he has to advertise and what he wants to say—someone connected with the paper can help him say it so that it will attract the eye and impress the mind.

* * *

There is no use in buying advertising space unless one fills it up so as to get results. One might almost as well adopt the method sometimes seen in country papers, "This space will be filled by John Jones when he gets time to write an advertisement," as to advertise goods that cannot be delivered—unless capital is so great that it can afford to store up reputation for future use.

* * *

It sometimes seems as if the thing hardest to impress upon the average advertiser is that the buying of advertising space, while important in itself, is really the least important item in the success of the advertiser. More important by far is what is said in the space after it is bought.

* * *

If you purpose to go anywhere, to get there surely, quickly, and safely, you naturally take the shortest and best-equipped route. Advertisements are merely your representatives; therefore, if you want them to get there quickest, surest, and best, you must send them by the most direct route.

* * *

No matter what the size of a business may be, experience has proved that generous advertising will bring a crop of sales as surely as culture will bring a crop of grain. There is just one condition: the advertisement must be worth the attention of the buyers.

* * *

If nobody knew you, you couldn't sell a dollar's worth of goods. If a few people know you, you'll sell a few goods. The more people there are who know you and your goods, the more you will sell.

* * *

The space is valuable according to what you put in it. Blank space won't sell goods. Space filled with a meaningless jumble of words might as well be blank. The more clearly, concisely, convincingly your story is told, the more valuable you make your space. What you say in it makes it worth less or more than you pay for it.

USEFULNESS IN A CLERK.

HOW may a clerk improve his effectiveness is a subject that has often been considered and discussed. The following article on the matter appeared in a recent issue of The Retail Grocers' Advocate :

" Ambition is, without doubt, the mainstay of all prosperous people, whether in America or elsewhere," once remarked the late Stephen A. Douglass, and if we glance back a decade or two and note the progress made in life by even certain of our acquaintances, friends, schoolmates, relatives, etc., how can we help but believe the learned statesman's words.

Still, there are very many men of even brilliant minds, undoubted talents and excellent surroundings who do not possess ambition, and are to be pitied ; others, who have possessed ambition, and become discouraged through failure to advance with sufficient rapidity to suit their natural propensities and to whom patience is a stranger, have lost all semblance to ambition, and they are to be doubly pitied.

Thus it is with the young man who does not rise as rapidly in a chosen avocation as he would desire, and we find very many such in the grocery and other trades.

It certainly becomes a calamity when a young man admits he is disheartened and believes he cannot improve his position.

It is a sorry spectacle, indeed, to see any young man become unsettled in his employment, but what he really requires is a higher ideal and a knowledge that his work, no matte how humble, will not debar him from the highest position to be attained in the land.

No " pull," as it is vulgarly termed, is needed to do this ; it is gained by hard and conscientious work and devotion to the best and loftiest principles.

It was not influential friends, nor " pull," which has gained the high stations in life for so many occupants of them at the present time, or in other days. A majority of these men and women began life humbly and received the hard knocks of the world, but they remained firm to their ideals, and in time their devotion and patience was fully rewarded.

Ability, of course, counts for much ; in fact, it is the essential in all business, but unless tempered with other qualities which go to form a proper ballast, it would be of little purpose—for what use could a man of ability be put to if he did not possess honesty, forebearance, patience, sobriety and discretion ?

What business men want and insist in a clerk, or employe, is competency to discharge his work in a proper manner. They are expected to at least earn their wages, no matter what position they fill —whether at $7 or $200 a week.

But to rise to higher ideals it is incumbent upon them to gain all possible knowledge of the trade ; to be indefatigable in their efforts to win their employers' confidence, which is obtained by close application to their duties and a regard for his interests.

When this is finally attained the clerk is then the high road to success.

But this is, however, a crucial period with the young man, and the primary objects should not be lost sight of ; the same humble, willing and sacrificing spirit would still prevail, and conceit allowed no place in his life.

When certain men have attained to high positions, we frequently hear the remark that it was brought about through good luck, influence, etc., when in truth it has been neither—but perseverance, energy and indomitable will-power coupled with business ability, tact and honesty has accomplished it for them.

And many young men now serving in humble positions in our grocery stores are yet destined to reach those high stations in life, and many others, if they would inculcate the principles we have mentioned into their lives, would stand an equal opportunity.

An exchange publishes some good, sound advice to grocery clerks from one of their own kind, a portion of which we here quote :

" Now, how can a clerk show he desires to progress ?

" By being willing and courteous. Do as much as possibly lies in your power for the store in which you are working, and always remember that your employer's success is your success.

" Be five or ten minutes ahead of time in commencing work and don't think your duties are always over on the regular closing hour. While in one sense this may be true, yet, often in the few minutes spent after hours an employer learns more of the true value of his clerk than in all the hours of the day's business. And thus he cultivates that degree of intimacy which so often results in a superior position or raise in salary.

" Another thing, and keep it always in your mind, and that is this :

" No grocery clerk ever knew it all, and we are never too old to learn.

" Be never self-satisfied, but always and ever on the alert to improve one's knowledge of his business.

" Have confidence in your ability (not egotism or vanity), but a firm assurance that you are able to perform the task assigned. Don't become too anxious and expect results at once. Growth and development take time.

" Over anxiety leads to failure. Many a good man has wrecked his prospects because he was unable to wait until he had sufficient schooling to fill the position he desired."

HINTS TO BUYERS.

Contributors are requested to send news only not puffs of goods they handle, or the arrival of standard goods that everyone has in stock, or that they are offering goods at close figures, or that they have had an unusually large sale this season.

THE Eby, Blain Co., Limited, are offering New Valencia shelled almonds. They received their first shipment this week.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie will receive a very large consignment of new table raisins about November 1.

Eleme table figs, the first of the season, were received last week by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie have a quantity of Spanish onions, which they are offering to the trade at extremely low prices.

A shipment of "Mephisto" lobsters, flat ½'s, has just been received by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Grocers' Wholesale Co., Limited, Hamilton, advise that they have the choicest Vostizza currants with the true blue bloom.

An extensive line of fancy Malaga table raisins, in boxes and quarter flats, are offered by The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Hallowee and Sair dates, arriving about November 1, are offered at attractive prices to arrive by Grocers' Wholesale Co., Limited, Hamilton.

The Eby, Blain Co., Limited, are in receipt of large shipments of new season's currants, and are offering them at attractive figures for prompt shipment.

Clarke, Nicholls & Coombs' English barley sugar, in glass jars, is an attractive line for fancy fall trade, and is in store with The Eby, Blain Co., Limited.

Merchants desiring very choice Valencia raisins, something seldom seen upon the Canadian market, can procure them from Grocers' Wholesale Co., Limited, Hamilton.

The travellers of T. A. Lytle & Co., Toronto, are commencing to book many good orders for their choice mince meats. And as the season advances they will doubtless have increased their sales for this article.

Henri Jonas & Co., who for 33 years have been prominent importers of fine goods for the grocery trade, have an attractive line of French glass decanters, containing pure sugar fruit syrups. They should be in every grocery store for the holiday trade. They are of handsome appearance, and are sure to be sellers. Progressive merchants should place their orders at once.

TALK OF GROCERY COMBINE.

The Inter-State Grocer, of St. Louis, says that a combine, to include every wholesaler of groceries in the United States, is in the course of formation.

"The details," it says, "are not yet public property, and they will not be until after November 5 next, when the initial steps toward forming the combination will be taken in Detroit. George D. Hanford, of New York City, is engineering the deal. Already a large number of the leading wholesale grocers in the east have been seen by Mr. Hanford or his representatives, and nearly all have expressed their willingness to be present.

"An outline of the plan is as follows: 'It is proposed to take over the business of the entire line of wholesale grocers in the United States. One great corporation will be formed, which will buy outright the business and good-will of all the firms. A central office for the accommodation of the officers of the company will be maintained, probably in New York. This central office on all of the leading grocery products will do the buying for all the houses in the corporation. It is expected that this will enable the company to buy in such large quantities as to greatly reduce the first cost of the goods.'"

TRADE CHAT.

MRS. JAMES TRUESDALE, of Brantford, has several boxes of outdoor-grown strawberries. If the weather is spoiling the potatoes it is all right for berries.

A new cornmeal and milling business will be shortly started in New Glasgow, N.S., by J. B. Johnson, of that town, and D. Mc. Donald, of Trenton. The location is near the electric light station.

The Edmonton Milling Co. are erecting a new elevator at Strathcona. It will have a capacity of between 50,000 and 60,000 bushels, and will be a great convenience in stowing this season's large crop.

About 7.40 o'clock Monday evening Wm. McDonald, grocer, Bayfield street, Barrie, discovered his back shop to be in flames, but managed to put out the fire before the arrival of the brigade.

G. M. Bernard, who owns farms at Niagara, was fined for a violation of that section of the Fruit Marks Act which provides that the fruit on the face shall not be of better quality than that inside the package.

Orchard & Co., of Petrolia, Ont., who have leased the premises lately occupied by R. Lang & Co., have remodeled the store for the purposes of carrying on a fruit and confectionery business. The new firm opened up business October 4.

It is the intention of The Lake of the Woods Milling Co. to erect another large mill in Manitoba. This mill is to have a capacity of 5,000 bbls. per day, or 1,000 ahead of the Keewatin mill, which is the largest at present. The site is not decided yet, but the management say it won't be a point where there is only one railway.

The Edmonton Milling Co. has begun the erection of an elevator at Strathcona. It will have a capacity of between 50,000 and 60,000 bush. For a long time the company's storage capacity for grain has been insufficient and the new elevator will be a great convenience, especially in the stowing of the immense wheat crop of the district this season.

The Hedley-Shaw Company's flour mills of St. Catharines had a narrow escape from total destruction October 10. The elevator shaft and cupola are a total ruin, and a large quantity of wheat was badly damaged by smoke and water. A scow load of 10,000 bushels had just been unloaded. Heating of the elevator's machinery is supposed to have caused the fire. The loss cannot be estimated until it is seen how much of the wheat is damaged.

KEEPING PACE WITH THE TIMES.

Many and varied are the preparations which have been made for fall and winter trade by United Factories Co., Limited. Dealers will experience no difficulty in making their selections from the big stocks of brushes, brooms and woodenware. The ranges of these goods are very extensive, more especially perhaps in brushes, the Boeckh factory alone turning out over 10,000 different kinds, from the fine camel hair brush of the artist to the coarse dandy brush of the stable. Grocers' sundries also are well represented.

SECOND CROP OF FRUITS.

An extraordinary freak in the berry line this year is that several varieties have produced berries for the second time during the season. Reports from Guelph show that the second growth of raspberries is quite general there, while in the vicinity of London, both raspberries and strawberries have yielded a second crop in the month of September. The second crop of huckleberries in the neighborhood of Killarney, Collingwood, etc., is also abundant. This is due for the most part to the continuous wet weather in these parts during the summer.

THE PROVISION TRADE

AND COLD STORAGE NEWS.

PORK PACKING IN P.E.I.

DAVIES & FRASER, the extensive and widely known pork-packers, of Halifax, have submitted to the Government of Prince Edward Island a proposition which, they claim, is far more favorable than the terms before agreed upon with another concern for equipping a meat-packing and canning establishment and cold storage. They ask no concessions, save and except exemption from taxes for 25 years, and that the Government shall secure cold storage on the Charlottetown and Pictou steamers. They want to be assured also that 30,000 hogs and 1,000 beef cattle will be available yearly. It is believed in Halifax that this will kill the proposition signed by the Government with Montreal parties. This is a good, square business proposition, submitted by a successful concern, and it is the one that should be accepted by the Government without delay. Unlike the company boomed by D. A. Mackinnon and The Patriot, they do not ask the Government to guarantee their bonds and thus render the Province liable for a large amount. Their terms are liberal, reasonable and businesslike, and the Government will be justified in acceding to them. Messrs. Davies & Fraser are desirous that every farmer on Prince Edward Island should write them at once, stating how many hogs and cattle he can supply each month, and if they are assured of sufficient quantity they will begin operations without delay. Now, the farmers should do their part, first, by immediately giving Messrs. Davies & Fraser the required information, and, second, by raising more stock. This Province is capable of producing a vastly increased amount of all kinds of stock, and our farmers are not at present making the most of their advantages in this line. They should increase their flocks and herds to meet the growing demands of the Provincial and other markets, and of the big packing concerns that are ready to purchase, at good prices, all the cattle and swine that can be raised in this Province. There is money in stock, and our farmers should place themselves in a position to make the most of the industry.—Summerside, P.E.I., Journal.

CATTLE TRADE GROWING IN TORONTO.

"September's business was the heaviest of any month in the history of the cattle market," remarked Commissioner Coatsworth, of Toronto, a few days ago, as he handed out a statement of the cattle market business for the year. The figures for the nine months, as compared with last year's figures for the same period, follow :

| | 1901. | 1902. | Incr. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Cattle | 132,147 | 149,928 | 17,781 |
| Sheep | 85,417 | 104,833 | 19,416 |
| Hogs | 109,965 | 112,986 | 3,021 |
| Calves | 7,474 | 10,254 | 2,780 |

The weigh fees up to date for the year amount to $6,525.19, an increase of $804.50 over the corresponding period last year.

The increase in cattle is 10.3 per cent. ; sheep, 20.2 per cent. ; hogs, 2.7 per cent. ; and calves, 37.1 per cent. Weigh fees, 14 per cent.

COLD STORAGE FOR FRUIT.

The Agricultural Department at Washington has begun a series of exhaustive investigations into the matter of cold storage. There are a number of mysterious manifestations which take place in a cold-storage warehouse, and the Government agents are endeavoring to ascertain the why and wherefore of these. For instance, it has been often noted that one lot of fruit will keep in fine condition for many months, while another immediately near it will rot in a comparatively few days. This is particularly true of peaches. It has also been noticed that some peaches lose their delicate flavor very quickly in cold storage, while others are not affected in the least. In order to get at the facts, an agent of the Agricultural Department has been assigned to take a specimen carload at Fort Valley, Ga., and to moke careful observation of the manner of picking and packing and to follow the fruit through the various stages through which it must pass on its way to a cold storage plant in Jersey City. Here the fruit will be watched carefully during its prolonged stay by the same agent, who will make a detailed report of his observations. The same programme will be carried out with other shipments of peaches as well as other fruit.

ICED CAR SERVICE.

S. P. Howard, general freight agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, has issued a circular calling the attention of shippers and agents of connecting lines that the iced car service for the transportation of butter and dairy products to Montreal, as provided for last May, will be discontinued the week ending October 18.

SAUSAGE-MAKING RULES.

In making sausages the butcher needs to mix with the ingredients some commonsense without which nothing can be done properly in any business. An esteemed contemporary, The National Provisioner, has been favoring its readers with rules for making sausages, which we reproduce as follows :

To obtain good sausages, cleanliness, good meats, good seasonings and good spices must be used.

Wash the cutters, stuffers, etc., after using. Then rub their iron parts, after dry, with cottonseed oil, or pure neatsfoot oil to prevent subsequent rust.

Be sure the water used is fresh, running and pure, with good drainage. This minimizes odors.

The more sausage that is made the lower the cost of production.

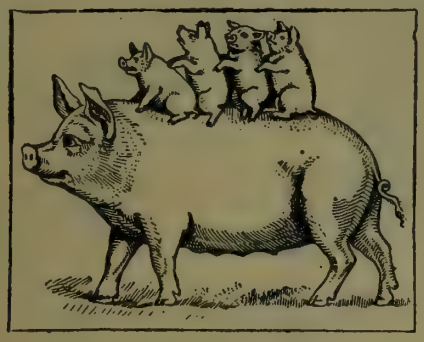
A valuable implement in a small sausage factory is a small, sensitive scale which weighs to a quarter of an ounce. This scale prevents the old, awkward, guessing "rule of thumb" way.

Certain kinds of beef are more profitable for sausage-making than others. For instance, freshly killed warm beef chopped up fine after cooling will absorb 50 per cent. more moisture than cold, stale meats. Meat being of a naturally dry nature will absorb its own weight in moisture. This fact is not generally known.

Meats should be well chilled before chopping. It doesn't clog the knife then so quickly.

Small, oily pieces of fat meats should not be used when working up large cubes of sausage meats.

The accumulations of the rooms should not be allowed to lie around to create odors.



In making blood color from the powder be sure to thoroughly dissolve the grain. Any undissolved powder will make bright red spots in the sausage when stuffed.

To color casings, soak them in the "dye" until they have the desired color. The sausage thus colored will need less smoking. Staining or painting sausages is another matter. These stains are made of 3½ oz. of saffron dissolved in 2 quarts of water, adding ½ pint of alcohol. Then add the yolks of 9 eggs beaten in ½ pint of water for winter stain. The egg ingredient is not needed for the summer season.

Air-dried sausage should be stuffed tightly to allow for the shrinkage in drying.

Casings should be flexible and entirely free from salt before the sausage meat is stuffed into them.

Sausages should be stuffed even, round and full. If too full they will crack when being cooked. If too thin, will wrinkle and show signs of age when dried.

Soak the casings slightly in warm water for an hour or two before using. They will then slip on the stuffer easy. A pinch of bicarbonate of soda added to the warm soak will greatly help to soften the casings.

Puncture large bolognas with a sharp awl to prevent air bubbles or "blisters."

Sausages are best cooked in water-jacketed kettles. They cook the sausage uniformly.

Save the fat and grease skimmed off in cooking sausages. Add it to the rendered lard if not too highly spiced; otherwise, add it to the grease pot and sell it to the tallow man.

If the skimmed grease is not white enough bleach it with the following mixture: 3 oz. borax, 1½ oz. sal ammoniac and 9 oz. sal soda, dissolved in water to each 350 lb. of grease. Boil up the grease and the mixture together. Then boil together two hours. Then let settle and take off the white grease.

Only use potato flour as a filler in bologna sausages and cracker meal, cracker or sausage meal alone or together in pork sausage.

In "dry" sausages, such as salami, summer sausages, etc., add no water or fillers. The object is to exclude the chances of moisture to aid ripening.

No preservative should be put in "dry" sausages as antiseptics prevent or retard their ripening. The absence of water and the presence of the necessary amount of salt for seasoning will keep this class of sausages sufficiently.

TO IMPORT CANADIAN PRODUCE.

The Earl of Aberdeen, Lord Balfour of Burleigh and Sir William Purdie Trevoar are forming a company, capitalized at £550,000, to import Canadian produce on a large scale. Canada should supply one-third instead of one-seventh of Great Britain's fresh food import of £140,000,000. The company are to estblish cold storage warehouses at the principal English ports, and have wholesale houses and restaurants in

THE PROVISION MARKETS.

TORONTO.

There has been a moderately active demand for beef and dressed hogs during the week at prices which are unchanged. The arrivals of hogs have been fairly free, and there is enough beef to supply the demand. The prices of live hogs have declined 25c. We quote as follows: Dressed hogs, $8 25 to $8.75; beef carcasses, $5.25 to $8.00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $6.00 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.00 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 7 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 6½ to 7c. Select live hogs are worth $6 25 and fat and lights, $6.00 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

These is a good business still being done in provisions. The lard market is gaining strength and stocks are light. We quote: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14½ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10c.; plate beef, $15 per 200-lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

The market for hog products has been rather quiet, though steady, during the past week. Not much change in price is reported. Light Canada short cut clear pork is lower. Pure and compound lard are moving fairly well, and for bacon and hams there is a good demand. Dressed hogs have again declined, this week being 25c. per 100 lb. below last week's prices. At present, fresh killed abattoir dressed hogs are selling at $9 to $9 25 per 100 lb. Our quotations are now as follows: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail; Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ¾c.; 5-lb. tins, ⅞c.; 3-lb. tins, 1c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20-lb. pails, and 11⅛c. for 60-lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $23.50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23 50 to $24.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24.50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14.50 to $15.00 per bbl.

TOMATOES ON THE COAST.

REFERRING to tomatoes Coast mail advices say: "The hot weather in this State has seriously injured the tomato crop. The shortage will be heavy and packers will be compelled to make pro rata delivery. Some of the early heavy sellers at 85c. delivered east will no doubt be called upon to settle, as they will not be able to make deliveries. The cold wet weather in the east and south has cut the tomato crop and pack, and eastern packers are in trouble. Dealers will be unable to supply their wants in this line this year. Last season the short crop and heavy demand cleaned up the entire country of tomatoes, and this season growers, packers and jobbers made extra preparations to fill up the retailers' shelves, but they will have to wait until 1903 to lay in a stock.
wait until 1903 to lay in a stock."

STOCKS OF RAISINS IN SPAIN.

A cable from Denia reports the market there on Valencia layer raisins as practically exhausted of supplies. Holders on the spot have advanced to 9 @ 9¼c. and to 9c. on goods to arrive. Sultanas are also more firmly held on new fruit to arrive in sympathy with stronger cable advices from Smyrna.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

TEA IN NEW YORK.

The tendency of prices continued toward a higher basis and at the close 18½c. in bond was quoted as lowest for Formosa and 13c. in bond for Foochow Oolongs. It is understood that during the week a fair volume of business has been transacted, but the sales that have been reported show only moderate totals. The line business has been fairly active.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, October 13.

SHIPMENTS OF SMYRNA FIGS.

Private mail advices from responsible sources in Smyrna under date of September 15 state that the total shipments of bag figs to that date did not exceed 19,000 bags, compared with a total to the same date last year of 69,000 bags. The shipments of bag figs are extremely light, and it is believed here that heavy short sales have been made and that shippers under present conditions will be unable to deliver but a small proportion of the stock purchased.

SITUATION IN SUGAR.

Willett & Gray say of raw sugar: "As long as the receipts continue to exceed the requirements, present conditions will continue, and inasmuch as the requirements will shortly be reduced, owing to the decreased demand for refined at the Atlantic ports, a material improvement in raws may be delayed, unless some damage occurs to the European beet crops, more than is evident at the moment. Official figures of stock in principal countries on the even date of September 1 are only just obtainable and amount to 1,773,130 tons, which is smaller than was expected and indicates either a heavy increase in actual consumption or a large invisible stock in Germany, Austria or France. The invisible stock in the United Kingdom is not large, and in the United States it is unusually small."

CANNED MUSHROOMS AND SARDINES.

In connection with canned sardines and mushrooms (imported) Mr. Charles Back, representing J. Ramell and the United Cultivators of Mushrooms of Paris, France, in a recent interview in New York said: "The supply of mushrooms for canning purposes has been only one-third of the usual quantity available in late years. The market, when I left Paris ten days ago, was strong, with an advancing tendency. The pack of sardines has been smaller than usual, and the fish generally have run to large sizes. A New York firm has bought up the bulk of the supply of small fish. My firm is entirely sold out of sardines. The supply of sprats is better, and this year the quality is good. Many factories in France will not be able to keep their engagements this season on account of the poor pack of sardines."

COAST SEEDED RAISIN TROUBLE.

According to private advices from the Coast the negotiations conducted with a view of bringing together the outside raisin seeders and the combine has been abruptly brought to an end, leaving the several interests as wide apart as they were before. The advices in the shape of telegrams hold out little prospect of a settlement of the existing differences and state that on the present basis for seeded, 6¾c. for fancy in 1-lb. cartons, outside seeders are not disposed to confirm freely. Private mail advices in this connection from outside sources say: "The prices are so low that seeders are losing from $40 to $50 per carload. This is all brought about by the fact that the combine—the Pacific Coast Seeded Raisin Co.—made a price so low as to show no profit in order to drive out the outside seeders. The effort to bring about an adjustment of existing differences has resulted in failure, the terms proposed by the combine not meeting the views of the outsiders. As a result the combine has thrown down the gage of battle and it is a fight, but one which may be settled at any time." It is intimated here on the strength of Coast advices from confidential sources that the main difference between the two interests was the question of an advance in prices. It is claimed that the combine objected to the advance asked for on the ground that to do so would defeat the object for which the low price was made, namely, that of cutting out the eastern seeding interests, or at least reducing their importance as a competing factor. The advices intimate that the outside seeders may ultimately accomplish their object, and in that event an advance may be looked for.

One advice received here states that a Coast interest is getting seeded raisins at a delivered price equivalent to ⅝c. to ¼c. reduction from the Fresno opening price, and this in face of the fact, the advice states, that the Association is not rebating to seeders from the opening figures. Advices here from large cities in the Middle West show that a heavy business has been done in seeded raisins.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce.

COLOMBO TEA AUCTION.

Dodwell & Co., Limited, Colombo, under date of September 3, report: "Of 12,512 packages, equal to 1,051,708 lb. brought forward, 9,876 packages, equal to 814,162 lb., found buyers. The auction dragged somewhat owing to the disinclination of buyers to start bidding, but once the teas were 'put in' competition was fairly brisk. The demand still continues strong for broken grades, and recent rates were well maintained. Good common leaf teas received less support than recently, and prices may be quoted 1c. lower for orange pekoes. Common sorts were firm. Quality.—From some of the high districts is very good, but from others there are indications of falling off. The average price for the sale held on the 20th ultimo was 33c., as compared with 33c. for the previous sale."

CALIFORNIAN APRICOTS AND PEACHES.

A letter from a San Francisco house refers as follows to peaches and apricots: "The demand is good, causing a fairly active market, although some of the trading is of a speculative nature. Choice, unpeeled bleached peaches are not so plentiful as early estimates would indicate. Lack of help and shortage of trays have cut down the possible output of cured fruit very materially and the crop of cured peaches is certainly 20 per cent. short of early estimates. Fancy and extra choice fruit is scarce, owing to the enormous size of the crop and unfavorable conditions for handling the fruit as fast as it is ripened. It required rapid work to save the crop, hence neglect of details. Fancy Moorpark apricots are out of the market."

some few tomatoes are arriving in the city which packers are eagerly taking. Harford county corn is quoted here at 67½c.; dry packed at 85c. and extras at $1. These prices on corn here in Maryland, which has been admittedly favored on its corn pack, tell better than anything else the strong position this article has taken from scarcity. Peaches of all kinds are about 5c. per dozen higher than last week's quotation. The cheaper grades have advanced the most. No. 3 pies are quoted at 80 to 90c.; gallon peeled pies are held at $3.25; No. 3 seconds at 90c. to 95c.; standards at $1.15 to $1.20. Pineapple has also advanced slightly. Gallon pie grated in water are now quoted at $2.35.—The Trade, Baltimore, Md., October 10.

UNITED STATES SALMON PACK.

San Francisco mail advices say of salmon: "According to a report from an official of the Alaska Packers' Association, the salmon season has turned out better than was anticipated. The total pack will be nearly 4,000,000 cases. The Alaska Packers' Association will have a larger pack than last year's and their relative position is better. All of their vessels from Bristol Bay have returned, and there have been no disasters whatever. During 36 hours on last Saturday and Sunday six vessels came through the Golden Gate with a total of 235,000 cases of salmon for the Association. This is the largest quantity of salmon that has ever arrived in such a length of time. At 500 cases to a carload these cargoes would fill 470 cars. The salmon is now being reshipped in all directions."

At a large and representative meeting at Sydney, C.B., a few days ago, The Cape Breton Brewing Co., Limited, was organized, and the company will be immediately incorporated, with a capital of $25,000. A large brewery is to be erected either at Sydney or Glace Bay. A number of local men and one or two outsiders form the company.—Summerside Journal.

AN ARBITRARY ACT.

THE dispute between the tea-clearing house and those who object to its monopoly is thus commented on by a British grocery paper. The resolution of the Tea Buyers' Association, published last week, calling on the Tea Clearing House to expunge Rule 3, "which practically gives that Association a monopoly of all the tea imported into London," has been promptly met with the refusal of the latter body on the ground that the rule is "the only obligation on the part of the tea trade in consideration of the privileges received by the subscribers of the Tea Clearing House Association, and the cancelling of such rule would strike at the foundation of the Tea Clearing House." The two positions are thus sharply defined, but the prevailing opinion amongst the trade is that the Clearing House Association will have to recede from the attitude they have taken up. It is considered that economies in warehouse charges are both essential and expedient, and it is only because the promoters of these reforms are desirous of moving with the spirit of the times that any reductions in the wharfage charges for warehousing, sampling, etc., are introduced. The whole question has arisen through the Customs having lately given permission for the opening of a new bonded tea warehouse at Gun Wharf, which offered lower rates than those formerly established. A leading merchant availed himself of those more favorable terms, and entered into an agreement to have his teas placed there for a period of five years. The proprietors of Gun Wharf were refused admission to the Clearing House, which body, in order to meet the new competition, also quoted a lower quay rate, and expelled those of their members who had bought teas warehoused at Gun Wharf. Beyond one or two bidders these teas have been more or less since boycotted at the public sales, and several breaks have been withdrawn from want of proper offers, or else sold at very low prices. This week, however, Gun Wharf teas have met with a far better reception at the auction, and as the names of fresh buyers have been announced a cheer has gone up, followed by the jocose remark that "you will be turned out." It may be remarked that since its formation in 1888 the Clearing House has proved itself more than useful to the trade at large; but, while admitting this much, the attempt to compel buyers to purchase at particular warehouses is looked upon as arbitrary and unwarranted, and neither merchants nor buyers could reasonably be expected to support so retrograde a movement."

BUSINESS.

What is business? Ask the Jew;
Ask the crafty Yankee, too;
Ask the Briton, if you please,
Haughty trader of the seas;
Ask the German and the "Jap"—
Aye, ask any clever chap;
All will tell, at least they know,
For their trades like pistons go.
What is business? Ask the sage,
And he'll stammer in his rage:
"Business is a thing apart—
Neither science, neither art;
For itself and all the time,
Makes no claim to be sublime;
Greedy grab and stingy mint.
Religion, learning, love and all
Wither 'neath its blighting fall.
All they say is: 'Well—um—ah—
Business, sir, is business'—bah!"
What is business—the real thing?
Ask an honest business king:
"Business is the thing to do,
And the way to put it through;
Honest as the yard is long—
Honest as the pure is strong;
Honest as a pound in weight;
Honest as a plummet's straight;
Prompt as planets in their swing
Round their orbets journeying;
Self-commanding as the right,
As a Chesterfield, polite;
Damon's honor binds each deal—
All is for the common weal;
And the vision of a seer
Must all enterprises steer."
Business is a cubic thing;
Square in all its bargaining;
Square to God and square to man;
Square to self on any plan;
Square to all the winds that blow—
Squarest thing that mortals know.
Business that is not four-square
Isn't business—see? Now, there!
—Walter F. Longacre in N. Y. Commercial.

CANADIAN FLOUR PROVED THE BEST.

SOME time since a trial shipment of flour from Manitoba wheat was sent to Japan. Shortly afterwards a report came back to the effect that the flour was not suitable for that market and not of good value. Mr. Wm. Hutchison, Dominion Exhibition Commissioner, immediately set out to investigate. He selected nine barrels of Oregon and Washington flour and also an equal number of flour from Manitoba hard wheat. This he submitted to the leading bakers at Ottawa for the purpose of securing a practical test. The result of this test is eminently satisfactory, as far as flour from Manitoba wheat is concerned, the flour from the latter yielding 21 lb. more of bread than the flour made from the Oregon and Washington samples.

As we heve already said, this is most satisfactory for Canadian flour, for, although at present we do but a small business with the Orient in flour, the possibilities for trade in that direction are bright. This may be gathered from the fact that such countries as China and Japan are large importers of wheat flour; and then it must not be forgotten that the United States is a large exporter to those countries. For example, for the fiscal year ending June 30 last, they exported the following amounts: To the Chinese Empire, $291,252; Hong Kong, $4,164,693; Japan, $137,793. In fact, their total exports of flour to Oriental countries reached nearly $5,000,000. How small is the amount of flour exported from Canada to the Orient may be gathered from the fact that last year it was valued at less than $9,000, and of this amount nearly the whole went to Japan.

The total export trade in flour of the United States to all countries is over $65,600,000, while that of Canada is scarcely $4,000,000.

The development of the flour trade of the United States with the Orient has, no doubt, been very much aided by the direct steamship lines which the Northern Pacific Railway have put on from Pacific Coast ports. Mr. Hill, as our readers are aware, is a Canadian and it is to be hoped that some of the Canadians who have remained in their own country will eventually succeed in developing a trade in flour with the Orient that will compare more favorably in value with that of the United States than is now the case. Mr. Hutchison has certainly by his efforts clearly demonstrated that Canada can produce flour which is superior in quality to that made from Oregon and Washington wheat.

But this is not the first time the superiority of our flour has been demonstrated. A couple of years ago the British Admiralty, after a severe test, decided that Canadian flour was superior to all others for use in the navy.

SHORT BROOM-CORN CROP.

AN investigation has been made of the broom-corn crop of Illinois, U.S., and the plant was found to be fully 25 per cent. less than last year. The old stock left over from former years is the smallest since 1899. The yield indicates that it will hardly be up to last year, the old crop as a whole being deficient in hurl. Heavy yields with long corn is expected. The long and heavy rains and cool nights of the summer produced a large growth of stalk, but the cold nights during the maturing season of the bush served to shorten up the length of the same.

The broom-corn harvested in August, during the excessive rainy season, is much off color, rather poor growth and much of it shed stained; but the bulk of the crop has been harvested in September, under more favorable weather conditions, and shows the best fibre for years—plump in growth, fair to good color, and, as a rule, may be classed as tipped corn, very short of hurl, but, as a whole, very profitable stock to manufacturers, and it is thought will show more dozens per ton than former years.

Three-quarters of the broom-corn of the world is grown in Central Illinois.

ADVANCES IN PICKLES.

THE prices of the cheaper grades of Canadian bottled pickles have been advanced 25c. per dozen, and of those in bulk 50c. per gallon. This is owing to the shortage in the cucumber crop, which is only from ¼ to ⅓ that of last year. The rains and unfavorable weather during the summer were the cause of this, and now that the vines have been killed by the frost, the extent of the shortage is known. Prices may go still higher. The imported article is also a serious competitor with the home product, and this will have the effect of keeping down the prices here to some extent, however. But the crop in the United States is reported to be in a condition similar to that in Canada, and as large quantities of cucumbers in brine are shipped every year to Great Britain to be made into pickles, this may have the effect of stiffening the prices there too. But Holland and France are the heaviest contributors of pickles in brine to the Old Country market, and unless the crop in those countries is a poor one the English pickles are not expected to advance to any extent.

Onions of pickling size are also scarce this year, as the moisture caused this vegetable to grow to a large size.

Cauliflower is reported a good crop, and so pickles into the manufacture of which this vegetable enters largely ought not to be very high in price.

BUSINESS MEN IN PARLIAMENT ORGANIZE.

VARIOUS expedients have been devised at different times by the business men of Great Britain to meet the growing competition of United States manufacturers, but none seems to be so much to the point as the latest move, recently explained in a letter to The London Times. This is no less than a commercial committee of the British Parliament. This regularly constituted committee has been the outcome of a series of meetings attended by such members of the House of Commons as were interested in the development of the trade and commerce of the country. They met with the belief that, by means of their concentrated action in Parliament, more could be accomplished than if the initiation of movements rested solely with individuals or with the Government.

A committee of 130 members was accordingly drafted, in which all the political parties were represented, with the expressed object of studying from a non-partisan standpoint the commercial needs of Great Britain and giving legislative effect to the points decided upon in conference. The name of British Parliamentary Trade Commission was bestowed on the new organization.

The movement forms a practical demonstration of what THE CANADIAN GROCER has long advocated. Its readers will recall many instances in which it has referred to the election of business men to Parliament with the utmost approbation. The idea of combining these business men into a working committee carries but a step further this predominant idea, and this has been the second plank in THE GROCER'S commercial policy. No legislative movement can be made except through Parliament. Manufacturers' associations and commercial commissions may serve as educative and executive factors but it remains for Parliament to carry legislative reforms. Obviously, if the Canadian Parliament or any other Parliament be composed mainly of representatives of those classes in the country, which are but indirectly in sympathy with commercial movements, little practical good can be accomplished. Business men are needed right at the centre of activity and if these business men are so organized as to make their influence more widely felt, so much the better for the nation.

At present in Canada there are a few business men in Parliament who exercise purely an individual influence, or, at best, but a party influence. Now that deep commercial problems are looming up more prominently, it is becoming daily more necessary for the business men of Parliament to come together, and, putting party considerations to one side, go to the very root of the matter and decide what line of policy it behooves them to adopt.

Being in touch, as they doubtless are, with the commercial organizations of the country, they are in a position to know the feeling of their business constituents. To get for this feeling its proper consideration, some organization and combined effort in Parliament becomes absolutely necessary. Such an organization THE CANADIAN GROCER advocated prior to the last session of the Dominion Parliament and it again takes this opportunity of doing so.

The vexed question of the tariff will soon be up for consideration. At such a time unbiassed opinions and an unbiassed action are desirable. So long as business members adopt the party views of the question without getting together and uniting on the best policy for the nation's welfare, there is little reason for expecting that the best results will follow.

BUSINESS MEN OF THE EMPIRE.

AT the meeting of the council of the Montreal Board of Trade on October 9, it was decided to recommend that the next meeting of the Chambers of Commerce of the Empire be held in that city, beginning on August 17. If this were done the members could proceed at the close of the conference to Manitoba in order to inspect the wheat harvest.

A letter favoring this plan has been received from the London Chamber of Commerce, in which the opinion was expressed that the different Chambers of Commerce throughout the Empire would be willing to make Montreal their next place of meeting.

The importance of this to Canada can scarcely be overestimated. The delegates, being practical business men, will naturally take a business interest in the Dominion, which is, of course, the interest most to be desired.

The Montreal Board of Trade is to be congratulated on its enterprise, and it is to be hoped it will receive the hearty cooperation and aid of every commercial body in Canada.

OUR FRUIT IN ENGLAND.

LEGISLATION in Canada which concerns the export trade is being watched a great deal more closely in Great Britain than a good many people might think.

The Act recently passed by the Dominiom Parliament, having for its object the better packing of fruit and the prevention of fraudulent practices is attracting quite a little attention in Great Britain.

One of our contemporaries in London in a recent issue contained quite a nice eulogium in regard to the action of the Dominion Parliament in this particular. It claims that it is having a remarkably good effect upon the Canadian trade, and it expressed the opinion that when "buyers in Great Britain became fully aware of the precautions which are being taken in Canada to secure a high and uniform quality the increase in the demand for the Canadian produce cannot but secure a permanent increase."

We are firmly of the opinion that it pays to put up not only good goods but to put them up in the very best possible manner. The intention of the Act is to compel the recognition and practise of these principles. And it is bearing fruit evidently.

Our exports of green fruit to Great Britain last year were a little over $1,500,000 worth. This, as our readers are well aware, is a very small quantity, when compared with the requirements of the British market in this line.

CANADIAN FAILURES.

Last week the number of failures in Canada for the third quarter of 1902 was noted in this column. This week a more detailed statement of these failures can be supplied. Among manufacturers there were seven failures each in the wood manufacturing and milling industries, four in the clothing industry, three each in the printing and leather industries, two in the tool industry and one each in the iron, wool, liquors and earthenware industries. Besides there there were nine miscellaneous failures.

Of trading businesses, 54 general stores and 30 grocers form the largest class of failures.

GROCERIES CHANGE: THE GROCER IS THE SAME.

IT is a law of nature that old methods are constantly giving place to new ones, but human nature is the same throughout the world from the beginning. The Retail Merchants' Review has the following article on the changes in groceries during the last generation :

A generation ago the dry goods stores were selling calicoes, muslins, silks and other fabrics, principally in an unmade-up state, and grocers were buying goods in bulk and selling them from barrels, bins and caddies. To-day the customers of the dry goods stores largely buy the made-up fabrics, the underclothing, wrappers, sacques, dresses, instead of the materials, and the grocers are selling more goods in cartons and tins of small capacity than they sold in bulk form a generation previously.

The grocer is still much the same in training, ambitions and methods, but the groceries have experienced a wonderful "sea change." Probably the next 25 years will see equally great changes in the methods of preparing and packing food products and other groceries, but because improvement continues in that direction, it does not follow that the "family grocer" will be displaced by other agencies for the distribution of groceries. He is the finished product of thousands of years of storekeeping, and nature and art will not wilfully throw aside what has required so long a period to develop.

It might amuse a vivid imagination to attempt to forecast the subsequent development of the manufacturing and packing branches of the grocery trade. The dullest mind, however, can understand, without aid from the fancy, how the labor-saving factor will come more and more to the front in the grocery trade. Instead of selling coffee and tea in their present forms the grocers of the next generation will sell the prepared articles, which will be packed under labels denoting whether the infusion is sweetened or unsweetened, and does or does not contain milk.

Molasses will not be sold in its present shape then. Instead of troubling to make those articles of diet in which molasses is used, the housewife will buy them at the grocer's, in the bakery department.

Even salads will be found at the grocer's, all ready to use, side by side with the materials for making salad ; and the canned meats, fish and vegetables will probably be packed with some chemical or electric attachment by which the goods in the receptacles can be warmed at a moment's notice, without trouble, dirt or additional expense.

Some way will doubtless be found to prepare even buckwheat and wheat pancakes, so that they can be packed in air-tight jars or cartons ready for use on the table, after a slight rewarming over a gas-jet or an electric heater.

Flour in barrels will hardly ever be seen, and may become rare in bags. Same with cornmeal. Rice may become a really popular article of diet, owing to the manner in which it is prepared for the mouths of the many-headed, many deilcious dishes being thus placed within the consumer's reach at a nominal cost.

The talk of highly condensed foods is all based upon a chemist's dream. The tabloid dinner will always be a mirage of the future, ever evading the eager grasp of the wayfaring food-packer, but the labor-saving age is a different thing. We are in its grasp even now, and discovery and enterprise need be carried but little further in order to produce great changes in the grocer's stock.

LOBSTER CULTURE.

Of late, much attention has been given to replenishing the somewhat lessened lobster supply in the Maritime Provinces. The lobster hatchery in Pictou, N.S., was the first to be established, and it succeeded in turning out 150,000,000 lobsters annually. This hatchery having proved so successful, it is understood that the sanction of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries has been obtained for the erection of three new hatcheries on the Nortumberland Straits—at Shippegan Island, Shemague, near Cape Tormentine, and on Hillsboro' Harbor, Prince Edward Island. They will have an annual productive capacity of between 500,000,000 and 600,000,000 lobsters.

CANADA AT JAPAN EXHIBITION.

The plans of the International Exhibition of Osaka, Japan, have been received by the Minister of Agriculture. There will be 19 buildings scattered over a large area. The Canadian building is about the centre of the grounds and has a space of 7,200 ft.

Mr. George Anderson, of Toronto, was commissioned by the Department of Trade and Commerce about five years ago to proceed to Japan to investigate the chances for Canadian trade. He reported that there were many openings for our goods, and strongly recommended manufacturers to look after their interests in the ever-increasing markets of the East. Some of the specially mentioned articles were flour, canned goods, condensed milk, biscuits, foodstuffs generally, leather, rubber and gutta percha goods, books and stationery, asbestos, cotton, lumber, pulpwood, paper, electrical apparatus, etc., so this Exhibition will be a good opportunity, and all interested should communicate with the Commissioner of Exhibitions at Ottawa.

BURNING SOFT COAL AND COKE.

A READING, PA., firm is sending out a little circular giving hints for using bituminous coal or coke as follows :

TO START A FIRE.

See that all dampers above the fire are open.

Use same amount of kindling as for anthracite coal.

Add coal or coke in smaller quantities than is used of anthracite coal or the fire will smother ; or gas may accumulate and puff the doors open.

Don't have too much draft under the fire until the coal is well ignited or there will be more smoke than can escape in the pipe, and it will come out into the room.

Use a good body of coal, but do not fill the fire-box too full, as bituminous coal expands when it begins to burn.

Use a poker to break up the coke which forms, and don't fear to do it well. Experience will teach how frequently this will be necessary.

Buy what is called domestic size bituminous coal, or crushed coke if possible.

No matter what the fuel—look well to the chimney.

Use pipe the full size of collar.

TO KEEP FIRE OVER NIGHT.

Have a good fire.

Add fresh coal enough for the night.

Let full draft on a few minutes to burn off some of the gas. This will melt the coal into a cake, or "coke" it.

Close all dampers below the fire and open all dampers above the fire—or take off the draft.

Chimneys differ as to draft, so experiment until you learn just how to adjust dampers.

Sometimes it is well after the fire is fixed as above to take the poker and punch a few small holes through the top of the coal. This will help if the chimney is dull and the fire dies out.

In the morning stir the fire, put on draft and a good blaze will come quickly. Keep flues well cleaned.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, October 15, 1902.

GROCERIES.

BUSINESS in wholesale groceries is keeping up well this week and there is little change in the prices of any lines. Shelled walnuts are held considerably higher than they were last week, and as much as 28 and 30c. per lb. is now being asked for them by some of the jobbers, as compared to 21 and 23c. a week ago. The prices of bulk pickles have gone up 50c. per gallon and of the cheaper grades of bottled, 25c. per dozen. In vegetables, canned beans are firmer and are good buying at the present prices prevalent. Salmon continues strong and will keep so for some time. Stocks on the Coast are well cleaned out and nothing any good is offering from there now. Sardines are firm and are likely to advance, owing to the very small run of the fish in France. Sugars are unchanged and a fair demand for them is reported this week. There is a fair demand for teas and Japans and young hysons still keep high. Currants this week are showing more strength on the primary markets and Valencia raisins promise to be very high and firm this year, as already the stocks on the primary markets have become almost exhausted. There has been a better inquiry for syrups and molasses.

CANNED GOODS.

The situation in vegetables is still strong as far as tomatoes, corn and peas is concerned. Latest advices from the corn-packing localities of the United States say that the shortage in the corn pack there will be considerable, but the yield will be much better than was estimated in the forecast made a month ago. The shortage in old-stock mentioned some time ago is large, but it is claimed a considerable quantity is being held back by speculators, who are waiting for an advance in prices. Beans, here, are held at 90c., and are considered at present good buying at that figure, as reports from the bean-growing localities all state that the continued rains of the year have caused the vegetable to rot in the pod and that the vines have, to a great extent, gone to stock. The salmon market is fairly active and the prices are firm. Sardines are likely to go up in price, as the catch of French sardines, which is now about ended, is very small and already prices in the United States have advanced from 50c. to $2 per case, the lower figure being on cheap grades. Very small deliveries are expected, and some packers have announced that they will have to fill their orders altogether with old goods. Our quotations are as follows: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES.

Trade, locally, in coffees is quiet and the prices are unchanged. The outside markets were dull and slightly easier. The Brazil market was steady, and we now quote: Green Rio, No. 7, 7¾c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

Business, locally, in nuts is light. Shelled walnuts are advancing steadily in sympathy with firm outside reports, and now some holders here are asking 28 to 30c. per lb. for them, as compared with 23c., which was the top price a week ago. Nuts outside are firm in all lines, the market presenting a strong tone. Cocoanuts outside are rather more active and holders are showing more firmness.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

A little business is doing in rice and tapioca in small lots. New Orleans advices report the new crop of rice to be moving freely with a steady demand. A report has gained ground outside to the effect that about only 25 per cent. of the present crop of rice will be from Japan seed, and this is stimulating the demand for the Japan rice. Our quotations are: B rice, 3¼c.; Japan, 5¼ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 3¾c.

See pages 43 and 44 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

The improvement in the sales of syrups and molasses noted last week continues and business now is reported quite large. Advices from Louisiana regarding the cane crop have been more favorable, but it is generally conceded that the yield will be short of last season and the crop a late one. This, coupled with the small available supplies of molasses, will keep the markets firm for that product.

SPICES.

There is an active demand for pepper, which, here, is firm, owing to the strong tone of the outside markets which are characterized by light stocks of that spice and spices in general. Cloves and nutmegs were also firm and scarce outside.

SUGAR.

Since last week the European sugar markets have developed some weakness and raw beet sugar of 88 deg. test is now worth 7s. ¾d. for October and November delivery f.o.b. Hamburg. The tone of the market was barely steady. In New York the prices are nominal at $3.50, with extremely small transactions on this basis, as buyers and sellers were both indifferent. The prospects of the European beet sugar crop are better than reported some time ago and the yield is expected to approach 6,000,000 tons. In the United States there is a decreased demand for refined sugar at the Atlantic ports, as domestic beet granulated is now on the markets at the West more freely and at reduced prices below the parity of the seaboard quotations. In Canada, refined remains unchanged both as to business and market conditions. The demand for second grades is slow, but there is no great pressure to sell. The prices of the new grade of granulated sugar recently listed should have been $3.58, Toronto basis, instead of $3.88 as quoted. The Redpath refiners have advised the trade that they are ready to offer granulated and yellow sugars, in 100-lb. bags, at no extra charge over quotations for barrels.

The receipts at the four United States ports for the week were 57,198 tons and the meltings, 45,000 tons, and the total stocks in these four ports were 164,143 tons, against 151,945 tons last week and 163,615 tons last year.

TEAS.

Trade in Indian and Ceylon teas on the local market was fairly brisk. Indian greens, of Japan make, are still attracting attention, and the few Japans and young hysons offering are very high in price. According to advices by mail from London, Eng., the market there for teas is in a strong and healthy condition, and the market prices should be on a higher level than the current quotations would indicate. The demand for Indian teas was fair and the prices were about maintained. Ceylon teas were well competed for and a few of the better liquoring broken pekoes realized slightly improved prices.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The Greek currant market is held on a steady basis, according to late cables. The demand here is fair and the prices are unchanged. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5 to 5¼c.; Patras, 6 to 6¼c. and Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The demand, locally, for shipment from stock is good and prices are firmly maintained. The primary market is reported exhausted of supplies. We quote: Fine off-stalk, 7¼ to 9c.; selected, 9c. and layers, 11c. upwards.

DATES.—There is not much yet doing in dates. Quotations are unchanged at 4½c. for dates in bulk and 6¼ to 6½c. in packages.

CALIFORNIAN FIGS.—Prices of figs have been increased over last quotations. We quote: 1-lb. paper cartons, in 10-lb. boxes, choice, 80c.; fancy, 90c.; 3-crown bricks, fancy brands, 10-lb. boxes, 75c.; 4-crown bricks, fancy brands, 10-lb. boxes, 80c.; 6-crown bricks, fancy brands, 10-lb. boxes, 90c.; ½-lb. bricks, 25-lb. boxes, $2; ¾-lb. bricks, 36 to case, $2.25; 4-row layers, 10-lb. boxes, 75c.; 5-row layers, 10-lb. boxes, 70c.; choice figs, 50-lb. boxes, 4½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—These are now being received in the San Joaquin Valley, Cal., but the early deliveries run very small so that exporters believe they will have to substitute some other sizes for the 40-50 and 50-60. The later deliveries are expected to give larger sizes. Quotations are now as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110, 5c.; 90-100, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90, 6½ to 7c.; 70-80, 6⅞ to 7¼c.; 60-70, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—A very heavy business, particularly in seeded raisins, is doing on the Coast, but packers are hindered in their operations by the scarcity of help. Delays in shipment are inevitable. We quote: Californian loose muscatels, 5c. for 4-crown, Griffin & Skelley brand, 4½c. for 3-crown and 4c. for 2-crown, f.o.b. Fresno, in 50-lb. boxes.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS.—Apricots and peaches continue firm on the Coast, and our quotations are as follows: 11 to 14c. for peaches and 9 to 13c. per lb. for apricots. Santa Clara apricots are quoted f.o.b. the Coast at 7c. in 50-lb. boxes and 7½c. in 25-lb. boxes in carload lots.

GREEN FRUITS.

Considerable quantities of peaches continue to come in and the demand for them keeps steady. Lots of fall apples are now offering, and grapes are plentiful. Quite a few quinces are being sold, and the prices are steady at about the same quotations as last week. Jersey sweet potatoes have declined 50c. per barrel and cranberries have gone down $1.50 per barrel. The crop of the latter this year is reported large. We quote: Tomatoes, 15 to 30c. per basket; peaches, 20 to 50c.; pears, 20 to 40c. per basket; grapes, 17½ to 22½c. for small baskets and 30 to 45c. for large; apples, 10 to 25c. per basket and $1 to $1.75 per bbl.; crabapples, 25c. per basket; lemons, $2.50 to $5 per box; onions, ordinary, 75c.; Spanish, 90c. per case; peppers, green, 15 to 30c. per basket; ripe, 75c. to $1.00; oranges, Jamaica, $3 to $3.25 per box and $6 per bbl.; Jersey sweet potatoes, $2.50 to $3 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack; quinces, 25 to 30c. per basket; cranberries, $8 per bbl.; butternuts, 25c. per basket; Malaga grapes, $6.50 per bbl.; Californian lemons, $4.50 to $5.00 per case.

VEGETABLES.

Prices on the vegetable market are about the same as last week, excepting that potatoes are higher in price. We quote: Lettuce, 30 to 40c. per dozen; radishes, 20 to 25c.; mint and parsley, 20 to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per dozen; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; carrots, 40 to 50c. per bag; beets, 40 to 50c. per bag; potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag; beans, 20c. per basket; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per doz.; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz.; egg plant, 50 to 75c. per basket; pickling onions, 75c. per basket; ditto cucumbers, 75c. to $1 per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The receipts of eggs have fallen off considerably during the week and the market is firm for strictly fresh stock. We quote: Strictly fresh, 18 to 19c.; store gathered, 16 to 17c. Sixteen cents will be paid f.o.b. Toronto for country store gathered stock.

BEANS.—Small offerings of beans are reported and the prices are firm. We now quote $1.30 per bushel, in carload lots.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.—There is as yet little demand for these. Prices are steady at 7½c. for evaporated and 5½c. for dried apples.

HONEY.—There have been rather small offerings of this product during the week at outside points, and the market is stiffening. We quote: Extracted, 8 to 8½c. for large quantities and 9 to 9½c. for small lots. Comb, $1.25 up. These prices are what is being paid outside.

POTATOES.—Prices are 5c. higher than last week with fair receipts and no surplus stock. We quote 70c. per bag in carlots and 75c. in less quantities.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—A slight improvement is reported for the finest grades of dairy tubs. The receipts continue fairly liberal and are larger than the arrivals of this time last year. The accumulations of low grades are being gradually worked off and the general tone is healthier. Large rolls are coming along and are meeting with a fair demand. We quote: Finest 1-lb. rolls, 17 to 18c.; selected dairy tubs, 15½ to 16c.; store packed, uniform color, 13½ to 14½c.; low grades, 12 to 13c. Creamery prints, 19 to 20c.; solids, 19 to 19½c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The market for cheese is very firm and sales were made at Ingersoll at 11¼ to 11 3-16c. The export demand is brisk. We quote: Finest grades, 11½c. and seconds, 11 to 11¼c. per lb.

FISH.

Trout this week is a little easier under free receipts. Trade for all lines is fairly brisk and prices, generally, are unchanged. The receipts of all lines continue fairly large. The demand for oysters is fair. Our quotations are now as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 1 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 7 to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British-Columbian salmon, 15 to 20c.; whitefish, 7 to 9c.; blue fish, 15c. per lb.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; speckled trout, 25 to 30c.; halibut, 15c.; blue pike, 4c. per lb.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.25 to $1.35 per gallon; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket; Digby herring, 50c. per bundle of six baskets; finnan haddies, 7½ to 8c. per lb.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—There is a good demand for poultry, owing to it being the week of Thanksgiving Day, but the receipts of turkeys and geese are small, as the birds are not yet in a condition to kill. We quote: Turkeys, young, dry picked, 12 to 14c. per lb.; geese, 7 to 8c. per lb.; ducks, 60 to 85c. per pair; chickens, young, 50 to 75c. per pair; old, 50 to 60c. per pair.

GAME.—The warm weather continues to retard the deliveries of game, for which there is as yet little inquiry. We quote: Teal, 20c.; pin tails, 30 to 35c. and black duck, 70 to 75c.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—The arrivals of grain on the local street market were light and consisted principally of barley and fall wheat. Very few peas are offering. We quote: Red wheat, 69 to 69½c.; white wheat, 68 to 70c.; oats, 34 to 34½c.; barley, 42½ to 45c.; buckwheat, 53c. and rye, 50c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—There is a fair demand for flour and the prices are steady and unchanged. Our quotations are now as follows: Ontario patents, in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.00 to $4.10; Manitoba bakers', $3.75 to $3.80; straight roller, $3.30 to $3.40 per bbl.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—There is an active market for oatmeal and prices are strong with an upward tendency. Rolled wheat is also in good demand and the prices are firm. Quotations are as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $3.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.00 per barrel; in wood, 15c. extra; broken lots are 25c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.25 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bags, or $4 in bags.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—There has been a decline of ½c. all round in the prices of green hides. Trade in hides is quiet and the Chicago market is very weak. Dealers here will do nothing until the prices are steady over there. We quote: No. 1 green, 8c.; No. 2 green, 7c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green steers, 7½c.; cured, 8½ to 9c.

SKINS.—These are in good demand at unchanged prices. We quote as follows: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive. No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 50 to 55c.

WOOL.—The prices of wool are weak and unchanged. We quote: Fleece, 13½c. and unwashed, 7½c. per lb.

TALLOW.—The prices are unchanged at 6⅞ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

Owing to an improved export demand alsike is again higher and good stock is worth $6 to $7 per bushel outside. Red clover is also firmer, on account of reported damages to the crop. Prices ranged from $5.50 to $6 for prime and choice seed at outside points. Timothy is worth $1.40 to $1.60 per bushel. Extra choice to fancy seed will bring a little more than the above prices, while low grades would have to be bought at considerably lower figures to yield a fair profit.

MARKET NOTES.

New-laid eggs are firmer.

Cheese has advanced ¼c. per lb.

Green hides have declined ½c. per lb. all round.

Shelled walnuts are 5 to 7c. per lb. higher.

Bulk pickles have advanced 50c. per gallon and cheaper grades of bottled pickles, 25c. per dozen.

W. G. Lambe & Co., Toronto, agents for The Griffin & Skelley Co., of San Francisco, Cal., have their first shipment of loose muscatels on the road. This is unusually early.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, October 15, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THE fall business in groceries is in full swing and jobbers report that they are well satisfied with the outlook. Buying has not been better for a long time, and this in spite of the fact that in several lines prices are unusually high. Among the changes of the week are canned pork and beans, which, in sympathy with the dry bean market, have advanced 5 to 10c. per dozen, according to size of can. Some new-season Scotian herring are now on the market and are being sold at $3.10 per half barrel. No. 1 green cod is reported scarce. It sells as high as 3c. per lb., or $6 per barrel. Common clothes pins have advanced and are now worth 62c. per box of five gross. "Beaver" brand hops are also higher, having sustained an advance of 3c. more than the previous rise in price. They are quoted at present at 17½ to 18½c. per lb. Prime white pea beans continue very scarce, as growers have placed but little on the market, and they sell at 1c. per lb., or $2.40 per 60-pounds.

SUGAR.

One of the Montreal refiners has put on the market a second grade of granulated sugar in barrels, which he is quoting at $3.50 per cwt., Montreal. Apart from this there has been no special feature on the local sugar market during the week. A decline in the price of refined sugar took place on the New York market, but had no effect here, and granulated has sold at $3.70 and yellows at $3.05 to $3.55. There is a good demand for sugar, and the tone of the market is firm. In New York the market for refined sugar is active and full prices are being obtained.

TEAS.

Ceylon green teas are still selling well, ranging in price from 15 to 22c. Ceylon blacks as well as China blacks are in fair demand and the tone of the market is steadier. Jobbers are looking for an unusually heavy demand for Ceylon teas during the coming months, the high price of Japans having limited the sale considerably, and Ceylons being taken in their place. In Japan teas a report states that no further orders can be filled at any price, and some orders on the best terms have already been refused, as there was no tea to be had.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Corn syrups continue to move quietly, much of the demand that would ordinarily be experienced for this syrup, being felt on Barbados molasses instead, on account of the low price of the latter. We quote corn syrups as follows: In barrels, 3c.; half barrels, 3¼c.; quarter barrels, 3½c.; 38½-lb. pails, $1.40 and 25-lb. pails, $1.10. As to molasses there is some demand for Barbados in small lots, the price being around 23c. Antigua molasses sells at 24c. and Porto Rico at 38c.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

Nothing of importance has transpired on this market since our last report. There is still a fairly good and steady demand for both the above articles at the prices here quoted, which are unchanged: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3½c.

SPICES.

The situation in the spice market has not materially changed. The general tone of the market continues strong, though there are no quotable changes to report. The market has been fairly active during the week. We quote: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

Again have tomatoes been advanced in price by Montreal jobbers, who are now quoting spot goods at $1.50, and a little over that figure, and hint that a further advance may be expected in a short time. The severe frost of last week practically finished the tomato crop, and canners from all sides report that the pack this year will not be greater than 50 per cent. of an average one; the shortage of tomatoes is unprecedented. Buyers are apparently willing purchasers even at the advanced prices, although wholesalers have found it necessary to restrict their sales to every customer. Our quotations are as follows: Tomatoes, $1.50; corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½c. to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, 87½ to 90c.; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1.00; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—Prices on the local market are unchanged, though in New York an advance of ¼c. per lb. was made. The ss. Escalona has arrived, and is said to have a heavy cargo for this market. We quote as follows: Fine Filiatras, 5¼c. to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6¾ to 7c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—There has been an advance of 3s. on the primary market. Locally, prices are firm, but no change has occurred, and 9½c. per lb. is still quoted.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The market has advanced and at the ruling prices is firm. About 60,000 boxes of Valencia raisins are expected off the ss. Escalona. We quote: Finest off-stalk, 6½ to 7½c.; selected, 7¾ to 8c. and layers, 7½c. to 8¼c., according to brands.

CANDIED PEELS.—The demand for these is of fair proportions and the masket is steady. We quote: Citron peel, 15c.; orange, 11½c. and lemon, 10½c. per pound.

MALAGA RAISINS.—No new developments have occurred on this market, which is steady under a good inquiry. Our quotations are as follows: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ¼'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

FIGS.—There is some inquiry for these, and Comadre figs are quoted to arrive at $1.17½ per tapnet.

DATES.—New-crop Hallowee dates, for delivery during end of November, are quoted at from 4¼c. up.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—The position of these raisins has not materially altered, and nothing of importance has occurred on the local market. Seeded raisins are quoted at 9¾ to 10½c. per lb.

PRUNES.—A carload of Californian prunes were distributed among the Montreal jobbers last week and met with a good demand. Other cars of Santa Clara Vicalias are expected immediately. We quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

Another advance is reported in Brazil nuts of ½c., and the market is firm all round. In Grenoble walnuts, especially, the tone of the market is very strong. Quotations are as follows: Walnuts, 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 17½ to 18½c.; shelled almonds, 28 to 30c.; filberts, 9½c.; Pecans, 17 to 17½c.; Brazil nuts, 11 to 15c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

Jamaican oranges have arrived on this market in boxes in limited quantities and are selling freely at $3.25. Red onions, in barrels, are also on the market. They are quoted at $2.25 per barrel. Cocoanuts have been advanced and are now 25c. higher per bag of 100. Peaches and plums are both 25c. lower, and Delaware grapes have declined 5c. per basket. We quote as follows: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $5 to $5.50, boxes, $3.25; Messina lemons, $1.00 per box; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1 to $1.50 and 8-hands, 75c.; cucumbers, 11c. per dozen; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per dozen; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per barrel; muskmelons, $3.50 per crate; peaches, $1.00 per box; plums, $1.25 to $1.50 per box; pears, $3.25 per box and limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian peaches, 35 to 65c. per basket; plums, 60 to 75c. per basket; Canadian apples, in bbls., $1.50 to $3, in baskets, 20 to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, 50c. per crate and $2.10 per case; sweet potatoes, $3.00 per barrel; Canadian blue and white grapes, 18 to 20c. per basket; Delawares, 35c. per basket; Malaga grapes, $5.50 per keg; red grapes, 25c. per basket; cranberries, $7.50 to $8.25 per bbl.; red onions, $2.25 per barrel; chestnuts, 12½c. per lb.

FISH.

Business doing in fish this week continues fairly good. Most lines are plentiful, but there is some scarcity in green and dried cod. The former has advanced 25 to 50c. per barrel. Holland herring are arriving freely and are steady in price. Malpeque shell oysters are now quoted 50c. to $1 per barrel higher. We quote: Haddies, 6½ to 7c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 4½c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7 to 7½c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 15c.; trout, large and medium, 8c. to 9c.; No. 1 herring, Nova Scotian, $5.25 per bbl. and $3 per half bbl.; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per half bbl.; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per half bbl. and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 70 to 80c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5.25 to $5.50, and mackerel, $12.50 per bbl.; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5.00 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $18.00 in tierces, and in barrels, $12.50; No. 1 British-Columbian salmon, $6.50 per ½ bbl. and $12 per bbl.; standard bulk oysters, $1.30 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.45 per doz.; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $4.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per dozen; Malpeque shell oysters, $1.50 to $6 per bbl.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—Although trade has been quiet and the market somewhat easy during the week, no quotable declines have taken place and butter sells at last week's quotations: Saltless creamery, 21c.; finest Townships do, 20¼ to 20½c.; finest Quebec do, 19½ to 20c.; finest Ontario do, 18½ to 19c.; dairy, 15 to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The cheese market is still higher and quite firm at the advanced prices, which are from ¼ to ⅜c. above last week's quotations. Cheese is pretty well sold up in the country, and locally, there is a fair demand. A moderate amount of export business is doing. We quote: Finest Townships, white and colored, 11¼ to 11½c.; finest Quebec, 11 to 11¼c.; finest Ontario, 11¼ to 11⅜c. per lb. Seconds sell at 10¾ to 10¾c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—Another ½c. advance is noted in selected eggs and candled stock, while for straight receipts, ¾c. advance is obtained. There is a good demand and the prices are firm. We quote: Selected, 19½ to 20c.; candled stock, 17½ to 18c.; straight receipts, 16¾ to 17¼c.; No. 2, 14 to 14½c. in round lots.

BEANS.—The market is excited, though strong at the recent advances. Farmers are asking very high prices for carlots. Spot prices cannot be quoted at present.

HONEY.—White strained honey is lower this week though the price of comb remains unchanged. Trade is quiet. We quote: White clover, in comb, 11 to 11½c. and white strained, 7½ to 8c. per lb.

ASHES.—There is no change whatever in the market for potash this week, and trade continues dull.. We quote: First pots, $4.35 to $4.40; seconds, $3.60 and pearls, $6.25 per 100 lb.

POTATOES.—The price of potatoes came down again toward the end of last week, and bags are now quoted at 60c. in carlots and 75c. in jobbing lots. The market is not active.

MAPLE PRODUCTS.—Busine s in maple products is still dull and no change in price is reported. We quote: Syrup, in large tins, 70 to 80c.; in small tins, 50 to 60c.; in wood, 5 to 5½c. per lb. Sugar, 7 to 8c. per lb.

FLOUR AND GRAIN.

FLOUR.—The only quotable change to note this week occurs in straight rollers, which are 10 to 15c. lower. A fair amount of business is doing. We quote: Manitoba spring wheat patents, $4.00 strong bakers', $3.30; straight rollers, $3.65 to $3.70; winter wheat patents, $3.75 to $4.

GRAIN.—Business in most lines of grain has been quiet. The demand, for oats, however, from exporters has been fairly good and offerings being somewhat light, the market is firm. Corn is 1c. higher this week and firmer. Rye is quoted 2c. lower. Barley has advanced 1c. We quote: No. 1 Maoitoba hard wheat, 17½c.; rye, 53½c.; peas, 77c.; corn, 72c.; buckwheat, 51½c.; barley, 48½c. and oats, 33½c.

FEED.—Prices of shorts have declined somewhat, and in Manitoba bran also 50c. lower per ton is quoted. There is a fair trade at present. We quote: Manitoba bran, $15 to $16; Ontario bran, $14.50 to $15; shorts, $20 to $21, in bulk; mouillie, $23 to $30, as to quality.

OATMEAL.—The tone of the market for rolled oats is still easy, though no further decline in price is reported. Business is dull. The price of rolled oats is now $4.50 per barrel and $2.25 per bag.

BALED HAY.—There is a fairly good trade doing in baled hay. No. 1 is quoted a little higher. We quote: No. 1, $8.50 to $9; No. 2, $7 to $8; clover, $6 to $7.50 per ton in carlots.

MONTREAL NOTES.

Brazil nuts are ½c. higher.

Cheese has advanced ½c. to ⅝c. per lb.

No. 1 green cod is 25 to 50c. per barrel higher.

Canned tomatoes, to arrive, have been advanced to $1.50.

NEW BRUNSWICK MARKETS.

St. John, N.B., October, 14, 1902.

THIS has been quite an active week. We have had for the past week a fall carnival; cheap fares from all outside points and special attractions in the city. It has given a splendid chance for those outside to combine pleasure with business in getting their fall and winter supplies. Coal is a matter of great interest, the more so, as we had a little snow during the past week, being much earlier than usual. It is still, however, some time before winter, if not before fires are needed. In markets, beans are still the chief interest, with an advance of about $5 per barrel. Western shippers are not offering at all freely. Cream of tartar is higher and held firm.

OILS.—In burning oils there is an increased consumptive demand besides the large business being booked for a little later shipment. The prices are quite low and have been unchanged for some time. In lubricating oils, sales are lighter, but a good trade is still doing. Values are unchanged. Paint oils, which show no change in quotations, have but a light sale at this season. Cod oil is in fair receipt.

SALT.—In Liverpool coarse salt the higher freights, which have been demanded by the steamers, causes dealers to hold stocks at firmer figures. There is a fair stock held. In fine, while some Liverpool is offered, and rather under the price of Canadian, the large sale is for the latter. Our quotations are as follows: Liverpool, coarse, 52 to 60c.; English factory-filled, 95c. to $1.00; Canadian fine, $1 per bag; cheese and butter salt, bulk, $2.40 per bbl.; 5-lb. bags, $2.75 to $2.85 per bbl.; 10-lb. bags, $2.60 to $2.65 per bbl.; 20-lb. wood boxes, 22-23c. each; 10-lb. wood boxes, 14c. each; cartons, $2 per case of two dozen; English bottled salt, $1.25 to $1.30 per doz.; mineral rock salt, 60c. per 100 lb. (Selected lumps.)

CANNED GOODS.—The arrival of new apples has caused a drop in price. New tomatoes are daily expected, but there will be little, if any change, from the present full prices. The eastern pack will be much lighter than was expected. Corn and peas are unchanged. In fruits, a fair business is doing. The market is an even one, with blueberries the only line showing short. There is quite an interest in pork and beans, and higher prices are expected, as buyers have been anticipating needs. In salmon, firmer prices rule. Domestic sardines are more firmly held, as the pack so far is disappointing.

GREEN FRUITS.—In this line dealers are at this season always on the move. Perishable goods must be handled quickly. Grapes are large sellers. Ontario stock received is good. A few Canadian peaches are still seen. Very few pears of any kind are offered. In bananas, sales are much lighter, and the big business is over. In oranges, Jamaicas of good quality are offered at even figures. Lemons are high and held firm. A few keg grapes are to be seen, but they find no sale. Cranberries show quite a range. Local-grown lack the color of the Cape Cods, and sell cheaper. In apples, nice New Brunswick stock is still offered, but our fruit will not keep. Gravesteins will be a small crop, and the quality is not as good as usual. The Nova-Scotian crop is light.

DRIED FRUITS.—Some new Valencia raisins have been received. The price asked is high. According to the last Denia prices received Valencia layers will cost as high as Californian or Malaga loose muscatels. This is unusual. In currants, prices this season are much lower than last year. Cleaned, in cartons, will hold the trade very largely this year. New figs are here and find a good demand; they show a good profit. The dealers are getting anxious for their peels. The market is bare. Evaporated apples are a little easier. Some western shippers say the present low prices cannot hold. Onions are rather easier. There is quite an active demand.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—In butter, values are unchanged, stocks are not large, and cheap butter is scarce. Eggs are not active. For strictly fresh full prices are asked. Cheese is rather higher. Local stock is light.

SUGAR.—The small advance is held, the market being firm. The sale is large. The bag sugar seems to have increased demand. Some foreign sugar offered is particularly good.

MOLASSES.—The sale is fair. Prices are held firm, though they are still low. The demand is for Porto Rico. New Orleans is not seen here, owing to the low price of Barbados and other lines. Very little syrup is sold in our market.

FISH.—This is a firm market, except in alewives, for which there seems very little demand. While there have been quite free arrivals of pickled herring, the market is still short and full prices will rule. Dry fish, particularly cod, are firm. Smoked herring, while low, are firm. Finnan haddies show more business at quite full figures, and fresh fish are scarce. Our quotations are now as follows: Haddies, 4½ to 5c.; smoked herring, 5½ to 7c.; fresh haddock and cod, 2 to 2½c.; boneless fish, 4 to 5c.; pollock, $1.65 to $1.75 per 100 lb.; pickled herring, $2.00 to $2.25 per ½ bbl.; dry cod, $3.50 to $3.60; pickled shad, $6 per ½ bbl.

FLOUR, FEED AND MEAL.—The interest in beans is the chief factor. Prices in a few weeks have advanced almost $5 per bbl., and even at this figure they are not freely offered. The stock here is small. Oats and oatmeal are rather firmer. In flour, the market is unchanged. Cornmeal is held firm. Barley sells slowly. Peas are very scarce at present. We quote: Manitoba flour, $4.60 to $4.70; best Ontario, $4.10 to $4.20; medium, $3.75 to $4; oatmeal, $4.50 to $4.75; cornmeal, $3.20 to $3.25; middlings, $26.00 to $28.00; oats, 40 to 42c.; handpicked beans, $2.25 to $2.35; prime $1.10 to $1.20; yellow eye beans, $2.80 to $3; split peas, $5.15 to $5.25; barley, $4.40 to $4.45; hay, $9 to $10.

PROVISIONS.

In pork, even higher prices rule for barreled goods. Some little domestic packed is now being offered. In beef, the high price of American has caused our buyers to import Ontario packed. The sales in these lines are light. Lard sells freely; this is a large market. In fresh beef, light domestic stock is quite easy. Lamb is plentiful. Pork is still scarce and quickly brings full figures. We quote as follows: Mess pork, $21.50 to $22.50; clear pork, $23 to $24; plate beef, $14 to $16; pure lard, tubs, 12 to 12½c.; pure lard, pails, 12¼ to 12½c.; compound, . to 10c.; Fairbank's refined, 10¼ to 10½c.; domestic beef, 5 to 7c.; Ontario beef, 7 to 9c.; pork, 8c.; mutton, 5c.; lamb, 6 to 6½c.; veal, 5 to 7c. per lb.

ST. JOHN NOTES.

Bowman & Angevine landed new Valencia layers last week.

J. Hunter White, representing The N. K. Fairbank Co., delivered a car of refined lard to the trade this week.

Jones & Schofield are now offering Schepps' cocoanut. These goods have always occupied a prominent position in this market.

T. B. Greening, of The Pure Gold Manufacturing Co., Toronto, was this week introduced to the trade by the local representative, R. H. Jardine.

Theo. H. Estabrooks, packer of "Red Rose" tea, is home from a trip to Ontario. He is much pleased with the demand "Red Rose" is having in the west.

A. O. Hastings, representing The Lake of the Woods Milling Co., is home from a trip to Montreal. The demand for "Five Roses" and their other flours is taxing their mills to the utmost. Their mill at Keewatin turned out 3,400 barrels in 24 hours one day last week.

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, October 12, 1902.

IN the grocery business the volume of trade continues satisfactory, and is growing, week by week, to the usual proportions of the autumn business. Many of the outports along the coast, which have no railway communication, are thinking of the season when their harbors may be closed up, and the trades are commencing to put in their winter supplies. In many places, too, the lumbermen are preparing their outfits and supplies for the winter's work.

Business conditions are reported most favorable throughout the whole district covered by the Halifax grocery travellers, and a continuation of the satisfactory business now doing is anticipated. Payments continue to be promptly attended to in most cases, which gives a healthy tone to business. Money seems to be very plentiful throughout the Maritime Provinces.

* * *

There are some fluctuations to be noted, though as yet all have not affected the local market. The cranberry crop has turned out a little better than expected. Though frost affected the berries in some places, the loss was not great. However, an anxiety to get home-grown fruit off their hands by the producers has caused an easier feeling in the market; $6 to $6 50 is a fair quotation, according to quality. One grower in the Valley who usually has 200 bbls. reports only 60 this season.

* * *

Beans are reported only a half crop in Ontario and a largely reduced one in the United States. The dealers here state that United States buyers are picking up all they can get at $2 and under, and that this fact must affect the market here. Tomatoes are also scarce and high, and jobbers have difficulty in getting their orders filled. As the Maritime Provinces are almost wholly dependent on Ontario crops in both of these articles, there is no doubt but that the high quotations now given will hold throughout the season.

New Valencia raisins are selling to the retail trade at 8 to 9c. Sugar is unchanged, the reported advance of the local refineries holding good. Pork is reported at an advance of 75c. Prince Edward Island mess pork, which is largely handled here, is very slack in stock; in fact, it may be said there is none. Flour is firm with a tendency to advance. This condition has also had the effect of creating a firmness in the cornmeal market.

* * *

Farm produce of all kinds is now coming in very freely, and there have been considerable arrivals of potatoes from P. E. Island. These are selling considerably lower than Nova Scotian stock, and sales have been made as low as 27c., though the regular quotation is 30 to 35c. Nova Scotias are selling at 40 to 45c., according to quality. There is now an excess of light beef in the market, and price is low. Heavy beef for butchers cutting-up trade brings $8 50 to $9 per 100 lb.

There is not a great deal doing now in the fish business, as wholesalers and exporters, on account of the state of the West Indian markets, do not care to buy too largely. Considerable Newfoundland cod is coming in, as the prices have been cut in that market.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, October 13, 1902.

BUSINESS is steadily increasing as more money from the sale of grain goes into circulation. Threshing is going on all over the country, but is still somewhat handicapped on account of shortage of men. The weather, however, has been most favorable. Roads are in good condition, and wherever an elevator is not full to the top farmers are hauling wheat in all day long. In both city and country building operations are being pushed with the utmost vigor in order that everything may be in shape before frost sets in. Lumber, cement and labor are the things that are short so far as building operations are concerned.

FLOUR—Local trade is good. Foreign trade is at present on rather narrow margins, so that millers are not pushing it with any special vigor. Prices for the week are unchanged, No. 1 patent being quoted at $2, and other grades on the same basis.

CEREALS—New rolled oats are offering freely and prices are steady at $2 for the 80-lb sack.

BEANS—White beans are mounting skyward, so far as prices are concerned, and quotations have advanced to $2 to $2.15, and fresh stocks could hardly be laid down for these figures. It is therefore expected that the market will continue to advance. There is always a good demand for beans in this country, not only for ordinary city trade, but for the lumber camps and railway gangs.

CANNED GOODS—The tomato situation remains without change, except that jobbers are chary of selling stock now on hand. Goods of the new pack are expected to arrive next week, but whether this means any change in price is not yet announced. At present the quotation continues to be $2.75 per case, but it is not likely that any jobber would fill a large order at that price. Corn and peas are without new features.

CANNED FRUITS—The market is normal and steady with the exception of blueberries, for which there is considerable sale here. Eastern packers declare their inability to fill more than 25 per cent. of contracts placed with them, and this is a serious annoyance to the trade here.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS—The further advance of 8s. on raisins in the primary market goes to prove that later shipments will be practically no cheaper than those already to hand. Fine Valencia off-stalk are quoted at $2.50 per box, and it was fully expected that later shipments would be considerably lower, but, as matters now stand, it looks as if later arrivals would have to be sold at about the same figures.

CURRANTS—Quotations on new goods are 5¼c. for the best Filiatras with 1c. additional for cleaned. In the case of currants, also, it would seem that later shipments will not show the usual marked decrease in price, but that something very near the present figure will be maintained right through the season. Owing to the advance in cost Californian fruits are firmer in tone than they were at the beginning of the season, although there is no advance in price. Apricots are quoted at 8¼ to 8½c. for standards, and 9c. for choice, and peaches are about the same. Evaporated apples are not to be so cheap after all. The evaporator men have run up against the coal situation, and it appears that coal is to be too costly for evaporating purposes, and that much of the apple crop that was to have been evaporated will have to be canned. Jobbers offering from here at what would appear to be very fair figures have had their offers declined. Present quotation on evaporated apples is 8c.

HOPS—Package hops have advanced 3c. per lb., and are now quoted at 18c. on this market. The advance is said to be due to wet weather in the hop sections.

COFFEE — Market is steady with fair demand. Prices for Rios run from 8½ to 9¼c.

RICE—No change in the market has occurred during the week. Japan is quoted at 5½c.; Patna, 5 to 5¼c.; B Rice, 4 to 4½c.

SUGAR—Steady market with good demand and no change of prices. Extra standard granulated, $4.35; bright yellow, $3.75.

CURED AND DRESSED MEATS—Cured meats are in very active demand but quotations remain unchanged: Hams, 15¼c.; breakfast bacon bellies, 15¾c.; backs, 14¾c.; shoulders, 11½c.; short spiced rolls, 12¾c.; long, 13¼c.; smoked long clear, 13c.; dry salt long clear, 11c.; backs, 12½c..

LARD—Demand is very good and prices without change: Tierces, 11⅞c.; 20 lb. pails, $2.50; 50 lb. tubs, $6.05; 10-lb tins in cases, $7.60; 5-lb. tins, $7.65; 3 lb. tins, $7.75.

DRESSED MEATS—Supply in all lines is now good and the demand good also. Prices have not changed for the week. Best dressed beef is worth 5¾ to 6½c.; mutton, 8 to 9c.; lambs, 11½c.; hogs, 9 to 9½c.

BUTTER—Receipts of dairy butter show considerable increase for the week, although the supply is not yet equal to the demand. Prices are steady at 13¾ to 14c., point of shipment, or about 15c. Winnipeg for fresh made dairy in round lots.

CREAMERY BUTTER — Stocks are practically cleared up, and beginning with next week prices quoted in this column will be the jobber's price to the retailer. At present, any lots of October creamery are worth from 20 to 20½c. factories.

CHEESE—Stocks at factories are practically cleaned up, and beginning with this day quotation in this column during the winter will be the jobber's price to the retailer. Present selling price of cheese in Winnipeg is 12½c. per lb., but owing to the recent advance in Ontario it is likely to go higher very shortly. There are a number of cars under order from Ontario and three have already been received.

EGGS—The supplies have not materially increased during the week, and prices are firm, 16 to 16½c. Winnipeg being offered for fresh ease eggs subject to candling.

GREEN FRUITS—Interest in this market centres just for the moment in grapes. The supplies from Ontario are not coming forward well and the prospect of 25c. grapes at retail is not bright. Some retailers are being foolish to cut prices, but grapes cannot be profitably sold at less than 35c. a basket wholesale. Apples are arriving freely. A car of snow apples just to hand are too scabby for sale. Comparatively few of the apples received so far have been up to the standard. Prices remain unchanged at $3.50. A few Solway peaches are still offered, but the season may be said to be over for this class of fruit. Tropical fruits are without change, supply and demand both being fair.

COAL AND BISCUIT MAKING.

The rumor has by some means or other gained circulation that the factory of the Christie, Brown Co., Limited, biscuit manufacturers, Toronto, had been closed down on account of the difficulty in securing fuel. The company, however, notwithstanding the high price at which coal has been selling for some weeks, has secured large quantities of anthracite as well as bituminous coal, and whatever the outcome of the strike may be, they have now in their bins a supply of coal sufficient for some months to come. The company, it might, perhaps, be noted, use anthracite for their reel ovens.

TORONTO RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

A Discussion on Prices.

THE regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association was held in their rooms in St. George's Hall, Elm street, on Monday evening, October 13. President W. J. Sykes was in the chair.

Those present were: President Sykes, Secretary E. B. Nettelfield, R. Bailey Snow, F. W. Johnson, T. Clark, A. White, W. H. Marmion, D. McLean, J. S. Bond.

A letter from the Standard Chemical Co. of Toronto, Limited, explained the action of that company in raising the wholesale price of charcoal from $1 per dozen to 18c. per bag. It was stated that, owing to the scarcity of anthracite coal, the company had received numerous offers from outside towns for their stores of hardwood which they have on hand for making their charcoal next year. Should they sell their hardwood they would have to close down, which would throw about 400 hands out of employment, as charcoal could not be made from green wood. There had been lately, from the city and various parts of the country, an enormous demand for their charcoal, which was much beyond their capacity to fill. So they decided to advance prices.

A resolution was passed requesting the Excursion Committee to hand in their report of the annual excursion of the association, which was held to Niagara Falls last July.

The meeting proceeded to discuss the action of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild in listing a number of articles which the retailer was now compelled to buy of them at a certain fixed price, regardless of the quantity bought. A number of retail grocers had bought previously many of the lines of goods which they carried in stock direct from the manufacturers, thus procuring the articles at a lower price than they could be obtained from the wholesale houses for. Now, the wholesale men had in listing these goods prevented the grocer from buying from the manufacturer, and compelled him to buy of the wholesale grocers themselves. Thus, all would have to pay the same price for their goods no matter how large a quantity he bought at a time. Vinegar was said to be now one of the articles on this list.

In the discussion on this matter some of those present believed that it was just and fair that every man buy his goods at the same price, no matter whether he purchase one dozen or one hundred dozen at a time. The action of the wholesale grocers was called selfish by some, but the retailer was also selfish. Some of the retailers who bought their supplies of some lines of goods direct from the manufacturer were those who did much harm to the trade by cutting prices, and it was thought that the listing and controlling of the prices of groceries by the Wholesale Grocers' Guild would put a stop to this. Then all would receive like treatment.

One thing in the grocery business that was objectionable, it was stated, was the running of liquor in conjunction with a grocery store with only a partition between the two. Thus the business of selling groceries and liquors in practically one and the same store was conducted. This, one or two members present declared should not be allowed.

All the business being finished the meeting adjourned.

"NERVI" BEEF EXTRACT.

A fluid beef extract, which has been on the market now for some years, and which is increasing in popularity each year, is the "Nervi" brand, manufactured by W. J. Nichol & Co., 11-13 Front street east, Toronto. "Nervi" is the pure extract of the best beef and is sold in bulk or in bottles neatly labelled. It contains all the nutriment of the beef in a condensed form and is invaluable for invalids or any who prefer the strength of meat in liquid form. "Nervi" can be retailed by the grocer so as to give him a neat profit and he need have no hesitancy in recommending it to his customers. The firm are at present shipping it out in large quantities. Full particulars may be obtained from the manufacturers direct or from your wholesaler.

THE RUN OF COHOE SALMON.

The Province, Vancouver, of October 2 said: "Cohoes are running in great numbers in the upcoast inlets, and it is thought the season is now at its height. Boats, which have been out for the past two weeks, have averaged during that time catches of 2,000 fish, which are sold to the canneries at the rate of 12½c. per fish.

"The tug Tyee this morning arrived at the Brunswick No. 1 cannery, Steveston, with 7,000 cohoes which she secured from the men fishing in Toba and Bute Inlets. In Toba Inlet 30 boats are working, all but six of them being manned by white men, the others being Indians. In Bute Inlet 20 boats are fishing, all of them being manned by whites. The cohoes appear to be running better in Toba Inlet than in Bute, for the Tyee secured but 1,100 of her fish in the latter.

"The fishermen are not bothered by dog salmon this year, and very few are caught. A number of Japs have a dog salmon fishing camp at Bute Inlet, but their catches have been poor up to date."

MADE IN CANADA.

SAID an old gentleman who has spent a great many years in Canada and the British Isles, who in that time has been closely identified with the grocery and provision business: "What surprises me is the lack of patriotism shown by almost all our jobbers and retailers in the matter of selling Canadian-made goods. They do not push them. Perhaps they think they do. Now we make, for instance, just as good pickles, jams, etc., as can be found in Great Britain, but the reputation that some English brands have acquired on this market fairly overwhelms our merchants, and they do not think for a minute of placing Canadian goods before them. A lot of this is due to the English people coming over here. They get to know a good brand of pickles at home, and when in Canada, with true British prejudice, refuse to take Canadian pickles, which are quite as good in every way. The name is everything. I have lived in England for years, and I can tell you there are some of these goods that enjoy a great reputation all over Canada which are hardly known at all out of their own locality in the Old Country. In one section of the country, one manufacturer's brand is considered the best; in another part, another brand holds the trade. If Canadian dealers would be a little more persistent in selling Canadian brands to English customers and get them to recognize that we make just as good an article as they can get at Home, the great reputation of some English makes of jams, pickles, etc., would collapse, for they have only been built up by the inquiries for them made by English people in this country."

FISH DEALERS ASSIGN.

Neilson & Trees, wholesale and retail dealers in fish, poultry, etc., 11 Phillips Square, Montreal, have consented to assign on demand of Leonard Bros., wholesale fish dealers, of St. John, N.B., and Montreal. The latter firm are creditors to the amount of $269.12.

Miss Edith Dalziel, organist in the Presbyterian church, and Mr. Herbert Newell, grain buyer for the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Arden, were married on October 5 in the Knox Church, Minnedosa. The Rev. J. S. Watson officiated, and Miss Ollie Cockburn, of Winnipeg, was bridesmaid. The happy couple received many valuable presents, including a handsome silver salver from the choir of Knox Church.

FISH AS FOOD.

THE fact that fish is an important article of diet is one which will be universally admitted, says The Lancet, but it is not generally realized that the British people make so little use of the opportunities which nature has provided for them in the rich supplies which are to be found off the coast. Some statistical tables which are published by the Board of Trade give a good deal of information, and although in their present form they are of little interest to those who have not a general idea of the way in which the fishing industry is carried on, they very clearly show that a large quantity of fish caught is sent abroad instead of being used in this country, and those who buy fish will be struck at the great difference in price which is paid to those who catch it and the price which has to be paid to the fishmonger. The total value of the fish caught and landed in the United Kingdom during the year 1901 was over £9,000,000. Haddocks and herrings produced £2,257,196 and £2,028,781 respectively. A little over a halfpenny a pound was received for herrings (0.62d), and threehalfpence a pound was received for haddocks. Whether considered from the point of view of quantity or of money value these two fishes are the most important of those caught on our coasts. It is to be feared, nevertheless, that a small proportion only of the poor of the country have been able to obtain either of these in an appetizing form at a low price. It is usually said that the poor are not fond of, and will not eat fish. This is a very old idea. It was stated in a series of articles written on the fishing industry more than 50 years ago. It is said to-day. It is perfectly true that the poor of London are not partial to fish which they have to cook for themselves. If any unprejudiced observer possessing a keen sense of smell will walk down the streets in which fish is exposed for sale on barrows he will not be surprised that this is the case. It is by no means true that the poor who live in fishing towns and villages object to fish. It forms the most important part of the nitrogenous food which they take. The partiality for fish extends also amongst the people as far inland as the supply of fresh-caught fish is obtainable at a moderate price. There are, of course, many parts of the country which by the nature of things cannot be so cheaply or so well supplied as the places near to the sea. For this reason it is a matter of national importance that the curing and preserving of fish should be well carried out. In this matter there is room for much improvement. To those acquainted with the common haddock of London it is only necessary to recall its iridescent appearance and ammoniacal odor. Many of these fishes are in a state of partial decomposition when they are cured, and the methods adopted are neither wholesome or cleanly. The local sanitary authorities are often disinclined to interfere with the arrangements of fish-curers, sometimes, perhaps, because they look upon their industry as the mainstay of the place, sometimes, doubtless, because things have been so carried on time out of mind, and what was good enough for their fathers ought, as they say, to be good enough for them, for they are a conservative people. The Lancet has had occasion to call attention to cases in which obvious sanitary rules were disregarded in the process of curing. We wish that the authorities in fishing centres would realize that it is to their true interest, as well as their duty, to carry out the law in regard to nuisances. If the fishcurers were more careful to insure a good and uniform quality in their output they would enormously increase their trade and their profit. It is because fish preserved in this country is of such uncertain quality that the fashion of relying so much on foreign produce has become so very general and that sardines are so highly esteemed. It is said that the English spratt tinned in this country is now transported to France that it may be duly labelled and consigned to England for the benefit of those who eat "sardines" and practice "economy" at the same time. Good bloaters and kippers are superior in all respects to the cheaper sorts of "sardines," but at the present time they are not readily obtainable, although nearly 2,000,000 barrels of herrings were exported last year, chiefly to Germany.

BREAKFAST FOODS.

Why, in soulful, doleful numbers,
Should poor, foolish man complain
Of his bad and broken slumbers,
Of his aches and bitter pain?
Why, when in his face are staring
Well-known facts, and, having wealth,
Or enough, should he be caring
Constantly about his health?
What's the use of being sickly,
Pale and wan, when we can buy
Something that will very quickly
Make us strong and gay and spry?
Foods that make the blood go tingling
Through our veins, till we rejoice
In our strength—we can't be singling
Any one kind—take your choice.
Foods that make hard bone and muscle,
Full of starch and nitrogen,
Foods that fit us for the tussle
With our active brother men.
Taken with hot water simply
Or with sugar and with milk,
You'll lose your appearance pimply
And will feel as fine as silk.
You will get quite energetic,
On your cheeks the rose will bloom
When they chase your moods splenetic,
Dissipate your fits of gloom.
Why the dickens should you ache and
Why on stubborn ailments brood,
When you've only got to take and
Fill yourself with breakfast food?

STIRRING UP THE TEA MEN.

Home and Colonial Mail.

WE are reminded by the announcement that one of the large London tea distributing firms is about to extend its operations to India of the changes and developmtnts in the tea trade of recent years. While some of the old Mincing Lane stagers have dropped out, others have taken up the running to some purpose, and although the sale room is not Arcadia, and the tea trade is by no means exempt from the evils of the competitive system, it cannot be denied that the handling of tea at home might furnish some striking examples for a new volume about men who succeed in business, and that, on the whole, the sale of tea in chest or package is a more remunerative pursuit than growing the leaf. Failures will occur in the best regulated commercial circles, but the modern tea distributor, with modern methods and some capital, has no serious fault to find with his lot.

But some of these Napoleons of the tea trade, if plurality is permissible in the case of so great a name, are not content with mere profit-making, which doubtless becomes monotonous after a time. They seek to achieve new triumphs; to gain fresh trade laurels. They either extend their operations by dealing in other articles of produce, or they push in some new direction, which will, if it do not add to their profits, at least enhance their reputation as enterprising men of business. Messrs. Brooke Bond, for instance, have recently essayed to push their teas in India, notwithstanding that the movement for supplying natives of and residents in India has already been started. So long as the demand for tea increases, tea growers can only welcome every effort made to find new markets, and wish luck to those who are plucky enough to aid the work by the outlay of capital and energy. It will occur to the onlooker, however, as somewhat remarkable, that up to now the enterprise of those on the spot, who might years ago have taken steps to popularize tea in India, has been somewhat laggard. Admitting that tea-planting and tea-dealing are, or at any rate were, regarded as distinct occupations in the light of those laws of commercial etiquette which regulate such matters, it must also be recognized that a great change has taken place in recent years. American trade methods may be said to have knocked all these laws out of time. We may not admire the all-embracing system of trade which deals in pork from the cradle to the grave, and turns the pastoral cow into beef for the million by a manufacturing operation, combining every trade under one hat or in one immense building, but the old style in business has unfortunately taken its departure.

Borden's Brands of Condensed Milk and Evaporated Cream at Canadian Prices.

We beg to announce that we have established a branch factory at Ingersoll, Ont., and that we are now prepared to fill all orders for the Canadian trade promptly, and at considerably reduced prices, owing to the establishment of the Canadian Branch. Our Eagle Brand Condensed Milk, Gold Seal Brand Condensed Milk and Peerless Brand Evaporated Cream, unsweetened, can be obtained through our local representatives.

BORDEN'S CONDENSED MILK CO.

Originators of Condensed Milk. Established 1857.

Selling representatives in Canada: F. W. Hudson & Co., Toronto. W. H. Dunn, Montreal. Erb & Rankin, Halifax. W. S. Clawson & Co., St. John, N.B., also Shallcross, Macaulay & Co., Victoria and Vancouver, B.C.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS.

We have a sufficient stock of coal to last us some months, but in view of the uncertainty of the coal strike we are prepared to buy a few cars of best anthracite grate or stove coal, for which we will pay the highest price.

We should esteem it a favor if our customers would advise us of any coal offered for sale in their locality.

Our patrons may rely on their orders being promptly filled.

HONESTY

is the only policy which a grocer can follow and be successful.

If he is dishonest to his customers they soon find it out and leave him. If he is dishonest to himself he soon fails.

Are you honest to yourself?

When you are weighing out goods are you sure that your scales do not cheat you? If they are WILSON'S COMPUTING SCALES they do not, but if they are any other old kind they might do so. You will find it a profitable investment to look into and purchase one of our BALL-BEARING Computing Scales.

They are honest to both buyer and seller.

Wilson's Scales are "MADE IN CANADA"

OUR TRADE WITH JAMAICA.

By F. W. HODGSON, Live Stock Commissioner.

THE present agitation in Jamaica for either the federation or the commercial union of that colony with the Dominion of Canada is worthy of serious consideration in this country. The Jamaican planters desire to find a free market in Canada for their sugar, lemons, oranges, bananas, coffee, ginger, spices, logwood, etc., in return for which they would purchase from us oats, split peas, soda and fancy biscuits, tin and enamelled ware, boots and shoes, organs, furniture, agricultural implements, ropes and cordage, paints, lumber and other building material, metallic roofing, canned goods, live stock, butter, cheese, tallow, bacon, hams, flour and other food stuffs and manufacturers. According to the report of the Committee of the Royal Jamaica Society of Agriculture and Commerce and Merchants' Exchange, "The natural conditions of the respective colonies are all in favor of mutual trade. Each country is the natural complement of the other in natural products, and it is high time that the feeling which has so long existed in favor of improved trade relations should bear good results." The principal drawback to the interchange of commodities is the lack of a rapid, up-to-date, frequent and direct steamboat service. The direct trade between the two countries has largely increased since the advent of the "Canada-Jamaica" line from St. John, N.B., but this new service, although a decided improvement, is but a monthly one, carried on in far from up-to-date steamers, occupying from eight to ten days between St. John and Kingston, Jamaica.

The extension of trade in live stock and live-stock products is of particular interest to me, and in this connection I beg to submit a letter received from Mr. W. Simpson MacCormack, of Kingston, Jamaica, dealing with the requirements of their markets in these lines.

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 1, 1902.

Dear Sir,—Your esteemed favor of March 4 last was duly received, and I beg to thank you for information contained therein. At that time butchers' sheep were too high, and the season too bad to import. I am now, however, in communication with Messrs. Gordon & Ironsides, of Montreal, and hope to get down a carload, connected to Halifax, October boat.

I note your remarks regarding the high quality of Canadian bacon, butter and cheese and the desire of your Department to establish a market in these islands for those products. You also expressed the hope of hearing from me, "from time to time, telling what the outlook is for the building up of the trade between Canada and Jamaica."

I would state that considerable attention is now being directed to the superiority of Canadian products by importers here, but I regret to say that Canadian producers appear disinclined to bring themselves into line of our market conditions as to size, packing and promptitude in filling orders and general existing conditions.

BUTTER.

What is required is (1) Choice creamery put up in one-half, one and five-lb. tins; also in kegs of about 34 lb., costing about 19 to 23c. per lb. f.o.b. Halifax; also good dairy butter, put up in small 10-lb. tubs and 24-lb. kegs, costing from 15 to 18c. per lb f.o.b. Halifax.

CHEESE.

Large sizes are not salable, but a lively demand exists for the best qualities, in strong boxes of four, weighing about 10-lb. each; also singles, put up separately in strong boxes, weighing about 18 to 25 lb. each.

BACON.

Slips from 8 to 14 lb.; also sides, from 40 to 48 lb., and middles (cut from side) of from 18 to 24 lb., of superior mild cured, extra lean selections (pea-fed) will always find ready sale, and there is also a fair demand for mild cured, rolled-spiced breakfast bacon, and slips from 2 to 8 lb. boneless (firm.)

HAMS.

Mild cured extra lean (pea-fed); also smoked and pale dried, from 8 to 12 lb. A market would also be found for picnics (shoulder hams) from 5 to 10 lb., and what are known as Bath Chops, 3 to 4 lb., also have a demand.

Referring to the last two mentioned articles there should not be the least difficulty in building up a direct trade, for I know, as a fact, that quantities of the articles arrive here from Bristol and other English ports rebagged and represented as of English manufacture, but which I have good reason for knowing owe their origin to the Canadian farmers.

Probably the principal and most important shippers of these goods give their attent to the British market, being of course, vastly more important, but, if you could induce, perhaps, some of the smaller men to direct their attention to the details of the requirements of this market for the articles as referred to above, I am satisfied the consumption, demand and the importance would be a revelation.

I will mention that the Pickford & Black steamer which sails from Halifax on the 15th of each month is accommodated with refrigerated cold chambers, enabling printed butter and rolls to be shipped. I cannot too strongly impress upon you the importance of this market to your dairymen, and I am prepared to give every assistance to appreciably place their products, provided, as previously mentioned, they are prepared to meet the market on local conditions.

HORSES.

You referred to these in your letter. There is, however, no demand for heavy stock; what is required is lightly-built carriage horses of not less than 15.2. I shall be glad to hear from you on this subject, and also on the general subjects of this letter. Products and manufactures must always be quoted f.o.b. I think there should be hardly any difficulty in your finding some responsible producers to take up the matter.

Again, thanking you for your previous communications, and hoping that this may lead to some practical results, I am,

Yours truly,

(Sgd.) W. SIMPSON MacCORMACK.

A few planters interested in the improvement of live stock on the Islands of Jamaica, St. Kitts and Trinidad have imported pure-bred horses, cattle, sheep, swine and poultry, in limited numbers from Nova Scotia, but as these animals require to be acclimatized after their arrivals in the Indies, many of them are lost. On this account buyers do not care to pay very high prices, but they find that the imported animals which survive acclimatization effect a great improvement in the herds and flocks, and they declare that they will persevere until the standard of quality is greatly elevated.

Since 1897 some four or five horses (Clydesdales), 25 cattle (Shorthorns, Herefords and Ayrshires), one hundred sheep (Shropshires and Southdowns), and about one-half dozen pigs (Berkshires and Tamworths) have been sent to the West Indies by the Nova-Scotian Government. These were all pure-bred stock, but a considerable amount of ordinary stock has been shipped. For the first 11 months of 1901, according to the reports of the steamboat agents, there were 95 horses, 30 cattle, 1,200 sheep, 9 swine and 125 coops of poultry shipped from Halifax to the West Indies. There is now fairly good steamboat accommodation from Halifax, boats running twice a month regularly, and although this trade is only yet in its infancy, it would seem to be capable of considerable development. According to the newspapers, a fast line of steamers between Canada and Jamaica is likely to be subsidized in the near future, which would no doubt greatly increase trade between the two colonies.

PROPOSED NEW SALMON COMBINE.

It was learned to-day on excellent authority that the plans looking to the formation of a combination on all the outside salmon canning interests on the Coast are well under way. It is understood from an outside source that it is proposed to capitalize the new company at $10,000,000, and that the plans are found to include 16 plants of which options on 11 plants have been secured by the promotors. When seen to-day Mr. Philip J. Brady, who is credited with holding the options on the plants, and who arrived here from Seattle for the purpose of pushing the deal, declined to talk for publication. He stated, however, that he was working on the plans but refused to discuss them.—N. Y. Journal of Commerce, October 13.

BENEFITS OF A TRADE PAPER.

AN address was recently delivered in Seattle, Wash., before a local trade paper association by E. C. Damon on "Benefits to be derived from a Trade Paper." In part, it was as follows: First, let me ask: Do you take a trade paper? Second, Do you read it? In both cases: If not, why? Look over this broad land of ours. We find millions of people reading the daily papers. That is where they get their information. That is where they get their food for thought, that makes our people the most enlightened people on earth, the most progressive, the most ambitious. Yes, the most successful.

Gentlemen, I say to you to-night, as the daily paper is the educator of the masses, so the trade paper is the educator of the merchant.

Show me a progressive, enterprising up-to-date merchant, and I will show you a student of the trade paper.

I might go further. Show me an ambitious, wide-awake clerk, and I will show you a trade paper advocate.

Do not in any wise construe anything that I may say at this time appertaining to this subject as criticizing our local or State trade papers. Nor by any means suspect that I am going to ask for your subscription for such papers. However, I might say that I am a subscriber for three trade journals and positively I would not be without them.

Nay, not for twice the fee of subscription. There is not an issue that I do not get some good out of. The subjects discussed in these papers give me thoughts; stimulate me in my work; give me a foundation to build upon. I find articles by competent writers on such subjects as "Credits," "Advertising," "System," "Full Measure," "Short Measure," on "Leaks and how to stop them." Gentlemen, I say to you that a well-written article on any of these subjects is worth times innumerable the price per annum of your trade paper.

I might admit at this time that I am an enthusiast, but, gentlemen, no man can make a success unless he is an enthusiast.

I find articles on "trade abuses." I find articles on "organization" and "why for?" I find articles on "confidence in your fellow merchant," and I want it publicly known that such confidence judiciously used will do much to overcome many petty annoyances.

I find articles on "coffee," "tea," "sugar," "beans," "rice," "sago," "tapioca," "pork," "spices," "pickles," "olives," etc.; will I go clear down the list? No, gentlemen, but I will say to you that any man desiring to serve his patrons intelligently and well must know something of the commodities in which he deals.

A man doing business without a trade paper is doing business without his "price current," or, in other words, is like a boat adrift without a rudder.

I find articles on "profit." I am a believer in a revenue. The merchant's revenue is his profit. No nation, State nor city can exist without a revenue. No merchant, big or little, can exist without a revenue. I say to you, gentlemen, a well-written article on this subject (profit), distributed in every city, town and hamlet in this State, would do much toward building up this organization.

Can we but find means to impress that word "profit" into the grocer's vocabulary, we will be doing much to help him hold his head erect and "stand as a man among men."

I find articles on "window dressing," on "quality," "honesty," and "fidelity to business."

Gentlemen, I say to you that a trade paper stands in the front rank of commercial progress to-day. The trade paper can help make that friendship lasting that to-day exists between the wholesaler and the retailer; can help to weld it together; can rivet it aright. The trade paper can stimulate the merchant to better effort. It can teach him to say "no," and stick to it. It can teach him to give honest measure and demand the same. It can teach him to use home-manufactured goods—all things being equal. It can teach him that the "full dinner pail" is the foundation of all large cities. It can teach him that the shrill sound of the whistle, the blast of the furnace, the roar of the engine, brings dollars back into his pocket.

The other evening as I sat by my window at home, looking out on the placid waters of Elliott Bay, a steamer passed on its way to its mooring place. 'Twas grand to look upon, yea, magnificent. A blaze of light from stern to stem, but it passed on, and as it passed the water closed behind it. Not a trace was left of where the steamer had been. No mark, no record left behind to tell of what success. Is it to be so with us in this world of progression? We pass on through this life into the Great Beyond. Will we leave a mark, a record? Will posterity know that we were here?

Ah, gentlemen, unless we make that mark broad it will soon be erased. Unless we take the knowledge at hand and use it. Unless we take the "pulse of commercialism," and I say to you, gentlemen, the trade paper is that pulse. Unless we grapple with the hordes of this world and conquer, we will not leave a broad mark. Is your soul or mine so dormant, or your ambition or mine so weak, that we would not that your child or mine, when they pass over this same road, could cry out: "My father passed here!"

CANNED TOMATOES.

The situation in canned goods remains about as it was last week. The song of the tomato has been so persistently sung during the past three months that we are tired of considering it, but, like Banquo's ghost, it will not down, and the much worried bear, whether packer or buyer, is about driven to the conclusion at last that its prices will not down either.—The Trade, Baltimore.

THE ADVERTISING ARENA.

MR. LARKIN'S VIEWS ON ADVERTISING.

"SALADA" Ceylon tea is a name so familiar to every man, woman and child in this country, that it may with truth be called a household word. The extraordinary publicity it has attained, has, in the first place, been due to the up-to-date methods by which it has been advertised, and, in the second place, to the quality of the article itself. Both combined have caused the "Salada" tea business to grow by leaps and bounds during a comparatively short period of time.

The other day I called on Mr. P. C. Larkin, the head of The "Salada" Tea Company, and on stating my desire to learn something of the advertising side of his business, was very courteously received by him, and all my questions were fully answered.

"You ask about the effect advertising has on this business," said Mr. Larkin.

USEFUL INFORMATION.

"Well, I only repeat what I have very often said, and that is: If you have five dollar bills to give away for four dollars and are extremely anxious to give them at that price and you do not tell the public about them, you will never be able to sell any of them because the people who would purchase would not know of your inclination. Therefore, it follows in business, if you can serve the public well—better than they are served in any other way—they will never know of the fact unless you tell them of it. The question is which is the best way to get their ears. I think, and I speak from ten years of experience, that the press is.

"We started this business 12 years ago. At that time China black teas and Japan green teas were practically the only teas in Canada. There were a few Ceylon and Indian teas handled here, but they had made extremely slow progress, and I believe that the sole reason was because the public knew little of them and the retail grocer was conservative and kept to the kind of tea the consumer had been getting and was apparently satisfied with. Now, being a tea expert myself, I knew that Ceylon and Indian tea was very much the superior of any China tea, and yet of the same character, both being black. I thought the best way to the public's favor was to give them a Ceylon tea in sealed packets, offering the grocer a fair margin for selling it, and we did make some headway for two years, but very slowly. I then made up my mind that without advertising, and, as life was short, by the time I did have anything like enough business to exist on, it would be time to retire, therefore I concluded that I had better commence to advertise. I commenced with one paper in the city of Toronto, found it beneficial, increased the space I used and used other mediums, until today there is not a paper in the Dominion of Canada that "Salada" tea advertisements do not appear in.

"During the past few years we have extended our business to many parts of the United States and there we use the press very largely, and we are looking forward to the day when there will be no paper published on this continent that will not contain 'Salada' Ceylon tea advertisements. For, after all, although the expense is very great at first, as your trade increases the cost of advertising per lb. of tea becomes a small fraction of a cent. Now, the question comes up, could such a business as this be built up without advertising? We think not. Whatever the merits of the article, how can the public know of them unless you tell them of them. Remember, if your article is not exceptionally good you cannot hope to benefit by advertising, for all advertising does is to get the consumer to try one packet. If it is not fully what is described in the advertisement they never try it again, no matter whether you advertise till the day of judgment. Consequently advertising an article that is not of a high standard of quality would prove disastrous.

"The moral, I think, is: If you have a most excellent article, and if you can serve the public better than they are being served, or even as well as they are served in any other way, advertising will pay; nothing will pay you as well. There is no great business in the world to day that has not been established by advertising equally with serving the public well."

"How often do you change your advertisements?" I asked.

"We never run the same advertisement twice in the same paper," answered Mr. Larkin. "It is altered daily. But, remember, one advertisement may appear in 500 different papers, therefore, a very small bunch of advertisements will go the rounds of hundreds of newspapers."

Next I inquired about the source of the name "Salada."

"'Salada,' explained Mr. Larkin, "was the name of a small garden in India and also the name of a post office there. An object in getting a name for any goods, I think, is to get a name easy to pronounce and resembling something so familiar that people can remember it easily. A hard name to pronounce is a mistake, I think, because people going into a store don't want to be smiled at if they don't pronounce it correctly."

"What is the extent of your advertising and what kinds have you found most beneficial?"

"We advertise in trade journals and the daily and weekly press, and we place enamel signs on windows. We have tried street cars. We do some programme advertising, we have used bill boards, and we have demonstrated, that is, served tea at exhibitions and in grocery stores. In fact, there is no scheme of advertising we have not tried, and, after all, we have found none so effective as the trade journals and the daily newspapers."

A GOOD GENERAL AD

THE NEW TOBACCO COMBINE.

Details in regard to the new international combination, known as The British-American Tobacco Company, Limited, have just been made public, according to cable advices. The company has been registered at the Somerset House, and the capital stock, which is placed at £6,000,000, is divided into 1,500,000 shares preference and 4,500,000 ordinary shares of £1 each. The objects of the company, as stated in the memorandum, are to adopt an agreement proposed to be made between The Imperial Tobacco Company of Great Britain and Ireland, Limited, of the first part, Ogdens, Limited, of the second part, The American Tobacco Company of the third part, The Continental Tobacco Company, of the fourth part, American Cigar Company, of the fifth part, Consolidated Tobacco Company, of the sixth and Messrs. Williamson, Whitehead, Fuller and James Inskip, trustees on behalf of The British-American Tobacco Company, Limited, of the seventh part. The further objects of the company are to carry on the business of growers, manufacturers and exporters of tobacco and its products in any part of the world. JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKES—THE ONLY YEAST WITH CREAM IN IT.

THE ONLY YEAST WITH CREAM IN IT—JERSEY CREAM.

The TOMATO QUESTION seems to be a serious one with the grocery trade just now. Don't worry if present high prices prevail, you will buy them right when wanted in the Spring. Our ideas of what a retail merchant should buy if he did a trade of $20,000 per year would be as follows :-

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| To sell at 15c. per tin, | - | 10 cases |
| 2 for 25c., | - | 25 " |
| 10c. per tin, | - | 100 " |
| 3 for 25c., | - | 300 " |
| 7c. per tin, | - | 500 " |

Are we right? If so, the pack of this year will last Canada for the next 5 years at present high prices. You may buy tomatoes in the Spring at 85c. If you have to pay fancy prices buy one case at a time.

Tomatoes are no good anyhow.

BUT JERSEY CREAM YEAST CAKE—THE ONLY YEAST WITH CREAM IN IT—IS ALL RIGHT.

THE ONLY YEAST WITH CREAM IN IT—JERSEY CREAM.

TRADE IN COUNTRIES OTHER THAN OUR OWN.

TEA IN NEW YORK.

No trading of any importance was reported in the market for invoices, due largely to the absence of offerings and the extreme prices for which sellers were holding. Advices from the east report strong market, and with the season fast drawing to a close offerings were light. The line business was moderately active at full quoted values.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 21.

SEEDED RAISINS IN NEW YORK.

Prices to arrive on new crop Californian seeded raisins have been advanced by the local seeder, who named a low basis at the time the Coast seeders fixed the opening values to 7¼c. for choice and 8c. for fancy in 1-lb cartons laid down here. The advance is believed to be due to the delay in shipments of new seeded owing to the strike among the employes of the Coast seeders, and which at the close to day was reported by wire from Chicago to be ended. The few lots of new crop Coast seeded that have arrived to date have gone mostly into the hands of the buyers here purchasing direct from the Coast. One lot coming to a broker here was sold yesterday at 8¼c. for fancy in 1-lb. cartons. So far as can be learned no bulk goods have come forward.

On the spot a sale of 1,000 cases of 1901 pack seeded raisins was reported to-day. The prices were withheld, but are said to have been close up to quoted prices. Interest in the situation on the Coast is growing, and not a little uneasiness is felt in jobbing quarters over the delay in shipment of goods purchased at the opening basis. It is stated that most of the contracts read, "shipment when ready." This is regarded as possibly one of the reasons why Coast packers have shown an indifferent attitude in the matter of settling the strike, as had contractors specified time of shipment there would have been an obligation on the part of the packer to avoid delay. Late to-day a private wire from Chicago reported the strike as having been settled. No details were announced.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 18.

VIRGINIA PEANUT CROP.

Letter advices from Virginia regarding the coming crop of peanuts say: "Owing to the fact that a majority of the cleaners are out of stock and their inability to furnish any new nuts for nearly two months, the market is firm. The weather is so warm that it will be a long time before nuts will be dry enough to work up. One cleaner here who usually carries large stocks says for the first time in 13 years he is out of stock. Owing to the fact that stocks of old crop are light farmers should get higher prices than in several years. It will take a large crop to supply the trade the coming season."

SITUATION IN SUGAR.

Czarnikow, MacDougall & Co., say of sugar: "There is no doubt that the result of the unfavorable weather which has prevailed in Europe this season will be a beet crop falling far short of that of last year, but the extent of the shortage must remain uncertain for some time longer. One authority, Mr. Giesecker, has given so low an estimate as 5,350,000 tons, which is 1,530,000 tons less than last crop, but this estimate is not generally accepted, the prevailing view being that the crop will reach 5,600,000 tons, or possibly 5,750,000 tons, or a deficiency of from 1,130,000 to 1,280,000 tons. This, combined with the fact that very little doubt exists of the ratification of the Brussels Convention by both France and Austria, has been the cause of the recent advance in Europe. Information respecting the growing cane crops remains unchanged. That of the Argentines is likely to be 50,000 tons less than last year's, and, if so, will fall short of the requirements of the country. That of Brazil will also show a large shortage. In Porto Rico the cane looks well, but it is less advanced in growth than at the same time last year. Guma cables that the growing crop in Cuba is suffering from drouth."

CURRANTS IN NEW YORK.

Stocks of currants were increased to-day by the arrival of the steamer Pocassett with approximately 1,750 tons old and new fruit. The arrival caused little change to be noted on the spot, holders quoting 4¾c. for new crop uncleaned in barrels and 4½ to 4⅝c. for fine old. The new fruit arriving on this vessel is reported largely sold to arrive, a good portion going to interior jobbing account. According to the official returns from the Customs House the stock of currants in bond on October 1 was 2,849,476 lb., compared with 1,428,755 lb. on October 1 last year. The receipts this year for September were, in round numbers, 1,912,000 lb., which, added to the stock in bond on September 1 made a total of 5,218,000 lb. These figures show a consumption for the month of, in round numbers, 2,500,000. Since the beginning of the month the Jenny with 1,100 tons and the 1,750 tons on the Pocassett have arrived. The steamer Turpie is reported close by, and the steamer Maria with 1,200 tons is on the way. The steamer Alberto is now in Greece loading and the Thomas Melville is expected here shortly.

The steamer Georgia has also reached port and brings 375 tons, said to be mostly new fruit. The Turpie is expected early next week with about 1,825 tons.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 18.

STALE GROCERIES.

OLD groceries, as well as everything else that is stale, are not attractive. Grocers should be attentive to keep their stocks always fresh. The Retail Grocers' Advocate has been looking into the ways some of the grocers of New York attend to their stock. It says: "There are not a few grocers in New York who rarely if ever overhaul their surplus stock during the year, and, as they keep on accumulating, it becomes a serious question after a year or two how to dispose of them.

"Some grocers, however, will begin to work them off with newer goods, with the frequent result that a customer finds himself in possession of articles that are rarely stale and unfit for use.

"Recently a grocer on the West Side, who had just bought in, found that the former owner had been doing this very thing, and customers were going elsewhere.

"By great exertions he finally succeeded in stemming the tide, and brought the trade back. But it was a narrow margin.

"Grocers often do this thing unconsciously; they keep buying, and as they buy they relegate the older goods to the back shelves, and before they are aware of it a year or two has passed, and then the error is discovered.

"It is a poor practice. Grocers should at least overhaul their stock once a year, but once in four to six months would be better."

SOME FALL STRAWBERRIES.

R. Barron, the well-known grocer, Yonge street, Toronto, has received some very fine fall strawberries, which were grown at Clarkson. They are large, luscious-looking berries, apparently as sweet and juicy as those that grow in the early summer.

G. H. Greene, general merchant, Copetown, Ont., has sold out to David Lawson.

AND COLD STORAGE NEWS.

HOW LARD IS MADE.

IN giving an account of the packing trade, The Butchers' Advocate has the following to say about how lard is made in the big packing houses :

Lard is another important product of the hog. The packer divides it into two kinds —leaf lard and steam lard. Leaf lard comes from the surplus fat that accumulates in the hog, incased in a skin somewhat similar to that inclosing the intestines, only of frailer fabric. From the hog this leaf is washed and then goes to the rendering kettle. The leaf is cut into strips about three inches wide which is again cut into squares about three inches long. This cutting has to be done with much care, for mangling the leaf is detrimental to the production of good lard. The kettle is generally an open-jacketed one with a space for steam between the two parts of the kettle. A heavy shaft suspended through the kettle horizontally has arms attached which pass close to the bottom. This shaft in revolving keeps the mass in constant motion. This kettle holds about 10 tierces, and is kept constantly full, the steam being turned on in the jacketed space at a pressure of about 15 lb. and a temperature of about 222 deg. F. The water taken on in washing the leaf first arises as vapor, and continues to vaporize as long as any water is left. After a time the surface begins to sink, showing that some of the leaf has melted, and the shaft and stirrers are started and the temperature is raised to about 250 deg. F. Cut leaf is added from time to time to keep the kettle full, so that it is full of lard to the brim when the rendering is completed. After about five hours the cooking is finished, and the steam is turned off. A small amount of salt is thrown into the kettle, and after an hour of settling the lard is drawn off from the bottom through an opening over which there is a fine screen of wire cloth. From here the lard is run to an open tank where it cools to a temperature of 160 degs. F., when it is drawn into tin pails of about 20 quarts each, and from these filled into packages of wood or tin, and placed in a room where a blast of air of a temperature of about 40 to 45 degs. is blown over it. The rapid cooling causes a shrinkage on the surface and gives a crinkled effect that was formerly believed to be an indication of its purity. The color of leaf lard is creamy. Nearly everything to day enters into leaf lard from leaf to belly trimmings. Much leaf lard is made into neutral oil. This oil is free from animal smell and taste.

Stock for making steam lard comes from all sources and every grade of hog products, from the feet trimmings, or feet themselves, to the skull or head bones. The rendering is done in tight iron cylinders from 30 to 72 in. in diameter and from 6 to 16 ft. deep, generally suspended through one floor with a discharge at the bottom of about 12 in. in diameter, and an inlet opening on the top of about 16 in. in diameter. Both these openings are covered. The pressure of steam used varies. After the rendering is completed and the steam pressure removed, the tank is allowed to settle. The refuse, such as bones and flesh tissues, sinks to the bottom of the tank, and is used in making fertilizers ; above appears a layer of water, and above this, in turn, is the lard. The lard is drawn off into large steam jacketed kettles holding 20 to 30 tierces each. These kettles are then heated to above the boiling point of water. This is the refining process, and is continued until the water in the lard ceases to rise as vapor from the kettle. As soon as the water is evaporated the lard settles and is pumped into a large cooler before it is prepared for shipment. The failure to remove all the water in this process of refining is the cause of rancid or spoiled lard.

PRICE OF BEEF IN BELGIUM.

An article concerning the price of beef and the scarcity of cattle in Belgium recently appeared in the newspaper Le National, of Brussels. The following is a quotation from it :

" According to information received from a high official of the Agricultural Department, the probable increase in price of beef is caused by the poor crop of Indian corn in the United States, advance in price of American cattle, extensive purchase of cattle by England in Holland—in short, by a series of causes the effects of which are felt in all countries. In Germany, the retail price of beef has increased 10 per cent.

" The Department of Agriculture says it is a mistake to believe that if the frontier were free of Dutch cattle, the situation would be improved. The sanitary inspection is not an obstacle and nothing prevents the introduction of fat cattle. If cattle are dear on our market, it is simply because they are also dear in Holland, where they are much in demand by English consumers. In view of the increase in price, a reduction of quarantine is asked for Dutch thin cattle, as it is claimed that quarantine is no longer justified as a sanitary measure, since no epidemic of aphthous stomatitis now exists in Holland. Those who advance such an argument forget that tuberculosis is always prevalent there, and quarantine was established for both diseases. Last year, more than 1,600 animals which arrived at the frontier were sent back to Holland on account of tuberculosis. The entry into Belgium of French cattle will not be authorized, as French cattle suffer from numerous diseases."

WANT CANADIAN BACON.

THE CANADIAN GROCER is in receipt of a communication from a firm in Brooklyn, N.Y., wishing the names of Canadian firms handling unsmoked bacon. Their object is to place them in touch with an English house wishing to do business in Canadian bacon.

FRANCE ON HORSE MEAT DIET.

According to Paris, France, information, the French people must eat more horse meat or go hungry. The Minister of Agriculture, M. Mougeot, recently decided to send throughout the country lecturers who will try to remove the popular prejudice against eating horseflesh. Although the demand for horse meat is increasing rapidly, it is not sufficient to meet the supply of horses now being killed because of old age or injury. The Minister of Agriculture believes that in view of the large beef importations from North and South America the amount of horseflesh left unconsumed constitutes an injury to the nation's wealth.

LOWER HOG MARKET.

With 10,000 more hogs in Chicago than expected and a 10c. lower market the whole list started off easier and declined still further, closing lower for the day, helped down late by the break in corn, though not helped up early by its advance. Trading was not active for want of buyers, the shorts having already been squeezed out and there being no long buying to take their place, Cash prices are easing with the futures and on the lack of demand, buyers holding off wherever possible for lower prices. Lard opened 2½c. off for October in Chicago, lost 15c. more, rallied 2½c., and closed 15c. off for the day.—New York Journal of Commerce, October 21.

LOWER BEEF PREDICTED.

It is thought there will be a decline in the price of prime beef within three or four months. The heavy receipts of cattle at Kansas City point to heavier future receipts in the winter, and there will be a corresponding improvement in the beef quality of corn-fed animals. A natural decrease in prices for prime beef will follow. It is generally believed that as soon as the corn fed animals begin coming to the market, a few months hence, with the present low prices for corn, the price of the first quality of meat will take an appreciable drop.—St. Paul Trade.

CANADIAN CATTLE VIA ST. PAUL.

One of the largest shipments of cattle from Canada for the east ever handled by the Customs Department of St. Paul, Minn., passed through that city recently. The cattle were from Winnipeg, Man., and were bound for Boston, where they will be loaded for Liverpool.

There were 40 carloads, containing 800 head of the big steers, and, after being fed at New Brighton, they were shipped east under Customs seal, after having been inspected by the local officials. The cattle are consigned to several meat firms in Liverpool and will be slaughtered soon after their arrival in England.

The shipment is the first of several which, it is reported, will be made during the next few weeks. Another bunch of 1,600 head, which will fill 80 cars, is expected in a few days, and other large consignments are expected to follow. At present there is a scarcity of beef in Great Britain, and the shipments will greatly relieve what is thought would develop into a meat famine before many weeks.

The cattle which passed through were one of the finest lots of Canadian steers that have ever been shipped to Europe, according to the reports of the Canadians who were in charge of the animals, and it is expected that they will bring fancy prices.

25 to 50c. Beef is active and firm. Live hogs are weaker, and prices are 15 to 25c. lower than last week. We quote: Dressed hogs, $8 00 to $8.25; beef carcasses, $5.25 to $8 00 per 100 lb.; hind quarters, $7 00 to $9.00 per 100 lb.; front quarters, $4.00 to $5.50 per 100 lb.; veal, 7 to 9c. per lb., and lambs, 6½ to 7c. Select live hogs are worth $6 00 to $6 10 and fat and lights, $5.50 to $5.85 per 100 lb. Choice export cattle are worth $5.25 to $5.75 per 100 lb., and lights, $4.25 to $5.

The demand for smoked meats all around is good, and stocks locally are nearly exhausted, Lard is steady. We quote: Long clear bacon, 11 to 11½c.; smoked breakfast bacon, 14 ¼ to 15c.; roll, 12 to 12½c.; medium hams, 13½ to 14c.; large hams, 12½ to 13c.; shoulder hams, 11 to 11½c., and backs, 14½ to 15c.; Canadian heavy mess pork, $21.50; short cut, $23.50 to $24; lard, in tierces, 10¾ to 11c. per lb.; tubs, 11 to 11¼c., and pails, 11¼ to 11½c.; compounds, 8¾ to 10c.; plate beef, $15 per 200 lb. bbl.

MONTREAL.

An improvement in the demand for provisions is reported, and this week there has been a fairly good trade done in the general list of hog products. Offerings of barrel pork are light, and, there being a good demand from the lumber regions, prices are firm. Heavy Canadian short cut mess pork is higher, being now quoted at $24.50 to $25.00.

In dressed hogs there has been another decline, they now being 25 to 50c. per 100 lb. lower than last week. Since then the market has become steadier with a fair demand, and fresh killed abattoir stock sells at $8.50 to $9 per 100 lb.

Lard, both pure and compound, continues to move well at unchanged prices. Some scarcity in bacon is reported, and there is an active demand both for bacon and hams. Our quotations are now as follows: Pure Canadian lard, $2.37½ to $2.40 per pail; Fairbank's "Boar's Head" lard compound, 9⅝c. tierce basis, with extras as follows: 60-lb. tubs, ¼c. over tierce: 20 lb. tin pails, ¼c.; 20-lb. wood pails, ½c.; 10-lb. tins, ¾c.; 5-lb. tins, ⅞c.; 3-lb. tins, 1c. Snow White and Globe compound, $1.80 to $1.90 per pail; Cottolene, 11¼c. for 20 lb. pails, and 11⅛c. for 60 lb. tubs, for Quebec and Ontario; hams, 12 to 14c.; heavy Canadian short cut mess pork, $24 50 to $25.00; Canadian short cut clear pork, $23.50 to $24.00; American short cut clear pork, $24 to $24.50; American fat back, $24 50 to $25.00; bacon, Wiltshire, 14 to 15c. per lb.; extra plate beef, $14 50 to $15.00 per bbl.

ST. JOHN, N. B.

In fresh beef, domestic is freely offered and price is low. For Ontario stock full prices are asked. There is very little demand for mutton. Veal is in light supply. Pork is scarce and higher. There is a continued improved demand. In hams, the market is well supplied. Barrelled pork is still high, but some business is being done. Beef is rather firmer. In lard, there is an active sale. For the size of the market business is heavy. We quote: Mess pork, $21 to $22.50; clear pork, $23 to $24; plate beef, $14 to $16; domestic beef, 5 to 7c.; Western beef, 7 to 9c.; lamb, 6 to 6½c.; mutton, 5c.; veal 5 to 7c.; pork, 8c.; pure lard, tubs, 12c.; pails, 12¼c.; compound, tubs, 9¼c.; pails, 9½c.; Fairbank's refined, tubs, 10¼c.; pails, 10½c.

The Farmers' Cooperative Packing Co., represented here by J. T. Logan, are finding a good demand for their pure lard.

MANITOBA MARKETS.

Winnipeg, October 20, 1902.

THERE is nothing specially new to record as to trade. All conditions of the week have been favorable and the volume of business large. Threshing is still going forward briskly, and all classes of labor are well employed. The only serious troubles are the car shortage, which now amounts to a blockade at many points, and the fuel question. Even the immediate resumption of work in the mines would bring no relief to Winnipeg before January next. There is plenty of wood ready for shipment to the city, but no cars are available for the purpose, and the supplies of both Galt and Souris coal are being reduced to a vanishing point for the same reason. Whether relief will come before there is an actual fuel famine is a question that is being asked anxiously by many heads of families of households. In the meantime the cost of wood is exorbitant. Prices show few changes for the week. Flour shows a steady and increasing demand without change of price. We quote: Best grade, Hungarian patent, $2; No. 2, $1.85; No. 3, $1.55 and XXXX, $1.25.

CEREALS.—There is a steady increasing demand for nearly all lines, and this week we give a full list of the package cereals most in favor with Western consumers. Rolled oats have dropped to $1.90 for the 80-lb. sack, and other lines in proportion. Granulated and standard oatmeal, $2.70 per 98-lb.; cornmeal, in sacks, $1.75; cornmeal, half sacks, per half sack, 90c.; white beans, choice, $2.30 to $2.85; split peas, per sack, $2.70; whole peas, per lb., 2½c.; pearl barley, Ontario, per sack, $3.30; pot barley, Ontario, per sack, $2.20; rolled wheat, per sack of 80 lb., $2.25; wheat, granules, per sack of 6 to 10-lb. bags, $2.

RICE.—The market is firm, demand is good, and no change in price. Japan is quoted at 5½c.; Patna, 5 to 5¼c.; B rice, 4 to 4½c.

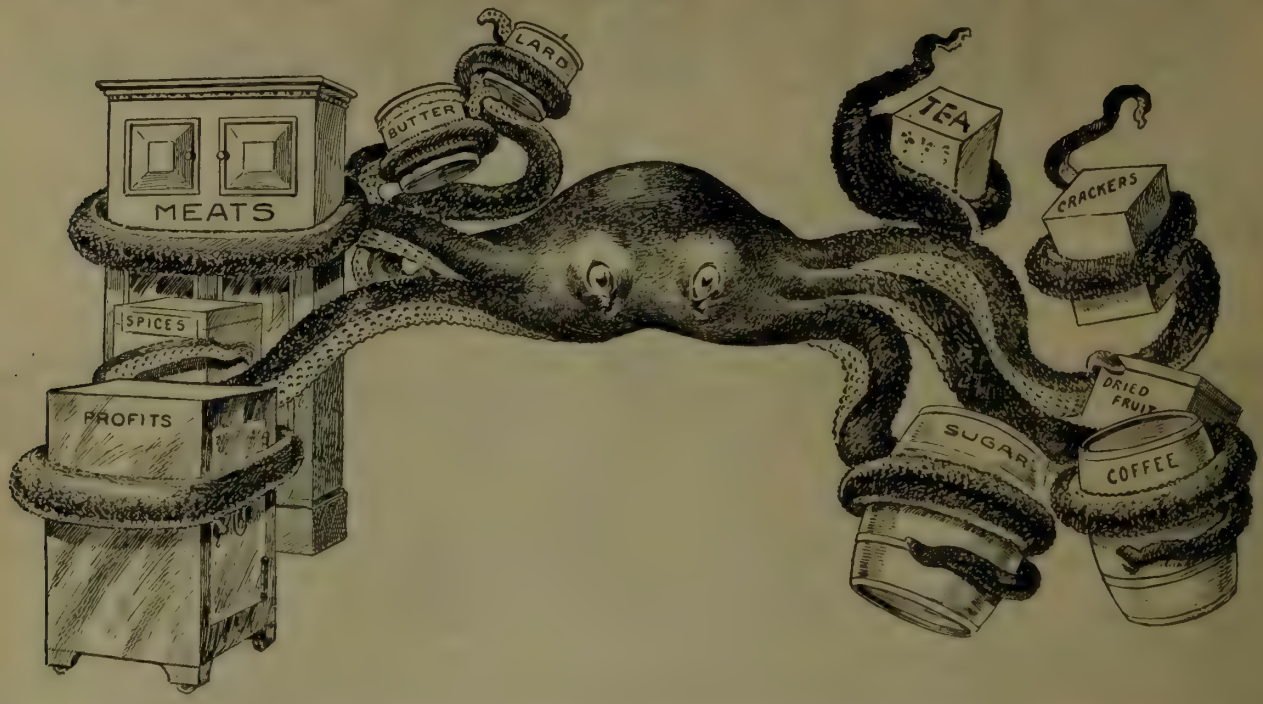
SUGARS.—Unchanged and steady. We quote: Extra standard granulated, $4.35 and bright yellow, $3.75.

MOLASSES.—In steady demand at the following prices: Black strap, in bbls., per gallon, 28c.; black strap, in half bbls., per gallon, 30c.; black strap, in 5-gallon kits, each, $2.25; golden, in half bbls., per gallon, 38c.; Barbados, genuine imported, in half bbls., per gallon, 45c.; Imperial brand, in 3-lb. tins, per case of 2 doz., $3.25.

CANNED GOODS.—So far as fruits are coocerned there is a steady trade of nominal volume. The canned blueberries are still short on delivery and dealers are giving up hopes of anything like their orders being filled. At present jobbers are slow in quoting a price on these goods. A fairly complete list of canned fruits and their prices follow: Strawberries, in heavy syrup, 2-lb., per case of 2 dozen, $3.10; strawberries, preserved, per case of 2 doz., $3.40; raspberries, in syrup, per case of 2 doz., $3; raspberries, preserved, per case of 2 doz., $3.40; black raspberries, per case of 2 doz., $2.60; pineapples, 2½'s, whole, imported, per case of 2 doz., $4.10; pineapples, grated, imported, per case of 2 doz., $3.85; pineapples, 2's, sliced, American, per case of 2 doz., $3.85; pineapples, 2's, sliced, Singapore, per case of 2 doz., $3.70; pineapples, 2's, sliced, Singapore, per case of 3 doz., $5.50; pitted red cherries, per case, $4.50; apples, 3's, canned, per case of 2 doz., $2.40; apples, gallon, canned, per case of ½ doz., $1.70; peaches, 2's, yellow, per case of 2 doz., $3.60; peaches, 3's, per case of 2 doz., $5.75; pears, 2's, per case of 2 doz., $3.10; pears, 3's, per case of 2 doz., $4.25; plums, according to brand, 2's, per case, $2.15; 2's, per case, $2.60; 2's, per case, $2.75; 3's, per case, $3.20; 3's, Green Gage, per case, $3.35; Green Gage, Californian, 2½-lb., per case of 2 doz., $4.25; Damson, Californian, 2½-lb., per case of 2 doz., $4.20; Egg, Californian, 2½-lb., per case of 2 doz., $4.20; apricots, Californian, per case of 2 doz., $4.10; peaches, Californian, per case of 2 doz., $4.75; pears, Californian, per case of 2 doz., $4.95.

CANNED VEGETABLES.—To date only one car of new tomatoes has arrived, while reports of the heavy frost on October 9 seem to have further complicated the situation. Prices for canned tomatoes are not quoted by jobbers this week; in fact, they do not want to sell. Corn and peas are without change of quotation, but they are distinctly firmer in tone. It is reported that Americans have bid for the 17,000 cases of last year's corn now in Ontario. We quote: Carn, 2's, per case of 2 doz., $2; peas, 2's, new, per case of 2 doz., $2; beans, 2's, per case of 2 doz., $1.75; pumpkins, 3's, per case of 2 doz., $2.10.

EVAPORATED AND DRIED FRUITS.—Quotations for Spanish table fruits are given this week as follows: London layers, $2 per box; clusters, $2.50; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.75; fine offstalk Valencia, $2.40 to $2.50. Currants are unchanged at 5¼c. for best Filiatras and 6¼c. for cleaned. Vostizzas, in cases, 6c. Smyrna figs.—The new stock promises to be very fine. We quote: 6-crown, 20c.; 5-crown, 15c.; 3-crown, 12½c.; glove boxes, 14 to 16c.; cooking figs, 4½ to 5c.



GREEN FRUITS.—Grapes are coming forward rather more freely and prices are a little lower than last week. Concord grapes are quoted at 30c.; Red Rogers, 40c.; Tokays, $3 per case. Malagas are on the way but not yet quoted. There has been a drop of 50c. per barrel on fall apples, and they are now quoted at $3. Winter apples are $3.25 and Snow apples, $5. Cranberries are still quoted at $9, but are expected to advance this week. Lemons are worth $5.50, and there are practically no oranges on the market.

DAIRY PRODUCE.—Dairy butter is increasing in supply, but the stocks accumulated this season are very much smaller than last year. The price being paid for the best grades is 15c. Winnipeg. Offerings of creamery are small and the price is firm at 19 to 20c. factories.

CHEESE.—The price has advanced and jobbers are now selling at 13c.

EGGS.—These continue scarce and are firm at 16½ to 17c. Winnipeg.

STRONG SITUATION IN BEANS.

THE tone of the bean market is very firm, and prices now are nearly $1 per bushel more in carlots than they were a month ago. Quotations f.o.b. Toronto are now $2.10 to $2.20 per bushel in large quantities, and very few are offering at these prices.

The crop this year is fully three weeks later than that of last year, and reports from the bean-growing districts of Ontario are not optimistic. The shortage in the crop, it appears, will be very great. The heavy and prolonged rains of the summer hindered the growth and caused the vines to run mostly to stalk, so that there was a smaller percentage than usual of pods.

The harvesting time has also been against the growers of beans, who were unable to get the crop under cover in a good condition for its preservation.

A letter from J. B. Stringer & Co., Chatham, Ont., states that the harvesting time for the beans has been under trying circumstances, as the frequent rains which fell during the past month were near enough together to prevent the plants from drying sufficiently to be placed under cover. The result is that the major portion of the crop has been rendered unfit for commercial purposes. A fair amount of cull beans for stock-feeding purposes will be obtained, however. The farmers who have previously been the most successful and largest growers are this year the greatest losers.

About 15 per cent. of last year's crop is yet in the hands of the farmers, who are holding it for high prices. The few beans that dealers at present control are being offered at $2 per bush. bagged, f. o. b. Chatham.

COUNTRY AND DEPARTMENT STORES.

A WEEKLY newspaper published in a Western Ontario town recently urged upon its readers the necessity of examining the prices quoted by local merchants in comparison with those quoted by the department stores in the catalogues which they from time to time issue, it being claimed that they would discover that the latter's figures were higher rather than lower than those ruling in local stores.

It is a pity that country newspapers did not do more of this kind of educational work. Country storekeepers, as a rule, are well able to compete with the department stores, as far as prices are concerned. The trouble is, however, that the fact is not sufficiently brought home to the consuming public. The secret of the department stores' success is largely due to the fact that they publish prices broadcast throughout the land. The figures may be high or low, but to the average consumer the very fact that they are quoted at all seems to convince them that they are low, or else they would not be quoted.

Country merchants should, from time to time, impress upon the publishers of the local newspapers the necessity of educating their readers along these lines. But the merchant's duty does not end here. In his advertisements he should, as far as possible, mention the prices just as the department stores do. He may claim that this is giving his figures to his competitors, but while this may be so to some extent, it should not be forgotten that he has the start of his competitors, and that the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages.

It is the merchants who strike out for themselves, giving no thought to what their competitors may think or do, that are the most successful in business.

HELPING CANADA'S PRESTIGE.

THE announcement that the Grand Trunk Railway has declared dividends on its second preference stock will no doubt interest a good many people other than those actually concerned in them. We refer to all people who take a lively interest in the affairs of the Dominion and who are students of its history. It is not so many years since that the Grand Trunk, on account of the poor results obtained by the capitalists in Great Britain who had invested in the stock, caused financial men on the other side of the Atlantic to look askance upon Canada.

No doubt a great deal of the bad name which the railway possessed was largely due to lack of proper management, but this, however, was not sufficiently taken into account by the financial papers in Great Britain. Since, however, radical changes have been made in the management, and more power has been given to the company's authorities in Canada, there has been a marked improvement in the attitude of capitalists, not only toward the railway itself but towards the Dominion as a whole. Of course, a great deal of the improvement in the financial position of the railway is due to the material development which has taken place in the industrial life of Canada; but, at the same time, had the company continued to be managed in the same old way it is very improbable that it would now be paying dividends on the second preference stock.

It does not matter how prosperous a country may be, railways, like ordinary commercial enterprises, must be properly managed in order to secure satisfactory results.

CONSTITUTIONAL PRECEDENT AND BUSINESS ABILITY.

OF course, the most interesting event this week in commercial as well as in political circles is the exit of Hon. J. I. Tarte from the Dominion Cabinet. The Department of Works, over which Mr. Tarte has presided for the past six years, is essentially a business department ; but the prominence which the honorable gentleman has obtained through his advocacy of a higher Customs tariff is what gives particular zest to the interest of business men in the event which promises to be a political nine-days' wonder.

Whatever may be one's views as to the political opinions to which Mr. Tarte has recently been giving expression so vigorously, one cannot but regret his departure from the Cabinet.

Whatever may be his faults, he has at any rate been an exceptionally good Minister. The Department of Works was certainly never administered better ; and it has certainly had men at its head who were a great deal less efficient. He was not a theorist in the administration of his Department; he was a practical man. Not merely satisfied with the reports of subordinate officials, he travelled day and night to ascertain for himself the necessities of each particular case. Had he been presiding over the destinies of a purely private business enterprise his zeal could scarcely have been more ardent or his efforts more untiring.

A Canadian he certainly is ; and for the welfare of the Dominion he is undoubtedly jealous. It was this jealousy, however, that was at the root of his indiscression ; for indiscreet he most assuredly has been.

His advocacy of a tariff war against the United States was scarcely a wise thing. Tariff wars, like physical wars, are costly. We have the recent tariff wars between France and Italy and Germany and Russia to remind us of this.

But his unpardonable sin lay in the fact that he not only acted without Cabinet authority in the policy he enunciated, but he assumed the championship of a policy to which the Cabinet is opposed. In other words, he was running in the face of constitutional precedent. And constitutional precedent, like the laws of the Medes and Persians, appears to be unalterable. At any rate, the Hon. Mr. Tarte had to be sacrificed to constitutional precedent.

One cannot but regret, from a business standpoint, that it had to be so, for it must be remembered that it was not for inefficient administration of his Department that he had to step down and out.

Mr. Tarte is thus in the position of a valued partner in a commercial enterprise who, by giving expression to views displeasing to the other members of the firm, is compelled to sever his connection with the same.

It is evident that in political affairs constitutional precedent carries more weight than administrative ability.

Had it been Sir Richard Cartwright, the Minister of Trade and Commerce, who had been guilty of the indiscretion, business men would scarcely have regretted it, for Sir Richard, unlike Mr. Tarte and such Ministers as Messrs. Mulock, Fielding, Paterson and Fisher, is an obstacle rather than an assistance to the Department which he administers.

THE CANADIAN-SOUTH-AFRICAN SERVICE.

ON October 18, the steamer Ontario, of the Allan Line, sailed from Montreal for Cape Town, Port Elizabeth and Durban, inaugurating the new Canadian freight service to South Africa. Her cargo consisted of a considerable quantity of butter, 250 tons of compressed fodder, 2,000 tons of flour, besides shipments of enamelled ware, stoves, carriages, joiners' work, autoharps and dressed lumber.

At the farewell luncheon, Capt. Gambell stated that he expected the trip to Cape Town, 7,170 miles, would occupy about 28 days.

These are the principal facts concerning the sailing of the first steamer of the South-African service. Next month an Elder-Dempster liner will leave Montreal, and in December a Furness liner. All these vessels have been equipped with ample cold storage accommodation. Being only freight steamers, they will not carry passengers. This side of the service will be developed later.

The significance of this initial trip is considerable. Since the war all the more important commercial nations have been making a grab for South-African trade. Besides the several British and United States lines doing business with South Africa, there are two German lines, one French line and one Austrian line trading direct with Cape Town. The fact that Canada can start a line for herself speaks well for the energy of this country.

The present state of South African shipping discloses some interesting developments, from a knowledge of which Canadians should benefit considerably. There is in the first place the monopoly or attempted monopoly of the English shipping ring. This conference of steamship lines, as it is called, has been formed to keep up rates and keep out competition. By a careful system of rebates, these companies are able to keep business. A merchant who trades with a rival company forfeits his rebate, and this forms a powerful reason for maintaining good-will with the ring. At present Mr. Huston, a powerful ship owner, is making an attempt to fight the combine. He is prepared to drop a cool million to do it, and the public hope he will succeed. As it is, the prevalent high rates charged, which, of course, fall on South-African consumers, are most prejudicial to the British interests in South Africa.

The New York lines have not been slow to take advantage of this state of affairs. In fact, a rate war has been started among the different companies to secure African trade, and rates fully 21s. below the lowest English rates have been quoted.

Thirdly, the Germans have been quietly building up an East Coast trade and now practically control the shipping to East Africa. This enables them to strike also at South-African shipping, for they are right in the neighborhood.

Under these circumstances it is just as well for British prestige that Canada has entered the field in however unpretentious a manner. Though Britain does control the greater portion of the £40,000,000 sterling of commodities that enter Cape Colony and Natal, such may not be the case for long and Canada has many of the commodities which are needed there.

HIGHER PRICES FOR OYSTERS.

STANDARD bulk oysters have advanced 10c. per gal. during the past week, and dealers state that there is no doubt but what they will be dear this season. As yet no further advance is decided on, but the general opinion is that still higher prices are by no means unlikely. Oysters of all sorts are none too plentiful this year. Reports from Baltimore, Norfolk and New Haven state that the oyster beds are becoming limited, and that in consequence dealers there have felt warranted in advancing their prices fully 25 per cent. On this market, although an advance has been made in sympathy with the American market, the increase is not proportionate and a further increase may be necessary.

The propagation of the oyster is now an important feature in the situation, and with the rapidly-increasing consumption, stimulated by the growth of the West, it is becoming apparent that the supply must more and more be drawn from the cultivated beds, rather than depend on the natural growth.

Malpeque oysters are also scarce this season. There has been no recent advance in the price, Malpeque shell oysters now selling at $4.50 to $6.00 per bbl., and it is likely that these figures will be kept to throughout the season, unless weather conditions should interfere with the fishing operations. But the market is firm at these quotations and by all indications will remain so for the season.

TEA EXPORTS OF GREAT BRITAIN.

REEXPORTATION of British-grown tea from the United Kingdom again appears to have taken a new lease of life. Returns recently issued show that in both Indian and Ceylons tea there have been considerable increases; and in both these teas Canada has shared in the increase. For example, during the period from June 1 to September 30, the quantity of Indian teas exported from the United Kingdom to Canada was 493,117 lb., compared with 152,823 lb. during the same period in 1901. The quantity exported was the largest on record for the period. The quantity of Ceylon tea reexported to Canada was 1,087,555 lb., against 768,637 lb. at the same period last year.

Our readers will, perhaps, be interested to know that in Indian tea there was quite an increase in the reexportation to the United States during the period, the quantity being 373,617 lb., against 195,789 lb. In Ceylon tea, the quantity reexported to the United States was less than for the same period in 1901, the figures being 716,680 lb. and 825,235 lb. respectively.

The total quantity of Indian teas reexported to all countries from June 1 to September 30, was 4,657,664 lb., against 3,390,267 lb. for the same period a year ago. In Ceylon, the figures were 6,499,278 lb. and 5,985,555 lb. respectively.

The tea-shippers in Great Britain are naturally somewhat pleased over the result of the four months' trade.

HINTS TO BUYERS.

W. H. Gillard & Co. report arrival of 10 carloads of their special brands of currants "Paradise" and "Haycastle," in cases and half-cases. Gillard & Co. have handled these high grades of currants for a number of years and report the quality this year finer than ever before.

MR. HUNTER LEAVES DURHAM.

James A. Hunter, of the widely-known Durham, Ont., departmental store, has disposed of the business to Alex. Russell, of Elora.

The Hunter establishment, which has been doing business for well on to a half-century, is one of the landmarks of the County of Grey, and the dropping of the name Hunter in connection with it will be regretted by all of the old-timers, who in a great many respects are of a highly conservative nature.

Mr. Hunter has left for Minneapolis, Minn., where he will join his brother in the life insurance business, as one of the representatives of the Canada Life Assurance Co.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. W. H. Millman, of H. P. Eckardt & Co., returned this week from a business trip through the Northwest. He reports successful business, and speaks in glowing terms of the prospects in the land of the prairie.

Mr. O. H. Cummings, general agent of the Postum Cereal Co., Battle Creek, Mich., was in Toronto for a couple of weeks superintending the demonstrations which were being made of the uses of "Grape Nuts." The demonstrations were in the stores of Robert Barron and The Robert Simpson Co., Limited. Mr. W. G. A. Lambe, the Ontario representative reports that demonstrations are being made this week in Hamilton and London.

BARRIE FIRM DISSOLVES.

George Vickers has retired from the firm of Vair, Vickers & Co., general merchants, Barrie, Ont., after being connected with that concern for over three years. He has purchased the stock of Frawley & Devlin, Barrie, and is continuing business at their stand.

Of course it's only natural that Japan Tea interests should be supported by any and every available argument that looks a little more favorable to the depressing situation. But, the fact is Japan Teas have had their day.

MARKETS AND MARKET NOTES

ONTARIO MARKETS.

Toronto, October 23, 1902.

GROCERIES.

THERE is a good, steady wholesale trade being done in all lines of groceries this week and remittances from the country continue fair. Everywhere are indications of a good fall business and a healthy and prosperous tone pervades the entire country. In canned goods the scarcity of tomatoes is a marked feature and prices are away up with none offering. The nominal quotations are now about $1.50 per dozen. Sugars made an unlooked for advance on the Canadian market of 5c. on all grades this week in the face of telephonic advices from New York, which were to the effect that the market in the United States were anticipated to be unsettled and weak, owing to the fact that Californian beet sugar was being booked for shipment to New York. Pepper, which was strong some time ago, is now a trifle weak. The prices of Grenoble walnuts have been advanced fully 1c., as it has been figured out that the new crop will cost at least that much higher than the old when laid down here. Teas are going out freely and there is a good demand for China greens, which have been arriving on the market this last week.

CANNED GOODS.

The shortage of tomatoes is a feature of the market this week and the pack will not be large this year, probably about half the usual one. The vines have now nearly all been killed by the frost and the shortage in the crop can be more accurately estimated. The wet weather caused large quantities of the fruit to drop off the vines before it ripened, and there will be a scarcity of the canned article throughout the year. Prices have now gone almost out of sight, the nominal figure now being $1.50, but no sales are reported at that high figure. Other lines of vegetables are firm and unchanged. Trade, as is usual this time of the year, is quiet. We quote: Salmon, Fraser River sockeye, $1.50 to $1.52½; Horseshoe, $1.50 to $1.52½ and Northern, $1.40 to $1.45.

COFFEES

Trade in coffees is fair with a considerable call for some of the better grades. The tone of the outside coffee markets is easier this week under the influence of a large crop movement, there being an unexpected increase in the movement of the Santos crop. Quotations are as follows: Green Rio, No. 7, 7⅞c.; No. 6, 8c.; No. 5, 8¼c.; No. 4, 9c.; No. 3, 10 to 12c. per lb.

NUTS.

Trade in nuts has not yet fully set in for the fall. The prices all round are firm and reports from the primary markets are firm and the prices of Grenoble walnuts have here been advanced 1c. per lb. This is because it will cost fully 1c. higher to lay down the new crop here than last year. This season's cocoanuts have now been on the market for a considerable time and are meeting with a fair demand. Peanuts are also moderately active.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There continues to be a good demand for rice and tapioca, principally in small lots. The outside tapioca markets are steady and in rice, the new crop in the South is only moving moderately, there being a good, general demand for the better grocery grades. We now quote: B rice, 3½c.; Japan, 5½ to 6c.; sago, 3¾ to 4c.; tapioca, 3¼ to 3¾c.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Trade in syrups and molasses is active and the prices are unchanged. There has been a moderate increase in the quantity of syrups in the hands of the United States refiners.

SPICES.

Spices, generally, are moving freely, and pepper, which has been firm for some time, is now a trifle weaker. Cloves outside are firmly held in accordance with cable advices from the East, stating that the receipts to date showed a decrease of over 60 per cent. as compared with the same period last year.

SUGAR.

The advance of 5c. this week in the prices of sugar all round in Canada came as a surprise to the local dealers, as advices by telegraph from New York the same afternoon reported that Californian beet sugar was being booked for shipment to New York, to arrive about November 10, and a large shipment has left San Francisco for the same place by sea, and which is expected to reach its destination late in January. In consequence, the United States markets were anticipated to be weak and unsettled. At present raws in London are rather strong, the prices showing a gain of 6d. per 100 lb. for the week, and cane in New York was quoted at 1-16 to ⅛c. advance. But the refined market in the United States is demoralized owing to the competition with the domestic beet sugar, there being practically no demand from the west, which is now supplying its wants by purchasing the home product.

See pages 35 and 36 for Toronto, Montreal, St. John and Halifax prices current.

The receipts for the week at the four United States ports show a falling off from the preceding week, amounting to about 35,084 tons, against 57,198 tons last week. The meltings continued at 15,000 tons, reducing the total stock to 154,227 tons. The receipts at Cuban ports were 1,000 tons, against 1,000 tons the preceding week, and the exports, 9,300 tons, against 11,300 tons last week, and the stock, 109,000 tons, against 118,000 tons last week with one central still grinding, but with the crop virtually at an end. The visible crop is now 838,500 tons.

TEAS.

Shipments of Indian and Ceylon teas have just been received on the local market and some Japan greens and pingsueys have also arrived and are meeting with a good demand. There is an outside improvement in Indian and Ceylon greens, and the demand is even more than can be supplied. Popular prices are 6¾ to 8¼d. c.i.f. for Ceylon greens and Indians. Blacks, in Ceylons and Indians at 5¾ to 7½d. are popular. High grade teas at from 9½d. to 1s. are scarce and teas at about 10 to 10½d., of good style and tippy, are wanted. The market in London, Eng., for Indian and Ceylon blacks is reported firmer. Advices by mail from Kobe, Japan, report a continuance of the strong feeling that was prevalent there some time ago. Desirable descriptions of teas were taken up on favorable terms as soon as they arrived on the market. Decent qualities of suitable descriptions are now difficult to obtain at any price. The market in Shanghai is reported this week exceedingly strong and the prices which were extravagantly high have even been advanced and recent shipments cannot be duplicated. Good liquoring teas of the higher grades have advanced about three taels per picul and medium grades about two taels per picul. The lower grades only have remained fairly stationary. The first young hysons that were recently shipped at 22c. are now reported by cable to be held at 25 to 26c. The market is now closed for the season. In London, Eng., mail advices report an improvement for the lower grades of Indian teas, and the prices of useful liquoring Ceylon teas have hardened with the improvement in the demand.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—These are in good demand on the local market and the prices of fine Filiatras have hardened a little. The market in Greece is reported firm and unchanged. We quote: Fine Filiatras, 5½c. up; Patras, 6 to 6¼c. and Vostizzas, 7 to 8c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—There is a good demand for these and the prices hold firm. A few small lots are being offered from the primary markets. We quote: Fine off-stalk, 8 to 9c.; selected, 8¾ to 9c. and selected layers, 9c. per lb.

DATES.—Trade in dates is quiet. The opening prices on fruit per ss. Tabaristan have not yet been fixed as far as can be ascertained for Canada. We quote as follows: Dates, in bulk, 4½c. and in packages, 6¼ to 6½c.

PRUNES.—Coast advices still report a scarcity of the larger sizes, and we quote as follows: Californian prunes, 100-110, 5c.; 90-100, 5½ to 6¼c.; 80-90, 6¼ to 7c.; 70-80, 6¾ to 7¼c.; 60-70, 7½ to 8c.; 50-60, 8 to 8½c.; 40-50, 8¾ to 10c.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—It has been announced that Californian loose muscatel raisins may be expected to arrive in Canada in a few days, and our quotations are now as follows: Californian loose muscatels, 5c. for 4-crown, Griffin & Skelley brand, 4¼c. for 3-crown and 4c. for 2-crown, f.o.b. Fresno, in 50-lb. boxes.

CALIFORNIAN EVAPORATED FRUITS—A few of these are commencing to move from stock, but the season is not yet far enough advanced for a heavy business to be done. We quote: Peaches, 9 to 11c. and apricots, 9 to 13c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

The Scott street fruit market was closed last week after a successful season, during which enormous quantities of fruits of all descriptions were handled. This week the receipts of grapes have been large and the sales have been free. Apples of the fall varieties still are plentiful, and prices of good stock are from $1.50 upwards per barrel. The market is good for oranges and lemons, and our quotations are now as follows: Tomatoes, 25 to 40c. per basket; peaches, 35 to 50c.; pears, 20 to 40c. per basket; grapes, 15 to 20c. for small baskets and 25 to 30c. for large; apples, 10 to 25c. per basket and $1 to $2 per bbl.; crabapples, 25c. per basket; lemons, $3.50 to $6 per box; onions, ordinary, 75c.; Spanish, 90c. per case; peppers, green, 15 to 30c. and ripe, 60c. per basket; oranges, Jamaica, $3 to $3.25 per box and $5 to $6 per bbl.; Jersey sweet potatoes, $2.50 to $3 per bbl.; cocoanuts, $3.50 per sack; quinces, 25 to 30c. per basket; cranberries, $8 to $9 per bbl; butternuts, 25c. per basket; Malaga grapes, $6 to $6.50 per bbl.; Californian lemons, $4.50 to $5 per case; bananas, $1.25 to $1.75.

VEGETABLES.

Trade in all lines of vegetables is fair and the prices are steady without any quotable change. We quote: Lettuce, 30 to 40c. per dozen; mint and parsley, 20c. to 25c.; turnips, 30c. per bag; cauliflower, 50c. to $1.50 per dozen; cabbage, 30 to 50c. per doz.; carrots, 40 to 50c. per bag; beets, 40 to 50c. per bag; potatoes, 85 to 95c. per bag; celery, 50 to 75c. per dozen; vegetable marrow, 75c. per dozen; corn, 8 to 15c. per doz.; squashes, $1 to $1.50 per doz; pickling onions, 75c. per basket.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The receipts keep falling off every day and the prices are firmly maintained. Owing to the high prices of other food products, the consumption is on the increase. Export shipments of pickled and fresh eggs are now going forward. We quote: Strictly fresh, 18 to 19c. and store gathered, 16 to 17c.

BEANS.—The crop this year is poor and up to the present there have been no offerings. Prices have advanced to $2.10 to $2.20 per bushel.

DRIED AND EVAPORATED APPLES.—Some evaporated apples are being offered from the factories at 6c. The price here is 7c.

HONEY.—The demand has commenced to improve and the prices are steady and unchanged. The stocks in the country have been nearly all marketed. We quote: Extracted, 8 to 8½c. for large quantities and 9 to 9½c. per lb. in small lots. Combs, $1.50 to $1.75.

POTATOES.—The arrivals are on the increase. The prices are firm at 70 to 73c. in carlots.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—There are not many choice rolls now coming forward. The export demand is fair and stocks in Great Britain seem to be large. The local demand is fair with a good call for large rolls. Our quotations are as follows: Finest 1-lb. rolls, 17 to 18c.; selected dairy tubs, 15½ to 16c.; store packed, uniform color, 13½ to 14½c.; low grades, 12 to 13c. Creamery prints, 19 to 20c.; solids, 19 to 19½c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The English markets have advanced considerably during the week for fine Canadian cheese and the strong tone of the English market has been reflected here, advancing prices about ½c. The make this year has been of superior quality and there promises to be a heavy demand in the Old Country all the year for cheese, owing to the high prices of other products. We quote 11¾ to 12c.

POULTRY AND GAME.

POULTRY.—Very few chickens are coming forward and the quality is poor this year. What ducks are arriving are in good condition. Turkeys are scarce. We quote: Chickens, young, 55 to 65c.; old, 45 to 50c.; ducks, 60 to 80c.; geese, 7 to 8c. per lb.; turkeys, young, dry picked, 13 to 14c. per lb.

GAME.—Very few are offering and the demand is slack. Quotations are nominal at 20c. for teal; 30 to 35c. for pin tails and 70 to 75c. per pair for black duck.

FISH.

The demand during the week has been a little slow. Whitefish are becoming scarce. Our quotations are now as follows: Fresh fish—Lake Erie herring, 1 to 5c.; perch, 4 to 5c.; trout, 7 to 9c.; pike, 6c.; British-Columbian salmon, 15 to 20c.; whitefish, 7 to 9c.; mackerel, 15 to 20c.; rock bass, 4c.; halibut, 15c. blue pike, 4c.; live lobsters, 25c. per lb.; oysters, $1.25 to $1.35 per wine gallon; smoked ciscoes, $1.25 per basket; Digby herring, 50c. per bundle of six baskets; finnan haddies, 7½ to 8c. per lb. in 15-lb. boxes; codfish, $4.50 for 25-lb. boxes; quail on toast, 5½c. in boxes.

GRAIN, FLOUR AND BREAKFAST FOODS.

GRAIN.—The deliveries of grain of all descriptions during the week have been small and wheat is much firmer than it was last week. Oats also are scarce. We quote as follows: White wheat, 69½ to 70c.; red wheat, 69½c.; goose wheat, 64 to 64½c.; barley, 42 to 45c.; oats, 36 to 37c. and rye, 50c. per bushel.

FLOUR.—There has been an active demand for flour and the prices are strong at 10c. advance per barrel. We quote as follows: Ontario patents in bags, $3.60 to $3.70; Hungarian patents, $4.10 to $4.15; Manitoba bakers', $3.85 to $3.90; straight roller, $3.40 to $3.50 per barrel.

BREAKFAST FOODS.—There is a good demand for oatmeal and rolled oats and the market is stiff, which is due to the scarcity of the latter. We quote as follows: Oatmeal, standard and granulated, in carlots on track here, $4.20; standard rolled oats in carlots on track here, $4.00 per barrel; in wood, 15c. extra; broken lots are 25c. per bbl. extra; rolled wheat, $2.25 in 100-lb. bbl.; cornmeal, $4; split peas, $4.75; pot barley, $4.25 in 196-lb. bags, or $4 in bags.

HIDES, SKINS AND WOOL.

HIDES.—This market is dull and prices remain weak with no quotable change. We quote as follows: No. 1 green, 8c.; No. 2 green, 7c.; No. 1 green, steers, 8½c.; No. 2 green steers, 7½c.; cured, 8½ to 9c.

SKINS.—The prices are well maintained and the market is active. We quote: Veal skins, 6 to 14 lb. inclusive, No. 1, 10c.; No. 2, 8c.; do., 15 to 20 lb. inclusive. No. 1, 9c.; No. 2, 7c.; deacons (dairies), 60 to 70c. each; shearlings, and lambskins, 50 to 55c.

WOOL.—This market is weak and unchanged. We quote: Fleece, 13½c. and unwashed, 7½c. per lb.

TALLOW.—The market is weak and the prices are likely to decline. We quote 6¾ to 7c. per lb.

SEEDS.

The export demand for alsike has been heavy and the prices are firm at an advance of 25c. per bushel. Timothy and red clover are also moving freely. We quote: Alsike, $6.25 to $7.25 for choice seed; red clover, $5.50 to $6 and timothy, $1.40 to $1.60 aboard at outside points.

MARKET NOTES.

Sugars have advanced 5 points.

Grenoble walnuts have advanced 1c.

Cheese has advanced ¼ to ½c. per lb.

Beans have advanced to $2.10 to $2.20 per bushel in carload lots.

Canned tomatoes are very scarce and the quotations are nominal at $1.50.

In error it was stated in "The Canadian Grocer" last week that pickles in bulk had advanced 50c. per gallon. The appreciation was 10c. per gallon.

QUEBEC MARKETS.

Montreal, October 23, 1902.

GROCERIES.

IN the grocery line business continues in a healthy condition, and prospects are good all round. Jobbers report a good demand and an increase in business as the cold season approaches. Green cod is very scarce among the wholesalers at present and prices have advanced. A curious feature in this connection is that while there is a great scarcity, due to the small catch, the fish have been very plentiful, the bad weather only preventing fishermen from obtaining a good supply. Sugar is 5c. higher. Jones' pork is scarce, but the market will shortly be provided for. A letter received from Seville, Spain, dated October 3, states that the crop of Spanish Queen olives is larger than last year, but the fruit is poorer, and a great deal of it is spotted. Rainy weather prevails, but it will do little more damage, as most of the fruit is already stored. Regarding the Manzanilla crop, the report states that it is also larger than last year's, but that there has been much damage to the fruit. Cream of tartar is ¼c. higher, and firm at the advance, on account of the small stocks in France. Sterling prices are quoted at 7s. 6d., which would equal about 18½c., Montreal.

SUGAR.

The demand for sugar has kept up well and a fairly active trade has been dooe in Montreal refined during the week. Prices advanced 5c. per 100 lb. on Tuesday, and we now quote on a basis of $3.75 for granulated and $3.10 to $3.60 for yellows. Nothing of importance has occurred on the local market. In raw sugar a New York report states that there is no change in the situation, the refiners still holding off, and importers not offering at the present prices.

TEAS.

A further advance is reported from the Japan market, which will increase the tendency towards Ceylon teas, which is already a feature of the trade. At the present time there is not a heavy demand on this market for Japan teas. Advices from Yokohama state that in spite of the high prices which ruled during the picking of the second, third and fourth crops, supplies from the country were not proportionately large. Arrivals only slightly exceeded those of last season. Native dealers are of the opinion that as the time approaches when the United States duty will be removed, teas will advance in price, and it is thought that some stocks are being held back on speculation in excess of what is needed for home consumption. Should this be true, the advice states, it is estimated that the total export will not be over 38,000,000 lb., which would mean scant stocks for Canada and the United States for another year. Ceylon teas are moving out fairly well. The offerings for September at the London public auctions of Ceylon teas were 122,000 packages, against 88,000 packages in the same month in 1901. It was noted that there was not a general improvement in the quality that is usual at this season. The bidding was slack with a tendency to lower prices on the commonest grades. In Indian teas, offerings were 183,000 packages, against 163,000 packages in September, 1901. A lot of the teas were inferior, but some choice Assams and some very fine Darjellings were keenly competed for.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.

Stocks of Barbados molasses on this market have been considerably reduced, and with a continued good demand, owing to the very low price, indications are that an advance in the near future will not be at all unlikely. At present there is no change, small quantities selling at 23 to 24c. In corn syrups there is but a light movement and prices are as follows: In bbls., 3c.; in ½ bbls., 3½c.; ¼ bbls., 3¾c.; 38½-lb. pails, $1.40 and 25 lb. pails, $1.10.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.

There has been no change in prices. Both rice and tapioca continue to move fairly well, and our quotations are as follows: B rice, in bags, $3.02½; in ½ bags, $3.07½; in ¼ bags, $3.12½; in pockets, $3.17½. In 10-bag lots an allowance of 10c. is made. CC rice, $2.92½ in bags; $2.97½ in ½ bags; $3.02½ in ¼ bags and $3.07½ in pockets. In the open territory prices are about 10c. less. Patna rice is worth 4 to 5c. per lb. and tapioca, 3½c.

SPICES.

Business in the general list of spices has continued active and prices are firm under a good demand. No quotable change has been reported, and our quotations are now as follows: Nutmegs, 35 to 55c. per lb., as to size; penang mace, 45 to 50c. per lb., as to quality; pimento, ground, 12½ to 15c.; cloves, 15 to 25c.; pepper, ground, black, 17 to 22c., according to grade; white, 25 to 27c.; ginger, whole Cochin, 15 to 17c.; Japan, 13 to 14c.; Jamaica, 16 to 20c.; Afghan, 12 to 13c.; ground, Japan, 15c.; Cochin, 16 to 17c.; Jamaica, 20 to 22c.; and Afghan, 13 to 14c.

CANNED GOODS.

The movement in canned goods from stock has been fairly good during the week. In tomatoes, to arrive, jobbers have again advanced prices, and the largest dealers are quoting $1.80 and over. At this unprecedented price they have no fear of not being able to dispose of all the stock they can obtain from canners. Blueberries are none too plentiful, and holders are quoting $1.15 and over. The market is still very firm on all lines. We quote: Tomatoes, $1.80 corn, 82½ to 85c.; peas, 82½c. to $1.20; string beans, 82½c. to 85c.; strawberries, $1.45 to $1.60; blueberries, $1.15; raspberries, $1.45 to $1.60; gooseberries, $1.45 to $1.60; pears, 2's, $1.60 to $1.70; 3's, $2.10 to $2.15; peaches, 2's, $1.65 to $1.70; 3's, $2.50 to $2.75; 3-lb. apples, 85 to 90c.; gallon apples, $2.10 to $2.20; 2-lb. sliced pineapples, $2.20 to $2.30; grated pineapples, $2.50; pumpkins, 95c. to $1; spinach, $1.50; sugar beets, 95c. to $1.00; salmon, pink, 92 to 95c.; spring, $1.25; Rivers Inlet red sockeye, $1.30; Fraser River red sockeye, $1.40.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.

CURRANTS.—The market is firm under a good demand. On account of the high prices of Valencia raisins, a good demand is expected for currants. No quotable changes are reported, and our quotations are now: Fine Filiatras, 5¼c. to 5½c. in ½ cases; cleaned, 5⅝ to 5¾c.; in 1-lb. cartons, 6½ to 7c.; finest Vostizzas, 6½ to 7c.

SULTANA RAISINS.—There has been no particular change in Sultanas, which are quoted at 9½c. per lb.

VALENCIA RAISINS.—The Denia market has advanced ¼c. per lb. Locally, there is a fair demand, and we now quote: Finest off-stalk, 6½ to 7½c.; selected, 7¾ to 8c. and layers, 7½c. to 8¼c., according to brands.

CANDIED PEELS.—These are going fairly well with no change to note in the prices. We quote: Citron peel, 15c.; orange peel, 11½c. and lemon peel, 10½c. per lb.

MALAGA RAISINS.—There is nothing of importance to note on this market. Prices are steady under a good demand. We quote: London layers, $1.50 to $1.60; "Connoisseur Clusters," $2.15 to $2.25; ½'s, 65 to 70c.; "Royal Buckingham Clusters," $3.30 to $3.35; ¼'s, $1.05 to $1.10; "Excelsior Windsor Clusters," $4.50 to $4.60; ¼'s, $1.30 to $1.40.

FIGS.—Figs are in very good demand and are selling as fast as they arrive. Comadre figs have again advanced, being 2½c. per tapnet higher than last week. They now sell at $1.20 per tapnet and over. Eleme table figs are expected to be scarce. They are quoted in 10-lb. boxes at 11 to 13c., according to size.

DATES.—On new-crop Hallowees, to arrive during the first of November, the quotations are now 4½c. per lb.

CALIFORNIAN RAISINS.—These are in good demand and an active business has been done on a basis of 9¾ to 10½c. per lb. for seeded.

PRUNES.—There is nothing of importance to report on this market. The usual good demand is experienced, and we now quote: 8½c. for 40-50's; 8c. for 50-60's; 7¾c. for 60-70's; 7½c. for 70-80's; 6¾c. for 80-90's; 6½c. for 90-100's.

NUTS.

In shelled walnuts considerably higher prices are quoted this week, Bordeaux being worth 23 to 24c. and Grenobles, 28c. Valencia shelled almonds have advanced on the primary market to a point representing an advance of 2c. here. Our quotations are as follows: Walnuts, 11c.; Tarragona almonds, 12 to 13c.; shelled walnuts, 24 to 26c.; shelled almonds, 29 to 30c.; filberts, 9½c.; Pecans, 17 to 17½c.; Brazil nuts, 11 to 15c. per lb.

GREEN FRUITS.

Large arrivals of Canadian apples are reported this week, but dealers say that there are few good ones among them. The price has not been changed, and in barrels they are quoted at $1.50 to $3. Muskmelons are now out of the market as are also Canadian peaches and plums. Canadian blue and white grapes have advanced 2c. per basket. Malaga grapes now range in price from $5.50 to $7 per keg. Cranberries are 50 to 75c. per barrel higher. Chestnuts have declined ½c. per lb. Our quotations are as follows: Jamaica oranges, in barrels, $5 to $5.50, boxes, $3.25; Messina lemons, $4.00 per box; cocoanuts, $3.50 per bag of 100; bananas, No. 1, $1 to $1.50 and 8-hands, $1; cucumbers, 11c. per dozen; Canadian cabbage, 25 to 40c. per dozen; potatoes, $1.15 to $1.30 per barrel; peaches, $1.25; plums, $1.25 to $1.50; pears, $3.25 and limes, $1.50 per box; Canadian apples, in barrels, $1.50 to $3 and in baskets, 20c. to 30c.; egg plant, 50c. per basket; Canadian pears, 40c. per basket; Spanish onions, 55c. per crate and $2.10 per case; sweet potatoes, $3.00 per barrel; Canadian blue and white grapes, 20c. to 22c. per basket; Delawares, 35c. per basket, and Malaga grapes, $5.50 to $7 per keg; red grapes, 25c. per basket; cranberries, $8 to $9.50 per barrel; red onions, $2.25 per bbl.; chestnuts, 11c. per lb.

FISH.

The past week has witnessed a fairly active movement in fish. Some lines have become very scarce, among them green cod, which is 25c. per barrel higher. Mackerel has also advanced considerably, being now quoted at $16 per barrel. Trout is now out of the market, the close season being on. British-Columbian salmon is also unobtainable. No. 1 Nova-Scotian herrings have advanced 25c. per barrel. New Labrador herring are on the market and have sold at $5.50 per barrel. No. 1 Labrador salmon is $2 higher in tierces and in barrels, $1.50 higher. Haddies are ½c. lower. Standard bulk oysters have advanced 10c. per gallon. Our quotations are now as follows: Haddies, 6 to 7c.; smoked herring, 9c. per box; fresh haddock and cod, 13c. per lb.; whitefish, 7½c.; dore, 7 to 7½c. per lb.; pike, 6c.; halibut, 12c.; salmon, 15c.; No. 1 herring, Nova-Scotian, $5.25 to $5.50 per barrel and $3 per half barrel; No. 1 Holland herring, $6.50 per half barrel; No. 1 Scotch herring, $6.50 per half barrel and 95c. per keg; Holland herring, 70 to 80c. per keg; No. 1 green codfish, $5.50 to $5.75 and mackerel, $16 per barrel; boneless cod, 1 and 2-lb. blocks, 6c. per lb.; loose boneless cod, 5c. per lb. in 40-lb. boxes; dried codfish, $5 per 100-lb. bundle; No. 1 Labrador salmon, $20 in tierces and in barrels, $14; standard bulk oysters, $1.40 per gallon; Marshall's kippered herring, $1.15 per dozen; Canadian kippered, $1 per doz.; Canadian ¼ sardines, $4.00 per 100; canned Cove oysters, No. 1 size, $1.30 per doz.; canned Cove oysters, No. 2 size, $2.20 per doz.; Malpeque shell oysters, $4.50 to $6 per barrel.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

BUTTER.—The market has been steadier during the week under a good demand. Indications are that the present prices will prevail for some little while yet. Export business is brisk and all the space in the refrigerator steamers is well taken up. The only quotable change this week occurs in Quebec creamery, which is ¼ to ½c. higher. We quote as follows: Saltless creamery, 21c.; finest Townships do, 20¼ to 20½c.; finest Quebec do, 20 to 20¼c.; finest Ontario do, 18½ to 19c.; dairy, 15 to 16c. per lb.

CHEESE.—The market is again higher and prices are firm. Business for export account is fairly good. Some dealers look for an easing off in the near future, as the October make is put on the market. All depends, however, upon who holds the September cheese, of which stocks here are heavy. We quote as follows: Finest Townships, white and colored, 11¼ to 11⅜c.; finest Quebec, 11⅛ to 11¼c.; finest Ontario, 11⅜ to 11½c. per lb. Seconds sell at 10¼ to 10¾c.

COUNTRY PRODUCE.

EGGS.—The market shows a continual tendency towards higher prices. Although selected remain unchanged in price, candled stock are ½c. higher and straight receipts have advanced ¼ to ½c. Cold storage stock is quoted at 17 to 17½c. Prices all round are firm. We quote as follows: Selected, 19½ to 20c.; candled

NOVA SCOTIA MARKETS.

Halifax, October 20, 1902.

THE grocery trade continues active, and the dealers, generally, are satisfied with the volume of business and the prospects for a continuance of the same for the remaining months of the autumn. The travellers on the road continue to send in good reports, which indicate that there are good prospects of business ahead for many months. Money is plentiful and the people feel they can afford to buy; the jobbers and country dealers are purchasing accordingly very much more freely than usual. The falling of Thanksgiving Day in last week made an extra rush in business to gain the one day lost.

One condition prevailing seems to have had a good effect on business conditions—the practice of giving more orders in the run of the year and on shorter time. This has tended to make the business work run more evenly through the year, has necessitated less discounting, and has in many ways improved business conditions. The trend of business opinion is to continue this practice until it is general in all lines.

* * *

The strong situation in beans remains unchanged, and $2.25 is being quoted, with sellers not able to fill orders at that figure. However, jobbers are not buying largely, as they expect that prices will be lower, and they can afford to assume a waiting attitude except for present needs. In most staples there is no change worth noting. Canned tomatoes are very firm, blueberries have advanced slightly and salmon, on account of the great shortage in the Fraser River pack, is expected to be higher than at present quoted. Beef and pork are still very firm.

* * *

There is now a considerable demand for molasses, and sales are made up to full quotations. There is no change in the price of sugars, except that some of the refineries have put on the market a low grade of sugar at a reduction of 20c. per 100 lb. The late advance of the local refineries still holds.

* * *

The apple crop of Nova Scotia is not as large this year as usual and local prices rule high. About 5,000 barrels have already been shipped to England from this port, and prices are reported good in England. Gravensteins have sold at 17s. to 22s. 6d; Kings, 15 to 21s.; Blenheims, 15 to 20s.; Ribstons, 16 to 20s. There is a good demand reported in Glasgow, Scotland, but this will no doubt be supplied by shipments from Liverpool. The exporters feel happy while the local consumer is unhappy that he cannot get a barrel of decent apples less than $3 to $4—good winter apples will certainly cost the latter price.

* * *

There is now a great demand for Canadian butter and cheese in Great Britain. The best methods of producing, packing and shipping have all tended to increase the value in that market. During the month of August the total imports of cheese into Great Britain amounted to 123,475 cwt., of which Canada supplied 369,139 cwt. This is a good showing, and the time will no doubt come when the showing will be as good for the whole year as it is for this one month.

* * *

The state of the fish business has not improved. Markets, for the most part, in the West Indies are as slack as already reported, and prices here are correspondingly low. Besides that a large quantity of Newfoundland fish is arriving here every week, as the conditions, already reported there, still exist, with the addition of another cut of 40c. Dealers here are not anxious to buy unless at an extremely low price, and the outlook for the fishermen is not promising.

OTTAWA TRADE GOSSIP.

BUSINESS has been very good. The weather has been very fine, so that people are getting out more and retailers report being quite busy. Wholesalers find a good demand for staple lines and are busy delivering orders for canned goods, dried fruits, etc. So far, any retailers spoken to who bought canned goods through their wholesale houses expect to receive their full supply, although the jobbers expect to be cut short.

At the Cheese Board this week the price went up another notch, reaching 11 3 16c.

There were 1,259 boxes boarded, 804 being white and 455 colored. All were sold with the exception of 139 boxes.

During the week at the Fruit Exchange, grapes have been arriving in large quantities. Prices, so far this season, have been ever so much better than last, the lowest price touched being 19c. To-day they are a few cents higher again. Concords, 22 to 23c.; Niagaras, 22 to 23c.; Rogers, 25 to 27c. for the 10-lb. basket; peaches, in 12 qts., 30 to 40c.; quinces, 25 to 30c.; pears, 25 to 35c. Apples are commanding better prices than most buyers anticipated. No. 1 varieties this year are very scarce, although what is classed as No. 2 is of very good quality. A small lot of fancy No. 1 Snows brought $3.65; No. 2, $1.50 to $2.25; Greenings, No. 2, $2 to $2.20; Kings, No. 1, $2.75 to $2.85; Calverts, No. 1, $2; ditto, No. 2, $1.50.

Lumsden Bros, Toronto and Hamilton, have had their advertising wagon in the city for a short time booming the sale of "Jersey Cream" yeast. C. E. Bucklee, their representative, was in charge of its route, and he says it has been the means of increasing the sale of his yeast and baking powder. The outfit was certainly an attraction.

RETAIL GROCERS' ASSOCIATION.

The Ottawa Retail Grocers' Association held a special meeting Monday night in their rooms. The president, Charles Provost, was in the chair. There was a good attendance, it being the first meeting held since August. The last regular meeting of the Association fell on the night that the city council were considering the trading stamp question, and no business was done, the members having adjourned to attend the council in a body.

Reports were received from the committee in charge of the trading stamp question, which showed that the committee worked hard to get a by-law through the council, but owing to the finance committee, which was composed mostly of professional men, it was impossible to do any more than they did, the petition being lost by the casting vote of the chairman.

In regard to peddlars it was decided, owing to any petition the Association might send in having to go through the same committee, to let matter stand until next year's council comes in, and in the meantime urge merchants to do their utmost to support business men as representatives for aldermen at the next elections.

The treasurer reported a balance of $33.35 on hand. The receipts of the evening were $32.25, which was sufficient to cover any liabilities to date. It was urged that members in arrears should be asked to pay up before the next meeting.

A vote of thanks was passed to Huckels & Co., Chaput, Fils & Co., Ganong Bros., Carling Brewing Co. and The Surprise Soap Co. for their donations towards 16 most beautiful members' chairs. An effort will be made by members to get a linoleum for the floor, and the room committee, Messrs. Bate, Booth and Ellis, were instructed to do their best to procure one.

LEAVES FROM A TEA WAREHOUSE.

IT is doubtful whether any tea firm ever issued such a handsome book to illustrate their business as Messrs. Brooke, Bond & Co., of London, Eng. "Leaves from a Tea Warehouse" is its title, and it is bound in cloth and handsomely printed on heavy coated paper. A half-tone engraving appears on one side of each leaf. These illustrate every phase of the business, from the directors in the boardroom to a group picture of the whole staff. The reading matter is, of course, devoted to explaining the superior blending process employed by the firm, their ability to supply goods of quality at reasonable prices and their perfect system of management.

The book is in every sense a credit to the publishers. But it is much more than this—it is an object lesson in economic business principles and management. It should prove of considerable value to any grocer who carefully studies it with a view to putting to practical use in his business the useful facts and suggestions contained within its covers.

The book is published at 2s. 6d., but Messrs. Brooke, Bond & Co. refund this amount on receipt of the first order for any of their blended teas.

SHORTAGE IN MARMALADE?

Wholesalers are looking forward a little anxiously to an expected shortage in Crosse & Blackwell's orange marmalade, which is likely to occur at an unfortunate time, namely, during the Christmas season.

The manufacturers have just notified all importers that they will be unable to supply any more marmalade until January next. As wholesale stocks at present are not particularly large, there having been no warning of this given, and as the demand for this brand is now very good, it is thought that before long supplies will become very light, and the market become practically bare of these goods before the manufacturers are again prepared to place them on this market.

ENLARGING THEIR PREMISES.

Henri Jonas & Co., Montreal, recently made an addition to their premises on St. Paul street, which gave them considerably more floor space. This, however, has been found none too large, and the increasing business of this progressive firm may in the future necessitate a still further addition.

Stanley E. Goggin, general merchant, Elgin, N.B., has sold out to The Sussex Mercantile Co., Limited.

A FEW TESTIMONIALS.

What those who have used them for years say of the Cranston "Alluminum" Due Bills:

"They are just the thing for any business man dealing in produce. Stonehouse Bros., Wallaceburg.

"The change to Aluminum Due Bills is an improvement from every point of view." E. G. Thompson, Blenheim.

"You may use our name anywhere, we are much pleased with the system and recommend it heartily to the trade." McFarland, Stafford & Co., Markdale.

"I would not go back to the old system under any consideration." M. J. Hurley, Wallaceburg.

"They are better than you promised. When you have anything else as good a 'business-bringer,' call on us and you will have no difficulty in selling." W. Lincoln Scott, Stratford.

"I have been using them two years and like them better than the day I started." G. O. Werrett, Simcoe.

"We would not be without them for many times their cost. They pay for themselves several times each year." James Maylor & Sons, Forest.

"They are worth more than the purchase money to any business man." Leslie McMann, Thorold.

"They are very popular with our customers and being circulated through the country help advertise our business. We could not do business without them now. We have sold several sets of these coins to coin collectors at face value and thus helped to pay the cost." J. E. Griffin, Dunnville.

Worth $200 a Year. "We find our customers like them very much. They are worth $200 a year to any other firm that gives Due Bills or Credits." McKenzie & Meldrum, Thedford. This firm was burned out shortly after writing the above and lost $6,000, we believe, (over insurance) on their stock. Before re-opening they sent us an urgent order for a new supply, saying:—"We cannot possibly get along without them.

ORDERING INSTRUCTIONS:

GIVE PLAIN ORDERS. To avoid errors PRINT name and any other matter wanted on coins, and state plainly the NUMBER of coins and the SHAPE wanted. A mistake of only one letter spoils the whole lot, and causes delay and loss. We do not hold ourselves responsible for mistakes made by our customers. Send order on printed stationery if possible.

It takes 10 to 20 days to fill orders, according to number of orders on hand.

ORDER NOW. DO NOT WAIT FOR OUR TRAVELLER. The longer you are without them the longer you will have to forego their advantages. We cannot accept cancels, as once they are on the way the cost for the dies is incurred.

"QUAKER" BRAND Canned Goods

ALL GOODS in the fruit and vegetable line packed under this label are grown among the Quaker Community of Bloomfield, Prince Edward County, Ontario, Canada.

This place is situated in the garden of the Bay of Quinte district—celebrated for growing the finest flavored fruits and vegetables in the world. Surrounded as it is, on one side by the waters of Lake Ontario, on another by West Lake, and on still another by the Bay of Quinte, the growing crops have at all hours the benefit of the cool breezes that continu ally sweep across one or other of these sheets of water. For this reason the crops in this locality—even in the dryest and hottest weather—have never been known to shrink or dry up, and always retain their pure, sweet, natural flavor. It is no exaggeration to say that there is not a spot on the Continent so splendidly adapted for the perfect growth of fruits and vegetables.

Recognizing that it was an ideal spot for a canning factory, two years ago the Bloomfield Packing Co. erected a plant and factory in this locality, at an expense of $40,000 00, solely for the purpose of canning fruit and vegetables. This is recognized as the most complete canning factory in Canada, and pronounced by visitors, conversant with the canning business in the United States, the equal of anything in that Country. One of the first things we did in starting was to register the word "QUAKER" as a trade mark, so that consumers could, under this label, find canned goods that would be known as the standard in quality from one end of the dominion to the other. No expense has been spared in procuring the most experienced and practical men for the packing and management of the business, so as to insure perfection in the class of goods placed before the public.

The retail trade throughout the Dominion can procure

Hints and Ideas of Interest.

A COMMERCIAL TALK.

THERE is no royal road to success. To climb the heights strong, persistent work is required, and, of course, work of both body and mind. The business man who has made a success of his vocation is found to have been the man who worked the hardest and planned the most. "The Hustler," in Stoves and Hardware Reporter, philosophizes in this way :

A great many people go into business with the idea firmly impressed on their minds that they are going to have an easy time of it and will make a success from the start. These people have at least one advantage in their favor and this is the fact that they have confidence in themselves, a condition which is always a good one unless it is overdone. The man who firmly believes he is going to succeed has a better chance than the man who gets down in the mouth and is a chronic growler against himself and his prospects.

——

There are no soft snaps in business. It is a time-worn saying that it is better to be born lucky than rich, yet I am a firm disbeliever in the theory of luck, and so will you be if you stop to consider the matter. There may be such a thing as luck, but it is only an exceptional factor in business or personal affairs. Many a man has received a tribute to his luck or a selfish condemnation for having it when he is entitled to a very large credit for the persistent, intelligent and active way in which he handles his business.

——

Just as there are no soft snaps in business so are there many opportunities to make a failure unless the business is conducted along lines of a thorough system. Set a trap to catch a rat, and unless you set it right and bait it properly you are not going to catch any of these pestiverous rodents. Customers are sometimes very much like the animals in question : They must be caught before their purchases can be captured. But it is a mistake to act on the idea that customers are to be treated as if it were thought necessary to set a trap for them.

The best way of all in which to conduct a business properly is after methods that will suit customers. Human nature is not always aggressive or suspicious. It wants to be treated fairly and to be done by just as it wants to do unto others, but never wants to be done up. I believe that the best rule for the treatment of customers in the purchase of goods is to put yourselves in their places and treat them exactly as you expect to be treated when buying your own goods. I believe that very few of you, if any, have received discorteous treatment when buying goods from a manufacturer or jobber, but I have had sufficient experience with the retail trade to know that dealers do not always treat their own customers in the way that they themselves have been treated by those who have sold them their goods. It may be in the difference of the size of things.

This may seem to you as a rather broad statement, but it is a true one so far as my knowledge of such matters goes, and I think that this knowledge is a rather broad one. It may seem queer to you at times that certain people do not patronize your store. This is a fact which is not one of the soft snaps. Probably the trouble is with yourselves. You haven't made a sufficient endeavor to win their confidence and respect, or possibly your stock of goods is not what they want. Such people compose one of two classes. They can afford to be particular in making selections or else your store is too rich for their financial blood. The best managed store in most lines of merchandise is the one that adapts itself to all classes of customers unless it is in an exclusive territory. If it contains goods for the wealthy class alone it will not receive any patronage from those of moderate means, but unless it is so conducted that it suits every one with even a small want and a proportionate sum of money to pay for that want it is not going to be a success unless other conditions are more than favorable.

This goes to show that there are no soft snaps and no luck in business. A man may be fortunate in selecting his location or in the choice of his stock, but in nine cases out of ten it is probably a fact that this supposed luck is the result of a careful judgment exercised at the right time and in the right way. Business is a system, and unless it possesses this qualification it cannot be successful.

A GOOD SCHEME.

An enterprising merchant of Sullivan, Ill., is the originator of a clever stunt. He believes in making his bargain department known :

"THE FAIR."

A. J. Woit. Sullivan, Ill.

On Saturday, the 10th of May,

Call at "The Fair" store and get a real live and happy gold fish absolutely free, given away with every purchase. Ten thousand now on the way from New York for this purpose. Bring a glass jar with you, and the same will be filled free of charge. The fish we give away are valued from 25c. to $1 each.

The fish cost Mr. Woit about 2½c. apiece. A woman will want more than one and is almost sure to buy four or five.

Mr. Woit sells them at almost 50 per cent. profit. This is a good advertisement, as well as a good business deal.

Few country merchants handle fish. City merchants often get orders from country retailers. The people in the country like these little luxuries just as well as city people. Here is a good field for the bargain man in the country.

INQUIRIES ABOUT CANADIAN TRADE.

Among the inquiries received by the Canadian Section of the Imperial Institute, London, Eng., were the following :

1. A Welsh firm of coal shippers desires the names of Montreal wholesale coal dealers.

2. The manufacturers of a popular briar pipe wish to appoint a suitable Canadian resident agent.

3. A Birmingham house possessing a large connection in box shooks wishes to hear from Canadian firms who can supply same in large quantities.

4. A London company manufacturing tobaccos, cigars and cigarettes wishes to be placed in touch with Canadian importers of these lines.

[The names and addresses of the firms making the above inquiries can be obtained on application to the Editor of THE CANADIAN GROCER.]

OUR TRADE MARK A — AUER LIGHT MANTLES LONGEST LIFE & BRIGHTEST — OUR TRADE MARK A

A COMPARISON

TRASH

A cheap mantle gives a fair-light for a few nights, then grows dim and shrinks up to a "wasp-waist" like this:

The "Wasp-Waist" ☙ Cheap chemical.

This is caused by the cheap chemicals which the manufacturer used.

QUALITY

A good mantle, which cannot shrink, made of the purest chemicals, is the only kind we put our trade mark A on. It guarantees you the best that is made and will satisfy your customers.

The Auer Light Mantle ☙ Pure chemicals.

Lowest prices on mantles, shades, chimneys, globes and sundries.

The Value of Annealing.

Annealing is the most costly step of mantle making—consequently a cheap mantle cannot be properly annealed—That is the reason a cheap mantle caves in like this if you lay it on its side, after burning off the coating—Try one—They injure your trade.

Mantles branded A are thoroughly annealed over pressure gas—They fit the burner—They don't shrink—They stand up this way—They are reliable—They help your trade.

—We are the sole manufacturers of A mantles.

Apples---Dried, Evaporated

To the Merchants of Western Ontario:

As the season for drying apples approaches, we would again strongly advise the utmost care to avoid sliced, or fine cut, dark or wet stock and to endeavor to educate the farmers to make large cut bright dry quarters. It costs little if any more and means the highest price to them and saves unpleasantness and loss to you.

As in the past, we are prepared to purchase all the good Dried Apples offered and at best price. We also buy Evaporated Apples, Chops and Waste in carloads or smaller quantities, and solicit correspondence.

We would be pleased to hear from merchants in all parts as to estimated crops in their locality. There will undoubtedly be a large make of Dried Apples, but if quality is good we think prices will be fairly satisfactory.

Now that the use of trade checks of some kind in your business has been approved wherever introduced, and as paste-board checks are now prohibited by law on account of their tendency to carry and spread contagious diseases, metal checks are practically a necessity with every Baker, Milkman, Grocer and General Merchant who wishes to keep abreast of the times; and when using them at all you should not be satisfied with anything short of the very best and most up-to-date to be had. They pay best in the long run, and we claim to make these.

IN A MEDITATIVE MOOD.

—BY MARCUS—

ONE must think before he can act, just as certainly as there must be heat before there can be steam. But all thought and no action is bad rather than good. In business it is particularly bad, for cobwebs gather around the man who thinks without acting.

* * *

MY mind recalls a merchant who some years ago ran a general store in a small country town. He was a great man to think. And his tongue as well as his brain was active. When he was in one of his meditative moods customers could come in and out of his store without attracting his attention. And they did. At any rate, he frequently did not appear to see them.

"I've got it! I've got it!" he was overheard to exclaim one day by a customer who had been waiting for several minutes for him to recover from a reverie.

"Got what?" asked the customer.

"Got a scheme worked out to make my business go."

"I think the business is already on the go," muttered the customer, not loud enough, however, for the merchant to hear.

By-and-bye a spirit of commercial revival struck the town. New stores were erected and plate-glass windows and other evidences of the advent of business methods began to grace many of the modern stores. But my old friend continued to think and not to act. His store, which was an old frame one, had not seen paint for ages, and appeared, except in sheltered places, as if it had never felt the touch of the painter's brush, while over a dusty, old-fashioned front window projected a dark and heavy verandah, which, like the house, showed a sad want of paint and repair. There was not a sign, even of the meanest description, to be seen. His neighbors began to advertise, and when solicited by the local publisher he said he would think over it. He never, however, did anything but think over it. Finally, in order to save himself from financial ruin, he sold out his business and moved West. What his fate was in the West I never knew. I am afraid, however, that his thinking powers were never supplemented by practical action. He was too deeply buried in thought to be ever resurrected.

I KNOW another man, who, while not exactly a parallel case, does a great deal of thinking, much talking, but very little that is practical. For a few years he carried on business in Toronto as a retail grocer. But he dreamed so much that while he slept competitors took away his business. Now, when work is brought to him he works, but when it is not he toils not, neither does he spin—except yarns and theories about the rights and wrongs of man. He calls himself a Christian Socialist, and one day remarked to me "that if everyone lived up to the teaching of the Gospel there would be work and food and comfort for all. I tell this to about 40 people a day," he concluded. But, remembering that he sat around dreaming or pouring his doctrines into the ears of others when he should have been seeking work, and particularly when it was to be had for the seeking, I said within myself that he was one of those who would never do his duty, no matter how pressing were the necessities of his family. And I have known them to be very pressing; but never sufficiently so to rouse him to action.

* * *

I WOULD not for one moment belittle the man who thinks. The world would be poor, indeed, were it not for its thinking men. Those who are great in commerce, in literature, in art, in science, are thinking men. But the men who are great in their particular spheres are they who to thought added energy.

* * *

BUSINESS men, in order to win success, must think a great deal. At the head of a commercial enterprise, no matter how large or how small it may be, there must be someone who puts his thinking cap on once-and-awhile. There are schemes for buying and schemes for selling to be devised; there are advertising undertakings to be thought out and windows to be dressed; there are trade papers to be read and ideas to be developed. All this requires thought, and to think requires time.

* * *

THERE are some men who do not appear to think at all. And I do not know which is the worst evil of the two—the man who thinks but does not act, or the man who acts but does not think. Both are failures, so there cannot be much choice. Perhaps it is better to have thought and lost than never to have thought at all.

* * *

EVERY merchant should carry in his vest pocket a little memo book in which he can jot down ideas which may come to him in moments when he has time to think about business and business methods. Some of my friends do this and I know they have found it very helpful. The memory is too treacherous to be trusted. And when one has a few moments at disposal it is profitable to glance over the memos which have been made as well as to jot others down.

* * *

Think; but act. Act; but think.

SOME GROCERY STAPLES

HOW THEY ARE PRODUCED.

Macaroni, Vermicelli, Sago, Tapioca, Rice.

MACARONI.

MACARONI is a species of dried wheaten paste, formed into straight or twisted hollow tubes or pipes, varying in diameter from that of a long tobacco pipe to a full inch.

It is usually made from the best wheaten flour and with a little water worked into a thick paste, then put into a strong cylindrical tube, which has small crescent-shaped holes at the bottom. By means of a piston or piece of wood or metal plate, made exactly to fit the inside of a tube, and a screw press, the paste is gradually and slowly forced through the holes in long stringy ropes, while a heated stove quickly dries or partly bakes them as they descend, causing them to shrink and their crescent-shaped edges to unite and assume pipe form.

At the proper instant the pipes are detached, twisted, and hung over rods placed about the room or in the open air to dry more perfectly—first at a temperature of 65°, then 70° and finally 75°. In a few days the macaroni is ready for use. An improved method of giving the tubular form to the macaroni is to have at the bottom of the cylinder large circular holes, and a long rod parallel to the axis of the cylinder enters the latter through the centre of each hole. The drying is the most difficult and delicate part of the process.

The best curled or twisted macaroni comes from Genoa, usually in large cases containing 144 small wooden boxes, each holding about 4 lb. net. "Naples" is mostly in long straight pipes or sticks, packed in 28-lb. boxes.

Macaroni is eaten with a relish equally by all civilized European people. At the commencement or close of a dinner, in the character of sweet or of savory alike, it is deservedly as popular without as within the frontiers of its native land. The incident which originally gave it its name is known to few of those—even in Sicily, its birthplace—who hold it in the highest esteem.

Once upon a time a wealthy Palermitan noble owned a cook, not only accomplished beyond compare in the practice of his profession, but gifted by nature with an inventive genius. One day in a rapture of culinary composition, this great artist devised the farinaceous tubes which all love so well, and the succulent accessories of rich sauce and grated parmesan, familiar to those who have partaken of "Macaroni al sugo." Having filled a mighty china bowl with this delicious compound, he set it before his master—a gourmet of the first water—and stood by in deferential attitude to watch the effect of his experiment. The first mouthful elicited the ejaculation "Cari!", equivalent to excellent in English, from the illustrious epicure. After swallowing a second modicum, he exclaimed "Ma-cari," or "Excellent, indeed!" Presently, as the flavor of the toothsome mess grew upon him, his enthusiasm rose to even higher flights, and he cried out, in a voice tremulous with joyous emotion, "Ma, caroni!" "Indeed, most supremely, sublimely and superlatively excellent!" In paying this verbal tribute to the merits of his cook's discovery, he unwittingly bestowed a name upon that admirable preparation which has stuck to it ever since.

VERMICELLI.

Vermicelli is an Italian word, meaning little worms. It is the commercial name of a popular form of Italian paste, made of the same materials and in the same way as macaroni—that is, by pressure through the proper shaped holes, only the paste used is more compact than for the latter. The amount of macaroni and vermicelli imported into Canada during the 12 months, ending June, 1902, is shown by the Trade and Navigation Returns:

| Macaroni and Vermicelli. | Quantity in lb. | Value. |
|---|---|---|
| From Great Britain | 4,648 | $ 332 |
| " United States | 427,029 | 18,454 |
| " France | 334,666 | 17,540 |
| " other countries | 172,847 | 8,831 |
| Total | 939 190 | $45,157 |

SAGO.

Sago is obtained in India, China, Borneo, Sumatra, Singapore, etc., from the mealy trunk-pith of various kinds of low palm trees. Immense quantities are prepared by the Malays, in the Molucca and Philippine Islands, also in New Guinea.

The ordinary sago palm grows 20 to 30 ft. high, but only flowers once, and that when about 15 years old, after which it soon dies. When fully matured, and just ready to flower, the tree is felled, the hollow trunk, 18 to 22 in. in diameter, is split or sawn into pieces, and all the soft white and spongy pith found inside is scraped out. This pith is then bruised in a mortar to a coarse powder-like sawdust, washed in cold water, and strained through a cloth until all the white fecula or starchy matter separates and settles to the bottom of the tank, leaving the water almost clear, but with the wooly fibre floating on the top. This water and the fibrous refuse are then removed, and the starchy sediment may either be caked right off for native use as bread, or dried and pounded up into "Sago Flour" or meal.

TAPIOCA.

Tapioca or cassava, or, as it is sometimes called, white sago, is raised chiefly in Brazil, but also extensively in the Eastern Straits Settlements, in Penang, Singapore and in the Mascarine Islands.

It has been an object of cultivation from the most remote times by the populations of all tropical countries. An increasing quantity is now being produced in Annam, and principally in the province of Quang-Nam. The total cost of planting and cultivating in Quang-Nam is only about £15 per hectare, while the crop is worth about £40, so that it pays well.

The plants are very hardy, but require rich, dry land, and will not do well two years in succession on the same ground. The cultivation is from cuttings, and is very easy, often yielding 42,000 kilograms per hectare of ground. It is a woody plant with tender stalks, grows to the height of 5 to 8 ft., and is known as the cassava or manive plant. It has smooth, palm-shaped leaves and bears small green flowers, which grow in clusters, with an immense fleshy root; each root gives about 7 lb. of little tubers the first year and 12 to 20 lb. the second year, and even 30 to 50-lb. roots are not uncommon, but the soil soon becomes exhausted.

The tubers or turnips resemble large parsnips, and grow to perfection within six months. When washed, peeled of their dark rinds, they are grated into a pulp, which is subjected to pressure in a screw press under water and in a kind of bag made of rushes. The crude juice which is forced out contains a poisonous amount of prussic acid, and this is commonly employed by the Indians to poison the barbs of their murderous arrows and spears. This poison is found more particularly in the juice of the plant, a small quantity killing birds, quadrupeds and even man himself, causing cold perspirations, great swellings and convulsions, generally ending in death; but this deleterious substance is so highly volatile if exposed to heat, or even to the open air for about two days, that its poison is entirely dissipated. When all the juice or starchy matter has settled to the bottom of the water it is removed and again washed and dried in the sun. In this condition it is called "moussache," but it is afterwards roasted and stirred well with an iron rod, till finally dried off on warm plates. The heat having partly burst the grains, these are found to be more or less agglomerated in semi-opaque gum-like masses, and by repeated siftings of this fecula several grades and sizes are separated and classified as flake tapioca, bullet, medium and pearl tapioca, and the powder becomes tapioca flour. The pulpy mass left in the rush bag, being dried, is called conaque. This is made into manioc flour or cassava bread. Pearl or bullet tapioca is often imitated or adulterated with pellets made of potato starch. Tapioca itself is a very starchy food; it is not very nutritious; but potato starch is a much cheaper and inferior article.

The Trade and Navigation Returns for the 12 months ending June 1902 gives the following interesting facts concerning the imports of tapioca into Canada:

| | Quantity. | Value. |
|---|---|---|
| Great Britain | 1,244,501 | $26,603 |

RICE.

There are upwards of 1,300 names of this cereal, and several thousand distinct forms and shades of color, arising from different climates and soils; but there are two principal divisions, viz. "up-land" and "sea-land" rice. No other article is so widely consumed; it forms the staple food of one half of the human race.

The plant very much resembles the oat in shape and color; also in the figure and disposition of its leaves. In some of the wet, marshy, tropical countries the wild plant is as common as grass, but rice has been cultivated in India and China from time immemorial, and is now raised in most of the hot and moist climates.

Even the rice-eating people rarely eat rice alone. One of the muscle-forming ingredients in their diet is pigeon tea.

After rice has been sown it requires flooding, either naturally or artificially, with several inches of water, till it sprouts.

Each seed sends up several stalks, and as the ground has to be kept clear of weeds, the laborers often sink to the knees. This dampness and the burning sun overhead, render such labor intolerable to European constitutions. The growths best known are Aracan, Bengal, Carolina, Japan, Java, Moulmein, Patna and Rangoon.

Superior qualities of rice are grown in Italy and Java, but the quantity is small and the latter is much broken and badly dried.

Rice may be kept in store for many years without waste, but may require a little water to wash the must off it; in fact, if eaten frequently before being kept one or two years it is liable to cause indigestion, diarrhoea and rheumatism. Some Indian authorities interdict its use for three years.

Rice is not a very nutritive food; it contains only 7 or 8 per cent. of gluten, and less nitrogen than any other grain, but is a heat producer and forms more fat than muscle.

It is not generally known that a large part of the nutriment in rice is thrown away before the grain is in shape to be offered to consumers. The rice, in fact, has three parts—the husks, the inner cuticle and the grain itself as it is ordinarily offered. The inner cuticle is cuticle in fact, as well as in name, growing fast to the grain. It has to be worn off by friction, and forms a residue often called rice-meal, which is utilized as cattle feed. The cuticle is rich in gluten, or protein, and in China is eaten with the rest of the grain. The inner cuticle of the grain, while it is very hard, and grows quite tightly on the grain itself, splits away without much difficulty when subjected to an end-to-end pressure, leaving the white grain perfectly clear. If the whole rice were to be offered for general use it would have to either go through this breaking process, or would have to be partially steamed, as the outer portion cooks much more slowly than the inner, a difficulty which the ordinary cook, often unsuccessful with rice, might not be able to overcome.

It is, however, especially adapted to the wants of a meat-eating people like the British, and is one of the lightest, most wholesome and digestible foods we possess, imposing very little work on the digestive organs, though sago is still easier to digest.

The amount and value of the rice imported from the various countries into Canada for the 12 months ending June, 1902, are given in the Trade and Navigation Returns as follows:

A CHINAMAN'S VIEWS ON BORROWING.

By Lee Bok Lok, Manager of a New York Department Store.

NO one, I think, will gainsay the statement that the Chinese are a most thrifty people. But few possibly know that they are also the greatest nation of borrowers.

We borrow with almost unlimited credit, because we pay our debts.

In China there is no bankruptcy law. Once a man is in debt he must get out, and get out he does. If a father is in debt and cannot pay, his son must pay for him. If he has property it can be legally seized. A debtor eating his bowl of rice may be joined by his creditor, who can insist upon having a share of that rice. In short, there is no limit to the legal steps one may take towards recovering property for debt.

Now, we all know that no one can start in any business without some capital, and this capital he either has to make to-day or to-morrow. There must have been a time when he had to borrow, for everyone must make a beginning. Our children start life with nothing of their own. Their clothes, their education, their food, are borrowed from their parents. Even this is borrowed capital; and it must be paid back in one way or another.

The despised laundrymen who come here in such large numbers come on borrowed capital. They could never get here without it. But they pay it back, and every one of them sooner or later has his own little home all paid for. Many of them come from the Province of Sen Nine, some hundred miles west of Canton; and there you will find their little homes built on borrowed money.

Borrowing is the very essence of trade in China. We borrow money to start with; we borrow stock to sell; we borrow money on that stock and borrow more stock on that money, and so we go ad infinitum. It is one case of borrow, borrow, borrow, all along the line.

It may not be entirely germane to the subject, but still it may be of interest to know that in Chinese cities the strongest buildings are the pawnshops—built so because they contain the most treasure, and are fortified for fear of attack from robbers.

There are not more than ten large Chinese importing houses in New York. The house of which I am manager has been in business for a dozen years. We are the Chinese department store, and carry everything that our countrymen need, from clothes to drugs.

Practically, we give credit as follows:

Bills are usually settled in three payments. First, five months; second, three months later, and third, the balance on or before the last day of the year. Thus we seldom have trouble; our bills are collected promptly, our obligations are met promptly, and we borrow and lend and borrow again because we always pay.

FOOD PRODUCTS OF BRITISH-COLUMBIAN FARMS.

FRUITS.
CEREALS.
DAIRY PRODUCTS.

THE farm-lands of Eastern Canada may be fertile and pleasant, but they lack grandeur and variety. The wheat fields of the West may be glorious beneath their golden wealth of grain, but they are nevertheless monotonous in their uniformity. It is in the fertile valleys of British Columbia that the most beautiful farm-lands of the country are to be found.

One of the striking exhibits of the Winnipeg Exhibition this summer was the display of fruit from the Western Province. There were many varieties of apples, pears, grapes, peaches, plums, cherries, rhubarb and tomatoes on view. These were contributed by the members of the Fruit Growers Association of British Columbia. The aim of the exhibitors was to show the wonderful capabilities of the Province as a fruit-producing region. In Manitoba and the North-west they hoped to find a market for their fruit-products, just as the Eastern Canadian farmer looks to Britain as a favorable market for his fruit.

Hitherto British Columbia has been viewed entirely as a mining and lumbering country. Those who went there were miners and speculators and not agriculturists. The mineral output was what was heard of in despatches. Nobody believed there were agricultural possibilities in store for the country. That discovery came later. With the settling down of the population after the first mad rush of speculation, attention began to be paid to farming, and then it was seen what admirable land for cultivation existed among the valleys of the interior and along the coast.

British Columbia stretches north and south from the 49th to the 60th degrees of latitude and hence displays many variations in climate. The warm Japanese current ever gliding past its shores, however, tends to provide an evenness of temperature not to be found in Eastern Canada. There are no great changes in the weather, such as make summer and winter so divergent in the east.

FRUIT CULTURE.

The apple is the principal fruit of the Province and grows in great variety and great quantity. The pear, plum, prune, cherry and all small fruits attain great perfection in most of the settled portions of the country. Peaches, apricots, nectarines, grapes and similar fruits are grown successfully in the southern part of the Province. Fruit culture has extended so rapidly during the past few years that a good export trade has begun. Last year the growers found a fine market in the Territories and this year they propose to extend their shipments as far east as Manitoba. On the other hand, whereas a few years ago most of the fruit consumed in the Province was imported from the United States, now the only fruits that are brought in from across the border are early fruits, which come before the home production is ready for the market. Not long since, a steamer arrived in Vancouver from San Francisco, and for the first time on record, during the fruit season, it had no Californian fruit on board. The fact that orchards have been multiplying in numbers and increasing in size lends credence to the prophecy that by the end of the first decade of this century British Columbia will be shipping 1,000 carloads of fruit annually to Manitoba and the Northwest.

This year the crop of peaches was exceptionally fine. Though there is at present but a small acreage, the number of peach orchards is rapidly increasing. The only difficulty is that railway communication is as yet incomplete to those districts where the peach can best be cultivated. Strawberries were produced in great quantities and shipped as far east as Moose Jaw this year. In many of the valleys, conditions are most favorable for the growth of the very finest varieties of berry. In connection with the packing of both peaches and strawberries, the Fruit Growers Association sends out an expert to give instruction in the proper methods of packing.

The area under fruit in British Columbia has increased greatly during the last five or six years and cultivators are using more scientific and profitable methods. One hindrance is being slowly removed by the efforts of Government to divide up the large holdings of land, so that mixed farming and fruit-growing may be carried on. The Canadian Pacific Railway has also signified its willingness to assist in carrying the fruit products to the east.

WHEAT PRODUCTION.

The production of wheat has not, as yet, been pushed to any extent. The area of wheat-producing land is comparatively limited. Still, in the upper country or dry belt a good quality of wheat is produced, while a considerable portion of the flour used in the Province is made from wheat grown in the Okanagan country. Reports for the present year show a good yield in both these districts. Irrigation has to be resorted to in the upper country, but elsewhere it is unnecessary. All other grains, roots and vegetables ordinarily grown in these districts are under cultivation as well.

DAIRYING.

Dairying is on the increase in the country and proves very profitable. Owing to the equable climate, it becomes possible to carry on winter dairying, which cannot be done in any other Province of the Dominion. In the portion of the Province west of the mountains green food is obtainable practically all the year around. The dry belt, however, presents difficulties to successful winter dairying. Consequently roots and silage have to be resorted to for the successful production of milk. There are numerous inducements for the prosecution of the dairying industry and the deficiency of butter is being gradually reduced by the establishment of creameries at various points, but, generally speaking, the ranchers are slow to adopt the cooperative system and many manufacture butter on their own account. When it is remembered that the importation of butter, cheese, and condensed milk amounted to a value of over $1,000,000 last year, it is apparent that there is an excellent market for dairy products in the Province.

According to the Government report, the production of wheat is discouraged in those portions of the Province where the areas of open land are limited and where the climatic conditions are such as to render harvesting somewhat precarious. In the upper country, however, there are large tracts of open land and milling wheat of fine quality is produced in large quantities. There are several grist mills in operation which take all the grain that is produced. The average yield of wheat is about 41 bushels per acre, and the weight about 63 lb. per bushel.

OATS.

Oats are grown in all parts of the Province. The yield is large, the market good and oats are the most profitable of any of the cereals. The average yield is 63 bushels per acre and the weight 43 lb. per bushel. On the delta land of the Fraser 154 bushels have been taken off an acre. The yield frequently runs up to 80 and 90 bushels per acre and the weight up to 47 and 50 lb.

BARLEY.

Barley is used chiefly for feed, little or none being employed for malting purposes. The quality produced, however, is of a high order and has been pronounced by experts to be equal to the best grown in England. The barley may be grown anywhere, but, owing to the fact that it is used for feeding pack-animals employed at the mines, it is only produced near mine centres. The average production is about 52 bushels per acre and the weight 57 lb. per bushel.

BEANS.

Beans form a staple food of the miners and lumbermen of the Province. Consequently the consumption of beans is large and on the increase. In certain parts of the dry belt beans are successfully raised. Similarly peas are produced in considerable quantities in the upper country. Potatoes and root crops do very well everywhere. even in places where from natural causes it would be imagined that they would prove failures.

BRITISH COLUMBIA WAKING UP.

It is apparent all around, from the Government to the farmer himself, that British Columbia is waking up to her possibilities as an agricultural country. The farmers are realizing that it will be their own fault if foreign producers are allowed to maintain their hold on the British-Columbian market. The improved prices that have prevailed for the past few years have improved the financial condition of the agricultural community. More land has been taken into cultivation and a more comfortable state of affairs exists. Organization and cooperation among the farmers have been producing good results.

INQUIRY FOR LAND.

Another favorable sign, according to the Western press, is to be found in the numerous inquiries from abroad about the securing of land for settlement in British Columbia. There is little doubt that the next few years will witness a considerable increase in population and it rests with the Government to see that the settlers are properly appointed to the right land. The Government is apparently fostering the agricultural interest. There is a Department of Agriculture in existance, which is doing good work both in promoting the industry and developing the country.

PATENT JAR-HOLDER.

A new and what promises to be popular invention to reduce labor and annoyance in the kitchen is advertised in this issue under the name of the T. & B. fruit-jar-holder. It is a simple device in the shape of a handle, attachable to any fruit jar, and serves this purpose, at the same time being a positive vise for the jar for sealing at preserving time, or for opening it again later on. Many housewives, who know the great difficulty in removing the cover, or who have suffered painful injuries from breaking jars or from hot jars, can testify to the value of such an invention. The jar-holder was exhibited at the Toronto Fair this year and was a centre of attraction for many interested ladies. It ought to be a good seller, retailing as it does for only 25c.

CHRISTIANIA'S WAREHOUSES.

TRADE with Northern Europe is to be greatly facilitated by bonded warehouses which are to be erected in Christiania, Norway.

By the end of October the first warehouse of the Kristiania Lagerhuse Corporation will be ready for business. As rapidly as the demand increases more warehouses will be built nearby by the same company.

The warehouse now in progress of completion will be the first to be constructed under the law of June 4, 1866. At that time an Act for the establishment of warehouses in Norway was passed. For many years no one took advantage of this enactment.

A short time ago, however, the joint stock company of the Kristiania Lagerhuse was formed. Many of the most progressive men in Norway are members of the organization. They appreciated the great need of bonded warehouses in Christiania, and determined to build them.

June 22, 1901, the company received power by royal order-in-council to carry out the plan which had led to the formation of the company—to build and work bonded warehouses for public use.

A large tract of land along the river Aker in Christiania was acquired.

To make sure that the Aker would be deep enough for all large craft, the company had the river deepened until it is now 2 in. below the average waterline of the harbor of Christiania. Seeing the value of this work, the corporation of Christiania passed a grant of 100,000 kroner for its continuation.

Every kind of merchandise may be stored in these warehouses. The authorities are to erect a Customs house there, in which will be stationed a full staff of officials. Thus duties on goods may be paid when convenient to the owner. It will not be necessary to pay the duties upon storing the goods, but only as the merchandise is removed from the warehouse.

When goods are to be reexported as transit goods or ship stores—or the like—free of duty, they may be cleared from the warehouse, directly, while stored there. The owner may repack, divide or assort them as he wishes. They may, likewise, as a rule be treated in such a manner as may be permitted in consideration of what subsequent duties may be levied upon them.

The company assume charge of the transportation of merchandise from the ship-side into the Customs lighter. From this the goods are transferred to the warehouse by electric cranes. This method minimizes transport expenses on them. Should they be called upon to do so, the company will forward and insure the goods.

In addition to the warehouses, general storerooms for receiving goods free of duty will be opened. Large common stores and smaller rooms under lock will be fitted up. In these latter, stored goods against warrants suitable for raising separate loans from the banks may be placed.

The warehouses will have an excellent situation, central and with good connections for forwarding goods either by cart or rail. They will be fitted up in the best possible manner, heated as much as necessary and equipped with electric lights and elevators.

After a while, on the eastern bank of the Aker, there will be provided arrangements for connecting with the railway station of the east in Christiania. This is the terminus for the normal-gauged railway-plexus of the country, with which are connections with Sweden and other foreign lands.

LAMPS FOR THE GROCERY TRADE.

"Do one thing and do it well," is a motto which holds good in any business. This has been the policy followed by the Rochester Lamp Co. of Canada, 24 Front street west, Toronto, and the wisdom of the course has been amply proven by the success which has attended their enterprise. The "one thing" with the Rochester Lamp Co. has been lighting goods, and there is nothing in this line, from the majestic incandescent cluster gas lamp, the pride of a well-lit store or public building, down to the humblest kitchen or general purpose lamp, which they have not in stock and can turn over at the shortest possible notice and the closest possible prices. The firm make a specialty of store lighting, and are the sole agents for the Rochester Cluster Gas Lamp, a large number of which have been sold this season.

This lamp consists of a cluster of four incandescent gas lights, which combine the brilliancy of the electric arc light at half the cost. It is made both for inside and outside lighting, and is handsomely finished so as to be an ornament as well as shedding a splendid light. For oil they have the Rochester lamp, which cannot be surpassed for lighting public or private buildings where coal oil is the illuminant.

The firm also carry a full line of mantles and incandescent gas lighting goods, as well as parlor and library lamps, hanging lamps and lamps of every description, many of which are particularly adapted to the grocery trade. The Rochester Lamp Co. are judicious advertisers, and to this source attribute a fair share of their increasing business.

AN ADVERTISING TALK.

BY BLANK.

IT has dawned on me that all the direct preaching that has been going on in this column about methods of advertising and so on is not going to avail very much if, in the first place, grocers cannot be persuaded to begin advertising. When once a grocer has become assured of the efficacy of using space in his local paper, then it is easy enough to offer suggestions to him, but to get him to begin is the hard thing. It is with this object that the following little piece of dramatic writing is inserted, in the hope that it may avail more than a direct plea in making grocers see the wisdom of advertising:

Dramatis Personæ—Mr. Jamieson, a grocer; J. F. Agent, of The Salem Star; Mrs. R. A. Nixon, a customer.

Scene—The office at the rear of Jamieson's gtocery store in Salem.

ACT I.

MONDAY, 9 A.M.

Enter Mr. Jamieson followed by Agent.

Mr. J.—No, it's no use your talking to me, Mr. Agent. I don't see any good in it and I can't afford it.

shouldn't condemn what you have never tried. Won't you let me explain that proposition to you?

Mr. J.—No use, at all, Mr. Agent. I'm not going to change my mind. There's not another grocer in town, except Fisk, who uses your paper, and I don't intend to do it either.

Mr. A.—Do you know what Mr. Fisk said to me on Saturday?

Mr. J.—What?

Mr. A.—Well, sir, Mr. Fisk took me aside, though he was desperately busy and the store was crowded, and he said to me, says he, "Agent, do you know I'm just beginning to realize the value of that ad. in your paper. Why, it's meant many dollars to me this week. I'm surprised the other grocers in town haven't got on to the racket." That's what he said, Mr. Jamieson, and Fisk's a truthful man.

Mr. J.—Yes, that's so, and he's got the business, too. What's your proposition, Mr. Agent?

Mr. A.—Just this, sir. You agree to run an ad. in my paper every day for three weeks and let my man write them up, and if your business doesn't show a reasonable increase in that time, why we'll call it quits.

Mr. J.—I'll think about that, Mr. Agent, and shouldn't wonder but what I'll try it. I'm feeling Fisk's competition pretty keen just at present.

Mr. A.—Let me send my ad.-writer around, will you?

Mr. J.—Well, you might, and I'll have a talk with him.

Mr. A.—Good morning, sir.

Mr. J.—Good morning.

ACT 2.

TUESDAY, 10 A.M.

Mr. Jamieson is in his office. Enter Mrs. Nixon.

Mrs. N.—Good morning, Mr. Jamieson, I was so glad to be able to get those Crab County blackberries. I was just sending an order down to Ranchtown for them when I noticed your advertisement in the paper. I had no idea you handled them.

Mr. J.—Well, Madam, this is the first year I have ever had them, and I am glad to have been able to oblige you. By the way, I expect to have in some of those preserving pears in about a week—the same kind you got last year.

Mrs. N.—Well, I'm not sure whether I'll want any this year, Mr. Jamieson, but if you'll let me know when you get them in I may change my mind. I suppose you'll be advertising them and I'll see it in the paper.

Mr. J.—Oh yes, I'll let you know some way or other.

Mrs. N.—Good morning, Mr. Jamieson.

Mr. J.—Good morning, Madam. (Aside.) What that fellow said about advertising is all right. I'll keep right on.

WHOLESALE GROCERS,

HAMILTON, ONT.

A traveller's ABILITY does not consist in the business that comes to him, but in the business he goes after and gets. Our hustling representatives, especially Messrs. Vila and Ross in the West, have been handsomely rewarded this season for their ceaseless energy and untiring perseverance : they have gone after the business and they have got it.

Never in the history of our firm have so many carloads of choice groceries been shipped from our warehouse as have been this present season.

The merchants in the Far West realize the fact that our reputation for despatch in shipping is a guarantee sufficiently important to justify them in placing with us their valued orders.

A large addition to our warehouse staff, and with all the goods in store (not having to procure from outside houses), is the answer for our quick-shipping system.

When our representatives interview the trade, they have in their grips samples of the choicest goods that enter the homes of the people.

Many of these lines we are special agents for, AND THESE LINES ARE LEADERS—others follow.

"RAM LAL'S" AND "KHAKI" Pure Indian Teas head the list, and justly so. They are the peers of all package teas. Being packed in lead packages on the gardens in India, they reach the consumer containing all their fragrance and strength—not so with other package teas. The larger portion of package goods now being sold in Canada is imported in bulk, subjected to all forms of exposure, packed in paper, tin foil, cardboard, and in many other ways certainly not calculated to preserve so choice an article.

COFFEE—Our registered brands of Coffee :

"MECCA," "DAMASCUS," "CAIRO,"

have given almost universal satisfaction. The sales of these goods have increased enormously during the present year, which proves their worth. They are packed in two-pound tins, twenty-five pound tins and fifty-pound tins—ground or whole.

Merchants who are handling these goods have a decided advantage over the other fellow who endeavors to persuade his customers that other brands are just as good.

condensing what was to be said into a few words and thereby getting a good display, the advertiser succeeded in making his insertion show up well among the other advertisements in the paper. The advertisement appeared just at the time when preserving was in progress and fruit jars were in demand. Consequently it had timeliness as another of its good points.

Example 2 comes from Woodstock, and it likewise appeared right in the thick of the preserving season. One of its good points is that it suggests a continuity. When the advertiser remarks, "This afternoon we will have, etc.," it implies that to-morrow there will probably be something else worth noting, and this interests people in that particular advertiser's business. Moreover, the addition of the two items about sugar is very timely, while the hinting at a list of green groceries, after having got the reader's attention, is quite a stroke of policy. But why "The Floral Grocery" should occupy so much space at the top is hard to see. It will doubtless be found that people in Woodstock call the place Doyle's grocery store and not "The Floral Grocery." Hence, if that upper space had been used to show up something interesting about the fruit, it would have been better.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating. A trial order of our Extracted Clover Honey will convince you of its superior quality:

Example 3, from Guelph, has the good qualities of being timely, treating of one subject and being arranged with a proper regard to the important points. The couple of sentences of description embody all that can be said in short form concerning the breakfast foods and are calculated to rouse a person's appetite. About the same time as this ad. appeared, Sloan, of Galt, had a similar one, which, on account of its size, it will be impossible to reproduce. It occupied a half-column and contained a very tempting list of breakfast foods, numbering some 21 varieties. That is the way to attract the public.

For the fourth example, a rather unusual one from London is taken. It is not very often that an advertisement devoted wholly to honey is to be seen, so that this one adds novelty to its other good qualities. The information that ¼-pint, pint and quart jars can be procured at the prices named is valuable to a good many housekeepers and likely leads to a larger sale than might otherwise be the case.

CEYLON AND ITS TEA INDUSTRY.

By W. H. Adams.

THERE are a great many things to claim the attention of the visitor to the Island of Ceylon. This is the home of unadulterated Buddhism. Here the student of religions finds an extended and interesting field of research.

Twenty years ago the cultivation of tea in Ceylon as a staple crop was unthought of, and yet to-day it occupies about 400,000 acres; has furnished a field of lucrative operation for European capitalists; has replenished the drained exchequer and made Ceylon one of the richest of tropical colonies; has replaeed the ruined coffee industry and saved 3,000,000 of Indian coolies from starvation.

The island is very mountainous, but still must be essentially agricultural because of the lack of suitable fuel to develop even the small mineral wealth it possesses. During its long history under the Singalese princes no attempt was made to supply any definite outside demand, but the entire energy was turned to the cultivation of rice to supply food for the dense population. Rice could be grown only on the lowlands and by means of irrigation. Hence, all the mountainous interior remained clad in virgin forests, the home of the elephant, tiger and wild boar, and there are large areas still of this sort of country where none but savages dwell.

Ceylon's prosperity dates from the administration of Sir Edward Barnes, 1824-1831. He was energetic in the building of trunk roads leading into the interior. The value of the wagon road is not appreciated by the American traveller, who, in his own country, can drive overland when he wishes, and whose railroads so often precede settlement. But in a tropical country that is both swampy and mountainous, it means everything. Mr. Barnes also started the cultivation of coffee with a view of supplying an European demand. Coffee proved a very successful crop and thousands of adventurers flocked thither from all parts of the world. But as every period of overstrained credit and wild speculation must be followed by depression, the fortunes gained were lost in the same enterprise. Strange that people will never learn the lesson that booms cannot possibly pay in the long run. Well, there was disaster in the years following 1845 until stable conditions were once more established in the administration of Sir Henry Ward, 1855-60.

The industry steadily gained until it reached the high-water mark in 1875, when nearly 400,000 acres were planted with coffee. But in 1869 an enemy in the form of a fungus appeared and by 1880 had ruined coffee culture as an industry. Every effort was made to find a remedy for the evil. The Government expended large sums experimenting, but the fungus had come to stay. Starvation stared the people in the face. But in this time of distress the splendid genius of Sir Arthur Gordon, now Lord Stanmore, came to the rescue. Something must be found to take the place of coffee. Several things were tried. The cultivation of cinnamon was enormously increased. Cinchona was planted extensively, from the bark of which the ferbrifuge quinine is obtained. India rubber, raisins, gums, spices, cocoa and cordamums were all tried before it was learned that the entire area of the western slope, at whatever altitude, was adapted to the growth of tea.

Of course the lives of the other industries were short. All gave way to tea culture. But one result of far-reaching importance came from the cinchona effort. During the period, 1884-88, Ceylon produced more than half the world's supply of quinine—13,000,000 pounds. This great addition to the supply overstocked the market and the price of quinine, which had before been well nigh prohibitive, fell from 17s to 3d an ounce. After the abandonment of quinine culture in Ceylon the price rose again, but remains within the reach of all, so that, throughout the world, in fever-stricken districts quinine is found in nearly every house.

The tea plant is a spangly bush about four feet high. The leaves are from five to nine inches long, owing to variety and age. Only the soft, tender, leaves make good tea. Great care must be exercised in plucking the leaves. This work is done mostly by women. The stems must be broken off in a way not to injure the bud in the axil next below, for from this comes the next shoot to bear leaves. Plucking is of three kinds—fine, medium and coarse. The fine takes only the first three leaves. These are young and very tender. Medium takes four or five leaves, and the further down the shoot the hornier the leaves and the lower the quality of the tea. Coarse takes more than five leaves. Herein lies the first cause for qualities of tea.

In Ceylon, as there is no cold season, the plant thrives throughout the year, and it must be given rest by means of pruning. This is a trade in itself. Much in the yield depends upon pruning. The plucking in low altitudes comes once in about eight days, ten days in higher altitudes.

There are four processes in manufacturing tea. First, when plucked, the leaves are wilted. This makes them limp and reduces the weight one-fourth. Next they are rolled to break the outer oil cells. Now the leaves are in greasy rolls. They are then pulled to pieces and sorted by machinery, when they go to the third process—fermentation. This is a very important part of the process and makes the distinction between green and black teas. Only experience can tell when tea is sufficiently fermented. It becomes copper colored and emits an odor something like apples. There remains still for the tea to be fired or thoroughly dried. In the whole process it loses three-fourths of its original weight.—Spice Mill.

Particular People

If we can suit those grocers who cater to the trade of the most particular buyers in all Canada, then we are pretty sure that Windsor Salt will please and satisfy the masses. Particular people have been regular buyers of Windsor Salt for years, and that is a strong argument for the high, unvarying quality of the grade--the purity, whiteness, dryness of the Salt itself.

No expense has been spared in the making of Windsor Salt--it is as perfect as a Salt can be. It pleases particular people because it is all Salt--because it is sifted, not ground--because it contains nothing but clear, white, sparkling Salt crystals.

THE RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION.

Its Objects and its Officers.

THE Retail Merchants' Association of Canada was organized at a convention of retail merchants held in Toronto in April, 1897. One of the chief spirits in the movement was E. M. Trowern, the present general secretary.

Mr. Trowern was one of the leading retail jewellers in Toronto and was elected secretary of the Retail Jewellers' Association for a number of years. While attending to the duties of secretary for the Jewellers' Association, he recognized that the one-line association had only a very limited influence in bringing about any real legislation for the benefit of the trade or for the retail trade generally. He also recognized that the members of any single line of trade being spread so far apart in the Dominion and Province made it more difficult to obtain united action on any trade subject, and the work connected with the correspondence and preparation of any proposed statutory amendments was more than any business man engaged in the retail trade could afford to give the time to, and that this work, like all other work worth doing, should be done by someone who could give his whole time and attention to it, and be remunerated accordingly.

The plan upon which the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is constructed takes in all classes of retail merchants. The Dominion is divided into Provincial associations, and the Provinces are divided into counties. In each county a branch is established and five chief officers, president, 1st vice-president, 2nd vice-president, treasurer and secretary, are elected from among the members, and they have the arrangement of the affairs of the Association in their branch or county.

Sections of trade are then formed, such as druggists, hardware, dry goods, grocers booksellers and stationers, jewellers, merchant tailors, etc.; out of each section five officers are also elected, chairman, 1st vice-chairman, 2nd vice-chairman, treasurer and secretary. The officers of these sections, together with the chief officers of the branch, form the general executive board for the county. All matters pertaining to purely trade subjects are discussed in the section meetings, and all matters of local trade interest or changes in the municipal or legislative Acts, such as peddlers' licenses, transient traders, trading stamps, etc., are referred to the general executive board of the city or county. The members of all general executive boards form the central executive board, which meets in convention once a year, or as often as is deemed advisable.

The officers of the central executive board who were elected at the convention held in September are:

Central President — G. J. St. Leger, boot and shoe merchant, Toronto.

Central 1st Vice-President — A. L. Geen, druggist, Belleville.

Central 2nd Vice-President — B. G. Davis, grocer, Windsor.

Central Treasurer — W. B. Rogers, furniture dealer, Toronto.

Central Secretary — E. M. Trowern, Toronto.

This mode of organization puts every city and town in touch with each other, and every section of trade also. For instance, if a trade difficulty occurs in the city of Hamilton, the secretary of that branch communicates with the central secretary at Toronto, and he submits it to all the section secretaries throughout the Dominion, thus giving all a knowledge of what is being done. Through this manner of organization the trading-stamp scheme was stamped out and a great deal of needed legislation for the retail trade is expected to be introduced.

The following are some of the aims and objects of the Association, and others will be added as they are required:

1. To safeguard the interests of the retail merchants of the Dominion;

2. To confine to the legitimate retailer the retail trade of the cities, towns and villages;

3. To endeavor to secure just and equitable prices on all classes of merchandise;

4. To have the Transient Traders' Act enforced;

5. To have placed on the statute books making it a criminal offence to advertise goods, either in weight, quality, or price different to what they are;

6. To have passed a legislative Act preventing the false stamping of goods;

7. An enforcement of the Adulteration Act;

8. That there be proper equalization of insurance rates;

9. To have taxation properly equalized to compel departmental stores and other

A SKETCH OF THE OFFICERS.

The Retail Merchants' Association of Canada is fortunate in securiag as officers for the ensuing year business men who have by their steady application won for themselves success in the occupation chosen by them as their life's pursuit.

G. J. St. Leger, Toronto, is the new central president. Mr. St Leger has been in the retail boot and shoe business for over 30 years and his integrity, energy, and perseverance has done much to make his business prosper. Starting in a small store at the corner of Queen street and Denison avenue, Toronto, his business afterwards extended to Yonge street. For a number of years he had two stores, one at 210 and the other at 216 Yonge street. About two years ago Mr. St. Leger opened a store at 110 Yonge street, a little later another at 92 Queen street west and a fourth recently at his old stand, the corner of Queen street and Denison avenue. Mr. St. Leger is known to the trade of Toronto as a man of high ideals and will do much to keep the Association in the way of duty.

The first central vice-president of the Association is Rev. A. L. Geen, druggist and clergyman, Belleville, Ont. Mr. Geen is a successful business man, has numerous friends, and for a long time has been a resident of Belleville. He is the president of the Belleville branch of the Association and is peculiarly fitted, being a clergyman, for the duty of doing missionary work for the Association in his community.

B. G. Davis, the second central vice-president, is a retired grocer of Windsor, Ont., where he was engaged in the grocery business for years. Mr. Davis has always identified himself in movements in the way of forming organizations of merchants for their own benefit and protection. He was secretary of the old Windsor Retail Grocers' Association, and was mainly instrumental in inducing that body to amalgamate with the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. Mr. Davis is secretary of the Windsor branch of the Association.

E. M. TROWERN, Toronto Central Secretary

The central treasurer of the Retail Merchants' Association is W. B. Rogers, chief shareholder and managing director of Chas. Rogers, Son & Co., retail furniture merchants, Toronto, one of the largest businesses of its kind in the Dominion. Mr. Rogers has identified himself with the Retail Merchants' Association since its commencement, and is, besides, a member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade, and other organizations. Mr. Rogers is president of the Toronto branch of the Retail Merchants' Association and is popular with all classes of citizens.

Central Secretary E. M. Trowern has been identified with the Association ever since its commencement in 1897. Mr. Trowern, previous to that time, was engaged in the jewellery business on Yonge street, Toronto, and was secretary of the Toronto Retail Jewellers' Association. Becoming imbued with a firm conviction that there were immense possibilities ahead for a successful combination of business men, he originated the idea of forming a Retail Merchants' Association and was the first secretary of the parent organization in Toronto. The duties of his new avocation soon were so great that Mr. Trowern severed his connection with all other business and devoted himself exclusively to the work of the Association. He has always been unanimously returned as secretary of the Association and is popular with all its members, by whom he was complimented at the recent convention for the aid he has rendered them by his advice and labors.

THE MEN WHO BREAK DOWN.

When a man standing at the head of a vast business breaks down, the papers begin to talk of the enormous pressure of modern life, especially in the lines of finance and industrial activity, remarks an exchange. There are railway presidents who stand a great amount of business strain, but they waste none of their energies and are temperate, as all men of great affairs must be if they would hold their own in these busy days.

While a great business involves large responsibilities, a strong man at the head of it will be found to have selected capable assistants, often younger men with great power of resisting strain. The railway president, bank president or head of a Trust has his staff; his business is systematized, and a large part of his worth to his corporation consists in his ability to pick good men for responsible places.

When one comes to look over the list of men broken down in business it is among those having small business that the greater number will be found. The man in a small way rarely can afford to have capable assistants; he must "do it all himself," and hence worry and overdoing. There is more of a chance for brain fag in a small shop or agency than in a big business.

PARAGUAYAN TEA.

A writer in Grocery, London, Eng. says: From time to time attempts are made to stimulate the interest of people on this side of the Atlantic in yerba mate or Paraguayan tea, which is the product of a shrub which grows very freely in Paraguay in South America. I have tasted concoctions made from the leaves on several occasions, but have never been able to feel enthusiastic about its merits. To the palate of the tea-drinker it is somewhat tasteless and possess a slight but not unpleasant twang. It does not taste at all like tea. Yerba mate is in very general use in Paraguay and no doubt it would not take long to acquire a taste for it. The leaves contain a considerable proportion of caffein—the stimulating alkaloid found in tea and coffee—whilst they are almost free from tannin. Consequently the liquor made from them has marked stimulating properties and does not cause injurious effects to the digestive organs, like most of the teas in general use in Great Britain.

Uniformity in Weights and Measures.

ADVANTAGES OF THE METRIC SYSTEM.

AT the last session of the United States Congress a Bill was introduced, and was recommended for passage, providing that on January 1, 1904, "all the Departments of the Government of the United States, in the transaction of all business requiring the use of weight and measurement, shall employ and use only the weights and measures of the metric system." It also provided that on and after January 1, 1907, the weights and measures of the metric system should be the legal standard weights and measures in the United States.

This action of Congress is but another step towards the realization of the universal brotherhood of man. So long as there has been a confusion in regard to systems of weights and measures commerce has been restricted and impeded. This restriction may have been almost imperceptible, yet it really did exist and was a factor to be reckoned with where foreign trade was concerned. With the adoption of a universal, commonsense system, a serious obstacle to the intercourse of nations will have been removed.

To understand how confusing existing systems are it will only be necessary to refer to a few examples. For instance, there is the pound avoirdupois and there is the pound troy, and there are also ounces in both systems. The pound avoirdupois is heavier than the pound troy, but, strange to say, the ounces are just the reverse. Again, the term dozen may mean 12, 13, 14 or 16. The twentieth part of a ton may be either 100 or 112 pounds. Quart and gallon signify in each case three different measures. Lastly, in the United States there have been no less than 130 different measures called bushel, not one of them conforming to the English bushel. In fact, in the English system there are 74 units having 56 names, 18 of which are ambiguous.
